MONROE CAREER & TECHNICAL INSTITUTE

Students place 3rd in auto dealers event

Both awarded $5,000 scholarships to NCC

A Monroe Career & Technical Institute team consisting of Tyler Hahn, senior at East Stroudsburg High School South, and Sayre Kresge, senior at Pleasant Valley High School, both in auto technology, finished in third place among eight teams from career and technical schools in a series of technical challenges in areas such as engine measurement, electrical wiring repair and information retrieval at the Greater Lehigh Valley Auto Dealers Association's 12th annual auto-tech competition last Saturday at Sayre Kresge and Tyler Hahn of Monroe Career & Technical Institute placed third in the Greater Lehigh Valley Auto Dealers Association's 12th annual auto-tech competition at Northampton Community College.

Northampton Community College. The two local students each earned a $5,000 scholarship to NCC. Each team worked on a Dodge Dart. The vehicles were provided by several Dodge dealers in the Lehigh Valley. MCTI had a Dodge Dart provided by Grey Chrysler Dodge Jeep Ram in Stroudsburg. The auto dealers association, a nonprofit group of more than 40 local dealerships, has been sponsoring the competition for more than a decade. The competition helps local dealerships find qualified technicians and mechanics from among the crop of young hopefuls emerging from career and technical programs. "If we don't do something locally, these dealers are going to have a problem getting certified auto technicians," said Dick Culver, education director for the association.

MCTI shares in Lowe's national grant program

Grant will provide 44 vouchers for OSHA course

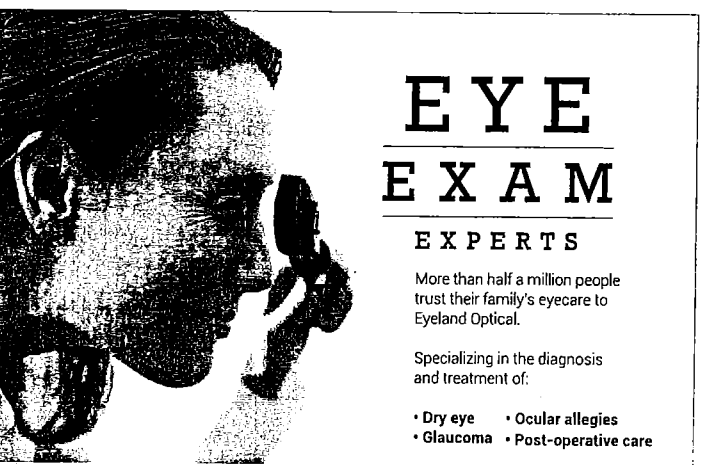

The Lowe's Charitable and Educational Foundation has awarded a Lowe's Toolbox for Education grant to Monroe Career & Technical Institute for 44 CareerSafe vouchers. These vouchers allow students to complete the OSHA CareerSafe course, and once completed, receive a card from OSHA that demonstrates the student has mastered fundamental safety knowledge needed in the workplace. Lowe's foundation awarded $60,000 in vouchers to more than 60 schools across the United States. These grants represent Lowe's commitment to career and technical education," said Marshall Croom, chairman of Lowe's Charitable and Educational Foundation. "By supporting schools like Monroe Career & Technical Institute, we believe we are contributing to a cause that's important to customers and employees by helping to provide improved learning environments and building stronger communities." SkillsUSA helps students discover and grow their career passions. The nationwide career and technical education student organization annually serves more than 320,000 high school, college and postsecondary students and their instructors in technical, skilled, and service occupation instructional programs. SkillsUSA has the active support of more than 1,100 corporations, trade associations, business and labor unions at the national level. More than 10.5 million people have been annual members of SkillsUSA since its founding as the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America in 1965. SkillsUSA programs teach leadership, citizenship and character development to complement technical skill training. For more information, go to skillsusa.org. Lowe's Toolbox for Education has donated nearly $5 million in grants to K-12 public schools every year since it began in 2006. Lowe's Heroes employee volunteers support local community projects and national nonprofits such as Habitat for Humanity and the American Red Cross. In 2011, Lowe's and the Lowe's Charitable and Educational Foundation together contributed more than $32 million to support communities in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Public Notice Transmission Line Construction

PPL Electric Utilities plans to construct a new double-circuit transmission tap line and substation in Tobyhanna Township, Monroe County, to help meet increasing demand for electricity and strengthen reliability in the area. The new substation and transmission tap line will be built on property along Long Pond Road approximately 1,200 feet north of its intersection with Sullivan Trail. The new transmission tap line will extend approximately 650 feet, from PPL Electric Utilities' existing Lake Naomi Tap Line to the proposed Long Pond 69-kV Substation. The company will construct a power line capable of carrying a double-circuit 138 kV line in the future as demand grows. Initially, it will carry single-circuit line and operate at 69 kV. PPL Electric has obtained all necessary land rights to construct the tap line and substation. If you would like more information on this project, please contact PPL Electric via Paul J. Conover at 570-620-2310. On February 13, 2013, PPL Electric Utilities filed a "Letter of Notification" with the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission (PUC), which must approve the project before work can begin. A copy of the "Letter of Notification" is available for public inspection on weekdays during business hours at the following location: Tobyhanna Township Municipal Building 105 Government Center Way Pocono Pines, PA 18350 If you wish to participate in the process before the PUC, you should contact within 15 days: Rosemary Chavella, Esquire Secretary Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission P.O. Movies, TV often don't reflect real teen life

Dear Annie: I'm a junior in high school. I thought everything would happen this year - the great friends, the boyfriend, etc. On all of the TV shows, the juniors are having boys over, getting drunk, going on dates, having sex and so much more. I know my life isn't a TV show, but I'm no different than last year. I want a boyfriend. I want to party. I want to be a teenager. But I feel as distant from my friends as ever. And there is a boy I really like who is sweet, kind, smart and nonjudgmental, but I'm not allowed to date. I know that being a teenager means disobeying my parents, and that seems like the worst thing I could ever do, I'm slipping. I don't know what to do. My grades and alcohol and this boy and drugs are all lurking in my mind. I'm tired of being this perfect little angel. I know I'm only 16, but what do I do? - Troubled In High School

Dear Troubled: Don't believe everything you see on TV. Those programs are an enhanced version of what the producers and writers think is exciting to watch. Seeing kids fall apart is interesting - like watching a train wreck. Most high school juniors are not out partying, drinking, having sex and doing drugs. They are going to school, studying and working at part-time jobs. And the smart ones are also listening to their parents because they recognize that they have a future to consider. Talk to your parents about dating - most kids are allowed to do so. You also can discuss these issues with your school counselor, favorite teachers and other adults you respect and trust. We totally understand that you hoped your life would suddenly become amazing, but please don't be foolish enough to mess up the good things you have by letting your hormones run away with your common sense.

Dear Annie: I am a 70-year-old widow who parried ways with my first husband 50 years ago. Our only contact since then was five years ago, when I mailed some old pictures of him I had discovered. His thank-you note included an invitation to call "them" if I was ever in his area. I will be traveling to the city where he lives in April. While I am eager to suggest meeting for lunch, I am not sure this would be proper. I believe he is married, but my intentions are only to catch up with someone for whom I once cared greatly. Should I invite him with his wife? Should I simply shelve the entire idea?

Dear Phoenix: You are overthinking this. By all means, suggest meeting for lunch, and please include his wife. If you only want to reminisce and catch up, there should be no hint of ulterior motives. You might even make a new friend.

Treat peptic ulcer by removing bacterial cause

Dear Doctor K: I've been diagnosed with a peptic ulcer. What does that mean? And what's the treatment?
Dear Reader: A peptic ulcer is a sore or hole that forms in the lining of the stomach or upper part of the small intestine (called the duodenum). If your ulcer is small, you may have few symptoms. But if the ulcer is deep, it can cause bleeding or serious pain. What causes the ulcer? For many decades, doctors thought they knew the answer: It was acid. Stress and psychological problems led a person to make too much stomach acid. It was a reasonable theory. Your stomach does make acid to help you digest food. The acid also could digest your stomach if it weren't protected. But it is: Your stomach lines itself with a special cells and mucus. The mucus protects the lining of the stomach and duodenum from damage by acid and digestive enzymes. The "acid theory" held that peptic ulcers were caused either by too much stomach acid, or by a failure in the production of protective mucus, or both. Almost everyone was convinced the acid theory was correct, even though there was little evidence for it. Beginning in the early 1980s, two young Australian doctors - Barry Marshall and Robin Warren - pursued a very different theory. They found an unusual kind of bacteria, Helicobacter pylori, inside many peptic ulcers. They argued that these bacteria cause inflammation, weakening the stomach lining and the protective mucus. When stomach acid got into the ulcer, it made the ulcer worse. (I've put an illustration of this on my website, AskDoctorK.com.) To help prove the point, Marshall swallowed the bacteria - and shortly thereafter developed peptic ulcers. For a decade their ideas were ridiculed. But slowly the evidence became undeniable. The bacteria were even identified as a cause of stomach cancer. In 2005, Marshall and Warren were honored with the Nobel Prize - and very few of their colleagues who had ridiculed them apologized. Another common cause of stomach lining irritation and ulcers is nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory drugs (NSAIDs) such as aspirin, ibuprofen (Advil, Motrin) and naproxen (Aleve, Naprosyn). NSAIDs block the formation of certain chemicals that normally help protect against ulcers. Contrary to popular belief, stress and spicy foods do not seem to increase the risk of ulcers. Treatment of ulcers depends on their cause. Ulcers caused by H. pylori are treated with antibiotics and acid-suppressing medication. Successfully killing the H. pylori bacteria will greatly reduce your chances of developing another ulcer. If your ulcer was caused by an NSAID, the treatment is to stop taking it. Your ulcer will begin to heal almost immediately. You'll also take medications to reduce acid damage during healing. These may include antacids to neutralize stomach acids. Or you may take H₂ blockers or proton pump inhibitors to decrease the amount of acid your stomach produces.

Ask Dr. K

Acid makes any ulcer worse, but as Marshall and Warren showed, the acid is not the cause of peptic ulcers.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY MARCH 5: A temptation to make some new changes in your basic lifestyle could be prevalent in the year ahead. As long as your plans aren't unrealistic or impractical, all should work out fine.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20): Nothing worth bragging about is likely to be accomplished if you are too wishy-washy. In fact, your inability to make up your mind could drive everyone crazy.

Astro-Graph
DR. BERNICE BEDE OSOL
ARIES (March 21-April 19): Don't get so carried away by how well others are doing that you forget to concentrate on furthering your own abilities. Try to focus only on your own efforts.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Just because a certain tactic works well for a friend doesn't necessarily mean that it will for you. Experiment to find your own game plan and then stick to it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Steer clear of any involvement in which you have no say in the decision making. Plans made entirely by others might not be best for your interests.
CANCER (June 21-July 22): It won't take you long to lose points with others. If you don't hold yourself accountable for your mistakes. This will be especially true if you put the blame everywhere but on yourself.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Wasted time will become a critical factor in hampering your productivity. The chances for accomplishing your aims will be in direct proportion to the time you spend dilly-dallying.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): If you and your pets are facing a difficult decision, try to work it out yourselves instead of discussing it with outsiders, especially in-laws.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23): In order to spare the feelings of another, you might rework the facts. Sadly, when the truth comes out, it will only anger the person whom you wanted to help.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22): When it comes to people who helped you acquire something that you badly wanted, of course you should share the rewards. Just don't feel obligated to make a payoff to those who did nothing.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21): There is a chance that one of your well-intentioned gestures might produce some unintended and unpleasant effects, causing others to have difficulty in discerning your motives.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Under most conditions you are a rather determined person. However, friends could talk you into doing things that you know you shouldn't, causing you much guilt later.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19): A lot of disappointment is possible if you base your expectations on unrealistic premises. Make it a point to try to see things for what they are and not as you wish them to be.

"The best things carried to excess are wrong."
 - Charles Churchill

Defending against four hearts, West led the club king, then thoughtfully shifted to the spade jack, appreciating that he would need to set up winners for his side before declarer could establish the diamond suit for discards.

Declarer played low from dummy and won his spade ace. It looked logical to draw trump next, then play a spade to the king, followed by another spade. East won the trick and exited with the spade nine, ruffed by declarer in dummy.

Declarer could now deduce that West had a singleton diamond and so played a low diamond from dummy. If West won the trick, he would have to concede a ruff-and-discard by leading a club, whereas if East ruff with the diamond king he, would be the one employed.

Note that East might have exited with the fourth diamond instead of leading the fourth spade. Now to make the contract, declarer must duck this trick, which will leave West employed to give the ruff-and-discard by leading a club, whereas if East ruff with the diamond king he, would be the one employed.

The contract can be defeated only by an initial spade lead. However, the play is quite complex if declarer wins the spade king, draws trump, then plays a club. The defenders must win and play a diamond, and when declarer takes the trick and plays
