Answer to New Matter brought up by Duquesne Light Company in the case

Timothy Tata v.

Duquesne Light Company. C-2024-3050149

The company, acting under the authority of the Pennsylvania Constitution must submit JUST CAUSE before demanding entry into my domicile. They had not with their “smart comfort visit” at all, in a fact, it is a complete breach of my constitutional rights to deny discounts offered to those that willfully let you breach their right to privacy of their person or effect to unwarranted searches, which the smart comfort visit absolutely is. They used my refusal of an invasion of privacy to financially penalize me for refusal where they did not ever insist on removing the rights from someone allowing them entry, or wealthy enough to pay their bill without help. People that use 500mw of power a month are EVERY household, as the average is 1Kw or more per month. To whit, Duquesne Light refused me discounts offered to people that didn't understand they could refuse an unlawful search of their effects.

Respectfully,

Timothy Eugene Tata
