Bio of Rob Moss

Rob Moss has an extensive background in both the retail and wholesale aspects of the deregulated energy field. His experience transcends all of the deregulated states and roles such as marketing, sales, supply, pricing, business development, and broker channels. In his most current role as the Vice President of Electricity for Titan Gas and Power, he created the retail electricity portion of the business. This allowed Titan to add another source of revenue from its already established natural gas sales. His duties included developing and executing the sales and supply strategies. Titan's focus is the Northeastern portion of the United States.

Prior to Titan, Rob was the Senior Vice President of Mega Energy where he took a startup company with a focus in Texas to a mid-range retail electricity provider. Rob was the face of the company. While maintaining a balance supply book and increasing market share, his duties required him to attend sponsorship events, annual chamber of commerce galas, charity events, and annual channel partner conferences. These experiences allowed him to use his business development skills to gain market share. Mr. Moss' biggest accomplishment was the negotiation of an energy management supply agreement that shed supply risks. This agreement was crucial to the growth of Mega Energy. It eliminated the need for capital with suppliers, reduced all weather risks, and allowed the purchase of electricity along with ancillary services. While at Mega, Rob developed key contacts with the Texas Energy Professionals Association, Channel Partners, Greater Houston Partnership, the University of Houston, and various Chambers of Commerce.

Rob also has experience with the wholesale trading and generation side of the electricity industry. He was the Manager of Day Ahead Operations at Reliant Energy. This role put him in charge of a portfolio of generation assets with the annual goal of $300 million in margin on energy. The generation assets located in the Northeast required extensive trading and analytical skills. During the expansion of Reliant Energy's generation portfolio, it was Rob's team that was tasked with the strategy and transition of assets. This role required great business acumen to handle the variety of conflicts and challenges faced on a daily basis.

These experiences along with Mr. Moss' education, that includes a Masters of Business Administration with a focus in Management and Marketing from St. Edward's University in Austin Texas, has molded Rob into a great leader while being able to maintain relationships with his employees. Mr. Moss realizes that the key to any successful business is the abilities and attitudes of his employees. These relationships will continue to make Mr. Moss' future ventures a success.
