PPL is claiming that I owe them $1,200 in back electric bills due to them having a meter that has been defective for the last three years. I have paid every bill that was sent to me on time. I have no access to this meter and even if I did how would I know if it was working correctly. I live in a 3 room apartment. I have no washer and dryer, ~~no~~ my heat and hot water are included in my rent. When I moved into this apartment 4 years ago I called PPL and complained that the electric bills were too high. They sent a man out and installed a new meter. My bills did go down. Apparently the 5 meter that they installed was also bad. Why should I be responsible for their incompetence?

Case Number: 2026030

Account Number: 8335083011

Decision On Informal Complaint By The Bureau Of Consumer Services:

Statement Of Complaint:

A summary of the customer's complaint is as follows:

David Nevling (customer) states that the bill issued $1,205.01 from PPL advised that the meter was faulty. The company was at the property and changed the meter on 11/30/05. PPL advising that the meter was defective. The customer states that his meter was not broken. The customer has been paying his bills and disputes the additional money for $1,205.01. The customer request the PUC to investigation and provide a resolution.

Investigation By Staff Of The Bureau Of Consumer Services Revealed:

- 1) That according to company records on 11/30/05 the company initiated an investigation that identified a stop module meter #83912495 was removed with a reading of R-18875. The company installed a new Automatic Meter Reading meter #88941828 with a reading of R-00000 was installed.
- 2) That on 1/5/06 the stopped module billing was completed for the period of 8/30/02-11/30/05 was caused by the old AMR meter not communicating with the company. The company originally billed the customer 4177 kwh for that period. The corrected amount is 15,464 kwh, which includes 157 kwh from the new meter. (account statement attached)
- 3) That on 1/9/06 the customer contacted PPL in regards to the re-billing. The company offered payment terms of the current bill plus $24.00 a month until the re-billing was satisfied.

Based On These Findings, The Bureau Of Consumer Services Concludes:

- 1) That PPL re-billed the account in compliance with the PA PUC regulatory guidelines at 56.14 as follows. § 56.14. Previously unbilled utility service.

When a utility renders a make-up bill for previously unbilled utility service resulting from utility billing error, meter failure, leakage that could not reasonably have been detected or loss of service, or four or more consecutive estimated bills and the make-up bill exceeds the otherwise normal estimated bill by at least 50% and at least $50:

- (1) The utility shall review the bill with the ratepayer and make a reasonable attempt to enter into a payment agreement.
- (2) The period of the payment agreement may, at the option of the ratepayer, extend at least as long

Therefore It Is Decided:

- 1) That the informal complaint of DAVID NEVLING is dismissed.
- 2) That the re-billing for services from 8/30/02-11/30/05 for an additional 15,464 kwh in the amount of $1,205.01 is in compliance with the PA PUC regulatory guidelines at 56.14 as above defined.
- 3) That the company shall apply a 10% conservation discount of $120.50 toward the re-billed amount since the customer was not given the opportunity to receive actual bills and given the opportunity to conserve energy. After the re-billing has been applied to the account the new re-billed amount would be $1,084.51
- 4) That PPL has offered the customer a payment arrangement of the current charges plus an additional $24.00 toward the account balance until the balance has been satisfied.
