Technical Fitness

EQhome.com, and its home energy management and shopping platforms launched in 2020 in the Texas market. With a mission to simplify energy management and empower consumers, EQhome aimed to make energy shopping and decision-making effortless and stress-free. It provides users with personalized energy plans based on their usage patterns and allows them to monitor and manage their energy costs and usage through an intuitive interface.

As the company grew, the holding company eIQDigital, Inc. was incorporated in March 2023 as an AI-first climate tech leader that focuses on driving digital transformation and sustainable energy transition building upon the success of EQhome.

As eIQDigital evolved, it realized the need to leverage its technological capabilities beyond the consumer-facing platform. This led to the development of the PowerLego API set, a collection of powerful APIs that provide various functionalities related to energy market scanning, data access, address validation, load profiling, bill reading, and more. These APIs became the backbone of technology resulting in a SaaS business model offering digital solutions for energy suppliers and brokers.

eIQDigital, with its forward-looking digital initiatives, is on a mission to streamline and improve the electricity plan selection experience for residential consumers. Our proposal entails the following foundational pillars:

- Digital Interface for Consumers:
  - Platform Availability: We will introduce a digital interface, accessible both via a dedicated website and a mobile application.
  - Functionality: This interface will serve as a hub where residential consumers can browse, compare, and select electricity plans tailored to their usage patterns.
  - Real-Time Updates: eIQDigital ensures that the platform's offerings are always up-to-date, drawing from live data feeds from suppliers through secure API connections.
- Enrollment Process:
  - Data Gathering: Post-selection of an electricity plan, the consumer will input essential data, strictly in line with PUC regulations. This includes but isn't limited to their name, residential address, and account particulars.
  - Transmission Mechanism: This data, once entered, will be securely conveyed to the corresponding energy supplier in real-time, ensuring immediate action on the supplier's end.
- Collaboration with Suppliers:
  - Dynamic Plan Display: By integrating with supplier APIs, eIQDigital's platform will showcase the most current electricity plans, ensuring consumers get the best and most relevant options.
  - Post-Selection Handover: After eIQDigital forwards consumer data, the supplier will activate their standard enrollment protocols, ensuring consumers are integrated without disruptions.
- Assured Data Safety:

- Security Protocols: Recognizing the critical importance of data privacy, eIQDigital commits to rigorous data protection standards. We strictly adhere to PCI, PII, and NPI regulations, ensuring the utmost security of consumer information at all stages.
- Transparency: eIQDigital maintains open lines of communication with the PUC, updating the commission on any significant operational changes, especially those that might impact data security or consumer rights.

In summary, eIQDigital is determined to provide residential consumers with an intuitive, safe, and efficient mechanism to explore and enroll in electricity plans. Our operations have been molded to meet the benchmarks set by the PUC, prioritizing transparency, consumer welfare, reliability and data security.
