Reference: Docket Number C-2010-2201568

To whom it may concern:

As part of Peco's response to our complaint, the easement (EXHIBIT 1) appears central to their argument. Is this newly presented easement, dated 1958, now implying that said pole and wires were installed in 1958? Since 2008, several Peco employees have told us, as well as others, that the pole and wires were installed more recently by the current owner of 103 Deepdale Rd. Now, if we weren't the property owners, we may be amused by this incongruity as well, but perhaps the PUC could put Kedrick Francis, Chuck Lawrie, Debra Morgan, Mr. Rutkowski and several others under oath and review Peco's records, then this dispute could be resolved.

In addition, we have the following comments and want to reemphasize that we are asking for specific information and as the owners of the property on which the wires (that Peco had to condone and verify the usage) and pole are located, we demand specific answers.

We dispute the relevance and applicability of Peco's Attachment 1 and want it to be noted that the said easement is misleading and does not speak to the issue that is in dispute. Further, the pole and wires in question are not located in the original position from when utilities were first connected to 97 Deepdale.

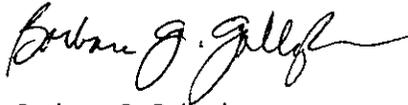

The fact that the pole is a "private pole" is not a matter that is in dispute. Again, we request Peco Energy provide the following specific information in a non-evasive answer:

- The Date when Peco's utility wires were connected to the subject pole as well as when the subject pole was connected to Peco's Service and the name of the party requesting the connection. We are trying to verify who installed the pole, the name of who owns the pole and whether the pole was installed by a qualified party.
- Any documents relating to the approval to place the pole in its present location from any previous owner of 97 Deepdale Road.
- Drawings, documents or plans relating to the original installation of power both to 97 Deepdale Road and 103 Deepdale Road at the time houses were originally constructed.

Since the present location of the utility pole and the connecting wires is several feet out of the range of any utility easement boundary, proper procedures, as well as property survey lines were not followed.

The intent of our service request was to relocate our service in such a way that the pole is no longer required. The current situation exposes us to unnecessary liability due to the placement of the pole as well as the liability of locating the service for 103 Deepdale over our property. There is approximately 250 feet of our neighbor's utility wire burdening our property.

Sincerely,

Barbara G. Gallagher
