Gary and Deborah Reynolds v. West Penn Power

ATTN: Judge Katrina Dunderdale, Administrative Law Judge

Docket No. C-2020-3023494

1. I am requesting the formal complaint hearing not be scheduled in the first two weeks of April due to a tentative surgery I am planning to have then. Once confirmed, I will notify PUC in a separate filing.
2. In regards to my initial 'Reply to Answer', I relayed that I've contacted West Penn Power Customer Service to have dead Ash Trees removed along the right-a-way on our property for our electric transmission line. Immediately after filing my PUC objection, a JAFLO tree service crew showed up to work on cutting down all danger trees along the same right-a-way. I mention this in support of my contention that West Penn Power has not been diligent in keeping their right-of-way cleared for at least the past three years.
3. I've discovered a sixth 120V electrical surge protector unit 'fried' from the October 12, 2020 power surge. The uploaded attachment to this document lists six replacement surge units. This unit continued to function as a multi-outlet even though it no longer offered surge protection. See the attached picture of the wall area where the surge protector outlet exploded.
4. Documents are picture of lightning surge arrestors in support of our contention that had they been deployed at the West Penn Power Substation, our power surge damages could have been prevented. During our discussion with the West Penn Power representative after the power sure of the late 1990's, we were informed that our electric transmission line originated from the nearby West Penn Power Substation on Hill School House Road, Waynesburg PA 15370.

Thank you for your consideration.

Substation Equipment: Lightning Arresters

Lightning Arresters

LIGHTNING ARRESTERS are protective devices for limiting surge voltages due to lightning strikes or equipment faults or other events, to prevent damage to equipment and disruption of service. Also called surge arresters.

Lightning arresters are installed on many different pieces of equipment such as power poles and towers, power transformers, circuit breakers, bus structures, and steel superstructures in substations.
