To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing in response to the notice I received dated 4/22/2024 wherein I have been informed about a pending fine of $1,000. I respectfully request a hearing to address and contest this matter before an impartial judge as per the principles of due process.

As guaranteed under Article I, Section 9 of the Pennsylvania Constitution I believe I have the right to be heard and to fully present my case in a fair and impartial setting. The notice did not provide a detailed explanation of the grounds for the fine, and therefore, I seek a formal hearing to clarify and challenge these claims appropriately.

A hearing would provide a crucial platform to review the evidence presented against me, to cross-examine such evidence, and to argue the merit and legality of the impending fine. It is my belief that, after a thorough review, the concerns leading to this penalty may be resolved in my favor.

Please inform me of the available dates and any procedures I must follow to secure this hearing. Your assistance in this matter is greatly appreciated as I seek to resolve this matter transparently and lawfully.

Thank you for your attention to this important matter. I look forward to your prompt response.

Sincerely,

Jerome B McCree Sr.
