

Please accept this as my reply to Sunoco's working statement regarding a virtual meeting.

At Lower Frankford Township meeting Oct/6/2020 a motion was made for an in-house meeting that the majority voted for.

At the Oct 14, Commissioners Meeting I again brought up an in-house meeting for those that didn't have access to the internet.

To really make this a Public Meeting for the Public let's have an in-house meeting not directed by Sunoco, so the Public can voice their concerns

Sincerely yours
Katherine J. Baker

Dear Jon:

Following up on our telephone conversation, the Lower Frankford Township Board of Supervisors asked me to reach out to a representative of Sunoco with respect to a public meeting concerning the pipeline issue which we believe is scheduled for October 23rd.

The Supervisors understand that the meeting is planned to be held virtually. The Supervisors have been lobbied by some of their residents to request that Sunoco conduct an in person meeting, even if the meeting is scheduled at an outside venue. Would you kindly review this request with your clients and get back to me on the matter.

Additionally, the Supervisors are requesting that Sunoco make the calculation of the blast zone in Lower Frankford Township public with an announcement outlining the potential area of impact for any possible blast from a pipeline malfunction. Please also review this request with your client and let me know.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Very truly yours,

PUC modifies utility shutoff moratorium

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pennsylvania is lifting its blanket moratorium on utility shutoffs, despite an earlier pledge to keep it in place for the duration of the pandemic.

The state Public Utility Commission announced Thursday that utilities may disconnect electric, gas, water and other utility services for some customers beginning Nov. 9. In March, the commission said that no utility may terminate service so long as the governor's disaster emergency declaration remained in effect. Wolf has not lifted the emergency order.

"The moratorium on utility service terminations was the right decision to make in March, but the moratorium cannot be the sole solution for assisting vulnerable utility customers," Gladys Brown Dutrieuille, the commission chairperson, wrote in a motion to amend the moratorium.

In place of a total ban on utility shutoffs, the regulatory commission enacted safeguards that it said would protect small businesses and residential customers hit hardest by the economic downturn.

Under the new rules, households whose incomes fall within 300% of the federal poverty level - which translates into $78,600 per year for a family of four - will remain protected from termination, officials said. The commission typically imposes a winter moratorium on utility shutoffs for households earning less than 250% of federal poverty guidelines.

Utilities must also offer payment plans for past-due balances to small business customers, and take other steps to help customers maintain utility service, the commission said.

Good morning Karen. I wanted to let you know that we received the letter from your solicitor and that our attorney will be sending a response.

A quick update from my end. I had a conversation yesterday with Kirk Stoner and the Cumberland County Commissioners re: the community meeting. We are looking at hosting the program on either December 2nd or December 3rd. Per the PUC order, we will be conducting the meeting virtually. However, the Cumberland County Commissioners are discussing the option of opening up a venue for the public to attend in-person. If that occurs, we will make written copies of the presentation materials available for in-person attendees. I will keep you posted on any additional developments. Please let me know if you have any questions or need additional information.

Thanks,
-Josh

Josh

Thank you so much for the update. Mr. Baker attended our Board meeting on Tuesday evening. He is insistant that the community meeting have an inperson component. He does not have a computer or smart phone. He realizes the event may have to be at an outdoor venue due to COVID-19 restrictions.

Smiles,
KAREN

Good afternoon Karen. As a follow-up to our recent phone conversation, I wanted to let you know that we have made contact with Cumberland County to discuss the planning of our Mariner East Pipeline project virtual community meeting, pursuant to the September 17, 2020 PUC order (attached). Please let me know if you have any questions or need additional information at this point. I will keep you posted on any developments.

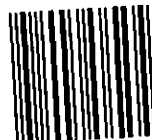

Thank you,
