Dear Chairwoman Brown,

PennEnvironment is submitting the attached comments from more than 2,000 citizens concerning the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission's proposed rule regarding alternative energy net metering rules proposed in Docket #L-2014-2404361.

The comments lay out significant concerns with limiting the potential financial reimbursements for the production of solar energy to 200% of the energy use of a home or business. As you know, our continued dependence on fossil fuels is driving climate change and increasing air pollution that causes asthma attacks. If we are to move towards cleaner, safer energy sources, it is crucial that we do everything in our power to encourage the growth of solar power and maximize the potential financial benefits that accompany the reductions of pollution from using solar versus fossil fuels.

We hope you will consider the attached comments which were submitted by individuals across the Commonwealth calling for no limit on net metering for solar or other alternative energy sources.

Sincerely,

Adam Garber
PennEnvironment Field Director

Solar power is one of the best ways to slash pollution and is often economically competitive with other energy sources. Limiting financial reimbursements for generating solar power to 200% of an owner's personal usage will discourage people from generating their own energy and slows progress towards clean, renewable energy.

People should receive market value for all the electricity they generate through solar power at their home or business.
