Calhoun return

By DAN GELSTON

AP Basketball Writer

UConn coach Jim Calhoun appears on the mend. The Hall of Famer has to hope his return can salvage an NCAA tournament bid for the ailing Huskies.

Calhoun returned to his coaching duties Thursday after a medical leave of more than three weeks forced him to miss seven games. He has no restrictions on what he can do and will be on the bench for Saturday's game against Cincinnati.

we've ever had. He's 6-foot-7, he can dunk the ball backwards, he can shoot the jump shot. He's really a very pleasant surprise and I'm probably harder on him than I am with anybody. I try not to be. When we come home I try not to talk about basketball a lot, but it's tough. He's really done a nice job."

Mullen's also gotten fine play from those in their first year seeing extended varsity action.

Mike Albarron has stepped in for Mike Gonsky, one of the Spartans' leading scorers last year, at point guard and responded to the pressure of the position. Albarron has teamed with Kevin Karolefski and Danny Carney to give Notre Dame a hard-working trio of guards who will defend anyone and everyone.

"I don't think anybody in the county plays harder than those three guys," Mullen said. "They just bring it every day in practice. Defensively all three of them are outstanding."

Mullen has gotten contributions from all of his players.
