

In response to complaint for docket number C-2019-3009161

To Whom It May Concern,

We were notified in April of 2019 that our insurance company had not filed the proper forms with the PUC. The PUC issued a notice of possible suspension. We immediately contacted our insurance company and they sent the PUC all the information they believed they needed. After this, we received a notice that a possible suspension has been lifted and that our PUC authority has been fully restored. Apparently, though, the complaint was still filed. I believed that everything had been resolved so I did not think I needed to take further action.

Then, in June, I was notified that the PUC still did not have the proper forms from my insurance company. Once again, I contacted our insurance company and they forwarded on the forms to the PUC. I received a letter now that my PUC is fully restored again.

This seemed to be a case of misunderstanding by my insurance agent as to what forms needed to be filed with the PUC. Our insurance had no lapse in coverage at any point. And also my misunderstanding as to me having to file a response to the complaint even though all possible actions against us had been lifted.

I hope this explains everything and I appreciate everyone's help in getting this resolved.

All the best,

Mike
