CHAIRMAN QUAIN'S
OFFICE

Dear Commissioner Quain:

I write in support of the Philadelphia Electric Company (PECO) Energy Plan because, in its details, it supports the lives of its workers and of its customers.

Through negotiation with consumer advocates, the utility has made important concessions that both preserve the fair treatment of PECO's workers and optimize the ability of poor and lower income customers to purchase necessary power. PECO has made a long term commitment to Philadelphia, pledging more cost-efficient service and more awareness of its customers' often special circumstances.

I realize that I have no formal voice in the process by which you review and decide on submissions made to you by electric utilities. Nevertheless, I wish to put myself on record as in support of a utility that tries to do its best for its workers and for its customers.

Sincerely,

Louise Williams Bishop
State Representative

Electric Provider Choice Plans

Dear Governor Ridge:

As I see it, the ENRON CHOICE PLAN is good for Pennsylvania.

PECO Energy is making false claims and advertising these claims.
ENRON is not making a hostile PECO takeover bid. ENRON is only ready to provide lower costs to PA consumers on an open market.

Why could PECO Energy not provide lower rates before this? PECO Energy suddenly finds it can reduce charges! What happened to the overcharging they have done over the years? I believe PECO Energy has been hostile to their customers.

Using ENRON as a provider will ensure that PECO ENERGY collects only its "stranded costs" and not more hidden-in-its-higher-rates. PECO should not even be allowed recovery of these costs. It seems to this writer that "stranded costs" is another name for "bad capital investment decisions", not really costs stranded because of the competition change. Their owner-investors should be absorbing these costs.

Thanking you in advance for your attention.

Very truly yours,

J J Kelly
