Utilization Review Program

The Utilization Review (UR) Program is designed to help you determine the course of treatment that will maximize your plan benefits regardless of which coverage option you select.

The UR Program offers the following services:

- Pre-admission authorization;
- Pre-Certification;

- Urgent Hospital Admission;
- Continued Stay Review;
- Other Required Pre-certifications; and
- Penalty for Non-Compliance.

The Utilization Review Program provides pre-authorization services to help verify the need for recommended treatment. This service also can propose treatment alternatives that may be more appropriate and cost-effective. Pre-authorization does not guarantee benefits. Benefit availability is subject to eligibility and other terms, conditions, limitations, and exclusions of the Plan.

You must contact Anthem (who provides the Utilization Review services) to receive pre-authorization any time your doctor recommends treatment that requires pre-authorization as outlined below:

- Pre-Admission/Pre-Certification: Except in the case of an urgent hospitalization, all hospitalizations shall be pre-certified prior to admission for any reason. The Pre-certification Provider's name and telephone number will be provided to each participant. Hospital admission pre-certification does not guarantee benefits under the Plan. Actual benefits provided under the Plan are determined based on the provisions of the Plan.
- Pre-Certification Procedure: When your physician recommends a non-urgent hospitalization, you or your physician must call the Pre-certification Provider. You must advise your physician of the Plan's pre-admission certification requirement and provide such physician with adequate information to obtain the pre-certification. You or your physician should secure pre-certification as soon as possible and before a covered person actually enters the hospital. It is your responsibility to see that the Pre-certification Provider is notified.
- Urgent Hospital Admission: In the case of an urgent hospitalization, the covered person's physician, the hospital, or a family member must telephone the Pre-certification Provider within 48 hours of admission or the first business day following weekend or holiday admissions.

You must provide the Pre-certification Provider with the information required by the Pre-certification Provider.

- Continued Stay Review: The Pre-certification Provider may monitor all hospital stays through contact with the covered person's physician.
- Other Required Pre-certifications: You and your physician must notify the Pre-certification Provider prior to the provision of the following additional services or supplies: (1) inpatient surgery, (2) a newborn child hospital stay beyond that of the mother; (3) plastic reconstructive surgery; and (4) durable medical equipment/prosthetics. With approval of the Plan, the Pre-certification Provider may require pre-certification for other services or supplies in accordance with reasonable procedures.
- Penalty for Non-compliance: If you fail to comply with the requirements as described above, the Plan may assess a $300 penalty.

How Deductibles Work in the PPO Option

For charges that are subject to the calendar year deductible requirement under the PPO Coverage Option, a covered member generally must satisfy the “individual” covered member deductible requirement (currently $500 for in-network and $1,000 for out-of-network) each calendar year before the Plan will pay any benefits for such charges. Charges incurred by a covered member may not be applied toward satisfaction of any other covered person’s “individual” deductible requirement.

However, once the “family” deductible has been satisfied for a category of coverage (e.g., for In-Network Providers, $1,000 for covered member + spouse or for covered member + child(ren), or $1,500 for covered member + family), additional covered members within the family do not need to satisfy any deductible requirement.

For example, if you choose the covered member + children category of coverage and you and one of your children each satisfy the $500 in-network deductible requirement in a given year, none of your other children will be subject to the in-network deductible requirement for that year. On the other hand, if you choose the covered member + family category of coverage and you and your spouse each incur $1,000 of charges that are subject to the in-network deductible requirement, one of your children who is a covered member must satisfy the $500 in-network deductible requirement before the “family” deductible requirement is met.

Please note that prescription drug expenses are not counted against the calendar year deductible.

For the PPO Coverage Option only, charges that are incurred during the last three months of the calendar plan year and that are applied to the individual and family deductible for such calendar plan year (that is, charges incurred before the deductible is satisfied) apply also toward the deductible requirement for the following calendar plan year.

How Deductibles Work in the HDPPO 1 and HDPPO 2 Options

For charges that are subject to the calendar year deductible requirement under the HDPPO 1 and HDPPO 2 Coverage Options, each calendar year the covered family as a unit must satisfy the specified deductible requirement for a category of coverage before the Plan will pay any benefits for such charges.

Thus, for example, if you choose the covered member + family category of coverage and you incur $2,000 of charges that are subject to the in-network deductible, but no other covered family member incurs any charges, you (or other covered family members) must still satisfy the remaining $1,000 of the in-network deductible requirement before the Plan will pay any benefits. On the other hand, if you choose the covered member + family category of coverage and your spouse incurs $3,500 of charges in a year that are subject to the in-network deductible, no other family members will be subject to an in-network deductible requirement for that year.

The Individual Out-of-Pocket Maximum Limit in the HDPPO 2 Option

In the HDPPO 2 Coverage Option, for categories of coverage other than "covered member only," there is an individual out-of-pocket maximum limit. This means that regardless of the overall out-of-pocket maximum limit for the category of coverage, no covered person will pay more than the individual out-of-pocket maximum for expenses that are subject to that limit. For services received from In-Network Providers, the individual out-of-pocket maximum as of January 1, 2021 is equal to $8,550. For services received from Out-of-Network Providers, the individual out-of-pocket maximum as of January 1, 2021 is $15,000.

Maximum Allowed Amount

General

This section describes how Anthem, as Claims Administrator for the Plan, determines the amount of reimbursement for services, treatments or supplies covered by the Plan ("Covered Services"). However, this section does not address Covered Services under the Plan for which claims are not administered by Anthem.

Reimbursement for services, treatments or supplies rendered or furnished by In-Network and Out-of-Network Providers is based on the Plan's Maximum Allowed Amount for the Covered Service that you receive.

The Maximum Allowed Amount is the maximum amount of reimbursement the Claims Administrator will allow for services, treatments and supplies:

- to the extent the cost for such services, treatments and supplies are covered under the Plan and are not excluded;
- that are Medically Necessary; and
- that are provided in accordance with all applicable preauthorization, utilization management or other requirements set forth in the Plan.

You will be required to pay a portion of the Maximum Allowed Amount to the extent you have not met your Deductible or have a Co-payment or Co-insurance. In addition, when you receive Covered Services from an Out-of-Network Provider, you may be responsible for paying any difference between the Maximum Allowed Amount and the Provider's actual charges. This amount can be significant.

When you receive Covered Services from a Provider, the Claims Administrator will, to the extent applicable, apply claim processing rules to the claim submitted for those Covered Services. These rules evaluate the claim information and, among other things, determine the accuracy and appropriateness of the procedure and diagnosis codes included in the claim. Applying these rules may affect Claims Administrator's determination of the Maximum Allowed Amount. The Claims Administrator's application of these rules does not mean that the Covered Services you received were not Medically Necessary. It means the Claims Administrator has determined that the claim was submitted inconsistent with procedure coding rules and/or reimbursement policies. For example, your Provider may have submitted the claim using several procedure codes when there is a single procedure code that includes all of the procedures that were performed. When this occurs, the Maximum Allowed Amount will be based on the single procedure code rather than a separate Maximum Allowed Amount for each billed code.

Likewise, when multiple procedures are performed on the same day by the same physician or other healthcare professional, the Plan may reduce the Maximum Allowed Amounts for those secondary and subsequent procedures because reimbursement at 100% of the Maximum Allowed Amount for those procedures would represent duplicative payment for components of the primary procedure that may be considered incidental or inclusive.

Provider Network Status

The Maximum Allowed Amount may vary depending upon whether the Provider is an In-Network Provider or an Out-of-Network Provider.

An In-Network Provider is a Provider who is in the managed network for the Plan or in a closely managed specialty network, or who has a participation contract with the Claims Administrator. For Covered Services performed by an In-Network Provider, the Maximum Allowed Amount for the Plan is the rate the Provider has agreed with the Claims Administrator to accept as reimbursement for the Covered Services. Because In-Network Providers have agreed to accept the Maximum Allowed Amount as payment in full for those Covered Services, they should not send you a bill or collect for amounts above the Maximum Allowed Amount. However, you may receive a bill or be asked to pay all or a portion of the Maximum Allowed Amount to the extent you have not met your Deductible or have a Co-payment or Co-insurance. Please call an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card for help in finding an In-Network Provider or visit the Claims Administrator's website at anthem.com.

Providers who have not signed any contract with the Claims Administrator and are not in any of the Claims Administrator's networks are Out-of-Network Providers, subject to Blue Cross Blue Shield Association rules governing claims filed by certain ancillary providers.

For Covered Services you receive from an Out-of-Network Provider, the Maximum Allowed Amount for the Plan will be one of the following as determined by the Claims Administrator:

- An amount based on the Claims Administrator's Out-of-Network Provider fee schedule/rate, which the Claims Administrator has established in its discretion, and which the Claims Administrator reserves the right to modify from time to time, after considering one or more of the following: reimbursement amounts accepted by like/similar providers contracted with the Claims Administrator, reimbursement amounts paid by the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services ("CMS") for the same services or supplies, and other industry cost, reimbursement and utilization data; or
- An amount based on reimbursement or cost information from CMS. When basing the Maximum Allowed amount upon the level or method of reimbursement used by CMS, the Claims Administrator will update such information, which is unadjusted for geographic locality, no less than annually; or
- An amount based on information provided by a third party vendor, which may reflect one or more of the following factors: (1) the complexity or severity of treatment; (2) level of skill and experience required for the treatment; or (3) comparable providers' fees and costs to deliver care; or
- An amount negotiated by the Claims Administrator or a third party vendor which has been agreed to by the Provider. This may include rates for services coordinated through case management; or
- An amount based on or derived from the total charges billed by the Out-of-Network Provider.

Providers who are not contracted for the Plan, but contracted for other benefit plans with the Claims Administrator are also considered Out-of-Network. For the Plan, the Maximum Allowed Amount for services from these Providers will be one of the five methods shown above unless the contract between the Claims Administrator and that Provider specifies a different amount.

For Covered Services rendered outside the Claims Administrator's service area by Out-of-Network Providers, claims may be priced using the local Blue Cross Blue Shield plan's non-participating Provider fee schedule/rate or the pricing arrangements required by applicable state or Federal law. In certain situations, the Maximum Allowed Amount for out of area claims may be based on billed charges, the pricing the Plan would use if the healthcare services had been obtained within the Claims Administrator's service area, or a special negotiated price.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, when determining the Maximum Allowable Amount for Out-of-Network emergency services, the Claims Administrator will provide benefits for such services in an amount at least equal to the greatest of the methods required under the Affordable Care Act and the regulations thereunder (adjusted for in-network cost sharing).

Unlike In-Network Providers, Out-of-Network Providers may send you a bill and collect for the amount of the Provider's charge that exceeds the Plan's Maximum Allowed Amount. You are responsible for paying the difference between the Maximum Allowed Amount and the amount the Provider charges. This amount can be significant. Choosing an In-Network Provider will likely result in lower out-of-pocket costs to you. Please call an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card for help in finding an In-Network Provider or visit the Claims Administrator's website at anthem.com.

An Anthem customer service associate is also available to assist you in determining the Plan's Maximum Allowed Amount for a particular service from an Out-of-Network Provider. In order for the Claims Administrator to assist you, you will need to obtain from your Provider the specific procedure code(s) and diagnosis code(s) for the services the Provider will render. You will also need to know the Provider's charges to calculate your out-of-pocket responsibility. Although an Anthem customer service associate can assist you with this pre-service information, the final Maximum Allowed Amount for your claim will be based on the actual claim submitted by the Provider.

For Prescription Drugs Obtained through the HDPPO

For prescription drugs obtained under an HDPPO Option, the Maximum Allowed Amount is the amount determined by the Claims Administrator using prescription drug cost information provided by the Pharmacy Benefits Manager (PBM) for that Option.

Participant Cost Share

For certain Covered Services and depending on your plan design, you may be required to pay a part of the Maximum Allowed Amount as your cost share amount (for example, Deductible, Co-payment, and/or Co-insurance).

Your cost share amount and out-of-pocket limits may vary depending on whether you received services from an In-Network or Out-of-Network Provider. Specifically, you may be required to pay higher cost sharing amounts or may have limits on your benefits when using Out-of-Network Providers. Please see the Highlights of the PPO Option, Highlights of the HDPPO 1 and HDPPO 2 Options, and Highlights of Your Prescription Drug Coverage in the HDPPO 1 and HDPPO 2 Options sections in this Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD for your cost share responsibilities and limitations in the Plan, or call an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card to learn how the Plan's benefits or cost share amounts may vary by the type of Provider you use.

Special Cost-Sharing Provisions during Public Health Emergency

During any portion of the emergency period defined in paragraph (1)(B) of section 1135(g) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1320b-5(g)), beginning on or after March 18, 2020, the Medical Plan will provide coverage of the following items and services without any cost sharing (including Deductibles, Co-Payments, and Co-Insurance) requirements or prior authorization or other medical management requirements, to the extent (i) required by applicable law, (ii) medically appropriate for you, as determined by your attending healthcare provider in accordance with accepted standards of current medical practice, and (iii) ordered by your attending healthcare provider:

- (a) An in vitro diagnostic test as defined in section 809.3 of title 21, Code of Federal Regulations, (or its successor regulations) for the detection of SARS-CoV-2 or the diagnosis of COVID-19, and the administration of such a test, that—
 - (1) is approved, cleared, or authorized under section 510(k), 513, 515, or 564 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21 U.S.C. §§ 360(k), 360c, 360e, 360bbb-3);
 - (2) the developer has requested, or intends to request, emergency use authorization under section 564 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21 U.S.C. 360bbb-3), unless and until the emergency use authorization request under such section 564 has been denied or the developer of such test does not submit a request under such section within a reasonable timeframe;
 - (3) is developed in and authorized by a State that has notified the Secretary of HHS of its intention to review tests intended to diagnose COVID-19; or
 - (4) other tests that the Secretary of HHS determines appropriate in guidance.
- (b) Items and services furnished to an individual during healthcare provider office visits (which includes in-person visits and telehealth visits), urgent care center visits, and emergency room visits that result in an order for or administration of an in vitro diagnostic product described in paragraph (a), but only to the extent the items and services relate to the furnishing or administration of the product or to the evaluation of the individual for purposes of determining the need of the individual for such product.

Reimbursement of Out-of-Network Providers furnishing any of the foregoing items or services shall not exceed an amount that equals the cash price for such service as listed by the Provider on a public internet website.

The Plan will not provide any reimbursement for non-Covered Services. You may be responsible for the total amount billed by your Provider for non-Covered Services, regardless of whether such services are performed by an In-Network or Non Network Provider. Non-Covered Services include services specifically excluded from coverage by the terms of the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD and services received after benefits have been exhausted. Benefits may be exhausted by exceeding, for example, benefit caps or day/visit limits.

In some instances you may only be asked to pay the lower In-Network cost sharing amount when you use an Out-of-Network Provider. For example, if you go to an In-Network hospital or Provider facility and receive Covered Services from an Out-of-Network Provider such as a radiologist, anesthesiologist or pathologist who is employed by or contracted with an In-Network hospital or facility, you will pay the In-Network cost share amounts for those Covered Services. However, you also may be liable for the difference between the Maximum Allowed Amount and the Out-of-Network Provider's charge.

The Claims Administrator and/or its designated pharmacy benefits manager may receive discounts, rebates, or other funds from drug manufacturers, wholesalers, distributors, and/or similar vendors, which may be related to certain prescription drug purchases under this Plan and which positively impact the cost effectiveness of Covered Services. These amounts are retained by the Claims Administrator. These amounts will not be applied to your Deductible, if any, or taken into account in determining your Copayment or Coinsurance.

Authorized Services

In some circumstances, such as where there is no In-Network Provider available for the Covered Service, the Plan may authorize the In-Network cost share amounts (Deductible, Co-payment, and/or Co-insurance) to apply to a claim for a Covered Service you receive from an Out-of-Network Provider. In such circumstance, you must contact the Claims Administrator in advance of obtaining the Covered Service. The Plan also may authorize the In-Network cost share amounts to apply to a claim for Covered Services if you receive emergency services from an Out-of-Network Provider and are not able to contact the Claims Administrator until after the Covered Service is rendered. If the Plan authorizes an In-Network cost share amount to apply to a Covered Service received from an Out-of-Network Provider, you also may still be liable for the difference between the Maximum Allowed Amount and the Out-of-Network Provider's charge. Please contact an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card for Authorized Services information or to request authorization.

Medical Expenses Covered

The Plan pays benefits for you (or your covered dependents) for Medically Necessary eligible expenses up to the Maximum Allowed Amount. For services covered under an HMO plan, please refer to the HMO SPD.

For expenses not covered under the PPO and HD PPO options, see the section below entitled "Medical Expenses Not Covered."

Please Note: No lawsuit or legal action of any kind regarding a claim for benefits under the Plan may be commenced unless the claims procedure process for internal appeals (but not including any voluntary appeal) has been exhausted. In addition, in no event may any lawsuit or other legal action regarding a claim for benefits be commenced later than three years after the date such claim was incurred or the date when the rescission of coverage occurred, as the case may be. For more information, see the "Claims Determination and Appeal Process – Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan" section of the Benefits Program Overview, and in particular the section entitled "Limitation of Actions and Venue," found on page 30.

The Plan will not discriminate with respect to participation under the Plan against any health care provider who is acting within the scope of that provider's license or certification under applicable law. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Plan is not required to contract with any health care provider willing to abide by the terms and conditions for participation established by the Plan and the Plan may establish varying reimbursement rates based on quality or performance measures.

The covered expenses under the Plan include, but may not be limited to the following:

Inpatient Services

The Plan pays benefits for the following inpatient hospital/medical services and supplies.

- Hospital facility services – such as inpatient room and board – when you are in:
 - A semi-private room;
 - A private room (the Plan limits benefits to the hospital's prevailing semi-private room rate); or
 - An intensive care unit.

The Plan pays benefits for both day and nighttime care.

- Inpatient ancillary services and supplies, including:
 - Operating room charges;
 - X-rays;
 - Laboratory work;
 - Surgical dressing; and
 - Prescribed medications (Outpatient prescription drug services are covered under the prescription drug program. See the sections of this Handbook relating to Prescription Drugs for details).
- Inpatient surgical services, including:
 - Surgeon's fees when related to the surgical procedure; and
 - Surgery for morbid obesity.
- Skilled nursing facility care, up to the hospital's prevailing semi-private room rate, including:
 - Bed, board, and general nursing care; and
 - Ancillary services (such as drugs, surgical dressings, or supplies).

- General nursing care provided by an RN or LPN when you are in:
 - A semi-private room;
 - A private room; or
 - An intensive care unit.
- Pre-admission testing, x-rays, or laboratory services performed before inpatient surgery. These tests are considered part of your inpatient hospital surgical stay and are performed on an outpatient basis. The Plan pays benefits provided you would have otherwise been eligible to receive such tests as a hospital inpatient.

Outpatient Services

The Plan pays benefits for the following services, provided you receive them on an outpatient basis:

- Hospital facility services and ancillary charges for services performed on an outpatient basis;
- Outpatient surgery and related surgical services when performed in an office setting, including:
 - Any related diagnostic services received on the same day as the outpatient surgery;
 - Surgeon's fees when related to the surgical procedure; and
 - Surgery for morbid obesity.
- Dental/oral surgical services, only when required because of an accidental injury to natural teeth (within 12 months of injury), to extract completely bony impacted teeth, including completely impacted wisdom teeth, or (for the PPO option only) in connection with a gingivectomy. The Plan pays benefits for outpatient facility charges only if your medical condition or the dental procedure requires a hospital setting to ensure your safety.
- Temporomandibular joint dysfunction and related medical disorders. The Plan limits benefits to:
 - Surgery, provided the surgical procedure is medically appropriate; and

- Appliances (the Plan pays benefits for appliances just like any other durable medical equipment).
- A second surgical opinion and additional required testing at your request or when recommended by the Utilization Review (UR) Program. The Plan pays benefits provided your physician (other than the one who offers the second opinion) performs the eventual surgery.

Professional Services (Outpatient)

The Plan pays benefits for care you receive from a physician or other specified professional provider (i.e., a general practitioner, family practitioner, a physician of internal medicine, pediatrician, gynecologist, nurse practitioner, or physician assistant), on an outpatient basis.

- Office visits, visits to a clinic, or a physician's visit to your home as part of home care services. You must meet the co-pay or deductible requirement, as applicable, before the Plan pays benefits.
- Services provided by a professional, including:
 - Allergy injections, shots, serums, and immunizations;
 - Diagnostic allergy testing;
 - Hearing exams and hearing aids. The Plan limits benefits to one hearing exam and one hearing aid per ear during a two calendar-year period; and
- Diabetes management services, including:
 - Educational services;
 - Eye exams; and
 - Blood glucose testing machines (diabetic supplies and other diagnostics are covered under the prescription drug coverage).

Emergency Care Services

The Plan pays benefits for the cost of the following emergency care services:

- Hospital emergency room care when care is associated with:

- An accident;
- A medical emergency; or
- A non-medical emergency.

- Urgent care;
- Ambulance services (local ground or air transportation), when medically necessary to transport you to the nearest appropriately equipped facility that is able to provide necessary treatment. The Plan pays benefits for air-ambulance services only if medically necessary. When ambulance services are used because they are more convenient than other types of transportation, the Plan does not pay benefits.

If your condition is life threatening and you receive emergency care at a hospital outside the network because it is not possible to safely transfer you to a hospital within the network, the Plan still pays benefits at the in-network level.

Rehabilitation Services

The Plan pays benefits for the following inpatient and outpatient rehabilitation services.

- The following rehabilitation services provided on an inpatient or outpatient basis (unless otherwise noted):
 - Physical Medicine/Rehabilitation (PMR) (inpatient only, limited to 60 days per person per year; outpatient PMR is considered physical therapy and is subject to the limits outlined below for outpatient physical therapy). The Plan may extend these limits based upon medical necessity;
 - Cardiac rehabilitation;
 - Chemotherapy;
 - Radiation therapy;
 - Respiratory therapy (including respiratory therapy devices);
 - Infusion; and
 - Renal dialysis treatments.
- Outpatient therapy treatments, including:

- Physical therapy (therapy is subject to significant improvement through relatively short-term therapy);
- Occupational therapy;
- Speech therapy, provided therapy is restorative in nature or rehabilitative treatment is needed for speech loss or impairment due to an illness or injury or surgery on account of an illness (other than a functional nervous disorder). If speech loss is due to a congenital anomaly for which corrective surgery has been performed, the corrective surgery must be performed before the therapy and therapy must be designed to provide significant improvement on a relatively short-term basis.

The Plan pays benefits provided a registered professional physical or occupational therapist, or speech therapist certified by the American Speech and Hearing Association renders the appropriate services under the supervision of a physician. Benefits for physical therapy and occupational therapy are limited to a combined 26 visits per person per year. Benefits for speech therapy are limited to 26 visits per person per year. Additional visits for physical therapy, occupational therapy, and speech therapy may be authorized based upon medical necessity.

- Chiropractic and spinal manipulation therapy provided a licensed chiropractor performs the services on an outpatient basis. The Plan limits benefits for chiropractic services regardless of medical necessity to 26 manipulations per person per year;
- Physiotherapy, provided a licensed physiotherapist performs the services and he or she does not normally live with you or is not related to you or your spouse by blood, marriage, or legal adoption.

Diagnostic and Laboratory Services

The Plan pays benefits for the following diagnostic and laboratory services.

- Inpatient radiology and laboratory services
- Outpatient radiology, diagnostic, and laboratory services performed when you are an outpatient and the services are related to surgery or medical care, including:

- X-rays;
- Radium treatments;
- Microscopic tests; and
- Laboratory tests and exams.

Preventive Health Services

Generally

The Plan pays benefits for certain preventive health services.

Preventive health services include outpatient services and office services. Screenings and other services are covered as preventive health services for adults and children with no current symptoms or prior history of a medical condition associated with that screening or service.

Members who have current symptoms or have been diagnosed with a medical condition are not considered to require preventive health services for that condition, but instead benefits will be considered as diagnostic services.

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, if performed as a preventive care service or screening, the Plan pays benefits for one in-network colonoscopy per covered person per calendar year, and one in-network mammography per covered person per calendar year with no deductible, co-insurance or co-payment requirement, notwithstanding that any treatment incidental or ancillary to such service or screening (such as the removal of polyps during a diagnostic colonoscopy) is also performed during such service or screening.

Preventive health services covered under the Plan may constitute either recommended preventive health services or additional preventive health services. Additional preventive health services are certain preventive health services covered under the Plan that do not constitute recommended health services. Please contact an Anthem customer service associate using the number on the back of your ID card for any questions concerning what constitutes a recommended preventive health service or an additional preventive health service. Additional preventive health services furnished by In-Network Providers are covered by the Plan with no deductible, co-payments or co-insurance. Additional preventive health services furnished by Out-of-Network Providers are subject to deductibles and co-insurance under the PPO option, but are covered by the Plan with no deductible, co-payments or co-insurance under the HDPPO options.

Recommended preventive health services shall meet requirements as determined by Federal law and, if applicable, state law. Recommended preventive health services are covered by this Plan with no deductible, co-payments or co-insurance under the HDPPO options and when furnished by an In-Network Provider under the PPO option.

Recommended preventive health services furnished by an Out-of-Network Provider under the PPO option are subject to deductibles and co-insurance.

To the extent required by federal regulation, if there is no In-Network Provider who can provide a recommended preventive health service, the Plan will cover the service, with no deductible, co-payment or co-insurance, when performed by an Out-of-Network Provider.

Limitations With Respect To Recommended Preventive Health Services

The services described in the recommendations or guidelines above will not constitute recommended preventive health services earlier than Plan Year that begins on or after the date that is one year after the recommendations or guidelines are issued; provided, however, that recommended preventive health services shall include any “qualifying coronavirus preventive service,” as defined in applicable federal regulations, on the date that is 15 business days after the date on which a recommendation is made relating to the qualifying coronavirus preventive service.

Please note: Regardless of whether such services continue to be listed above, recommended preventive health services will remain covered services under the Plan only until the end of the Plan Year following the date the related recommendation or guideline is no longer described in the federal regulations regarding coverage of preventive health services. Provided, however, that to the extent a service covered on the first day of a Plan Year is, during the Plan Year, downgraded to a “D” rating, or any item or service associated with any recommendation or guideline described in the federal regulations regarding coverage of preventive health services is subject to a safety recall or is otherwise determined by a federal agency authorized to regulate the item or service to pose a significant safety concern, such service will cease to be a covered service as of the date of the rating downgrade or agency determination.

Please also note: The frequency, method, treatment and setting of recommended preventive health services are subject to reasonable medical management techniques determined by the Plan Administrator or Claims Administrator in their discretion. Please contact an Anthem customer service associate using the number on the back of your ID card for information concerning any limitations upon recommended preventive health services arising out of the use of such techniques.

If a recommended preventive health service is billed separately (or is not tracked as individual encounter data separately) from an office visit, then the Plan may impose a co-payment and/or deductible for the office visit. If a recommended preventive health service is not billed separately (or is not tracked as individual encounter data separately) from an office visit and the primary purpose of the office visit is the delivery of the recommended preventive health service, then the Plan will not impose a co-payment, co-insurance and/or deductible for the office visit, unless you have chosen the PPO option and the office visit involves an Out-of-Network Provider. If a recommended preventive health service is not billed separately (or is not tracked as individual encounter data separately) from an office visit and the primary purpose of the office visit is not the delivery of the recommended preventive health service, then the Plan may impose a co-payment, co-insurance and/or deductible for the office visit.

You may contact an Anthem customer service associate using the number on the back of your ID card for additional information about these recommended preventive health services (or you may view the following federal government websites:

Gender Reassignment Surgery

Generally

Gender reassignment surgery is one treatment option for extreme cases of gender dysphoria. It is not a single procedure, but part of a complex process involving multiple medical, psychiatric, and surgical specialists working in conjunction with each other and the individual.

Plan Benefits for Specific Surgeries

The Plan pays benefits for gender reassignment surgery consisting of any combination of the following, if the Plan Administrator determines in its sole and absolute discretion that each such surgery is Medical Necessary: hysterectomy, salpingo-oophorectomy, ovariectomy, orchiectomy, metoidioplasty, phalloplasty, vaginoplasty, penectomy, clitoroplasty, labiaplasty, vaginectomy, scrotoplasty, urethroplasty, or placement of testicular prostheses.

See the “Definitions” subsection of the Benefits Program Overview for what constitutes a Medically Necessary service or supply. For a surgery to be considered Medically Necessary, all criteria established by the Plan Administrator for such surgery must be satisfied. For information concerning the criteria to be satisfied to establish medical necessity, please contact an Anthem customer service associate using the number on the back of your ID card.

Before the Plan pays benefits, Anthem, as Claims Administrator, must approve all hospital confinements and/or surgical procedures related to any gender reassignment surgery. Be sure to contact Anthem before you proceed with any gender reassignment surgery or related procedure.

Cosmetic Procedures or Services Not Covered

Cosmetic procedures or services in connection with gender reassignment surgery are not covered under the Plan. The Plan pays maternity benefits for services provided to the mother (if covered under the Plan) as well as certain services provided to the newborn infant while the mother is hospitalized after childbirth (even if you initially have Retiree-only coverage). However, if the newborn requires treatment for an illness or injury or remains hospitalized after the mother is discharged from the hospital after giving birth, the Plan pays benefits for that care only if you add the newborn to coverage, provided the newborn is eligible for coverage under the Plan. (The newborn child of your female child is not eligible for coverage under the Plan.) To add an eligible newborn child to your coverage, you must call the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320, or log on to the website mysourceforhr.com and add the newborn child within 31 days of the actual birth. Provided the newborn child is eligible for coverage and you timely enroll the child, coverage for the newborn takes effect as of the date of birth. Please see the "Enrollment" and the "Changing and Continuing Your Elections" section of the Benefits Program Overview for further details.

Please Note:

If you do not enroll an eligible newborn child in the Plan within 31 days of the child's birth, your next opportunity to enroll the child will not be until the next annual enrollment period or until you experience another qualified life event that permits you to enroll the child.

The Plan pays also benefits for services performed to diagnose infertility. However, the Plan does not pay benefits for the treatment of infertility (i.e., artificial insemination, in-vitro fertilization, embryo transfer, etc.)

 - Home health aid services;
 - Medically necessary services, supplies, and medications.

There may be instances when short episodes of traditional care are appropriate – even if you remain in the hospice setting. Even if the traditional services are not eligible for hospice care benefits, the Plan may still cover them. Charges incurred during periods of remission are not covered.

- Human organ and tissue transplant services. The Plan pays benefits for any medically necessary human organ and tissue transplant, as determined by the Plan Administrator, including necessary acquisition costs and preparatory myeloblastic therapy, and for all covered services that are (i) Medically Necessary, as determined by the Plan Administrator, and (ii) directly related to the disease that has necessitated the covered transplant procedure or that arise as a result of the procedure, including any diagnostic evaluation for the purpose of determining the appropriateness of the procedure for a covered person.

For cornea and kidney transplants, the benefits or requirements described below do not apply. These services are paid as inpatient services, outpatient services or physician office services, depending where the service is performed.

The Plan pays benefits only for facility and provider expenses that are described as covered expenses elsewhere in this Handbook.

Before the Plan pays benefits, Anthem, as Claims Administrator, must approve all hospital confinements and/or surgical procedures related to an organ or tissue transplant. Be sure to contact Anthem before you proceed with any treatment related to a transplant.

You should contact Anthem's transplant department to discuss benefit coverage when it is determined a transplant may be needed. Contact the Anthem Customer Service telephone number on the back of your Identification Card and ask for the transplant coordinator. Anthem will then assist you in maximizing your benefits by providing coverage information, including details regarding what is covered and whether any Plan provisions, network requirements or exclusions are applicable. Failure to obtain this information prior to receiving services could result in increased financial responsibility for you. If you choose an out-of-network facility or provider, the Plan will pay covered expenses based upon a determination of the Maximum Allowed Amount and you will be responsible for any amount not paid by the Plan.

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Plan pays benefits for the following medically necessary services related to a human organ or tissue transplant:

- Physician's charges related to surgery, including charges for a surgical physician's assistant (if medically necessary), and related anesthesia.
- Inpatient covered hospital services related to the transplant procedure.
- Storage and transportation costs related to the donated organ or tissue (including the donor's medical expenses incurred as the result of a transplant provided the recipient is covered under the Plan, the expense is charged to the covered person, and no other source is available to pay the actual donor's medical expenses).
- Storage of the patient's own blood in advance of an approved transplant surgical procedure.

If a participating (in-network) transplant facility performs transplant-related services, the Plan pays benefits for medically necessary pre-transplant evaluations and 12 months of transplant-related follow-up care (including any rejection events).

The Plan will provide assistance with reasonable and necessary travel expenses as determined by the Plan Administrator when you obtain prior approval and are required to travel more than 100 miles from your residence to reach the facility where your covered transplant procedure will be performed. The Plan's assistance with travel expenses includes transportation to and from the facility and lodging for the patient and one companion. If the covered person receiving treatment is a minor, then reasonable and necessary expenses for transportation and lodging may be allowed for two companions.

Benefits for lodging are limited to $75.00 per day. There is a $20,000 combined maximum for travel and lodging. The covered person must submit itemized receipts for transportation and lodging expenses in a form satisfactory to the Plan Administrator when claims are filed.

Contact the Plan Administrator for detailed information.

To confirm if an expense is eligible for reimbursement, call the Claims Administrator via the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

The medical expenses not covered under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan include, but may not be limited to, the following:

How Your Prescription Drug Coverage Works in the PPO

When you participate in the PPO coverage option under the Plan, you are also provided with prescription drug coverage through the Anthem Prescription Drug Program. HMOs will provide separate prescription drug coverage.

Your benefits will vary depending on the type of prescription drug you take (generic, formulary or non-formulary) and how you buy it (at the pharmacy or through the mail).

- Generic - Drugs are no longer covered by the original patent. They include the same active ingredients as the brand-name drug at a fraction of the cost.
- Formulary - A list of approved drugs covered under the prescription drug plan. Drugs are selected for the formulary based on a combination of features, including safety, effectiveness and cost. You will pay less for a formulary drug than for a non-formulary drug.
- Non-formulary – Drugs that are not on the formulary list, but generally have a formulary alternative. You may choose non-formulary drugs, but you will pay more than a generic or formulary drug.

Prescription drug coverage under the PPO coverage option shall be subject to quantity limit and dose optimization programs. For certain prescription drugs, (i) the quantity limit program limits the amount of medicine that is covered by the Plan for a certain length of time, and (ii) the dose optimization program generally identifies covered persons receiving multiple doses of lower strength medications and, where clinically appropriate, optimizes or consolidates the regimen to a single dose of a higher strength medication. With respect to certain prescription drugs, the dose optimization program may also help ensure that as higher dosages of a given medication are prescribed, the covered person takes a single dose at the higher strength.

The PPO coverage option utilizes a step care therapy program for certain classes of prescription drugs. For a list of the drugs included in this program, please contact Anthem at the number on the back of your ID card. This program requires the utilization of an effective first-line medication before a more expensive alternative may be covered under the Plan. Therefore, medications that meet established guidelines and/or have a generic alternative must be used as the first-line medication before more expensive medications are authorized, unless your doctor informs Anthem otherwise.

The PPO coverage option utilizes a clinical prior authorization (CPA) program. CPA simply means you must get approval from Anthem before certain prescription drugs will be covered under the Plan. The CPA program reviews the use of certain very costly drugs, certain drugs that could be abused by the patient, and drugs that might not be the best choice for the patient's health problem. To see if the CPA program applies to a particular drug prescribed for you, contact Anthem toll-free at 1-800-228-2891.

Also, for the PPO coverage option, regardless of whether you use a retail pharmacy or the mail order service, if a prescribed brand-name drug has a generic substitute (that is, a drug with the same active ingredients as the brand-name drug), and if you or your Provider request that the brand-name drug be dispensed, you will be responsible for the applicable co-pay or co-insurance plus the difference in cost between the brand-name drug and the generic substitute.

You can fill your prescription at any participating pharmacy.

Retail

If you fill your prescription at a participating retail pharmacy, you need to meet a co-pay requirement. If your share of the drug's cost is less than the "minimum co-pay," you pay the minimum co-pay amount. If your share of the drug's cost is greater than the "maximum co-pay," you pay up to the maximum co-pay amount. See the "Highlights of Your Prescription Drug Coverage in the PPO Option" section of this Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD for further details on plan benefits.

The Plan provides no coverage for prescriptions filled through a retail pharmacy that is not a member of the network of participating retail pharmacies established by the PBM.

Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program

You and your covered dependents may also have your prescription filled for a 90-day supply at a retail pharmacy through the Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program. The prescription must be filled at a network pharmacy participating in the Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program. With this program you pay 20% of the cost of a three-month supply of the drug with applicable minimum and maximum of three times retail co-pays.

Mail Order Service

If you or your covered dependents use long-term medications, you can receive up to a 90-day supply of certain covered medications through Anthem's mail order service. With the mail order service, you must submit your prescription and applicable co-pay amount through the mail. The amount you pay depends on whether you receive a generic, formulary brand, or non-formulary brand drug.

To use the Mail Order Service:

- Complete the Mail Service Pharmacy Order Form. A new order form and envelope will be sent to you with each delivery. Please note: The registration/profile process may also be completed over the phone or online.
- Attach the prescription and a check in the amount of the applicable co-pay. Make your check payable to Anthem or provide a credit card number (follow the instructions on the form). Please do not submit cash with your order.
- Mail the Mail Service Pharmacy Order Form and your check to the Anthem mailing address included on the Form.
- Have your physician write a new original prescription so that you can submit it directly to the mail order service pharmacy with your Mail Service Pharmacy Order Form. If you need medication immediately, ask your doctor for two prescriptions:
 - One for an immediate supply (you can then take this to your local participating pharmacy)
 - A second one for the extended supply (you can then submit this one to the mail order service)

You will receive your mail order prescription approximately 14 days from the date your mail order is received.

To find out if your pharmacy is in the network, contact Anthem at 1-800-228-2891 to speak with a customer service representative. You may also log on to the Anthem website at anthem.com.

How Your Prescription Drug Coverage Works in the High Deductible Options

Regardless which High Deductible Option you participate in, you are covered under the Anthem Prescription Drug Program for your prescription drug coverage.

Prescription drug expenses are covered the same way as any other medical expense, subject to the deductible and co-insurance. These expenses are not subject to separate co-insurance or out-of-pocket maximum amounts. The drug plan is an open formulary, so there is no designation in terms of generic, brand, etc. Therefore, you will pay the discounted cost of the drug.

The High Deductible Options utilize a step care therapy program for certain classes of prescription drugs. For a list of the drugs included in this program, please contact Anthem at the number on the back of your ID card. This program requires the utilization of an effective first-line medication before a more expensive alternative may be covered under the Plan. Therefore, medications that meet established guidelines and/or have a generic alternative must be used as the first-line medication before more expensive medications are authorized, unless your doctor informs Anthem otherwise.

Also, for the High Deductible Options, regardless of whether you use a retail pharmacy or the mail order service, if a prescribed brand-name drug has a generic substitute (that is, a drug with the same active ingredients as the brand-name drug), and if you or your physician request that the brand-name drug be dispensed, you will be responsible for the applicable co-insurance plus the difference in cost between the brand-name drug and the generic substitute.

Retail Service

If you fill your prescription at a retail pharmacy and have not satisfied your deductible, you will pay the discounted cost of the drug. If you have satisfied your deductible, you will pay the applicable co-insurance amount, either 20% or 40%, dependent upon whether the pharmacy offers Anthem discounts.

To find out if your pharmacy is in the network, contact Anthem at 1-800-228-2891 to speak with a customer service representative. You may also log on to the Anthem website at anthem.com.

Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program

You and your covered dependents may also have your prescription filled for a 90-day supply at a retail pharmacy through the Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program. The prescription must be filled at a network pharmacy participating in the Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program. With this program you pay 20% of the cost of a three-month supply of the drug after you satisfy your deductible.

Mail Order Service

If you or your covered dependents use long-term medications, you can receive up to a 90-day supply of certain covered medications through the mail order service.

With the mail order service, you must submit an original prescription from your doctor and:

- Complete the Mail Order Pharmacy Form. A new order form envelope will be sent to you with each delivery.
- Attach the prescription and a check in the amount of the applicable discounted cost of the drug or co-insurance.
- Mail the Mail Order Pharmacy Form and your check to the address on the Form.

If you need medication immediately, ask your doctor for two prescriptions:

- One for an immediate supply (you can then take this to your local participating pharmacy and

- A second one for the extended supply (you can then submit this one to the mail order service)

You will receive your mail order prescription approximately 14 days from the date your mail order is received. To request a form or if you have questions, you may go to the Anthem website anthem.com or contact mail order customer service at 1-800-228-2891 to ask for assistance.

EAP/Work Life/Legal & Financial Services

Beacon Health Options offers you and your family an Employee Assistance Program (EAP), which provides short term counseling, information, resources, and referrals on a variety of life issues that you may be facing. These issues can include:

- Marital and family relationships
- Finding child care
- Depression and anxiety
- Adopting a child
- Workplace Concerns
- Caring for an elderly parent
- Balancing work and your personal life
- Legal and financial issues

The EAP provides clinical, professional assistance 24 hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days a year at 1-800-946-5360. The EAP is a confidential program available at no cost; you and your household members have up to six (6) sessions per year with an EAP counselor, either in-person, telephonically or via video. Counselors will help you define your needs, and provide counseling, support and referrals as needed. If clinical assistance is needed beyond the six EAP sessions for outpatient or inpatient treatment, you are responsible for the care selected.

You can also call the EAP for Work Life issues, e.g., eldercare and childcare. Extensive searches for information and services compatible with your family's preferences and finances will be provided. Work Life Consultants work hard to find resources that fit your budget requirements. Resource and referral information provided to you is at no cost. However, you are responsible for costs associated with services and businesses with whom you may contract.

Additionally, you can call the EAP for guidance on legal and financial issues including, but not limited to, divorce, domestic violence, criminal, civil, landlord tenant issues, debt management, estate planning, family budgeting, etc. The benefit allows for a free 30-minute consultation with a financial consultant, a 60-minute consultation with an attorney for family law issues and a 35% discount if you retain the attorney, and a free 30-minute consultation with an attorney for legal issues other than family law, with a 25% discount if the attorney is retained.

Health Savings Account (HSA)

As a Pre-65 Retiree, you cannot continue to make contributions by means of payroll deduction to the health savings account ("HSA") you established through the Company. However you may continue to contribute to your HSA outside of payroll deduction (or to another health savings account you establish) until you attain age 65, provided you are enrolled in the HDPPO 1 or HDPPO 2 options or other eligible high deductible coverage and you are otherwise eligible under Federal law to contribute to such an account.

If you previously contributed to an HSA through the Company by means of payroll deduction, your HSA contributions made through payroll deduction as well as the Company's contributions to your HSA will stop when you retire. Your account balance goes with you, however, and continues to earn interest. You may continue to use your HSA to pay for future medical expenses during retirement. However, you will be responsible for paying any monthly fees related to the administration of your account. Upon your retirement, your HSA will be converted to a new direct account in your name, and you will receive a new debit card you can use to pay for eligible expenses.

Contact the HSA custodian, UMB, directly at 1-866-520-4472 if you have any questions about your HSA or your debit card after you retire.

Coordination of Benefits (COB)

If you or your dependents have coverage under another medical plan or program, your benefits under the Plan coordinate with benefits outside the Plan to help eliminate duplicate payments for the same services. See the "Coordination of Benefits (COB)" information in the Benefits Program Overview section to learn more about the Plan's COB features.

Please Note: If you or your covered dependent are enrolled in Medicare due to end-stage renal disease, and if Medicare is not already paying as primary, the Plan continues to pay as primary during the first 30 months of dialysis or the first 30 months of treatment in connection with a kidney transplant. Thereafter, Medicare generally becomes the primary payor of benefits.

Filing a Claim

Generally, In-Network Providers file claims on your behalf. If so, the Claims Administrator will send payments directly to the provider. You will be sent a statement itemizing what has been paid.

If your provider does not file claims on your behalf, you must file your claims as follows:

- Complete the appropriate claim form. Claim forms can be obtained by calling Anthem at the number listed on the back of your ID card.
- Attach copies of all available medical bills that should be considered for Plan benefits. These bills should include:
 - Name of patient;
 - Name and Social Security number of Retiree;
 - Date of treatment;
 - Type of treatment;
 - Charge for the treatment;
 - Provider of the treatment; and
 - Any other information that clearly indicates the medical expense
- Mail your completed claim form to the address on the back of your benefit plan ID card.

- Submit your claim to the Claims Administrator as soon as possible after you receive the covered service.

The Claims Administrator will process your claim. Generally, claim payments are sent directly to providers. However, there may be situations where payments are sent directly to you (i.e. your provider is not a member of the network). Any claims submitted after 18 months from the date of service generally will not be considered for payment. If you have any questions regarding filing claims, contact Anthem at the number listed on the back of your ID card.

Claim Determination and Appeal Process

For information regarding the Plan's claim determination and appeal process, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled "Claim Determination and Appeal Process – Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan."

Continuation of Coverage

General

For information regarding continuation of coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, including COBRA continuation coverage, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled "Continuation of Coverage."

Additional Information

Your Rights Under the Newborn's and Mother's Health Protection Act

Under Federal law, the Plan generally may not restrict benefits for any hospital length of stay in connection with childbirth for the mother or newborn child to less than 48 hours following a vaginal delivery, or less than 96 hours following a delivery by cesarean section. However, Federal law generally does not prohibit a shorter stay if the attending provider, after consultation with the mother, discharges the mother or newborn earlier than 48 hours (or 96 hours as applicable). In any case, the Plan may not require that the provider obtain authorization from the Plan for prescribing a length of stay that is not in excess of the above periods.

Women's Health and Cancer Rights Act of 1998

Federal law requires the Plan to provide coverage for the following services to an individual receiving Plan benefits in connection with a mastectomy:

- All stages of reconstruction of the breast on which the mastectomy has been performed;
- Surgery and reconstruction of the other breast to produce a symmetrical appearance;
- Prostheses; and
- Treatment of physical complications for all stages of a mastectomy, including lymphedemas (swelling associated with the removal of lymph nodes).

These benefits will be provided subject to the same deductibles and co-insurance applicable to other medical and surgical benefits provided under the Plan. If you would like more information on these benefits, contact the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

The following is a description of your coverage under the NiSource Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan. This Plan is designed to supplement your coverage under Medicare.

For further information about COBRA see the COBRA information in this section of this Handbook. However, you must first provide certain information to the Plan Administrator. *Medicare introduced an optional prescription drug benefit (also known as Medicare part D) in January 2006. This benefit offers coverage for part of the cost of many prescription drugs for Medicare-eligible participants. You may want to consider enrolling in Medicare Part D to receive prescription drug benefits through Medicare. If you are eligible for coverage under Medicare Part D and do not enroll during your initial enrollment period, you may incur significant penalties in the form of higher Medicare premiums when you ultimately do enroll in coverage. Note: The MAP Option offers prescription drug coverage. Once you enroll in the MAP-Med Only Option, you may not later enroll in the MAP Option. See "Enrollment in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan" in the Benefits Program Overview for more information. You cannot be enrolled in both Medicare Part D prescription drug coverage and prescription drug coverage under the MAP Option.

The Medicare Supplement Option is designed to pay for certain, although not all, expenses that are eligible and allowable under Medicare, but that are not paid by Medicare due to the application of deductibles and co-insurance percentages. Please Note: No lawsuit or legal action of any kind regarding a claim for benefits under the Plan may be commenced unless the claims procedure process for internal appeals (but not including any voluntary appeal) has been exhausted. Medical Expenses Not Covered

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the medical expenses not covered under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan include, but may not be limited to those medical expenses that would not be covered by Medicare, charges that a covered person is not legally required to pay and charges that would not have been made if the Plan had not existed, and charges incurred prior to the effective date of coverage, or after the termination date of coverage.

Please contact the Claims Administrator with questions regarding those medical expenses not covered.

To confirm if an expense is eligible for reimbursement, contact an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card.

How to File a Claim

Since the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan is designed to supplement your coverage under Medicare, Medicare is your primary carrier. That means that, as a general rule, your expenses must be submitted to Medicare before they are submitted to the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan for payment.

Medical expenses are usually submitted to Medicare directly by the provider. However, it is your responsibility to submit your claim to the Plan's Claim Administrator for benefit payments under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

Some providers, however, may submit your expenses to both Medicare and the Plan for payment. In that event, you would not need to submit any additional claim forms. Please ask your provider whether your claim filing will be submitted to Anthem for your Medicare Supplement benefit payments.

In the event you must submit a claim form to Anthem for your benefit payment, that claim form may be obtained by calling Anthem at the number listed on the back of your ID card. Your Medicare Explanation of Benefits (EOB) must be included when filing a claim with Anthem. If you have any questions relating to your claim filing process, you can call Anthem at the number listed on the back of your ID card. Claim forms should be submitted to:

Anthem Blue Cross and Blue Shield
P.O. Box 105187
Atlanta, GA 30348
anthem.com
1-800-228-2891

Please note that it is essential that you include the Medicare Explanation of Benefits form with your claim form because the Plan's benefits are computed on the basis of what Medicare approved as eligible expense.

Retain copies of all bills and Medicare correspondence for your records.

Below is a list of details that are often erroneously omitted from claim forms. Please refer to it when completing your claim form so you can make sure your claim form is complete.

1. Age and relationship of dependent
2. Physician's statement showing place, date and charge for treatment.
3. Itemized X-ray and laboratory bills showing date, charge and type of examination.
4. Full statement as to how, when and where injury occurred.

No cancelled checks, receipts or summaries of balances due are acceptable as evidence of expense incurred—only itemized statements accompanied by a Medicare Explanation of Benefits form are acceptable. Furthermore, a separate claim form must be completed by you and your physician for each sickness or injury. However, in case of chronic illnesses such as allergies or hypertension, you only must submit one physician's statement each calendar year.

One additional point to keep in mind is that the MAP-Med Only Option and the Medicare Supplement Option do not cover prescription drug expenses.

EAP/Work Life/Legal & Financial Services

Beacon Health Options offers you and your family an Employee Assistance Program (EAP), which provides short term counseling, information, resources, and referrals on a variety of life issues that you may be facing. These issues can include:

- Marital and family relationships
- Finding child care
- Depression and anxiety
- Adopting a child
- Workplace Concerns
- Caring for an elderly parent
- Balancing work and your personal life
- Legal and financial issues

The EAP provides clinical, professional assistance 24 hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days a year at 1-800-946-5360. The EAP is a confidential program available at no cost; you and your household members have up to six (6) sessions per year with an EAP counselor, either in-person, telephonically or via video. Counselors will help you define your needs, and provide counseling, support and referrals as needed. If clinical assistance is needed beyond the six EAP sessions for outpatient or inpatient treatment, you are responsible for the care selected.

You can also call the EAP for Work Life issues, e.g., eldercare and childcare. Extensive searches for information and services compatible with your family's preferences and finances will be provided. Work Life Consultants work hard to find resources that fit your budget requirements. Resource and referral information provided to you is at no cost. However, you are responsible for costs associated with services and businesses with whom you may contract.

Additionally, you can call the EAP for guidance on legal and financial issues including, but not limited to, divorce, domestic violence, criminal, civil, landlord tenant issues, debt management, estate planning, family budgeting, etc. The benefit allows for a free 30-minute consultation with a financial consultant, a 60-minute consultation with an attorney for family law issues and a 35% discount if you retain the attorney, and a free 30-minute consultation with an attorney for legal issues other than family law, with a 25% discount if the attorney is retained.

Claim Determination and Appeal Process

For information regarding the Plan's claim determination and appeal process, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled "Claim Determination and Appeal Process – Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan."

Continuation of Coverage

For information regarding continuation of coverage under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, including COBRA continuation coverage, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled "Continuation of Coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan."

Additional Information

Your Rights Under the Newborn's and Mother's Health Protection Act

Under Federal law, the Plan generally may not restrict benefits for any hospital length of stay in connection with childbirth for the mother or newborn child to less than 48 hours following a vaginal delivery, or less than 96 hours following a delivery by cesarean section. However, Federal law generally does not prohibit a shorter stay if the attending provider, after consultation with the mother, discharges the mother or newborn earlier than 48 hours (or 96 hours as applicable). In any case, the Plan may not require that the provider obtain authorization from the Plan for prescribing a length of stay that is not in excess of the above periods.

Retiree Life Insurance Plan

Retiree Term Life Coverage -Basic Plan

Retiree Supplemental AD&D Coverage

Dependents AD&D Coverage

Your Retiree Life Insurance and AD&D Options

This is the SPD (the “Retiree Life Insurance SPD”) for the NiSource Life Insurance Plan, also referred to as the Retiree Life Insurance Plan. In this Retiree Life Insurance SPD, the Retiree Life Insurance Plan is sometimes referred to as the “Plan.”

NiSource Inc. (the “Company”) offers the NiSource Life Insurance Plan to eligible Retirees with the following coverage options (each a “Coverage Option”):

- Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage Option;
- Supplemental Retiree AD&D Coverage Option; and
- Dependents AD&D Coverage Option.

Benefits are provided under one or more group insurance contracts (collectively, the “Group Contract”) and one or more group insurance certificates (collectively, the “Group Insurance Certificate”) issued by Minnesota Life Insurance Company (“Securian”), an affiliate of Securian Financial Group, Inc., who is the Insurer and Claims Administrator and is wholly responsible for the payment of benefits.

If there is a conflict between the Group Contract and Group Insurance Certificate, on the one hand, and this Retiree Life Insurance SPD, on the other hand, the terms of the Group Contract and the Group Insurance Certificate shall prevail. You should refer to the Group Insurance Certificate for a detailed explanation of the benefits offered under the Plan and the limitations upon those benefits, and for an explanation of the various terms and concepts used in this Retiree Life Insurance SPD. You may obtain a copy of the Group Insurance Certificate by contacting the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

The Plan provides (i) life insurance and, if elected, AD&D coverage on the persons of eligible Retirees, and (ii) AD&D coverage, if elected on the persons of your “eligible dependents”.

Eligibility

For information regarding eligibility under the Retiree Life Insurance Plan, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled “Eligibility under the Retiree Life Insurance Plan.”

Information regarding eligibility can be accessed through the website mysourceforhr.com or by calling the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320 to speak to a service representative.

Enrollment

For information regarding enrollment under the Retiree Life Insurance Plan, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled “Enrollment in the Retiree Life Insurance Plan.”

Contributions

Premium contributions are not required for the Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage Option. However, if you elect any of the AD&D Coverage Options, you will contribute to the cost of such coverage. If you have questions regarding the amount of your required contributions, please contact the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

When Coverage Begins and Ends

For information regarding when coverage begins and ends under the Retiree Life Insurance Plan, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled “When Coverage Begins and Ends – Retiree Life Insurance Plan.”

Beneficiaries and Assignments

Refer to the Group Insurance Certificate for details regarding designation of beneficiaries under the Coverage Option. You can obtain a beneficiary form by calling the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320. Securian has prepared information about the modes of settlement that are available. For further information, contact the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

The Group Insurance Certificate also contains rules regarding the assignment of your insurance under a Coverage Option. Refer to the Group Insurance Certificate for the terms and conditions under which such assignments may be made.

Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage

The Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage Option provides a benefit to your beneficiary or beneficiaries in the amount of $10,000. There is no cash value associated with, or attributable to, the Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage Option.

Please Note: No lawsuit or legal action of any kind regarding a claim for benefits under the Plan may be commenced unless the claims procedure process for internal appeals (but not including any voluntary appeal) has been exhausted. In addition, in no event may any lawsuit or other legal action regarding a claim for benefits be commenced later than three years after the end of the period within which proof of claim is required, unless otherwise provided under Federal law. For more information, see the "Claims Determination and Appeal Process – Life Insurance Plan" section of the Benefits Program Overview, and in particular the section entitled "Limitation of Actions and Venue," found on page 39.

Payment of Death Benefits under Life Coverage

If you die while covered under the Plan, the amount of insurance on you is payable when Securian's home office receives written proof satisfactory to it that you died while covered under the Plan and insured under the Group Insurance Certificate. If you die within 31 days after ceasing to be covered under the Plan, but while you are entitled to convert insurance under the Plan to an individual contract, death benefits in the amount of insurance that could have been converted may be payable when Securian receives written proof as described above.

Death Benefits under the Retiree Term Life Coverage Option are payable according to Securian's beneficiary and mode of settlement rules.

Conversion Privilege for Life Coverage

If all or a part of your Retiree Term Life Insurance terminates because you move from one existing eligible class to another, or you are no longer in an eligible class, you may convert up to the full amount of terminated insurance.

Limited conversion is available if, after you have been insured for at least five years, insurance is terminated because (1) the Group Contract is terminated; or (2) the Group Contract is changed to reduce or terminate your insurance. In such case, you may convert up to the full amount of terminated insurance, but not more than the maximum. The maximum is the lesser of: (a) $10,000; and (b) the amount of life insurance which terminated minus any amount of group life insurance for which you become eligible under any group policy issued or reinstated by Securian or any other carrier within 31 days of the date the insurance terminated under the Group Contract.

Under both the conversion right and the limited conversion right, you may convert your insurance to any type of individual policy of life insurance then customarily issued by the life insurance company for purposes of conversion, except term insurance. The individual policy will not include any supplemental benefits, including, but not limited to, any disability benefits, accidental death and dismemberment benefits, or accelerated benefits.

See the "Highlights of Conversion and Portability Features" below for additional details regarding the conversion privilege. Also, refer to the Group Insurance Certificate for additional details, terms and conditions.

AD&D Coverage

Supplemental Retiree AD&D Coverage Option

Subject to eligibility and enrollment requirements described above, you may enroll for supplemental retiree AD&D coverage in any multiple of $10,000 up to a maximum of $50,000.

Please Note: No lawsuit or legal action of any kind regarding a claim for benefits under the Plan may be commenced unless the claims procedure process for internal appeals (but not including any voluntary appeal) has been exhausted. In addition, in no event may any lawsuit or other legal action regarding a claim for benefits be commenced later than three years after the end of the period within which proof of claim is required, unless otherwise provided under Federal law. For more information, see the "Claims Determination and Appeal Process – Life Insurance Plan" section of the Benefits Program Overview, and in particular the section entitled "Limitation of Actions and Venue," found on page 39.

Dependents AD&D Coverage Option

You may enroll for AD&D coverage on each of your "eligible dependents" in an amount equal to a percentage of your Supplemental Retiree AD&D Coverage, as set forth below:

Eligible dependents	Amount of Insurance on each Eligible Dependent (as % of Retiree AD&D Coverage)
Spouse (with children)	50% on spouse
Spouse (no children)	60% on spouse
Each child	10% on each child

Additional AD&D Coverage

The Plan provides additional benefits under Supplemental Retiree and Dependents AD&D Coverage for a person's loss of life as a result of a covered accident in an automobile while using a seat belt or as a result of an accident in an automobile while using an air bag. The additional benefits are both in an amount equal to 10% of the amount payable due to the death or dismemberment. The additional benefits are subject to various conditions and limitations. For a description of these conditions and limitations, refer to the Group Insurance Certificate.

Covered Losses under AD&D Coverage

AD&D Coverage pays benefits for death or dismemberment resulting, directly and independently of all other causes, from an accidental injury which is unintended, unexpected and unforeseen.

The injury must occur while your coverage under the Plan and the Group Insurance Certificate is in force. Your death or dismemberment must occur within 365 days after the date of the injury and while your coverage under the Plan and the Group Insurance Certificate is in force.

The amount of the accidental death and dismemberment benefit is described below:

Loss of or by reason of	Percent of Person's Amount of Insurance
Life; both hands; both feet; sight of both eyes; speech and hearing; one hand and one foot; one foot and sight of one eye; one hand and sight of one eye; quadriplegia	100%
Paraplegia	75%
Sight of one eye; speech; hearing; one hand; one foot; hemiplegia	50%
Thumb and index finger of one hand	25%

Loss of hands or feet means complete severance at or above the wrist or ankle joints. Loss of sight, speech, or hearing means the entire and irrecoverable loss of sight, speech, or hearing which cannot be corrected by medical or surgical treatment or by artificial means. Loss of thumb and index finger means complete severance of both the thumb and the index finger at or above the metacarpophalangeal joints.

Quadriplegia means total and permanent paralysis of both upper limbs and both lower limbs.

Paraplegia means total and permanent paralysis of both lower limbs. Hemiplegia means total and permanent paralysis of both the upper limb and lower limb on one side of the body.

A benefit is not payable for both loss of thumb and index finger of one hand and the loss of one hand for injury to the same hand as a result of any one accident.

Benefits may be paid for more than one accidental injury, but the total amount of insurance payable under the Plan and the Group Insurance Certificate for all of your losses due to any one accident will never exceed the full amount of insurance described above.

Benefits will be paid upon receipt by Securian at its home office of written proof satisfactory to it that you or your eligible dependent died or suffered dismemberment as a result of an accidental injury.

Losses Not Covered

A loss is not covered if it results from or is caused directly or indirectly by any of the following: (1) Suicide or attempted suicide, while sane or insane; (2) Intentionally self-inflicted injuries, or any attempt to inflict such injuries; (3) sickness, whether the loss results directly or indirectly from the sickness; (4) medical or surgical treatment of sickness, whether the loss results directly or indirectly from the treatment; (5) Any infection (but this does not include (a) a pyogenic infection resulting from an accidental cut or wound; or (b) a bacterial infection resulting from accidental ingestion of a contaminated substance); (6) War, or any act of war ("War" means declared or undeclared war and includes resistance to armed aggression); (7) an accident that occurs while the person is serving on full-time active duty for more than 30 days in any armed forces (not including Reserve or National Guard active duty for training); (8) travel in or descent from any aircraft, except: a) as a fare-paying passenger on a regularly scheduled commercial flight on a licensed passenger aircraft carrier; b) while the employee is performing as a pilot or crew member of an employer owned, leased or operated aircraft; or c) while the employee is riding as a passenger in an aircraft which is owned, leased, or operated by the eligible employee's employer or its affiliate or by a customer of the employer or its affiliate; (9) commission of or attempt to commit a felony; (10) being legally intoxicated or under the influence of any narcotic unless administered or consumed on the advice of a doctor; or (11) participation in these hazardous sports: scuba diving; bungee jumping; skydiving; parachuting; hang gliding; or ballooning.

Portability of AD&D Coverage

If AD&D Coverage ceases, you may have the right to apply for coverage for yourself or for your "eligible dependent," as the case may be, under a Portability Plan maintained by the life insurance company. The terms and conditions (including the amount of coverage) under the Portability Plan will not be the same as those under the Plan.

To continue coverage under the Portability Plan, you must make a written request and make the first premium contribution within 31 days after insurance provided by the Plan or Group Contract would otherwise terminate. Evidence of insurability will not be required. Portability coverage then be deemed effective retroactive to the beginning of the 31-day period. This date is considered to be your portability date and you are then considered to have portability status. In order for your eligible dependents to continue Dependents AD&D Coverage, you must port your Retiree Supplemental AD&D Insurance.

See the table below entitled "Highlights of Conversion and Portability Features," for additional details regarding the portability feature. Also, refer to the Group Insurance Certificate for additional details, terms and conditions.

Your Eligibility for Portability Coverage

You and your eligible dependents are eligible to continue your Retiree Supplemental AD&D

Coverage and Dependents AD&D Coverage under the terms of the Plan and Group Insurance Certificate if you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for coverage (other than portability coverage) due to any of the following:

- (1) you are no longer in a class eligible for coverage; or
- (2) a class or group of employees insured under the Plan is no longer considered eligible and there is no successor plan for that class or group. (Successor plan means an insurance policy or policies provided by the life insurance company or another insurer that replaces insurance provided under the Plan).

You will not be eligible to request portability coverage if you:

- (1) have attained the age of 80; or
- (2) lose eligibility due to termination of the Plan or Group Contract.

Maximum and Minimum Amount of Coverage under the Portability Plan

The maximum amount of insurance that can be continued under the Portability Plan is the amount of insurance that was in force on the insured's portability date. However, for an insured age 65 or older on his or her portability date, the amount will not be more than 65% of the amount in force on the insured's portability date.

When an insured attains age 65, the amount of insurance continued under the Portability Plan will reduce to 65% of the amount of insurance in force on the day prior to attainment of age 65. Insurance terminates at age 80.

The minimum amount of insurance that can be continued under the Portability Plan is $10,000. This minimum does not apply to an eligible dependent.

You may elect to reduce the amount of insurance on your life under the Portability Plan. However, your remaining amount of insurance must be at least $10,000. The amount of insurance continued under the Portability Plan will never increase.

Regaining Eligibility Under Plan

If you are continuing coverage under the terms of Portability Plan, and you again meet the eligibility requirements of the Plan and the Group Insurance Certificate (not including the requirements for portability coverage), you shall no longer be considered to have portability status. Insurance may be continued only under the terms of the Plan and the Group Insurance Certificate, unless and until you no longer meet the eligibility requirements thereunder and again return to portability status as provided for herein.

Continuation of Portability Coverage After Termination of Group Contract

Termination of the Group Contract will not terminate insurance then in force for any person with portability status. The Group Contract will be deemed to remain in force solely for the purpose of continuing such insurance, but without the obligation of the Company.

Termination of Portability Coverage

Insurance being continued under the Portability Plan will terminate on the earliest of the following:

- (1) the insured attaining age 80; or
- (2) the date the insured again meets the eligibility requirements of the Plan and the Group Insurance Certificate; or
- (3) in the case of your dependent child or a spouse who is covered under the Plan, the date your coverage is no longer being continued under the Portability Plan or the date your spouse or child ceases to be eligible under the Plan; or
- (4) 31 days after the due date of any premium contribution which is not made.

See the "Highlights of Conversion and Portability Features" below for additional details regarding the portability privilege. Also, refer to the Group Insurance Certificate for additional details, terms and conditions.

CHANGES TO “BENEFITS PROGRAM OVERVIEW” SECTION OF THE HANDBOOK

The following changes are made to the “Benefits Program Overview” section of the Handbook:

1. Definitions

The “Definitions” Section of the Benefits Program Overview is modified by amending the definition of “Provider,” found in the subsection entitled “Definitions Applicable to Retiree Medical Plans,” to read as follows:

“Provider” means a duly licensed physician or other health care provider, or a Facility, that provides services within the scope of a license or certification under applicable State law, and is a physician, other health care provider, or Facility approved by the Plan Administrator in its sole and absolute discretion. The term includes a physician, other health care provider, or Facility rendering services that are required by applicable State law to be covered under the Plan when rendered by such person or entity.

The “Definitions” Section of the Benefits Program Overview is further modified by deleting the definitions of “In-Network Provider” and “Out-of-Network Provider” found in the subsection entitled “Definitions Applicable to Retiree Medical Plans.”

The “Definitions” Section of the Benefits Program Overview is further modified by adding the following definitions, in their appropriate alphabetical order, to the subsection entitled “Definitions Applicable to Retiree Medical Plans”:

“Cost sharing” means the amount a covered person is responsible for paying for a Covered Service under the terms of the Plan and generally includes Co-Payments, Co-Insurance, and amounts paid towards Deductibles, but does not include amounts paid towards premiums, balance billing by Out-of-Network Providers, or the cost of items or services that are not covered under the Plan.

“Coverage Option” includes an HD PPO Option, a PPO Option, an HMO Option, and a No Coverage Option; provided, however, the availability of an HMO Option may be subject to certain geographic restrictions based upon the residence of the covered person and such Option may impose eligibility restrictions in addition to those set forth in this Handbook.

“In-Network” means (i), with respect to a Provider, that the Provider is a person or entity who is in the managed network for the Plan or in a closely managed specialty network, or who has a participation contract with the Claims Administrator, (ii) with respect to an expense, that such expense has been incurred with respect to items or services furnished by a person or entity described in clause (i), (iii) with respect to an item or service, that such item or service has been furnished by a person or entity described in clause (i), and (iv) with respect to a Coverage Option, the expenses that are incurred under such Coverage Option with respect to items or services that have been furnished by a person or entity described in clause (i).

“No Surprises Act” means the No Surprises Act enacted as part of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2021, P.L. No. 116-260, and as amended from time to time.

“Out-of-Network” means (i) with respect to a Provider, that the Provider is a person or entity who has not signed any contract with the Claims Administrator and is not in any of the Claims Administrator’s networks, subject to Blue Cross Blue Shield Association rules governing claims filed by certain ancillary providers, (ii) with respect to an expense, that such expense has been incurred with respect to items or services furnished by a person or entity described in clause (i), (iii) with respect to an item or service, that such item or service has been furnished by a person or entity described in clause (i), and (iv) with respect to a Coverage Option, the expenses that are incurred under such Coverage Option with respect to items or services that have been furnished by a person or entity described in clause (i).

“PBM” means the Pharmacy Benefit Manager for the Retiree Medical Plans. As of the date of this Handbook, the PBM is Anthem.

“Stabilize” means, with respect to an Emergency Medical Condition, to provide such medical treatment of the condition as may be necessary to assure, within reasonable medical probability that no material deterioration of the condition is likely to result from or occur during the transfer of the individual from a Facility. With respect to a pregnant woman who is having contractions, the term “stabilize” also means to deliver (including the placenta), if there is inadequate time to affect a safe transfer to another Hospital before delivery or if transfer may pose a threat to the health or safety of the woman or the unborn child.

“Stabilized” means with respect to an Emergency Medical Condition, that no material deterioration of the condition is likely, within reasonable medical probability, to result from or occur during the transfer of the individual from a Facility. With respect to a pregnant woman who is having contractions, the term “Stabilized” also means that the woman has delivered (including the placenta).

The “Definitions” Section of the Benefits Program Overview is further modified by amending the definition of “Outbreak Period,” found in the subsection entitled “Definitions Applicable to Retiree Medical Plans and Retiree Life Insurance Plan,” to read as follows:

“Outbreak Period” means the period beginning March 1, 2020, and ending 60 days after (A) the announced end of the national emergency declared in (i) that certain Proclamation on Declaring a National Emergency Concerning the Novel Coronavirus Disease (COVID-19) Outbreak issued on March 13, 2020 by President Trump and (ii) that separate letter dated March 13, 2020, from President Trump to the Secretaries of the Departments of Homeland Security, the Treasury, and Health and Human Services and the Administrator of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, in which the President made a determination, under section 501(b) of the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Act that a national emergency exists nationwide beginning March 1, 2020, as a result of the COVID-19 outbreak, or (B) such other date announced by the Employee Benefits Security Administration, Department of Labor, Internal Revenue Service, and Department of the Treasury in a future notice; provided, however, that such period shall be subject to the statutory duration limitation in ERISA Section 518 and Code Section 7508A and to such other limitations or guidance that may be issued by the Employee Benefits Security Administration, Department of Labor, Internal Revenue Service, or Department of the Treasury.

2. End of Outbreak Period

The National Emergency referred to in the definition of “Outbreak Period” ended on May 11, 2023. In connection therewith, the Outbreak Period will end on July 10, 2023. The end of the Outbreak Period affects, among other things, (i) the period with which certain benefit plan elections may be changed on account of HIPAA special enrollment provisions (see the section of the Benefits Program Overview entitled “Changing and Continuing Elections”), (ii) the period within which individuals may file certain benefit claims, appeal of an adverse benefit determination, or request an external review (see the various sections of the Benefits Program Overview pertaining to the “Claims Determination and Appeal Process”), and (iii) the calculation of the 60-day election period for COBRA continuation coverage, the date for making COBRA premium payments, and the date for notifying the Plan of a qualifying event (see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled “Continuation of Coverage -- COBRA”).

If you have a question regarding how the end of the Outbreak Period affects any of the timeframes above that are applicable to you, please contact the Claims Administrator for the benefit plan in question (for contact information, see the “General Information” Section in the SPD for the benefit plan) or call the Benefits Source automated telephone system at 1-888-640-3320.

3. Children Not Eligible for Coverage under Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan

The “General Information Concerning Eligibility” subsection of the Section of the Benefits Program Overview entitled “Eligibility” is modified by adding the following paragraph:

Notwithstanding any other provision of this Section or of this Handbook, your child is not eligible for coverage under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

4. Clarification Regarding Defined Dollar Subsidy

The first paragraph of the Section of the Benefits Program Overview entitled “Defined Dollar Subsidy for Retiree Medical Coverage” is modified to read as follows:

Pre-65 Retirees, Post-65 Retirees and their eligible Spouses are entitled to receive an annual defined dollar subsidy ("Defined Dollar Subsidy") to be credited toward the cost of their retiree medical coverage under a Retiree Medical Plan. Provided, however, that no Defined Dollar Subsidy is available with respect to a Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan coverage option other than the Medicare Supplement Option, the MAP Option, or the MAP-Med Only Option.

5. Election Periods Affected by the Outbreak Period

The second paragraph of the Section of the Benefits Program Overview entitled "Changing and Continuing Elections" is modified to read as follows:

You must contact a customer service associate at the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320 to request a change in election within 31 days of the date of the qualified life event (or 60 days, in the case of certain HIPAA special enrollment events discussed below). Please note, however, that the 31-day period will be extended for a limited period of time. More specifically, the portion of the Outbreak Period (defined above) that is before January 1, 2021 will be disregarded in calculating the 31-day period. Also, for qualified life events that are also HIPAA special enrollment events, the Outbreak Period both before and after January 1, 2021 will be disregarded.

6. Additional Clarification of Time Period Within Which to Change Elections

The following text box is added to the end of the Section of the Benefits Program Overview entitled "Changing and Continuing Elections":

Please Note:

If you do not request a change in election within 31 days of your qualified status change or other qualified life event, your next opportunity to change elections will not be until the next annual enrollment period or until you experience another qualified life event; provided, however, the 31-day election period for qualified life events may be extended, in the case of the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, by HIPAA's special enrollment rules or by reason of the Outbreak Period. For example, if you do not enroll an eligible newborn child in Pre-65 Medical Plan coverage within 31 days of the child's birth, as such period may be extended by reason of the Outbreak Period, even if you do not have the child's social security number, your next opportunity to enroll the child will not be until the next annual enrollment period, unless you experience another qualified life event that would permit you to change elections.

7. Coordination of Retiree Medical Plan Benefits with Medicare

The “Coordination of Benefits (COB)” Section of the Benefits Program Overview is amended by adding the following text boxes to the subsection entitled “How Coordination Works with Medicare”:

Please Note:

End-Stage Renal Disease. If you or your covered dependent enroll in Medicare due to end-stage renal disease, and if Medicare is not already paying as primary at the time you or your covered dependent enroll, the Retiree Medical Plan continues to pay as primary during the first 30 months of dialysis or the first 30 months of treatment in connection with a kidney transplant. Thereafter, Medicare generally becomes the primary payor of benefits.

Please Note:

Late Enrollment Penalties for Medicare Parts B and D. If you are eligible for Medicare by reason of age or disability, are no longer in current employment status for purposes of Medicare, and do not enroll in Medicare Part B or Medicare Part D during your initial enrollment period, you may incur significant penalties in the form of higher Medicare premiums when you ultimately do enroll in coverage. For more information concerning Medicare late enrollment penalties, see the Medicare & You publication at <https://www.medicare.gov/medicare-and-you> or contact your local Social Security Administration office.

Please Note:

If you are covered under a Retiree Medical Plan and you, your covered Spouse or your other covered dependents become eligible for Medicare on account of age or receipt of Social Security disability benefits, it is important that you contact the Benefits Source to ensure it has this information, as it may impact how your NiSource medical benefits are processed through coordination with Medicare. You may contact the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

8. Participant Advocacy Service

The “Claim Determination and Appeal Process- Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan” Section of the Benefits Program Overview is modified by adding the following text box to the subsection entitled “Consideration of Initial Claim”:

If You Have Questions

If you have a question or concern regarding a benefit determination, contact the Claims Administrator or the Benefits Source Participant Advocacy service through the Benefits Source toll-free number (1-888-640-3320) for more information.

9. Voluntary External Review by Independent Review Organization

The “Claim Determination and Appeal Process – Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan” Section of the Benefits Program Overview is modified by amending the subsection entitled “Voluntary External Review by an Independent Review Organization” to provide that external review also applies to an adverse benefit determination that involves consideration of whether the Plan is complying with the surprise billing and cost-sharing protections set forth in sections 716 and 717 of ERISA and 29 C.F.R. §§ 2590.716-4 through 2590.715-5 and 2590.717-1. Within five business days following the date your external review request is received, the Claim Administrator will complete a preliminary review of the request to determine, among other things, that the adverse benefit determination or the final adverse benefit determination does not relate to your failure to meet the requirements for eligibility under the terms of the Plan and that it does involve medical judgment, a rescission of coverage, or the Plan’s compliance with the surprise billing and cost-sharing protections set forth in sections 716 and 717 of ERISA and 29 C.F.R. §§ 2590.716-4 through 2590.715-5 and 2590.717-1.

10. Cessation of Survivor Coverage Upon Remarriage or Other Events Involving Surviving Spouse

The “Continuation of Coverage” Section of the of the Benefits Program Overview is modified by amending the subsection entitled “Survivor Coverage” to provide that, if not terminated earlier, survivor coverage under a Retiree Medical Plan ends upon the earliest to occur of certain events, including the date on which the surviving Spouse of a Retiree or Deemed Retiree remarries or enters into a domestic partnership or civil union with another person.

11. COBRA Timeframes Affected by Outbreak Period

The third paragraph of the “COBRA” subsection of the Benefits Program Overview Section entitled “Continuation of Coverage” is modified to read as follows:

Please Note: Notwithstanding the timeframes described below, you may disregard the Outbreak Period in determining (i) the 60-day election period for COBRA continuation coverage, (ii) the date for making COBRA premium payments, and (iii) the date for notifying the Plan of a qualifying event.

12. Clarification Regarding COBRA Coverage.

In the “COBRA” subsection of the Benefits Program Overview Section entitled “Continuation of Coverage,” the first paragraph of the division entitled “What is COBRA Continuation Coverage?” is modified to read as follows:

COBRA continuation coverage is a continuation of Plan coverage when coverage would otherwise end because of a life event known as a “qualifying event.” Specific qualifying events are listed later in this subsection. After a qualifying event, COBRA continuation coverage must be offered to each person who is a “qualified beneficiary.” You, your Spouse (if he or she is treated as a Spouse under the Code), and your dependent children could become qualified beneficiaries on account of coverage under a Plan if coverage under such Plan is lost because of a qualifying event. Under each Plan, qualified beneficiaries who elect COBRA continuation coverage must pay for the cost of such coverage. The cost of coverage is 102 percent of the total premium rate (a two percent administrative cost is added to the actual cost of the coverage). These costs are subject to change.

13. Modification to Description of The Role of the Claims Administrator.

The Section of the of the Benefits Program Overview entitled “The Role of the Claims Administrator” is modified to read as follows:

The Role of the Claims Administrator

With respect to the benefit plans, or portions thereof, that are self-insured, the Committee has retained one or more Claims Administrators to provide claims payment and other administrative services to such plans. Each Claims Administrator has full discretionary authority to decide claims and appeals, and to make determinations of eligibility, for the claims it administers and to interpret and apply the terms of the applicable benefit plan and to make any findings of fact. However, even though a Retiree may receive a benefit check from a Claims Administrator, the Company, a participating employer, or another plan funding vehicle actually pays benefit claims; the Claims Administrator does not pay claims out of its pocket. Although a Claims Administrator may have insurance coverage as part of its business, a Claims Administrator is not an insurer in relation to the benefit plans, or portions thereof, that are self-insured. The self-insured portions of benefit plans are funded from the general assets of the Company, the participating employers, or their affiliates or another lawful funding vehicle that is in place, such as a Voluntary Employees’ Beneficiary Association Trust.

With respect to each fully insured benefit plan, the Claims Administrator is also the Plan’s insurer and has full and absolute discretionary authority to determine eligibility, to decide claims and appeals, and to interpret and apply the terms of such Plan and the underlying insurance contracts as they relate to benefits provided under the Plan and the insurance contracts, and to make any findings of fact, all by virtue of authority delegated to the Claims Administrator by the Committee.

Claims Administrators are identified in the General Program Information section for each benefit plan and are subject to change from time to time.

15. TMJ and Related Disorders.

In the Section of the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD entitled “Highlights of the PPO Option,” in the chart entitled “Deductible, Calendar Year Out-of-Pocket Maximum, Maximum Benefits and Other Plan Benefits,” under the heading “Other Plan Benefits,” the description of benefits for Temporomandibular Joint Dysfunction and Related Medical Disorders is modified to recite that the Plan pays benefits for surgical and non-surgical treatment.

16. Hospice Care.

18. Clarification regarding Co-Payments for Allergy Injections, Serums, and Testing

The disclosures regarding Professional Services (Outpatient) and Allergy Testing in the subsection “Services Provided” of the Section of the Pre-65 Retiree Medical SPD entitled “Highlights of the PPO Option” are modified as follows, to clarify that co-pays do not apply to allergy injections, serums, or testing, unless the Provider bills for an office visit:

TYPE OF SERVICE	In-Network (or out of area)	Out-of-Network
	Plan Pays	Plan Pays
Professional Services (Outpatient)	100%, (after $40 Co-Pay per office visit) (Co-Pay does not apply for allergy injections, serums, or testing, unless Provider bills for office visit)	60% (after deductible)
Allergy Testing	100% (after $40 Co-Pay if Provider bills for office visit)	60% (after deductible)

19. Change to “Maximum Allowed Amount” Section

Effective January 1, 2022, unless otherwise noted, the “Maximum Allowed Amount” Section of the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD is modified to read as follows:

Maximum Allowed Amount

General

This section describes how Anthem, as Claims Administrator for the Plan, determines the amount of reimbursement for services, treatments or supplies covered by the Plan (“Covered Services”). However, this section does not address Covered Services under the Plan for which claims are not administered by Anthem.

Reimbursement for services, treatments or supplies rendered or furnished by In-Network and Out-of-Network Providers is based on the Plan’s Maximum Allowed Amount for the Covered Service that you receive.

The Maximum Allowed Amount is the maximum amount of reimbursement the Claims Administrator will allow for services, treatments and supplies:

- to the extent the cost for such services, treatments and supplies are covered under the Plan and are not excluded;
- that are Medically Necessary; and
- that are provided in accordance with all applicable preauthorization, utilization management or other requirements set forth in the Plan.

You will be required to pay a portion of the Maximum Allowed Amount to the extent you have not met your Deductible or have a Co-Payment or Co-insurance. In addition, except in certain cases involving Surprise Billing Claims (defined below), when you receive Covered Services from an Out-of-Network Provider, you may be responsible for paying any difference between the Maximum Allowed Amount and the Provider’s actual charges. This amount can be significant.

As discussed more fully in the section below entitled “Protection Against Surprise Billing,” Federal law provides protections against “Surprise Billing” or “Balance Billing” in matters involving Surprise Billing Claims. However, in certain cases involving Covered Services furnished by an Out-of-Network Provider at an In-Network Health Care Facility, Health Care Providers may nevertheless retain the right to “balance bill” if they satisfy applicable notice and consent criteria (the “Surprise Billing Notice and Consent Criteria”) established in regulations issued by the United States Department of Health and Human Services.

When you receive Covered Services from a Provider, the Claims Administrator will, to the extent applicable, apply claim processing rules to the claim submitted for those Covered Services. These rules evaluate the claim information and, among other things, determine the accuracy and appropriateness of the procedure and diagnosis codes included in the claim. Applying these rules may affect Claims Administrator's determination of the Maximum Allowed Amount. The Claims Administrator's application of these rules does not mean that the Covered Services you received were not Medically Necessary. It means the Claims Administrator has determined that the claim was submitted inconsistent with procedure coding rules and/or reimbursement policies. For example, your Provider may have submitted the claim using several procedure codes when there is a single procedure code that includes all of the procedures that were performed. When this occurs, the Maximum Allowed Amount will be based on the single procedure code rather than a separate Maximum Allowed Amount for each billed code.

Likewise, when multiple procedures are performed on the same day by the same physician or other healthcare professional, the Plan may reduce the Maximum Allowed Amounts for those secondary and subsequent procedures because reimbursement at 100% of the Maximum Allowed Amount for those procedures would represent duplicative payment for components of the primary procedure that may be considered incidental or inclusive.

Protections Against Surprise Billing

When you get emergency care or get treated by an Out-of-Network Provider at an In-Network Hospital or other Health Care Facility, you are protected from "Surprise Billing" or "Balance Billing".

When you see a doctor or other Health Care Provider, you may owe certain out-of-pocket costs, such as a Co-Payment, Coinsurance, and/or a Deductible. In addition, you may have other costs or may have to pay the entire bill if you see a Health Care Provider or visit a Health Care Facility that isn't in the Plan's network.

Out-of-Network Providers may be permitted to bill you for the difference between what the Plan agreed to pay and the full amount charged for a service. This is called "Balance Billing." This amount is likely more than In-Network costs for the same service and might not count toward your annual out-of-pocket limit.

"Surprise Billing" is an unexpected balance bill. This can happen when you can't control who is involved in your care—like when you have an emergency or when you schedule a visit at an In-Network Health Care Facility but are unexpectedly treated by an Out-of-Network Provider.

The No Surprises Act, enacted as part of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2021, provides protection in certain instances against Surprise Billing for claims ("Surprise Billing Claims") related to:

- Emergency Services furnished by Out-of-Network Providers;
- Covered Services furnished by an Out-of-Network Provider at an In-Network Health Care Facility; and
- Out-of-Network Air Ambulance Services.

As noted above, an Out-of-Network Provider may retain the right to balance bill you for Covered Services furnished at an In-Network Health Care Facility if it satisfies the Surprise Billing Notice and Consent Criteria. However, the Surprise Billing Notice and Consent Criteria do not apply to Ancillary Services or to Covered Services furnished as a result of unforeseen, urgent medical needs that arise at the time a Covered Service is furnished. "Ancillary Services" mean (A) Covered Services related to one of the following: (i) Emergency Services; (ii) anesthesiology; (iii) pathology; (iv) radiology; or (v) neonatology, whether provided by a Physician or a non-physician practitioner; (B) Covered Services provided by assistant surgeons, hospitalists, and intensivists; (C) diagnostic services, including radiology and laboratory services; (D) Covered Services provided by an Out-of-Network Health Care Provider if there is not In-Network Health Care Provider who can furnish such Covered Service at such Facility, and (E) any other services described as Ancillary Services in regulations issued by the United States Department of Health and Human Services under the No Surprises Act.

The following paragraphs describe protections available under the No Surprises Act, and regulations thereunder, against Surprise Billing Claims.

Emergency Services

To the extent they are Covered Services under the Plan, Emergency Services shall be covered without the need for pre-certification, regardless of whether the Health Care Provider or Emergency Facility furnishing the Emergency Services is an In-Network Health Care Provider or an In-Network Emergency Facility with respect to the services, without limiting what constitutes an Emergency Medical Condition solely on the basis of diagnosis codes, and regardless of any other term or condition of the coverage, other than, (A) the exclusion or coordination of benefits (to the extent not inconsistent with benefits for an Emergency Medical Condition), (B) an affiliation or waiting period, or (C) applicable cost sharing.

If Emergency Services that are otherwise Covered Services under the Plan are furnished by an Out-of-Network Health Care Provider or an Out-of-Network Emergency Facility, the Plan will provide coverage for such services (A) without imposing any administrative requirement or limitation on coverage that is more restrictive than the requirements or limitations that apply to Emergency Services received from In-Network Health Care Providers and In-Network Emergency Facilities; (B) without imposing cost-sharing requirements that are greater than the requirements that would apply if the services were provided by an In-Network Health Care Provider or an In-Network Emergency Facility, (C) by calculating the cost-sharing requirement as if the total amount that would have been charged for the services by such In-Network Health Care Provider or In-Network Emergency Facility were the recognized amount (as defined in regulations issued under the No Surprises Act) for such services, and (D) by counting any cost-sharing payments made by the covered person with respect to the Emergency Services toward any In-Network Deductible or In-Network out-of-pocket expense limitation in the same manner as if the cost-sharing payments were made with respect to Emergency Services furnished by an In-Network Health Care Provider or In-Network Emergency Facility.

Out-of-Network Non-Emergency Services Provided at an In-Network Health Care Facility

If a covered person receives Covered Services (other than Emergency Services) from an Out-of-Network Health Care Provider at an In-Network Health Care Facility, unless the Out-of-Network Health Care Provider has satisfied the Surprise Billing Notice and Consent Criteria, the Plan (A) shall not impose a cost-sharing requirement for the Covered Services that is greater than the cost-sharing requirement that would apply if the Covered Services had been furnished by an In-Network Health Care Provider, (B) shall calculate the cost-sharing requirements as if the total amount that would have been charged for the Covered Services by the In-Network Health Care Provider were equal to the recognized amount (as defined in regulations issued under the No Surprises Act) for the Covered Services, and (C) shall count any applicable cost-sharing amounts toward the In-Network Deductible and In-Network out-of-pocket expense limitation under the Plan for the plan year in which such amounts were incurred (and the In-Network Deductible and In-Network out-of-pocket expense limitation shall be applied) in the same manner as if such cost-sharing amounts were with respect to items and services furnished by an In-Network Health Care Provider.

The Surprise Billing Notice and Consent Criteria do not apply, and an Out-of-Network Health Care Provider shall always be subject to the prohibitions of the previous paragraph, with respect to Ancillary Services or to Covered Services furnished as a result of unforeseen, urgent medical needs that arise at the time a Covered Service is furnished.

Air Ambulance Services furnished by an Out-of-Network Air Ambulance Provider

If a covered person receives air ambulance services from an Out-of-Network Air Ambulance Provider and if such services would constitute Covered Services if provided by an In-Network Air Ambulance Provider, then (A) cost-sharing requirements with respect to such services shall be the same that would apply if such services were provided by an In-Network Air Ambulance Provider; (B) the cost-sharing requirement must be calculated as if the total amount that would have been charged for the Covered Services by an In-Network Air Ambulance Provider were equal to the lesser of the qualifying payment amount (as determined in accordance with 29 C.F.R. Section 2590.716-6) or the billed amount for such services; and (C) any applicable cost-sharing amounts shall be counted toward the In-Network Deductible and In-Network out-of-pocket expense limitation under the Plan for the plan year in which such amounts were incurred (and the In-Network Deductible and In-Network out-of-pocket expense limitation shall be applied) in the same manner as if such cost-sharing amounts were with respect to items and services furnished by an In-Network Air Ambulance Provider.

Calculation of Cost Sharing

Cost sharing for Covered Services that are Emergency Services, for non-emergency Covered Services received from an Out-of-Network Health Care Provider at an In-Network Health Care Facility, or for Covered Services that are air ambulance services received from an Out-of-Network Air Ambulance Provider will be calculated using the median Plan contract rate paid to In-Network Health Care Providers, In-Network

Facilities, or In-Network Air Ambulance Providers, as the case may be, for the geographic area where the Covered Service is provided.

Cost Sharing if You Relied on Incorrect Health Care Provider Network Information

Anthem is required to confirm the list of In-Network Providers in its Provider Directory every 90 days. If you can show that you received inaccurate information from Anthem that a Provider was In-Network on a particular claim, then you will only be liable for In-Network cost sharing (i.e., Copayments, Deductibles, and/or Coinsurance) for that claim. Your In-Network cost-sharing will be calculated based upon the Maximum Allowed Amount. In addition to your In-Network cost-sharing, the Out-of-Network Provider can also charge you for the difference between the Maximum Allowed Amount and its billed charges, unless your claim is a Surprise Billing Claim and the Provider has not satisfied the Surprise Billing Notice and Consent Criteria.

Provider Network Status

The Maximum Allowed Amount may vary depending upon whether the Provider is an In-Network Provider or an Out-of-Network Provider.

For Covered Services performed by an In-Network Provider, the Maximum Allowed Amount for the Plan is the rate the Provider has agreed with the Claims Administrator to accept as reimbursement for the Covered Services. Because In-Network Providers have agreed to accept the Maximum Allowed Amount as payment in full for those Covered Services, they should not send you a bill or collect for amounts above the Maximum Allowed Amount. However, you may receive a bill or be asked to pay all or a portion of the Maximum Allowed Amount to the extent you have not met your Deductible or have a Co-Payment or Co-insurance. Please call an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card for help in finding an In-Network Provider or visit the Claims Administrator's website at anthem.com.

Subject to the protections against Surprise Billing described above, for Covered Services you receive from an Out-of-Network Provider, the Maximum Allowed Amount for the Plan will be one of the following as determined by the Claims Administrator:

- An amount based on the Claims Administrator's Out-of-Network Provider fee schedule/rate, which the Claims Administrator has established in its discretion, and which the Claims Administrator reserves the right to modify from time to time, after considering one or more of the following: reimbursement amounts accepted by like/similar providers contracted with the Claims Administrator, reimbursement amounts paid by the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services ("CMS") for the same services or supplies, and other industry cost, reimbursement and utilization data; or
- An amount based on reimbursement or cost information from CMS. When basing the Maximum Allowed amount upon the level or method of reimbursement used by CMS, the Claims Administrator will update such information, which is unadjusted for geographic locality, no less than annually; or
- An amount based on information provided by a third party vendor, which may reflect one or more of the following factors: (1) the complexity or severity of treatment; (2) level of skill and experience required for the treatment; or (3) comparable providers' fees and costs to deliver care; or
- An amount negotiated by the Claims Administrator or a third party vendor which has been agreed to by the Provider. This may include rates for services coordinated through case management; or
- An amount based on or derived from the total charges billed by the Out-of-Network Provider.

Special Continuity of Care Provisions When Contract with In-Network Provider or Facility is Terminated

Notwithstanding the previous paragraph, the following provisions shall apply to ensure continuity of care when terminations of Provider contractual relationships result in changes in Provider Network status.

Circumstances Where Continuity of Care Provisions Apply

If, while a covered person is a Continuing Care Patient (as defined below) with respect to an In-Network Health Care Provider or In-Network Facility, (i) the contractual relationship between such Provider and the Plan is terminated, or (ii) benefits provided under the Plan with respect to such Provider are terminated because of a change in the terms of the participation of the Provider in the Plan, then the Plan shall satisfy the requirements of the immediately following paragraph.

Continuity of Care Provisions

The requirements of this paragraph are that the Plan shall

- (i) Notify on a timely basis each covered person who is a Continuing Care Patient with respect to an In-Network Health Care Provider or In-Network Facility at the time of a termination described in the paragraph immediately above of such termination and of such covered person's right to elect continued transitional care from such Provider under these continuity of care provisions;
- (ii) Provide each covered person referred to in the paragraph immediately above with an opportunity to notify the Plan of the covered person's need for transitional care; and
- (iii) Permit the covered person to elect to continue to have benefits provided under the Plan under the same terms and conditions as would have applied and with respect to such items and services as would have been covered under the Plan had such termination not occurred, with respect to the course of treatment furnished by such In-Network Health Care Provider or In-Network Facility relating to such covered person's status as a Continuing Care Patient during the period beginning on the date on which the notice under clause (i) is provided and ending on the earlier of (x) the end of the 90-day period beginning on such date; or (y) the date on which such covered person is no longer a Continuing Care Patient with respect to such Provider.

Definitions Applicable to Continuity of Care Provisions

The terms used above to describe the special continuity of care provisions have the following meanings:

"Continuing Care Patient" means a covered person who, with respect to an In-Network Health Care Provider or In-Network Facility (1) is undergoing a course of treatment for a Serious and Complex Condition (defined below) from such Provider; (2) is undergoing a course of institutional or inpatient care from such Provider; (3) is scheduled to undergo non-elective surgery from such Provider, including receipt of post-operative care from such Provider with respect to such a surgery; (4) is pregnant and undergoing a course of treatment for the pregnancy from the Provider; or (5) is or was determined to be terminally ill (as determined under section 1861(dd)(3)(A) of the Social Security Act) and is receiving treatment for such illness from such Provider.

"Serious and Complex Condition" means (1) in the case of an acute illness, a condition that is serious enough to require specialized medical treatment to avoid the reasonable possibility of death or permanent harm; or (2) in the case of a chronic illness or condition, a condition that (x) is life-threatening, degenerative, potentially disabling, or congenital; and (y) requires specialized medical care over a prolonged period of time.

"Terminated" includes, with respect to a contract, the expiration or nonrenewal of the contract, but does not include a termination of the contract for failure to meet applicable quality standards or for fraud.

Providers who are not contracted for the Plan, but contracted for other benefit plans with the Claims Administrator are also considered Out-of-Network. For the Plan, subject to the protections against Surprise Billing described above, the Maximum Allowed Amount for services from these Providers will be one of the five methods shown above unless the contract between the Claims Administrator and that Provider specifies a different amount.

For Covered Services rendered outside the Claims Administrator's service area by Out-of-Network Providers, claims may be priced using the local Blue Cross Blue Shield plan's non-participating Provider fee schedule/rate or the pricing arrangements required by applicable state or Federal law. Subject to the protections against Surprise Billing described above, in certain situations, the Maximum Allowed Amount for out of area claims may be based on billed charges, the pricing the Plan would use if the healthcare services had been obtained within the Claims Administrator's service area, or a special negotiated price.

Unlike In-Network Providers, subject to the protections against Surprise Billing described above, Out-of-Network Providers may send you a bill and collect for the amount of the Provider's charge that exceeds the Plan's Maximum Allowed Amount and you will be responsible for paying the difference between the Maximum Allowed Amount and the amount the Out-of-Network Provider charges. This amount can be significant. Choosing an In-Network Provider will likely result in lower out-of-pocket costs to you. Please call an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card for help in finding an In-Network Provider or visit the Claims Administrator's website at anthem.com.

An Anthem customer service associate is also available to assist you in determining the Plan's Maximum Allowed Amount for a particular service from an Out-of-Network Provider. In order for the Claims Administrator to assist you, you will need to obtain from your Provider the specific procedure code(s) and diagnosis code(s) for the services the Provider will render. You will also need to know the Provider's charges to calculate your out-of-pocket responsibility. Although an Anthem customer service associate can assist you with this pre-service information, the final Maximum Allowed Amount for your claim will be based on the actual claim submitted by the Provider.

For Prescription Drugs Obtained through the HDPPO

For prescription drugs obtained under an HDPPO Option, the Maximum Allowed Amount is the amount determined by the Claims Administrator using prescription drug cost information provided by the PBM for that Option.

Participant Cost Share

For certain Covered Services and depending on your plan design, you may be required to pay a part of the Maximum Allowed Amount as your cost share amount (for example, Deductible, Co-Payment, and/or Co-insurance).

Your cost share amount and out-of-pocket limits may vary depending on whether you received services from an In-Network or Out-of-Network Provider. Specifically, subject to the protections against Surprise Billing described above, you may be required to pay higher cost sharing amounts or may have limits on your benefits when using Out-of-Network Providers. Please see the Highlights of the PPO Option, Highlights of the HDPPO 1 and HDPPO 2 Options, and Highlights of Your Prescription Drug Coverage in the HDPPO 1 and HDPPO 2 Options sections in this Medical Plan SPD for your cost share responsibilities and limitations in the Plan, or call an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card to learn how the Plan's benefits or cost share amounts may vary by the type of Provider you use.

Special Cost-Sharing Provisions during Public Health Emergency

During any portion of the emergency period defined in paragraph (1)(B) of section 1135(g) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1320b-5(g)), beginning on or after March 18, 2020 (the "Public Health Emergency Period"), the Medical Plan will provide coverage of the following items and services without any cost sharing requirements or prior authorization or other medical management requirements, to the extent (i) required by applicable law, (ii) medically appropriate for you, as determined by your attending health care provider in accordance with accepted standards of current medical practice, and (iii) ordered by your attending healthcare provider:

(a) An in vitro diagnostic test as defined in section 809.3 of title 21, Code of Federal Regulations, (or its successor regulations) for the detection of SARS-CoV-2 or the diagnosis of COVID-19, and the administration of such a test, that—

- (1) is approved, cleared, or authorized under section 510(k), 513, 515, or 564 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21 U.S.C. §§ 360(k), 360c, 360e, 360bbb-3);
- (2) the developer has requested, or intends to request, emergency use authorization under section 564 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21 U.S.C. 360bbb-3), unless and until the emergency use authorization request under such section 564 has been denied or the developer of such test does not submit a request under such section within a reasonable timeframe;
- (3) is developed in and authorized by a State that has notified the Secretary of HHS of its intention to review tests intended to diagnose COVID-19; or
- (4) other tests that the Secretary of HHS determines appropriate in guidance.

The criteria described in subsections (a)(1) through (a)(4) above are referred to as the "COVID-19 Test Statutory Criteria."

(b) Items and services furnished to an individual during healthcare provider office visits (which includes in-person visits and telehealth visits), urgent care center visits, and emergency room visits that result in an order for or administration of an in vitro diagnostic product described in paragraph (a), but only to the extent the items and services relate to the furnishing or administration of the product or to the evaluation of the individual for purposes of determining the need of the individual for such product.

Reimbursement of Out-of-Network Providers furnishing any of the foregoing items or services shall not exceed an amount that equals the cash price for such service as listed by the Provider on a public internet website.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, effective January 15, 2022, and continuing during the Public Health Emergency Period, to the extent required by law and subject to the terms and conditions of this paragraph, the Plan shall reimburse a covered participant for the cost of over-the-counter COVID-19 tests purchased by or for the benefit of a covered person, up to the Monthly Limit, that meet the COVID-19 Test Statutory Criteria ("OTC COVID-19 Tests") and that do not require a health care providers' order under the applicable FDA authorization, clearance, or approval. Such reimbursement shall be provided without any cost-sharing requirements or prior authorization or other medical management requirements, and without an individualized clinical assessment or the involvement of a health care provider. The "Monthly Limit" is eight OTC COVID-19 Tests per covered person purchased in any one calendar month. To obtain reimbursement for the cost of OTC COVID-19 Tests purchased by or on behalf of a covered person, a covered participant must submit to the Claims Administrator a claim for reimbursement, in the time and manner prescribed by the Claim Administrator, and must satisfy all requirements established by the Claims Administrator for reimbursement, including submission of any required certifications, attestations, and proofs of purchase with each claim for reimbursement, all to the satisfaction of the Claims Administrator. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, shipping costs are not reimbursable.

The Plan will not provide any reimbursement for non-Covered Services. You may be responsible for the total amount billed by your Provider for non-Covered Services, regardless of whether such services are performed by an In-Network or an Out-of-Network Provider. Non-Covered Services include services specifically excluded from coverage by the terms of the Medical Plan SPD and services received after benefits have been exhausted. Benefits may be exhausted by exceeding, for example, benefit caps or day/visit limits.

The Claims Administrator and/or its designated PBM may receive discounts, rebates, or other funds from drug manufacturers, wholesalers, distributors, and/or similar vendors, which may be related to certain prescription drug purchases under this Plan and which positively impact the cost effectiveness of Covered Services. These amounts are retained by the Claims Administrator. These amounts will not be applied to your Deductible, if any, or taken into account in determining your Copayment or Coinsurance.

Authorized Services

In some circumstances, such as where there is no In-Network Provider available for the Covered Service, the Plan may authorize the In-Network cost share amounts (Deductible, Co-Payment, and/or Co-insurance) to apply to a claim for a Covered Service you receive from an Out-of-Network Provider. In such circumstance, you must contact the Claims Administrator in advance of obtaining the Covered Service. Subject to the protections against Surprise Billing described above, if the Plan authorizes an In-Network cost share amount to apply to a Covered Service received from an Out-of-Network Provider, you also may still be liable for the difference between the Maximum Allowed Amount and the Out-of-Network Provider's charge. Please contact an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card for Authorized Services information or to request authorization.

20. End of Public Health Emergency Period

The Public Health Emergency Period, described in item 19 above in the section entitled "Special Cost-Sharing Provisions during Public Health Emergency," expired as of the end of the day on May 11, 2023. As a result of the expiration of the Public Health Emergency Period, the special cost sharing provisions that were in effect during that Period and that are described in the section of item 19 entitled “Special Cost-Sharing Provisions during Public Health Emergency” no longer apply on and after May 12, 2023.

21. Coverage of Colonoscopy as a Recommended Preventive Health Service

The fourth paragraph of the “Preventive Health Services - Generally” subsection of the Section of the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD entitled “Medical Expenses Covered,” is revised to read as follows:

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, if performed as a preventive care service or screening, the Plan pays benefits for one in-network colonoscopy per covered person per calendar year, and one in-network mammography per covered person per calendar year with no Deductible, Co-Insurance or Co-Payment requirement, notwithstanding that any treatment incidental or ancillary to such service or screening (such as the removal of polyps during a diagnostic colonoscopy) is also performed during such service or screening. For the avoidance of doubt, a colonoscopy conducted after a positive non-invasive stool-based screening test or direct visualization screening test for colorectal cancer for individuals described in United States Preventive Services Task Force recommendations is a recommended preventive health service under the Plan

22. Maternity and Infertility

In the “Maternity and Infertility” subsection of the Section of the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD entitled “Medical Expenses Covered,” the following text box is added:

Please Note:

If you do not enroll an eligible newborn child in the Plan within 31 days of the child’s birth, as such time period may be extended by the Outbreak Period, your next opportunity to enroll the child will not be until the next annual enrollment period or until you experience another qualified life event that permits you to enroll the child.

23. Addition of Travel Expense Benefit

Effective January 1, 2023, the “Other Covered Services” subsection of the Section of the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD entitled “Medical Expenses Covered” is modified by adding the following concerning a new travel expense benefit offered by the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan:

- Travel Expense Benefit. For the PPO and HDPPPO Options only, the Plan pays the reasonable and necessary transportation and lodging expenses, as determined by the Plan Administrator in its discretion, that are associated with a covered person obtaining any Covered Service and that satisfy each of the following conditions
 - the Plan Administrator determines that the Covered Service cannot be obtained from an In-Network Provider located within a 100-mile radius of the covered person’s residence;
 - the transportation and lodging expenses are primarily for, and essential to, medical care, as defined in Code Section 213(d);

- the lodging expenses are limited to $50 per night for the covered person receiving the Covered Service and $50 per night for a person traveling with such covered person, and meet each of the following requirements: (i) the medical care is provided by a physician in a licensed Hospital (or in a medical care facility that is related to, or the equivalent of, a licensed Hospital); (ii) the lodging is not lavish or extravagant under the circumstances; and (iii) there is no significant element of personal pleasure, recreation, or vacation in the travel away from home;
- the transportation and lodging expenses would be treated under Code Section 213(d) as amounts paid for medical care; and
- the transportation and lodging expenses associated with a particular Covered Service during the Plan Year do not in the aggregate exceed $3,500.

You must furnish the Plan Administrator, in a form and manner prescribed by the Plan Administrator, any evidence it may require to substantiate the transportation and lodging expenses for which you seek reimbursement. For the avoidance of doubt, the travel expense benefit is subject to the annual Deductible provisions of the PPO and HDPPO Options.

24. Contact Information for Determining Whether Medical Expense is Covered

The last paragraph of the Section of the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD entitled “Medical Expenses Covered” is revised to read as follows:

To confirm if an expense is eligible for reimbursement, contact an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card.

25. Expenses Not Covered Under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

The section of the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD entitled “Medical Expenses Not Covered” is revised to read as follows:

Medical Expenses Not Covered

Expenses Not Covered Under Medical Plan

The medical expenses not covered under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan include, but may not be limited to, the following:

Notwithstanding any other provision of the Plan, if a covered person is a "qualified individual," as defined in Section 2709 of the Affordable Care Act, the Plan will not (i) deny such person's participation in an "approved clinical trial," as also defined in Section 2709, (ii) deny (or limit or impose additional conditions on) coverage of routine patient costs for items and services furnished in connection with participation in such trial, or (iii) discriminate against such person on the basis of his or her participation in the trial. If an In-Network Provider is participating in the approved clinical trial, the Plan may require participation in the trial through such In-Network Provider, if the Provider will accept the covered person as a participant in the trial;
- Services, treatment or supplies not generally accepted in medical practice for the prevention, diagnosis or treatment of a Sickness or Injury, as determined by the Claims Administrator;
- Foot care only to improve comfort or appearance, routine care of corns, bunions (except capsular or related surgery), calluses, toe nails (except surgical removal or care rendered as treatment of the diabetic foot or ingrown toenail), flat feet, fallen arches, weak feet, chronic foot strain, or asymptomatic complaints related to the feet. - Care, supplies, or equipment not Medically Necessary, as determined by the Claims Administrator, for the treatment of an Injury or Sickness. This includes, but is not limited to, care which does not meet the Claims Administrator's medical policy, clinical coverage guidelines, or benefit policy guidelines;
- Vitamins, minerals and food supplements, as well as vitamin injections not determined to be Medically Necessary in the treatment of a specific Sickness. Nutritional supplements; services, supplies and/or nutritional sustenance products (food) related to enteral feeding, except when determined to be Medically Necessary;
- Services for Hospital confinement primarily for diagnostic studies;
- Cosmetic surgery, reconstructive surgery, pharmacological services, nutritional regimens or other services for beautification, or treatment relating to the consequences of, or as a result of, cosmetic surgery, except for reconstructive surgery following a mastectomy or when Medically Necessary to correct damage caused by an accident, an Injury or to correct a congenital defect;

Please contact the Claims Administrator with questions regarding those medical expenses not covered.

To confirm if an expense is eligible for reimbursement, contact an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card.

26. Quantity Limit Management Program – PPO Option

The third paragraph of the Section of the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD entitled "How Your Prescription Drug Coverage Works in the PPO," regarding the quantity limit and dose optimization programs, is modified to delete reference to the dose optimization program and to read in its entirety as follows:

The PPO coverage option utilizes a Quantity Limit Management program for certain prescription drugs. This program limits the amount of medicine that's covered by your plan for a certain length of time. For example, a drug may have a limit of 30 pills per 30 days. If you refill a prescription too soon or your doctor prescribes an amount that's higher than usual, your pharmacist will tell you. Taking too much medicine or using it too often is dangerous and costly. That's why this program may limit how much of your medicine you can get each month. For a list of the drugs included in this program, please contact Anthem at the number on the back of your ID card. Since the drug list is updated on a regular basis, you can always find the most current details and covered quantity limits when you log in at anthem.com.

27. Covered Preventive Prescription Drug Benefits and Availability of Drug Cost Share Assistance Programs

The Section of the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD entitled “How Your Prescription Drug Coverage Works in the PPO” is modified by adding the following information regarding preventive prescription drug benefits and the availability of drug cost share assistance programs:

The Plan provides a PreventiveRx benefit that covers certain prescription drugs designated by the Claims Administrator and that are in addition to those prescription drugs required by to be covered under the Plan as recommended preventive health services. The PreventiveRx benefit waives Co-Payments, Co-Insurance, and Deductibles for such prescription drugs designated by the Claims Administrator.

If you qualify for certain non-needs based prescription drug cost share assistance programs offered by prescription drug manufacturers (either directly or indirectly through third parties) to reduce the Deductible, Co-Payment, or Co-Insurance you pay for certain specialty drugs, the reduced amount you pay may be the amount applied to the Deductible and/or Out-of-Pocket Expense Limitation. In addition, the Plan may also enroll you in a cost-relief program that allows for further reduction of costs. Participation in the cost-relief program is voluntary. If you currently take one or more prescription drugs included in the cost-relief program, the Plan will either automatically enroll you in the program or contact you to advise of the steps needed to enroll. Regardless of whether you enroll in the cost-relief program, any non-needs based cost-share assistance received will not accumulate to the applicable Deductible or out-of-pocket expense limitation. You may opt out of any drug cost-share assistance program, in which case you will be responsible for a portion of the cost of the specialty drug. Such portion will depend on the specialty drug prescribed and the level of cost share assistance that would have been available under the cost-relief program, but will not be more than 50% of the Maximum Allowed Amount. Because certain specialty drugs are not classified as “essential health benefits” under the Plan in accordance with the Affordable Care Act, cost-share payments for these specialty drugs do not count toward the Plan’s Deductible or out-of-pocket expense limitation. An exception process is available for determining whether a specialty drug that is not an essential health benefit is Medically Necessary for you.

28. Agreement with PBM – PPO Option

The Section of the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD entitled “How Your Prescription Drug Coverage Works in the PPO” is modified by adding the following information regarding an agreement between the Plan and the PBM:

The Plan and the PBM have an agreement whereby the PBM periodically makes refunds to the Plan based upon the Plan’s actual utilization pattern of specific drugs. The Plan retains these amounts.

29. Agreement with PBM – HDPPO Options

The Section of the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD entitled “How Your Prescription Drug Coverage Works in the High Deductible Options” is modified by adding the following information regarding an agreement between the Plan and the PBM:

The Plan and the PBM have an agreement whereby the PBM periodically makes refunds to the Plan based upon the Plan’s actual utilization pattern of specific drugs. The Plan retains these amounts.

30. Quantity Limit Management Program – HDPPO Options

In the Section of the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD entitled “How Your Prescription Drug Coverage Works in the High Deductible Options,” the following paragraph is added to describe the quantity limit management program:

The High Deductible Options utilize a Quantity Limit Management program for certain prescription drugs. This program limits the amount of medicine that's covered by your plan for a certain length of time. For example, a drug may have a limit of 30 pills per 30 days. If you refill a prescription too soon or your doctor prescribes an amount that's higher than usual, your pharmacist will tell you. Taking too much medicine or using it too often is dangerous and costly. That's why this program may limit how much of your medicine you can get each month. For a list of the drugs included in this program, please contact Anthem at the number on the back of your ID card. Since the drug list is updated on a regular basis, you can always find the most current details and covered quantity limits when you log in at anthem.com.

31. Clinical Prior Authorization Program for High Deductible Options

In the Section of the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD entitled "How Your Prescription Drug Coverage Works in the High Deductible Options," the following paragraph is added to describe the clinical prior authorization program:

The High Deductible Options utilize a clinical prior authorization (CPA) program. CPA simply means you must get approval from Anthem before certain prescription drugs will be covered under the Plan. The CPA program reviews the use of certain very costly drugs, certain drugs that could be abused by the patient, and drugs that might not be the best choice for the patient's health problem. To see if the CPA program applies to a particular drug prescribed for you, contact Anthem toll-free at 1-800-228-2891.

32. General Program Information – Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD

The General Program Information Section of the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD is modified to note that benefits under any HMO Option are underwritten by the insurer. You should review the SPD furnished by the insurer of an HMO Option for general information concerning such Option, including any matters involving administration of the Option.

CHANGES TO NISOURCE LIFE INSURANCE PLAN ("RETIREE LIFE INSURANCE PLAN") SPD

The following changes are made to the Retire Life Insurance Plan SPD section of the Handbook:

33. No Assignment of Retiree Life Insurance

The last paragraph of the Section of your Retiree Life Insurance Plan SPD entitled "Beneficiaries and Assignments" is modified to read as follows:

34. No Conversion Right if Life Coverage Terminates Because of Failure to Make Premium Contributions

The third paragraph of the Section of your Retiree Life Insurance Plan SPD entitled "Conversion Privilege for Life Coverage" is modified to read as follows:

Neither the conversion right nor the limited conversion right is available if your coverage under the Plan or Group Contract terminates due to failure to make, when due, required premium contributions. Under both the conversion right and the limited conversion right, you may convert your insurance to any type of individual policy of life insurance then customarily issued by Securian for purposes of conversion, except term insurance. The individual policy will not include any supplemental benefits, including, but not limited to, any disability benefits, accidental death and dismemberment benefits, or accelerated benefits.

35. Filing a Claim

The Section of your Retiree Life Insurance Plan SPD entitled “Filing a Claim” is modified to read as follows:

If you have a claim, you should obtain a claim form and follow the instructions on the form.

*Claim forms are available from Securian. Claim forms can be obtained from Securian by phone via the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320, or online via the Benefits Source website at mysourceforhr.com. Benefits Program Overview

The Benefit of Choice – An Introduction to the Program

The benefit information contained in this Handbook applies to eligible retired employees (A) who were (i) former full-time exempt employees who retired from employment with NiSource Inc. ("NiSource" or the "Company") or a participating employer (the Company and each participating employer, an "Employer") on or after February 1, 2004, and before February 1, 2006, or (ii) former full-time non-union non-exempt employees of an Employer who were hired or rehired before January 1, 2013, and who retired from an Employer on or after February 1, 2004, and (B) who are covered under one or more of the NiSource Life and Medical Benefits Program and the NiSource Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan (collectively, the "Program"), or various component benefit plans of the foregoing. For Program recordkeeping purposes, the Plan Administrator, in its discretion, has designated such eligible retirees as belonging to Retiree Benefit Program 101.

A participating employer with respect to any particular benefit coverage under the Program is an affiliate of the Company that has adopted, or is deemed to have adopted, such benefit coverage, as provided in the plan documents governing such coverage. The NiSource Benefits Committee (the "Committee") has sole discretion to determine who is a participating employer.

This Handbook serves as the Summary Plan Descriptions ("SPDs") for the benefit plans as of January 1, 2021. It completely replaces any SPDs or summaries of material modifications that you have previously received with respect to the benefits described herein. The information enclosed has been prepared to summarize the benefits in an easy to understand format and is not intended to replace or supersede the official plan documents. The official plan documents are the governing documents in the event that questions arise or if there is a conflict between an SPD or any oral communication, on the one hand, and an official plan document, on the other hand. The Committee reserves the right to terminate, change or modify any plan provision at any time without the consent of, or advance notice to, you or your covered dependents, subject to the provisions of any applicable collective bargaining agreement.

The Program, or a portion thereof, also covers the following classes of employees, although benefits for such classes of employees are described in separate Handbooks and not herein: full-time exempt employees; part-time exempt employees; full-time non-exempt employees; part-time non-exempt employees; full-time employees who are members of certain collective bargaining units; part-time employees who are members of certain collective bargaining units; retirees who formerly were employees described in certain of the foregoing classes; and certain temporary work force and/or part-time status employees

Determinations of medical necessity or what is "Medically Necessary" are made by the Plan Administrator in its sole and absolute discretion.

Definitions Applicable to Retiree Medical Plans and Retiree Life Insurance Plan

Unless otherwise defined in the applicable individual benefit plan section of this Handbook, as used in this Benefits Program Overview, and for purposes of the Retiree Medical Plans and the Retiree Life Insurance Plan, the following terms when used in this Handbook shall have the following meanings:

"Bridged Retiree" means a Retiree who retired from an Employer on and after January 1, 2018, after having attained age 50 and 5 Eligibility Years of Service, if the Employer (A) determines in its discretion that such employee's termination of employment was in connection with the Customer Value Initiative adopted by the Employer or was in connection with a similar program or initiative adopted by the Employer in which it determined to make retiree welfare benefit eligibility available, and (B) enters into a written agreement with such former employee that expressly provides for retiree welfare benefit eligibility, provided that such person's eligibility for benefits under the Plan as a 'Retiree' shall commence no earlier than his or her Retiree Eligibility Date.

"Eligibility Years of Service" means the total number of years of active employment with NiSource or an affiliate that you completed, as calculated as of the date of your retirement and as determined by the Plan Administrator in its sole and absolute discretion.

"ERISA" means the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended.

"Outbreak Period" means the period beginning March 1, 2020, and ending 60 days after (A) the announced end of the national emergency declared in (i) that certain Proclamation on Declaring a National Emergency Concerning the Novel Coronavirus Disease (COVID-19) Outbreak issued on March 13, 2020 by President Trump and (ii) that separate letter dated March 13, 2020, from President Trump to the Secretaries of the Departments of Homeland Security, the Treasury, and Health and Human Services and the Administrator of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, in which the President made a determination, under section 501(b) of the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Act that a national emergency exists nationwide beginning March 1, 2020, as a result of the COVID-19 outbreak, or (B) such other date announced by the Employee Benefits Security Administration, Department of Labor, Internal Revenue Service, and Department of the Treasury in a future notice; provided, however, that such period shall be subject to the statutory duration limitation in ERISA Section 518 and Code Section 7508A.

"Plan Administrator" means the NiSource Benefits Committee, and any person or entity to whom the committee has from time to time delegated authority to carry out the administrative functions of a Plan.

"Retiree" means

(i) a former full-time exempt employee of an Employer, who retired from an Employer on or after February 1, 2004, and before February 1, 2006, in accordance with a plan or procedure adopted by the Employer, after having attained age 55 and 10 Eligibility Years of Service; or

- (ii) a former full-time non-union non-exempt employee of an Employer who was hired or rehired before January 1, 2013, and who retired from an Employer
- (x) on or after February 1, 2004, in accordance with a plan or procedure adopted by the Employer, after having attained age 55 and 10 Eligibility Years of Service, or
- (y) on or after January 1, 2018, after having attained age 50 and 5 Eligibility Years of Service, if the Employer (A) determines in its discretion that such employee's termination of employment was in connection with the Customer Value Initiative adopted by the Employer or was in connection with a similar program or initiative adopted by the Employer in which it determined to make retiree welfare benefit eligibility available, and (B) enters into a written agreement with such former employee that expressly provides for retiree welfare benefit eligibility, provided that such person's eligibility for benefits under the Plan as a 'Retiree' shall commence no earlier than his or her Retiree Eligibility Date.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, the term "Retiree" shall not include a person the Plan Administrator determines, in its discretion, belongs to a Retiree Benefit Program other than Retiree Benefit Program 101. (Retiree Benefit Programs are groupings, established by the Plan Administrator for recordkeeping purposes, of similarly situated retirees who are entitled to retiree medical benefits or retiree life and AD&D benefits at retirement.)

"Retiree Eligibility Date" means, solely with respect to a Bridged Retiree, the later of (i) the date such Retiree attains age 55, and (ii) the date such Retiree would have attained 10 Eligibility Years of Service had his or her employment not been terminated.

Eligibility

General Information Concerning Eligibility

You and your eligible dependents (as defined below or in the applicable individual benefit plan sections of this Handbook) will be eligible to participate in the benefit plans when and to the extent provided under the applicable benefit plan. Generally, you and your eligible dependents will be eligible to elect to participate in the benefit plans on the later of (i) the date of your retirement, and (ii) your Retiree Eligibility Date.

A Retiree (other than a Safety Plan Rehire) who is rehired by an Employer shall lose eligibility for coverage as a Retiree under the Retiree Medical Plans and the Retiree Life Insurance Plan (and shall not be eligible for such coverage upon his or her subsequent retirement), but may be eligible for coverage under the NiSource Consolidated Flex Medical Plan and the NiSource Life Insurance Plan as an employee, subject to the terms and conditions for employee coverage under those benefit plans.

A "Safety Plan Rehire" is a Retiree who is rehired by Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc. after January 1, 2019 to support the construction activities associated with regulator station replacement in conjunction with the LP-Enhanced Safety Plan and natural gas system replacement projects. Upon retirement from Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., a Safety Plan Rehire shall once more be eligible for retiree medical benefits under the applicable Retiree Medical Plan and shall be treated as a member of the Covered Retiree Group to which he or she belonged immediately prior to being rehired by Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc. A "Covered Retiree Group" is a group of similarly situated employees that is entitled to retiree medical benefits or retiree life and AD&D benefits at retirement, as determined by the Plan Administrator in its absolute discretion.

Please Note: It is your responsibility to advise the Benefits Source when a person is no longer eligible for coverage as a dependent under a benefit plan. Any amounts paid by a benefit plan on behalf of a person who is no longer an eligible dependent will be required to be repaid to the plan. Enrollment of, or failure to disenroll, a person who does not satisfy the eligibility requirements for coverage under a benefit plan will be deemed to constitute fraud or intentional misrepresentation of a material fact and may result in retroactive termination of benefits and required repayment of any ineligible expenses. Also, enrollment of a dependent under a benefit plan may be denied or revoked if you fail to provide information or evidence reasonably requested by the Plan Administrator or its designee concerning the dependent's eligibility for coverage under the plan.

Eligibility under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan

Pre-65 Retirees are eligible to participate in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan. Post-65 Retirees are eligible to participate in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan. Provided, however, that your eligibility will not commence before your Retiree Eligibility Date.

If you are a Pre-65 Retiree participating in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or a Post-65 Retiree participating in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, (a) you may cover your eligible dependents under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan if they have not attained age 65, and (b) you may cover your eligible dependents under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan if they have attained age 65.

Your eligible dependents include:

- Your Spouse, provided you are not legally separated;
- With respect to insured Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan coverage that is provided under a policy of health insurance or pursuant to a contract with a health maintenance organization, but only to the extent and for as long as required by applicable state law, your former spouse or your spouse from whom you are legally separated;
- Your child who has not attained 26 years of age;

- Your unmarried child who satisfies the dependency test below and who is incapable of self-sustaining employment due to mental or physical disability if: (1) the child's disability arose before the date dependent status would otherwise have terminated; (2) proof of the child's disability, if requested by the Claims Administrator, is received by the Claims Administrator within 31 days of the date dependent status would otherwise have terminated, (3) the child is dependent upon you for financial support and maintenance, (4) you continue to be covered by the Plan, and (5) the child's disability continues;

Please Note: To maintain coverage, you must furnish proof of your child's disability to the Claims Administrator every three years, or more frequently as requested by the Claims Administrator. If the Claims Administrator determines that you have failed to furnish sufficient proof of your child's disability or if it determines that your child is no longer disabled, coverage for your child will cease.

- Your child who is recognized under any court order, including a Qualified Medical Child Support Order recognized as being legally sufficient, as having a right to participate in the Plan as a dependent (and with respect to the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, who is age 65 or older).

A child satisfies the dependency test for a particular Plan Year if you would be allowed a dependent exemption for such child in computing your federal taxable income for such year, even if the Code provides that the value of such exemption for a particular year is zero. Your child also satisfies the dependency test for a particular Plan Year if (1) such child receives over half of his or her support during the year from his or her parents and is in the custody of one or both parents for more than half of the year, (2) at least one parent would be allowed a dependent exemption for such child in computing such parent's federal taxable income for such year, and (3) the child's parents are divorced, legally separated under a decree of divorce or separate maintenance, legally separated under a written separation agreement, or live apart at all times for the last six months of the year. In making these determinations, you may ignore the child's gross income for such year. You should consult a tax advisor if you have any questions about whether your child satisfies this dependency test.

Please refer to the website mysourceforhr.com, or call the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320 if you are unsure of whether you are eligible to participate in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

Eligibility under the Retiree Life Insurance Plan

As a Retiree, you are eligible to participate in the Retiree Life Insurance Plan. Provided, however, that your eligibility will not commence before your Retiree Eligibility Date. Provided, further, to be eligible for supplemental AD&D coverage for you or your dependents, you must have been enrolled in supplemental AD&D coverage as a full-time employee on your last day of being actively at work.

If you are eligible to participate in the Plan, you may obtain certain coverage for your "eligible dependents." Your "eligible dependents" are:

- Your lawful spouse, provided you are not legally separated; and
- Your unmarried children from live birth to the end of the month in which the unmarried child attains age 26; and

Your "children" include: (1) your natural children, legally adopted children and children placed with you for adoption prior to legal adoption; and (2) each of your stepchildren, foster children, children subject to legal guardianship, grandchildren, and other children who are blood relatives who depend on you for more than fifty percent of their support and maintenance. A child placed with you for adoption prior to legal adoption is considered an eligible dependent from the date of placement for adoption, and is treated as though the child were a newborn child born to you.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, your unmarried children age 26 or older are also eligible if they are physically or mentally incapable of self-support, were incapable of self-support prior to age 26 and are financially dependent on you for more than 50% of their support and maintenance.

Also notwithstanding the foregoing,

- (1) Your spouse is not your "eligible dependent" while on active duty in the armed forces of any country; and
- (2) Your child is not your "eligible dependent" while (a) on active duty in the armed forces of any country; or (b) insured as an employee under the NiSource Life Insurance Plan or the Northern Indiana Public Service Company Employee Life Insurance Plan.

A child will not be considered the "eligible dependent" of more than one employee or retiree. If this would otherwise be the case, the child will be considered the "eligible dependent" of the employee or retiree named in a written agreement of all such employees or retirees filed with the Company. If there is no written agreement, the child will be considered the "eligible dependent" of:

- (1) the employee or retiree who became insured under the Plan with respect to the child while the child was an "eligible dependent" of only that employee or retiree; and otherwise
- (2) the employee or retiree who has the longest continuous service with a participating employer, based on the Company's records.

Enrollment

General Information Concerning Enrollment

When you first become eligible to participate in a benefit plan, and each year during annual enrollment, you have the opportunity to select for you and your eligible dependents, retiree medical coverage and, provided you and your dependents are eligible for such coverage, supplemental AD&D coverage.

You are automatically enrolled for EAP/Work Life/Legal & Financial coverage (even if you elect the No Coverage Option for retiree medical coverage) upon the date you become eligible for such coverage.

Unless you are a Bridged Retiree, you are automatically enrolled for retiree term life insurance coverage upon the date you become eligible for such coverage. See the subsection below entitled "Enrollment in the Retiree Life Insurance Plan" for special provisions concerning enrollment by Bridged Retirees in retiree life insurance coverage.

To enroll in retiree medical coverage, you must log on to the website mysourceforhr.com or call the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320. To enroll in supplemental AD&D coverage, you must use forms approved by Minnesota Life Insurance Company ("Securian"), an affiliate of Securian Financial Group, Inc. You may obtain enrollment forms by contacting the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

Enrollment in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan

Provided you meet the eligibility requirements, as described in the "Eligibility" section above, you and your eligible dependents can participate in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and/or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, as applicable, if you properly enroll or are deemed to have enrolled.

For the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, if you are a newly eligible retiree, you must enroll yourself and any eligible dependents in retiree medical coverage no later than 31 days after the later of (i) the date of your retirement, and (ii) your Retiree Eligibility Date.

For the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, you must enroll yourself and any eligible dependents before 31 days after the later of (i) the date of your retirement, (ii) your Retiree Eligibility Date, and (iii) the date you attain age 65.

In general, once you enroll for (or decline) coverage in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, your elections stay in effect for the entire Plan Year and can only be changed during annual enrollment. However, if you experience a qualified life event, you may enroll or change existing coverage during the year. Please see the "Changing and Continuing Elections" section of this Benefits Program Overview for further details. Also, you may select the "No Coverage" option at any time; however once you select this option, you may select another coverage option only at annual enrollment or in connection with a qualified life event that would permit such change.

With respect to the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, you and your eligible dependents may not enroll in the Medicare Supplement Option if at any time you were enrolled in the MAP Option or MAP-Med Only Option. Similarly, you and your eligible dependents may not enroll in the MAP Option or MAP-Med Only Option if at any time you were enrolled in the Medicare Supplement Option. You may change your enrollment from the MAP Option to the MAP-Med Only Option only at annual enrollment or in connection with a qualified life event that would permit such change. You may not change your enrollment from the MAP Med-Only Option to the MAP Option and you may not enroll in the MAP Option if at any time you or any of your dependents once were enrolled in the MAP-Med Only Option. If you have enrolled your eligible dependent in a Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan option and you subsequently become eligible for coverage under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, you may enroll only in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan coverage option in which your dependent is enrolled or in the "No Coverage" option.

If you enroll in Medicare Part D prescription drug coverage, you may not enroll or remain enrolled in the MAP Option providing prescription drug coverage. If you later lose or drop Medicare Part D coverage, you will not be able to enroll in the MAP Option.

Unless you are a Bridged Retiree, enrollment materials will automatically be sent to you upon your retirement and you will have 31 days after the date you first become eligible for retiree medical coverage to mail your medical plan election form or otherwise to complete enrollment. If you are a Bridged Retiree, you must call the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320 to enroll in coverage within 31 days after your Retiree Eligibility Date. Also, if you never enroll in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan as a Bridged Retiree, you must call the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320 no later than 31 days after you attain age 65 to enroll in coverage under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

Provided you have timely elected coverage at your first opportunity to enroll in retiree medical coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, your benefit plan enrollment will be effective on the later of the first day of the month in which you retire or the first day of the month in which your Retiree Eligibility Date occurs, or in the case of a Pre-65 Retiree who attains age 65, your enrollment in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan will be effective as of the later of the first day of the month in which you attain age 65 or the first day of the month in which your Retiree Eligibility Date occurs. (If you are a Pre-65 Retiree who attains age 65 on the first day of a month, your enrollment in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan will be effective as of the later of the first day of the month immediately preceding the month in which you attain age 65 or the first day of the month in which your Retiree Eligibility Date occurs.) If you fail to enroll in retiree medical coverage at your first opportunity to enroll, your next opportunity to enroll will be in conjunction with the next annual enrollment or upon the occurrence of a qualified life event.

Please Note:

If you are a Bridged Retiree, you will not automatically receive enrollment materials for retiree medical coverage, either at the time of your termination of employment or at your Retiree Eligibility Date. You must contact the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320 as your Retiree Eligibility Date approaches to enroll in retiree medical coverage. If you do not call and enroll in retiree medical coverage within 31 days after your Retiree Eligibility Date, your next opportunity to call and enroll in retiree medical coverage will be at the next annual enrollment or upon the occurrence of a qualified life event. You will not receive any notification of these additional enrollment opportunities.

In the event you fail to enroll in retiree medical coverage at the time of your retirement (including by failing to elect the No Coverage Option), you fail to enroll in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan upon attaining age 65 after your retirement, or you fail to enroll your eligible dependent in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan when he or she attains age 65, the following will take place:

- If you or an eligible dependent are under age 65 you will be deemed to have elected the coverage option and category of coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan that was in place for you and/or your eligible dependent(s) on the date you retired;
- If you are age 65 or over, you will not be covered by any plan for retiree medical benefits as of the date of your retirement or the date you attain age 65; and
- If your eligible dependent is age 65 or over, he or she will not be covered by any plan for retiree medical benefits as of the date he or she attains age 65.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, (i) a Bridged Retiree and his or her eligible dependents may not be enrolled in retiree medical coverage prior to the Bridged Retiree's Retiree Eligibility Date, (ii) a Bridged Retiree who fails to enroll in retiree medical coverage as of his or her Retiree Eligibility Date will be deemed to have elected the No Coverage Option, and (iii) a former employee who was eligible for retiree medical coverage, who terminated employment in connection with the transaction pursuant to which NiSource sold to Eversource Energy certain assets, and Eversource Energy agreed to assume certain obligations and liabilities, of Bay State Gas Company, as determined by the Plan Administrator in its absolute discretion, and who failed to enroll in retiree medical coverage within 31 days after the termination of such employment, will be deemed to have elected the No Coverage Option.

If you are a current Retiree enrolled in retiree medical coverage and you do not make changes during the annual enrollment process, your current benefits, if available, will be maintained.

Please Note:

If you do not enroll in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan within 31 days of your initial eligibility date, your next opportunity to enroll or change elections will not be until the next annual enrollment period or until you experience a qualified life event that would permit your enrollment.

Enrollment in the Retiree Life Insurance Plan

Provided eligibility requirements are met, as described in the section above entitled "Eligibility under the Retiree Life Insurance Plan," you will be enrolled in the Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage Option upon the later of (i) the date of your retirement, (ii) your Retiree Eligibility Date, and (iii) that date you contact the Benefits Source to enroll in the Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage Option in connection with your Retiree Eligibility Date.

Please Note:

If you are a Bridged Retiree, you will not receive enrollment materials for retiree life insurance coverage, either at the time of your termination of employment or at your Retiree Eligibility Date. You must contact the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320 as your Retiree Eligibility Date approaches to enroll in retiree life insurance coverage. If you do not call and enroll in retiree life insurance coverage within 31 days after your Retiree Eligibility Date, you will not be enrolled in coverage until you contact the Benefits Source and request to be enrolled.

For the Supplemental Retiree AD&D Coverage Option and the Dependents AD&D Coverage Option (collectively the "AD&D Coverage Options," and together with the Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage Option, the "Life Insurance Coverage Options"), if you desire coverage as a newly eligible retiree, and provided you meet the eligibility requirements described in the section above entitled "Eligibility under the Retiree Life Insurance Plan," you must enroll in coverage within 31 days of the later of (i) the date of your retirement, or (ii) your Retiree Eligibility Date. To enroll in the Dependents AD&D Coverage Option, you must have also enrolled in the Supplemental Retiree AD&D Coverage Option. If you do not enroll in an AD&D Coverage Option during this initial 31-day period, you will not have any further opportunity to enroll in such coverage. You must enroll using forms approved by Securian. You may obtain enrollment forms by contacting the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320

Special Enrollment Rights and Opportunities

Please see the "Changing and Continuing Elections" subsection of this Benefits Program Overview for details.

Dual Coverages

If you and your dependent(s) (spouse and/or your child) are eligible for Program benefits as active employees or retirees of NiSource or one of its affiliates, any of you may choose coverage either for yourselves only or for yourselves and your eligible dependents. However, for most Program benefits, it is not possible to be covered by more than one NiSource benefit plan of the same type (e.g., more than one medical plan). Also, for most benefit plans, a NiSource active employee or retiree cannot be covered under the benefit plan both as a participant and as a dependent. Likewise, if you and your spouse are both eligible employees or retirees of NiSource or one of its affiliates, either of you may choose to cover your eligible child(ren); however, it is not possible for both of you to cover your child(ren) under the same plan. Double benefits are not available.

If your covered dependent becomes employed by an Employer and either timely elects medical coverage or makes no medical coverage election and is thereby deemed to have elected medical coverage under the NiSource Consolidated Flex Medical Plan, you will be deemed to have requested that coverage for such dependent under a Retiree Medical Plan be dropped.

Coverage under the Program for active employees or for eligible retirees other than the Retirees for whom this Handbook is prepared is described in separate Handbooks and not herein.

Enrollment Pursuant to a Qualified Medical Child Support Order

The Program also provides group health plan coverage for your eligible child pursuant to the terms of a Qualified Medical Child Support Order ("QMCSO"). This may apply even if you do not have legal custody of the child, the child is not dependent on you for support, and regardless of any enrollment restrictions that might otherwise exist for dependent coverage. If the Company or participating employer receives a valid QMCSO and you do not enroll the dependent child, the custodial parent or state agency may enroll the dependent child.

You may obtain, without charge, a copy of the benefit plans' QMCSO procedures from the Company.

Annual Enrollment

Each year, at annual enrollment, you will receive information regarding the benefit plans. Except as noted below, if you do not enroll within the annual enrollment period, your current coverages remain in effect for the upcoming Plan Year, if available, at the applicable rates. You will be advised of any new benefit plans, plans that require enrollment and the deadline date.

In the event your current plan coverage is not available and you fail to elect coverage under another plan that is offered to you, you will be deemed to have elected the default coverage, if applicable. Please see the section above entitled "Enrollment in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan" for further details.

ID Cards

Once you enroll and become a participant, you will receive identification cards for the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan at your home address.

Your ID card should be presented to your provider at the time of service. If additional cards are needed or an ID card is lost, please contact Anthem, in the case of the PPO or HDPPPO options or the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, or, if applicable, your HMO in the case of an HMO option.

Defined Dollar Subsidy for Retiree Medical Coverage

Pre-65 Retirees, Post-65 Retirees and their eligible Spouses are entitled to receive an annual defined dollar subsidy ("Defined Dollar Subsidy") to be credited toward the cost of their retiree medical coverage under a Retiree Medical Plan.

The Defined Dollar Subsidy is determined by multiplying your Defined Dollars Years of Service by a fixed dollar amount established by the Company.

If you and your Spouse are both enrolled in a Retiree Medical Plan, and if you die prior to your Spouse, your surviving Spouse may receive a Defined Dollar Subsidy, to be credited toward the cost of coverage under a Retiree Medical Plan, in the amount to which you would have been entitled had you survived and were the same age as your Spouse.

The Committee reserves the right to terminate, change or modify the Defined Dollar Subsidy at any time without the consent of, or advance notice to, you or your covered dependents.

When Coverage Begins and Ends - General

Please see below or the individual benefit plan sections of this Handbook for a complete description of when the coverage begins and ends with respect to each benefit plan.

Coverage Begins

Generally, coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan may become effective on the later of (1) the date you retire, (2) the first day of the following Plan Year for eligible Retirees who enroll during the annual enrollment period, (3) the date the Plan approves your enrollment based upon a qualified life event, and (4) the date you properly enroll. Provided, however, that if you are a Bridged Retiree, your coverage will not become effective before your Retiree Eligibility Date. Coverage for your eligible dependent under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan may become effective, if you properly enroll him or her, (1) on the date your coverage becomes effective, (2) the first day of the following Plan Year if you enroll your eligible dependent during the annual enrollment period, or (3) on the date the Plan approves his or her enrollment based upon a qualified life event.

Coverage for you under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan may become effective on the later of (1) the date you retire, (2) the first day of the month in which you attain age 65 (or on the first day of the immediately preceding month, if you attain age 65 on the first day of the month), and (3) the date you properly enroll. Provided, however, that if you are a Bridged Retiree, your coverage will not become effective before your Retiree Eligibility Date. Coverage for your eligible dependent under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan may become effective, if you properly enroll him or her, (1) the date your coverage becomes effective, (2) the first day of the following Plan Year if you enroll your eligible dependent during the annual enrollment period, or (3) the date the Plan approves his or her enrollment based upon a qualified life event.

Coverage Ends

Except in the case of your death (in which case coverage ends on the date of your death) or in the case of a divorce or legal separation (in which case coverage for your Spouse ends on the date of divorce or legal separation), coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan will end on the earliest of (i) the date the Plan is terminated, or (ii) the last day of the month in which you and/or your dependent loses eligibility.

Your eligibility generally ends on the earliest of the following dates:

- The date that the Plan is amended to terminate coverage with respect to a Retiree;
- The date a Retiree is no longer eligible for coverage under the Plan, including without limitation as a result of being rehired by an Employer;
- The last date for which any required contribution was made;
- The date the covered Retiree provides notice to the Company of his or her intent to terminate coverage; or
- With respect to the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, the date a Pre-65 Retiree attains age 65.

A dependent's eligibility generally ends on the earliest of the following dates:

- The date the Retiree's coverage ends;
- The last date for which any required contributions for the dependent's coverage was made;
- The date the covered Retiree provides notice to the Company of his or her intent to terminate coverage for such dependent;
- With respect to a Spouse who becomes divorced or legally separated from a Retiree, the date of divorce or legal separation; or
- The end of the month following the date a dependent no longer qualifies as a dependent.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, if coverage for you or your dependents is terminated during a Plan Year for failure to pay required contributions for coverage, you may apply to the NiSource Benefits Department during the same Plan Year to reinstate coverage retroactive to the date of termination. Your application must be in writing and must describe the extenuating circumstances that resulted in your missed payment. The Benefits Department, in its sole and absolute discretion, will determine whether there are sufficient grounds for reinstating coverage. If the Benefits Department makes a favorable determination, you must repay any missed premiums before the end of the Plan Year and before coverage will be reinstated.

Also, notwithstanding the foregoing, if your dependent experiences a COBRA qualifying event, coverage for EAP/Work Life/Legal & Financial will end the day after the expiration of the maximum COBRA continuation coverage period that would otherwise apply to such dependent, if COBRA were to apply to EAP/Work Life/Legal & Financial coverage. For a description of COBRA qualifying events, please see the "COBRA" subsection of the "Continuation of Coverage" section of this Benefits Program Overview

Please see the "Continuation of Coverage" section of this Benefits Program Overview for circumstances under which your coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan may be continued beyond the periods described above.

When Coverage Begins and Ends – Retiree Life Insurance Plan

Coverage Begins

Provided you have satisfied the eligibility and enrollment requirements described above, coverage under the Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage Option may generally become effective upon the later of (i) your retirement from an Employer, and (ii) your Retiree Eligibility Date.

Provided you have satisfied the eligibility and enrollment requirements described above, coverage under the Supplemental Retiree AD&D Coverage Option may generally become effective on the first day on which each of the following conditions are met: (1) you have enrolled for coverage, including, if required, applying for coverage on forms approved by the Claims Administrator, and (2)

the Claims Administrator has received the required premium.

Provided your dependent has satisfied the eligibility requirements described above, coverage under the Dependents AD&D Coverage Option may generally become effective on the first day on which each of the following conditions are met: (1) you have enrolled for dependent coverage, including, if required, applying for coverage on forms approved by the Claims Administrator, (2) you are insured for coverage under the Supplemental Retiree AD&D Coverage Option; and (3) the Claims Administrator has received the required premium.

If an eligible dependent (other than a newborn child) is hospitalized or confined because of illness or disease on the date his or her insurance would otherwise become effective, his or her effective date shall be delayed until he or she is released from such hospitalization or confinement.

Coverage Ends

Your coverage under the Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage Option and the Supplemental Retiree AD&D Coverage Option, and the coverage of your dependents under the Dependents AD&D Coverage Option, will end when the first of these occurs:

- The date as of which the Plan is terminated;
- The date the Group Contract (as defined in the Retiree Life Insurance SPD) is canceled, or with respect to a particular Life Insurance Coverage Option, the date a Coverage Option is terminated;
- The date that the Plan or Group Contract is amended to terminate coverage for you or to make you no longer eligible;
- The last day of the month in which you are no longer eligible for coverage under the Plan as a member of an eligible class, including without limitation as a result of being rehired by an Employer;
- For AD&D Coverage Options, 31 days after the due date of any required contribution that is not paid;
- For the Dependents AD&D Coverage Option, the date coverage under your Supplemental Retiree AD&D Coverage Option ends;

- For the Dependents AD&D Coverage Option, the date your dependent ceases to be an “eligible dependent” for the coverage or is no longer covered under the Group Contract;
- For the Supplemental Retiree AD&D Coverage Option, the last day for which premium contributions have been made following your written request to end such AD&D Coverage Option; and
- For the Dependents AD&D Coverage Option with respect to an eligible dependent, the last day for which premium contributions have been made following your written request to end such AD&D Coverage Option for such dependent.

You must notify the Claims Administrator or the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320 when a dependent is no longer eligible for coverage under the Retiree Life Insurance Plan so that premiums may be discontinued. No claims will be paid under the Retiree Life Insurance Plan in respect of an ineligible dependent.

If your Supplemental Retiree AD&D Coverage terminates because of non-payment of premiums, your coverage may be reinstated if all premiums due are paid and received by the Claims Administrator within 31 days of the date of termination and during your lifetime.

Changing and Continuing Elections

General

In general, once you enroll for (or decline) coverage, your elections stay in effect in the entire Plan Year. However, you may make or change certain Retiree Medical Plan elections during the Plan Year under certain limited circumstances, referred to herein as “qualified life events.” For example, you may change certain elections if you experience a “qualified status change” that affects your, your spouse’s, or your dependent’s eligibility for benefits under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan. A “qualified status change” is one type of qualified life event. Examples of qualified status changes and a description of other qualified life events are set forth below.

You must contact a customer service associate at the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320 to request a change in election within 31 days of the date of the qualified life event.

In connection with any requested election change, you may be required to provide certifications or other evidence requested by the Company or Plan Administrator.

To the extent permitted by the applicable benefit plan, if you experience a qualified status change, you may elect a different category of coverage (e.g., no coverage, employee only, employee + spouse, employee + family) if that new election is on account of, and corresponds with, your qualified status change and if the new election satisfies other Internal Revenue Service consistency rules.

Examples of qualified status changes include any of the following circumstances that may affect eligibility for coverage under one of the benefit plans listed above:

- You get a divorce, become legally separated, or your marriage is legally annulled.
- Your spouse or dependent dies.
- Your dependent becomes ineligible for coverage (e.g., he or she reaches the eligibility age limit).
- Your dependent becomes eligible for coverage (e.g., with respect to the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, he or she attains age 65).
- You get married.
- You have a baby, adopt, or have a child placed with you for adoption.
- You, your spouse, or your dependent experiences a change in employment status (e.g., gain or terminate employment, change worksites) that leads to a loss or gain of eligibility for coverage.
- You, your spouse or your dependent experiences a change in employment status that affects eligibility for coverage (e.g., change from part-time to full-time or vice versa, strike or lockout, begin or return from an unpaid leave of absence).

- You, your spouse, or your dependent has a change in home address (outside the network service area).

Other qualified life events that may permit a change in your elections (including a change in category of coverage and, in some instances, a change in coverage option) include the following:

- You, your spouse, or your dependent experiences a significant change in cost or coverage of a benefit plan.
- With respect to the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, you qualify for special enrollment during the year under HIPAA. For example, you may qualify for special enrollment if (1) you acquire an eligible dependent after your employment begins, (2) you (or your dependent) were covered under another group health plan or had other health insurance coverage (including coverage purchased through a government exchange or other health insurance coverage purchased in the individual market) when you declined coverage and you (or your dependent) lose coverage because of loss of eligibility (other than for failure to pay premiums or termination for cause), termination of employer contributions or exhaustion of COBRA continuation coverage, or (3) you (or your dependent) lose coverage as a result of loss of eligibility under a Medicaid plan under title XIX of the Social Security Act or under a State child health plan under title XXI of the Social Security Act, or you (or your dependent) become eligible for assistance, with respect to coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, under such a Medicaid plan or State child health plan. Please Note: For an event described in item (3), your special enrollment period will be 60 days, not 31 days. Please note, however, that the Outbreak Period (defined above) will be disregarded in calculating the 31-day or 60-day period permitted by HIPAA special enrollment provisions).

- The benefit plan receives a Qualified Medical Child Support Order ("QMCSO") or other court order, judgment, or decree that requires you to enroll a dependent child in an accident or health plan.
- You, your spouse or dependent lose coverage under any group health coverage sponsored by a governmental or educational institution, in which case you may be able to elect coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, as applicable.
- With respect to accident or health plan coverage, you, your spouse, or your dependent qualifies for or loses Medicare or Medicaid coverage.

If a dependent you are covering under a Retiree Medical Plan is hired by an Employer and either timely elects coverage under the NiSource Consolidated Flex Medical Plan or fails to make a timely coverage election and is thereby deemed to have elected a coverage option thereunder other than the "No Coverage" option, you will be deemed to have elected to drop Retiree Medical Plan coverage for such dependent in connection his or her change in employment status.

Notwithstanding the foregoing or any other provision of this Handbook, if you are covered under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, you may drop your coverage or reduce the number of dependents covered under a Retiree Medical Plan at any time. However, once you drop your coverage or drop coverage for one or more of your dependents, you will not be able to enroll again in coverage until the next annual enrollment period or until you experience a qualified life event that would permit enrollment.

Coordination of Benefits (COB)

If you or your dependent have coverage under another medical or prescription drug plan or program, your medical and prescription drug benefits under the benefit plans coordinate with those other benefits to help eliminate duplicate payments for the same services.

Coordinating Plans

Types of plans that normally coordinate benefits include, but may not be limited to, the following:

- Group or blanket plans or coverages provided by an employer, union, trust, or other similar sponsor.
- Other group or prepayment health care plans or coverages that cover you or your dependents, including student coverage provided through a school above the high school level.
- Federal government benefit programs, including Medicare or Medicaid. (Medicaid or any other plan, program, policy or arrangement will not be included if, by its terms, it does not allow coordination.)
- Automobile insurance plans in the case of accidents, when inclusion is not prohibited by law.
- Other plans required or provided by law.

These coordination provisions do not apply to individual or private insurance plans. Any other benefits (apart from those under individual or private insurance plans) to which you may be entitled are considered for possible coordination.

How Coordination Works With Other Group Plans

If you are covered by more than one of the types of plans mentioned above, one plan is primary. The primary plan pays benefits first without considering the other plans. Then – based on what the primary plan pays – the other (secondary) plans may pay a benefit (if any).

If your coverage under the applicable benefit plan is primary, the benefit plan pays the amount payable under such plan.

If your coverage under the applicable benefit plan is secondary, the primary plan pays its benefits first. Then, the secondary benefit plan pays the lesser of:

- The amounts payable under the secondary benefit plan; or
- The balance left after the primary plan pays benefits.

When combined, the benefits that the two coverages pay will not exceed 100 percent of the eligible expense.

Determining the Order of Payment

When benefits coordinate, the plans or coverages involved determine which pays benefits first (“primary plan”), and then second (“secondary plan”). Below are the benefit plans’ guidelines for determining which is primary:

- If the plan has no coordination of benefits provision, it automatically is primary.
- If medical benefits are available under an automobile insurance plan, the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan will always be considered secondary.
- The plan covering the person as the employee, rather than as a dependent, laid-off employee, terminated employee, COBRA beneficiary, or retired employee is primary and pays benefits first. The other coverage is secondary and only pays any remaining eligible expenses.
- If both parents’ plans cover a dependent, the plans use the “Birthday Rule” to determine which parent’s plan pays first. If the other plan does not follow the Birthday Rule and as a result both coverages would be considered either primary or secondary, the order of benefits will be determined at the option of the applicable Claims Administrator.

In the case of a divorce or separation, the following order will establish responsibility for payment:

- If there is a court order that requires a parent to take financial responsibility for the relevant coverage for the child, that parent’s plan is always primary. If the parent with financial responsibility does not have coverage, but the parent's spouse does, such spouse's plan is primary.

- The plan of the parent with custody of the dependent child usually pays benefits before the plan of the other parent or the plan of a stepparent.
- If the parent with custody of the child remarries and the stepparent's plan also covers the child, the custodial parent's plan pays first and the stepparent's (custodial parent's spouse's) plan pays second. The plan of the parent without custody pays third, and the noncustodial parent's spouse's plan (if any) pays last.
- The plan of the parent without custody of the child pays before the non-custodial stepparent.

If, after using the guidelines above, a determination cannot be made as to the order of payment, the plan that has covered the person longer is the primary plan.

How Coordination Works With Medicare

Under current law, you and your dependents become eligible for Medicare at age 65. However, if one of you has been entitled to Social Security disability benefits for 25 months as an insured individual, child, widow, or widower who is "under a disability," that person may become Medicare-eligible before age 65.

You should notify a Benefits Source customer service associate if you start Medicare benefits. The way medical coverage under the benefit plans coordinates with Medicare depends upon whether you are in "current employment status," as that term is defined in Medicare regulations, and upon a covered person's age and whether he or she is receiving Social Security disability benefits. A retiree generally is not in current employment status. The discussion below assumes that a retiree covered under a Retiree Medical Plan is not in current employment status for purposes of Medicare. However, if you believe you have current employment status for purposes of Medicare regulations, you should contact the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

How Coordination of Benefits Works for Those Not in "Current Employment Status"

If you are covered under a Retiree Medical Plan but are no longer considered by Medicare to be in "current employment status," and if you, your covered spouse or your other covered dependents are Medicare-eligible, then Medicare will generally be treated by the Retiree Medical Plan as the primary payor for the covered person who is Medicare-eligible, regardless of the covered person's age and, except for Medicare Part D prescription drug coverage, regardless of whether he or she has enrolled in Medicare or any part thereof. If your covered spouse or other covered dependent is not Medicare-eligible, the Retiree Medical Plan will be treated as the primary payor with respect to such person's benefits.

If a covered person is eligible for, but not enrolled in, Medicare benefits, the Retiree Medical Plan will deduct from the amount otherwise payable with respect to a claim the amount Medicare would have paid had that person been enrolled in Medicare or in any part thereof. (However, no deduction will be made for failure to enroll in Medicare Part D prescription drug coverage.) For example, if you are eligible for, but not enrolled in, Medicare Part B, and you incur a claim that would be payable in whole or in part by Medicare Part B, the Retiree Medical Plan will deduct from the amount it would otherwise pay for such claim the amount Medicare Part B would have paid.

You are responsible for notifying the Claims Administrator if you, your spouse or your other dependents become Medicare-eligible.

How Coordination of Benefits Work with Medicare Part D

If you have prescription drug coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Medicare Part D at the same time, such coverage will coordinate as provided by law.

How Coordination Works With TRICARE

If you are a TRICARE beneficiary, your coverage under TRICARE will coordinate with group health plan coverage under the Program as provided by law.

Claim Determination and Appeal Process - General

General

The Committee delegates the authority to decide certain claims and appeals to the applicable Claims Administrator (listed in the "General Program Information" found at the end of each benefit plan section, or SPD, in this Handbook). The Claims Administrator adheres to specific timeframes for notifying you of its determination regarding your claim. If your claim for benefits is denied (in whole or in part), formal procedures are in place if you want to appeal the denial.

In certain cases, the Plan Administrator or its designee may decide claims requiring a determination of whether you meet the requirements for eligibility under the terms of the applicable plan, which determination may result in a denial, reduction, termination or failure to provide payment for a benefit.

There are different categories of claims, and each is subject to different timeframes for notifying you of the Claims Administrator's or Plan Administrator's determination if your claim has been denied (in whole or in part).

Please Note: The Outbreak Period (defined above) will be disregarded in determining the period within which individuals may file a benefit claim or an appeal of an adverse benefit determination under the claims procedures described below.

You may have someone else represent you in any of the review processes as long as you provide written notice to the Claims Administrator or Plan Administrator, as appropriate, of the name of the person who will represent you.

For details regarding how to file a claim and the claim denial and appeal processes for each of the benefit plans, please see below or the individual benefit plan sections, or SPDs, in this Handbook. Any claim relating to whether you meet the requirements for eligibility under the terms of an applicable benefit plan should be submitted in writing to the Benefits Department of the Company at the address for the Plan Administrator set forth in the General Program Information section of the SPD for such plan.

Discretion and Authority of Plan Administrator and Claims Administrator

See the subsection entitled "Named Fiduciary and Plan Administrator" under the "Additional Information" section below for information concerning the discretionary authority of the Plan Administrator, the Claims Administrator and the NiSource Benefits Department to interpret the various benefit plans and to make determinations thereunder.

Legal Action

You cannot bring any legal action against a benefit plan unless you first complete all required steps of the applicable appeals process described in this Handbook. Once you complete that process, you can bring legal action against the applicable benefit plan. If you decide to take legal action, you must do so before the deadline, if any, specified in the applicable individual benefit plan section of the Handbook.

Claim Determination and Appeal Process – Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan

The claim determination and appeal process described below applies to the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan. The term "Plan" as used in this section refers to the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, and the term "Claims Administrator" refers to the applicable claims administrator appointed for the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan. (Note that there may be more than one claims administrator for the Plan.)

The type of claim that you make determines the time frame under which the Claims Administrator makes a determination regarding your claim. There are four different categories of claims, and each is subject to different time frames for notifying you of the Claims Administrator's determination. In addition, you will be notified of any adverse benefit determination that results in a rescission of your coverage.

Please Note: The Outbreak Period (defined above) will be disregarded in determining the period within which individuals may file a benefit claim or an appeal of an adverse benefit determination under the claims procedures described below.

An "adverse benefit determination" is (i) a denial, reduction, or termination of, or a failure to provide or make payment (in whole or in part) for, a benefit, including any such denial, reduction, termination, or failure to provide or make payment that is based on a determination of your eligibility to participate in a plan, and including a denial, reduction, or termination of, or a failure to provide or make payment (in whole or in part) for, a benefit resulting from the application of any utilization review, as well as a failure to cover an item or service for which benefits are otherwise provided because it is determined to be experimental or investigational or not medically necessary or appropriate, and (ii) a rescission of coverage.

A "rescission of coverage" is a cancellation or discontinuance of coverage that has retroactive effect, but does not include any such cancellation or discontinuance to the extent it is attributable to a failure to pay on a timely basis premiums or contributions towards the cost of coverage.

The Plan Administrator or its designee may decide claims (i) that involve a rescission of coverage, (ii) that call for a determination of whether you meet the requirements for eligibility under the Plan, which determination may result in a denial, reduction, termination or failure to provide payment for a benefit, or (iii) for which a Claims Administrator has not been delegated authority, or has not assumed authority, to decide. The Plan Administrator has delegated to the Company's Benefits Department authority to make these determinations. Solely with respect to claims involving a rescission of coverage, a determination of your eligibility under the Plan, or a matter for which the Claims Administrator has not been delegated, or has not assumed, authority to decide, the term "Claims Administrator" used below shall refer to the Plan Administrator or its designee. Any claim relating to (i) a rescission of coverage, (ii) whether you meet the requirements for eligibility under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, or (iii) a matter for which the Claims Administrator has not been delegated, or has not assumed, authority to decide should be submitted in writing to the Benefits Department of the Company at the address for the Plan Administrator set forth in the General Program Information section of the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD.

Consideration of Initial Claim

Pre-Service Claim (Not Involving Urgent Care)

Generally, a "pre-service claim" is any claim involving a benefit where the Plan requires approval of the benefit in advance of obtaining medical care.

If you submit a pre-service claim properly with all necessary information, the Claims Administrator will decide your claim within a reasonable period of time appropriate to the medical circumstances (but not later than 15 days from the date the claim is received). The Claims Administrator may obtain a one-time extension (not longer than 15 days) for matters beyond its control if, prior to expiration of the initial 15-day period, the Claims Administrator notifies you of the circumstances requiring the extension and the date by which the Claims Administrator expects to render a decision.

If you file a pre-service claim but do not provide sufficient information for the Claims Administrator to make a determination, you will be notified within five days after your pre-service claim is received of the specific information necessary to complete the claim. Once you receive this notice, you then have 45 days to provide any needed information.

Post-Service Claims

Generally, a "post-service claim" is any claim that is not an urgent care claim, a pre-service claim or a concurrent care claim.

If you submit a post-service claim, you will receive a written notice of the Claims Administrator's determination within 30 days of the day the Claims Administrator receives your claim (as long as you provide all necessary information). The Claims Administrator may obtain a one-time extension (not longer than 15 days) for matters beyond its control if, prior to the expiration of the initial 30-day period, the Claims Administrator notifies you of the circumstances requiring the extension and the date by which the Claims Administrator expects to render a decision.

If additional information is needed to process your post-service claim, you will be notified within the 30-day period and the notice will specify the required information. Once you receive notice, you then have 45 days to provide any needed information.

Urgent Care Claims

Generally, an "urgent care claim" is any claim that must be processed on an expedited basis because a delay in processing could seriously jeopardize the life or health of the patient or jeopardize the ability of the patient to regain maximum function, or in the opinion of the patient's doctor with knowledge of the patient's medical condition, a delay would subject the patient to severe pain that cannot be adequately managed without the care or treatment that is subject of this claim.

Unless you have failed to provide sufficient information to permit a determination of whether, or to what extent, benefits are covered or payable under the Plan, you will receive notice of the benefit determination (in writing or electronically) within 72 hours after the Claims Administrator receives your urgent care claim. The Claims Administrator will take into account the seriousness of your condition. The Claims Administrator may provide an oral notice of its determination, and then follow up with a written or electronic confirmation within three days.

If you file an urgent care claim but have not provided sufficient information to permit a determination of whether, or to what extent, benefits are covered or payable under the Plan, you will be notified of the specific information needed to complete the claim within 24 hours after the Claims Administrator receives your urgent care claim. Once you receive this notice, you then have 48 hours to provide the requested information.

If you are asked to provide specific information to complete your urgent care claim, you will receive a notice of the Claims Administrator's determination no later than 48 hours after the earlier of:

- The Claims Administrator's receipt of the specified information; or
- The end of the period that you have to provide the specified additional information.

Concurrent Care Claims

Generally, a "concurrent care claim" is any claim involving (i) a decision to reduce or terminate an ongoing course of treatment to be provided over a period of time or number of treatments, or (ii) your request to extend a course of treatment beyond the period of time or number of treatments that has been approved.

The Claims Administrator may approve (for a specific period of time or number of treatments), reduce, or terminate an ongoing course of treatment. Any reduction or termination of ongoing treatments is an adverse benefit determination. The Claims Administrator must notify you within a reasonable time period prior to the reduction or termination of services.

If you request to extend the treatment and your request is that of an urgent care claim (as defined above), the Claims Administrator will decide your request within 24 hours after it receives your request. You must make your request at least 24 hours before the end of your approved treatment.

If your request to extend ongoing treatment is not an urgent care claim, the Claims Administrator will treat your claim as either a pre-service or post-service claim (as applicable) and consider the claim according to the post-service or pre-service time frames, whichever applies.

Full and Fair Review

In connection with a claim or internal appeal, the Claims Administrator will provide you, free of charge, with any new or additional evidence considered, relied upon, or generated by the Plan (or at the direction of the Plan) in connection with your claim. Such evidence will be provided in advance of the date on which a notice of a final internal adverse benefit determination is required to be provided, in order to give you an opportunity to respond prior to that date. In addition, before you receive a final internal adverse benefit determination on review based upon a new or additional rationale, the Claims Administrator will provide to you, free of charge, the rationale. The rationale will be provided in advance of the date on which a notice of a final internal adverse benefit determination is required to be provided, in order to give you an opportunity to respond prior to that date.

If the Claims Administrator Makes an Adverse Benefit Determination Regarding an Initial Claim or Rescinds Coverage

If you receive a notice of an adverse benefit determination, the notice will:

- Include information sufficient to identify the claim involved and a statement describing the availability, upon request, of the diagnosis code and its corresponding meaning, and the treatment code and its corresponding meaning;
- Explain the reasons for the adverse benefit determination;
- Describe any additional material or information necessary for you to complete your claim and explain why the material or information is necessary;
- Refer you to the part of the Plan upon which the determination is based;
- Describe the Plan's review procedures and the time limits applicable to such procedures, including a description of available internal appeals and external review processes and information regarding how to initiate an appeal, as well as a statement of your right to bring a civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA following an adverse benefit determination on all appeals;

- In the case of an urgent care claim, describe the expedited review process applicable to such claims; and
- To the extent required by applicable regulations, disclose the availability of, and contact information for, an applicable office of health insurance consumer assistance or ombudsman who may assist you.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon an internal rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion in making the adverse determination, either the specific rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such rule, guideline, protocol, or other criterion will be provided free of charge to you upon request. If the Claims Administrator relied upon medical necessity or experimental treatment or similar exclusion or limit in making the adverse determination, either an explanation of the scientific or clinical judgment for the determination (applying the terms of the Plan to your medical circumstances) will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such explanation will be provided free of charge to you upon request.

If the Claims Administrator denies an urgent care claim, the Claims Administrator will provide a description of the expedited review process for urgent care claims (as set forth below). The Claims Administrator may provide an oral notice of its determination, then follow-up with a written or electronic confirmation within three days.

Mandatory First-Level Internal Appeal to Claims Administrator

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination regarding an initial claim or rescission of coverage, you or your duly authorized representative have the right to appeal the adverse benefit determination by sending a written request for review to the Claims Administrator within 180 days of your receipt of notice of the adverse benefit determination.

Your request for review should be sent to the Claims Administrator at the address for the Claims Administrator set forth in the section entitled "General Program Information" found in the individual SPD section for the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

You may submit written comments, documents, records, and other information relating to your claim for benefits. Upon your request, you will be provided, free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim.

Your written request should state why you think your claim should not have been denied or your coverage under the Plan should not have been rescinded. Your request also should include the name of your employer, any adverse benefit determination letter you received and any additional documents, information or comments you think may have a bearing on your claim.

Upon receipt of your request, the Claims Administrator will conduct a review that takes into account all comments, documents, records, and other information submitted by you or your authorized representative relating to your claim, without regard to whether such information was submitted or considered in the initial benefit determination. The review will not afford any deference to the initial adverse benefit determination and will be conducted by an individual who is neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual.

If the adverse benefit determination was based in whole or in part on a medical judgment, the individual conducting the review shall consult with a health care professional who has appropriate training and experience in the field of medicine involved in the medical judgment. This health care professional will be neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual. The Claims Administrator will provide the identities of any medical or vocational experts whose advice was obtained on behalf of the Plan in connection with the denial, without regard to whether the advice was relied upon in making the benefit determination.

Pre-Service Claims

In the case of a pre-service claim, the Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review within a reasonable period of time appropriate to the medical circumstances, but not later than 30 days after receipt of your request for review.

Post-Service Claims

In the case of a post-service claim, the Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review within a reasonable period of time, but not later than 60 days after receipt of your request for review.

Expedited Review for Urgent Care Claims

In the case of a claim involving urgent care, you or your duly authorized representative may submit a request for an expedited internal appeal either in writing or orally. All necessary information for the review, including the Claims Administrator's determination, may be transmitted between the Claims Administrator and you by telephone, facsimile, or another similarly expeditious method. To proceed with an expedited internal appeal, you or your authorized representative must contact the Claims Administrator and provide at least the following information:

- Your name;
- The date(s) of the medical service;
- The specific medical condition or symptom;
- The provider's name
- The service or supply for which approval of benefits was sought; and
- Any reasons why the appeal should be processed on a more expedited basis.

The Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review as soon as possible, taking into account the medical exigencies, but not later than 72 hours after receipt of your request for review of an adverse benefit determination.

If the Claims Administrator Makes an Adverse Benefit Determination on Your Mandatory First-Level Internal Appeal

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination on a mandatory first-level internal appeal (this determination will constitute a “final adverse benefit determination”), it will notify you of the following, in a manner to be understood by you:

- Information sufficient to identify the claim involved and a statement describing the availability, upon request, of the diagnosis code and its corresponding meaning, and the treatment code and its corresponding meaning;
- The specific reason or reasons for the adverse benefit determination;
- The specific Plan provisions on which the adverse benefit determination is based;
- A statement that you are entitled to receive, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim;
- A statement describing any voluntary appeal procedures offered by the Plan and your right to obtain information about such procedures; and
- A statement indicating your right to file a lawsuit upon completion of the claims procedure process.
- To the extent required by applicable regulations, the availability of, and contact information for, an applicable office of health insurance consumer assistance or ombudsman who may assist you.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon an internal rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion in making the adverse determination, either the specific rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such rule, guideline, protocol, or other criterion will be provided free of charge to you upon request. If the Claims Administrator relied upon medical necessity or experimental treatment or similar exclusion or limit in making the adverse determination, either an explanation of the scientific or clinical judgment for the determination (applying the terms of the Plan to your medical circumstances) will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such explanation will be provided free of charge to you upon request.

If the Claims Administrator denies an urgent care claim on review, the Claims Administrator may provide oral notice of its determination, then follow-up with a written or electronic confirmation within three days.

Second-Level Internal Appeal to the Claims Administrator

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination on a mandatory first-level internal appeal with respect to your pre- or post-service claim or a rescission of coverage, you or your duly authorized representative may request a review of such determination by the Claims Administrator by sending a written request for a second-level internal appeal to the Claims Administrator within 60 days of your receipt of the Claims Administrator’s notice of denial of your mandatory first-level internal appeal.

This second-level appeal is a voluntary appeal. That means you are not required to request a second-level internal appeal under the Plan before submitting a request for an independent external review. However, if you request a voluntary second-level internal appeal under the Plan, you must receive a determination on that appeal before requesting an independent external review.

The Plan waives any right to assert that you failed to exhaust administrative remedies because you did not request a voluntary second-level internal appeal. The Plan agrees that any statute of limitations or other defense based upon timeliness is tolled during the time that any properly initiated second-level voluntary internal appeal is pending. The Claims Administrator will, upon request, provide you with information relating to the voluntary second-level internal appeal to enable you to make an informed judgment about whether to request such an appeal. Your decision whether or not to request a voluntary second-level internal appeal under the Plan will have no effect on your right to any other benefits under the Plan.

Your request for review should be sent to the Claims Administrator at the address for the Claims Administrator set forth in the section entitled "General Program Information" found in the individual SPD section for the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

You may submit written comments, documents, records, and other information relating to your claim for benefits. Upon your written request, you will be provided, free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all relevant documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim.

Your written request should state why you think your claim should not have been denied. Your request also should include the name of your employer, any denial letter you received and any additional documents, information or comments you think may have a bearing on your claim.

Upon receipt of your request, the Claims Administrator will conduct a review that takes into account all comments, documents, records, and other information submitted by you or your authorized representative relating to your claim, without regard to whether such information was submitted or considered in the initial benefit determination. The review will not afford any deference to the Claims Administrator's denial of your claim on appeal and will be conducted by an individual who is neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual.

If the denial of your claim on appeal was based in whole or in part on a medical judgment, the Claims Administrator will consult with a health care professional who has appropriate training and experience in the field of medicine involved in the medical judgment. This health care professional consultant will be neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual. The Claims Administrator will provide the identities of any medical or vocational experts whose advice was obtained on behalf of the Plan in connection with your adverse benefit determination, without regard to whether the advice was relied upon in making the benefit determination.

Pre-Service Claims

In the case of a pre-service claim, the Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review within a reasonable period of time appropriate to the medical circumstances, but not later than 30 days after receipt of your request for review.

Post-Service Claims

In the case of a post-service claim, the Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review within a reasonable period of time, but not later than 60 days after receipt of your request for review.

If the Claims Administrator Makes an Adverse Benefit Determination on Your Second-Level Internal Appeal

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination on your second-level internal appeal, it will notify you of the following, in a manner to be understood by you:

- Information sufficient to identify the claim involved and a statement describing the availability, upon request, of the diagnosis code and its corresponding meaning, and the treatment code and its corresponding meaning;
- The specific reason or reasons for the adverse benefit determination;
- The specific Plan provisions on which the adverse benefit determination is based;
- A statement that you are entitled to receive, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim;
- A statement describing any additional voluntary appeal procedures offered by the Plan and your right to obtain information about such procedures;

- A description of available internal appeals and external review processes, including information about how to initiate an appeal;
- A statement indicating your right to bring a civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA following a final adverse benefit determination; and
- To the extent required by applicable regulations, the availability of, and contact information for, an applicable office of health insurance consumer assistance or ombudsman who may assist you.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon an internal rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion in making the adverse determination, either the specific rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion will be provided to you free of charge, or you will be informed that such rule, guideline, protocol, or other criterion will be provided free of charge to you upon request.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon medical necessity or experimental treatment or similar exclusion or limit in making the adverse determination, either an explanation of the scientific or clinical judgment for the determination (applying the terms of the Plan to your medical circumstances) will be provided to you free of charge, or you will be informed that such explanation will be provided to you free of charge upon request.

Voluntary External Review by Independent Review Organization

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination with respect to your initial claim, a rescission of coverage or your mandatory first-level internal appeal or second-level internal appeal, you may be entitled to obtain an independent external review pursuant to Federal law, as provided below. External review applies only to an adverse benefit determination (including a final internal adverse benefit determination) by the Claims Administrator that involves medical judgment or a rescission of coverage (whether or not the rescission has any effect on any particular benefit at that time). External review is not available in connection with an adverse benefit determination based upon a determination that you fail to meet the requirements for eligibility under the terms of the Plan. You do not need to pursue an external review in order to complete or exhaust the appeal procedure described above. Your decision to seek an independent external review will not affect your rights to any other benefits under the Plan. Any statute of limitations or other defense based upon timeliness is tolled during the time that any properly initiated independent external review is pending. There is no charge for you to initiate an independent external review. The external review decision is final and binding on all parties except for any relief available through ERISA.

Standard External Review

This section sets forth procedures for standard external review. Standard external review is external review that is not considered expedited (as described below).

If the Claims Administrator makes a final adverse benefit determination with respect to your mandatory first-level appeal or second-level appeal, as the case may be, or makes an adverse benefit determination under circumstances in which you are not required to exhaust the Plan's internal appeals process, you or your duly authorized representative may file a request for an external review under Federal law within four months of the date you received notice of an adverse benefit determination or final internal adverse benefit determination. Your request must be in writing, unless the Claims Administrator determines that it is not reasonable to require a written statement. You do not have to resubmit information that you submitted for your initial claim or internal appeal. However, you are encouraged to submit any additional information you believe is important for review.

Within five business days following the date your external review request is received, the Claims Administrator will complete a preliminary review of the request to determine whether:

- You are or were covered under the Plan at the time the health care item or service was requested or, in the case of a retrospective review, were covered under the Plan at the time the health care item or service was provided;

- The adverse benefit determination or the final adverse benefit determination involves medical judgment or a rescission of coverage and does not relate to your failure to meet the requirements for eligibility under the terms of the Plan;
- You have exhausted the Plan's internal appeal process, unless you are not required to exhaust such process under applicable federal regulations;
- You have provided all the information and forms required to process an external review.

Within one business day after completion of its preliminary review, the Claims Administrator will notify you in writing of the results of such review. If the request is complete, the Claims Administrator will assign an accredited independent review organization ("IRO") to conduct the external review.

The assigned IRO is required to notify you in writing of the request's eligibility and acceptance for external review. Within ten business days following the date of your receipt of such notice, you may submit in writing to the assigned IRO additional information that the IRO must consider when conducting the external review. The IRO is not required to, but may, accept and consider additional information submitted after ten business days.

Within five business days after the date of assignment of the IRO, the Plan must provide to the assigned IRO the documents and any information considered in making the adverse benefit determination or final internal adverse benefit determination. If the Plan fails to provide the documents and information on a timely basis, the assigned IRO may terminate the external review and make a decision to reverse the adverse benefit determination or final internal adverse benefit determination. The IRO will notify you and the Plan within one business day after making any such decision.

Upon receipt of any information submitted by you, the assigned IRO must within one business day forward the information to the Plan. Upon receipt of any such information, the Plan may reconsider its adverse benefit determination or final internal adverse benefit determination that is the subject of the external review. The external review may be terminated as a result of the reconsideration only if the Plan decides, upon completion of its reconsideration, to reverse its adverse benefit determination or final internal adverse benefit determination and provide coverage or payment. Within one business day after making such a decision, the Plan must provide written notice of its decision to you and to the assigned IRO. The assigned IRO is required to terminate the external review upon receipt of any such notice from the Plan.

The IRO is required to review all of the information and documents timely received. In reaching a decision, the assigned IRO will review the claim de novo and not be bound by any decisions or conclusions reached during the Plan's internal claims and appeals process. In addition to the documents and information provided, the assigned IRO, to the extent the information or documents are available and the IRO considers them appropriate, will consider the following in reaching a decision:

- Your medical records;
- The attending health care professional's recommendation;
- Reports from appropriate health care professionals and other documents
- The terms of the Plan, to ensure that the IRO's decision is not contrary to the terms of the Plan;
- Appropriate practice guidelines, which must include applicable evidence-based standards and may include any other practice guidelines developed by the Federal government, national or professional medical societies, boards and associations;
- Any applicable clinical review criteria developed and used by the Plan, unless the criteria are inconsistent with the terms of the Plan or with applicable law;

- The opinion of the IRO's clinical reviewer or reviewers after considering the information above and applicable Federal guidance, to the extent the information or documents are available and the clinical reviewer or reviewers consider such information or documents appropriate.

The assigned IRO is required to provide written notice of the final external review decision within 45 days after it receives the request for the external review. The IRO must deliver the notice of final external review decision to you and to the Plan.

The assigned IRO's decision notice on external review will contain:

- A general description of the reason for the request for external review, including information sufficient to identify the claim;
- The date the IRO received the assignment to conduct the external review and the date of the IRO decision;
- References to the evidence or documentation, including the specific coverage provisions and evidence-based standards, considered in reaching its decision;
- A discussion of the principal reason or reasons for its decision, including the rationale for its decision and any evidence-based standards that were relied on in making its decision;
- A statement that the determination is binding except to the extent that other remedies may be available under State or Federal law to either the Plan or to you;
- A statement that judicial review may be available to you; and
- Current contact information, including phone number, for any applicable office of health insurance consumer assistance or ombudsman.

Expedited External Review

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination with respect to your initial claim, and your claim is an urgent care claim or a concurrent care claim, you may proceed with an expedited external review without filing an internal appeal or while simultaneously pursuing an expedited appeal through the Plan's internal appeal process.

You or your duly authorized representative may request an expedited external review orally or in writing. All necessary information for the review, including the Claims Administrator's determination, may be transmitted between the Claims Administrator and you by telephone, facsimile, or another similarly expeditious method. To proceed with an expedited external review, you or your authorized representative must contact the Claims Administrator and provide at least the following information:

- Your name;
- The date(s) of the medical service;
- The specific medical condition or symptom;
- The provider's name
- The service or supply for which approval of benefits was sought; and
- Any reasons why the appeal should be processed on a more expedited basis.

Upon receipt of your request for expedited external review, the Claims Administrator will determine whether the request meets the reviewability requirements set forth above for standard external review. The Claims Administrator will notify you in writing of the results of such review.

If the Claims Administrator determines that your request is eligible for external review, the Claims Administrator will assign an IRO to conduct the review.

The assigned IRO, to the extent the information or documents are available and the IRO considers them appropriate, will consider the information or documents described above under the procedures for standard external review. In reaching a decision, the assigned IRO will review your claim de novo and is not bound by any decisions or conclusions reached during the Plan's internal claims and appeals process.

The IRO is required to notify you of the final external review decision as expeditiously as your medical condition or circumstances require, but in no event more than 72 hours after the IRO receives your request for an expedited external review. If the notice is not in writing, within 48 hours after the date of providing that notice, the assigned IRO is required to provide written confirmation of the decision to you and to the Plan.

Limitation of Actions and Venue

No lawsuit or legal action of any kind regarding a claim for benefits under the Plan may be commenced unless the claims procedure process for internal appeals (but not including any voluntary appeal) has been exhausted. In addition, in no event may any lawsuit or other legal action regarding a claim for benefits be commenced later than three years after the date such claim was incurred or the date when the rescission of coverage occurred, as the case may be. A claim for benefits is incurred when the services giving rise to the claim were rendered.

Any suit, action or proceeding seeking to enforce any provision of, or based on any matter arising out of or in connection with, the Plan shall be brought in any court of the State of Indiana or in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Indiana.

Claim Determination and Appeal Process – Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan

The claim determination and appeal process described below applies to the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan. The term “Plan,” as used in this section, refers to the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, and the term “Claims Administrator” refers to the applicable claims administrator appointed for the Plan. (Note that there may be more than one claims administrator for the Plan.)

The type of claim that you make determines the time frame under which the Claims Administrator will make a determination regarding your claim. There are four different categories of claims, and each is subject to different time frames for notifying you of the Claims Administrator’s determination.

Please Note: The Outbreak Period (defined above) will be disregarded in determining the period within which individuals may file a benefit claim or an appeal of an adverse benefit determination under the claims procedures described below.

An “adverse benefit determination” is a denial, reduction, or termination of, or a failure to provide or make payment (in whole or in part) for, a benefit, including any such denial, reduction, termination, or failure to provide or make payment that is based on a determination of your eligibility to participate in a plan, and including a denial, reduction, or termination of, or a failure to provide or make payment (in whole or in part) for, a benefit resulting from the application of any utilization review, as well as a failure to cover an item or service for which benefits are otherwise provided because it is determined to be experimental or investigational or not medically necessary or appropriate.

The Plan Administrator or its designee may decide claims (i) that call for a determination of whether you meet the requirements for eligibility under the Plan, which determination may result in a denial, reduction, termination or failure to provide payment for a benefit, or (ii) for which a Claims Administrator has not been delegated authority, or has not assumed authority, to decide. The Plan Administrator has delegated to the Company’s Benefits Department authority to make these determinations. Solely with respect to claims involving a determination of your eligibility under the Plan or a matter for which the Claims Administrator has not been delegated, or has not assumed, authority to decide, the term “Claims Administrator” used below shall refer to the Plan Administrator or its designee. Any claim relating to (i) whether you meet the requirements for eligibility under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, or (ii) a matter for which the Claims Administrator has not been delegated, or has not assumed, authority to decide should be submitted in writing to the Benefits Department of the Company at the address for the Plan Administrator set forth in the General Program Information section of the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD.

Consideration of Initial Claim

Pre-Service Claim (Not Involving Urgent Care)

Generally, a “pre-service claim” is any claim involving a benefit where the Plan requires approval of the benefit in advance of obtaining medical care.

If you submit a pre-service claim properly with all necessary information, the Claims Administrator will decide your claim within a reasonable period of time appropriate to the medical circumstances (but not later than 15 days from the date the claim is received). The Claims Administrator may obtain a one-time extension (not longer than 15 days) for matters beyond its control if, prior to expiration of the initial 15-day period, the Claims Administrator notifies you of the circumstances requiring the extension and the date by which the Claims Administrator expects to render a decision.

If you file a pre-service claim but do not provide sufficient information for the Claims Administrator to make a determination, you will be notified within five days after your pre-service claim is received of the specific information necessary to complete the claim. Once you receive this notice, you then have 45 days to provide any needed information.

Post-Service Claims

Generally, a “post-service claim” is any claim that is not an urgent care claim, a pre-service claim or a concurrent care claim.

If you submit a post-service claim, you will receive a written notice of the Claims Administrator’s determination within 30 days of the day the Claims Administrator receives your claim (as long as you provide all necessary information). The Claims Administrator may obtain a one-time extension (not longer than 15 days) for matters beyond its control if, prior to the expiration of the initial 30-day period, the Claims Administrator notifies you of the circumstances requiring the extension and the date by which the Claims Administrator expects to render a decision.

If additional information is needed to process your post-service claim, you will be notified within the 30-day period and the notice will specify the required information. Once you receive notice, you then have 45 days to provide any needed information.

Urgent Care Claims

Generally, an “urgent care claim” is any claim that must be processed on an expedited basis because a delay in processing could seriously jeopardize the life or health of the patient, jeopardize the patient's ability to regain maximum function, or, in the opinion of the patient's doctor, with knowledge of the patient's medical condition, a delay would subject the patient to severe pain that cannot be adequately managed without the care or treatment that is the subject of the claim.

Unless you have failed to provide sufficient information to permit a determination of whether, or to what extent, benefits are covered or payable under the Plan, you will receive notice of the benefit determination (in writing or electronically) within 72 hours after the Claims Administrator receives your urgent care claim. The Claims Administrator will take into account the seriousness of your condition. The Claims Administrator may provide an oral notice of its determination, and then follow up with a written or electronic confirmation within three days.

If you file an urgent care claim but have not provided sufficient information to permit a determination of whether, or to what extent, benefits are covered or payable under the Plan, you will be notified of the specific information needed to complete the claim within 24 hours after the Claims Administrator receives your urgent care claim. Once you receive this notice, you then have 48 hours to provide the requested information.

If you are asked to provide specific information to complete your urgent care claim, you will receive a notice of the Claims Administrator’s determination no later than 48 hours after the earlier of:

- The Claims Administrator's receipt of the specified information; or
- The end of the period that you have to provide the specified additional information.

Concurrent Care Claims

Generally, a "concurrent care claim" is any claim involving (i) a decision to reduce or terminate an ongoing course of treatment to be provided over a period of time or number of treatments, or (ii) your request to extend a course of treatment beyond the period of time or number of treatments that has been approved.

The Claims Administrator may approve (for a specific period of time or number of treatments), reduce, or terminate an ongoing course of treatment. Any reduction or termination of ongoing treatments is an adverse benefit determination. The Claims Administrator must notify you within a reasonable time period prior to the reduction or termination of services.

If you request to extend the treatment and your request is an urgent care claim (as defined above), the Claims Administrator will decide your request within 24 hours after it receives your request. You must make your request at least 24 hours before the end of your approved treatment.

If your request to extend ongoing treatment is not an urgent care claim, the Claims Administrator will treat your claim as either a pre-service or post-service claim (as applicable) and will consider the claim according to the post-service or pre-service time frames, whichever applies.

If the Claims Administrator Makes an Adverse Benefit Determination Regarding an Initial Claim

If you receive a notice of adverse benefit determination, the notice will:

- Explain the reasons for the adverse benefit determination;
- Describe any additional material or information necessary for you to complete your claim and explain why the material or information is necessary;

- Refer you to the part of the Plan upon which the denial is based;
- Describe the Plan's review procedures and the time limits applicable to such procedures, including a statement of your right to bring a civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA following an adverse benefit determination on all appeals; and
- In the case of an urgent care claim, describe the expedited review process applicable to such claims.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon an internal rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion in making the adverse benefit determination, either the specific rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such rule, guideline, protocol, or other criterion will be provided free of charge to you upon request. If the Claims Administrator relied upon medical necessity or experimental treatment or similar exclusion or limit in making the adverse benefit determination, either an explanation of the scientific or clinical judgment for the determination (applying the terms of the Plan to your medical circumstances) will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such explanation will be provided free of charge to you upon request.

If the Claims Administrator denies an urgent care claim, the Claims Administrator will provide a description of the expedited review process for urgent care claims (as set forth below). The Claims Administrator may provide an oral notice of its determination, then follow-up with a written or electronic confirmation within three days.

First-Level Appeal to Claims Administrator

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination regarding an initial claim, you have the right to appeal the decision by sending a written request for review to the Claims Administrator within 180 days of your receipt of the adverse benefit determination.

Your request for review should be sent to the Claims Administrator for the Plan at the address for the Claims Administrator set forth in the section entitled "General Program Information" found in the individual SPD section for the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

You may submit written comments, documents, records, and other information relating to your claim for benefits. Upon your request, you will be provided, free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim.

Your written request should state why you think your claim should not have been denied. Your request also should include your name, the covered person's name and date of birth, the name of the provider of services, the name of your employer, any denial letter you received, the claim number and any additional documents, information or comments you think may have a bearing on your claim.

Upon receipt of your request, the Claims Administrator will conduct a review that takes into account all comments, documents, records, and other information submitted by you or your authorized representative relating to your claim, without regard to whether such information was submitted or considered in the initial benefit determination. The review will not afford any deference to the initial adverse benefit determination and will be conducted by an individual who is neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual.

If the denial was based in whole or in part on a medical judgment, the individual conducting the review shall consult with a health care professional who has appropriate training and experience in the field of medicine involved in the medical judgment. This health care professional will be neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual. Upon request, the Claims Administrator will provide the identities of any medical or vocational experts whose advice was obtained on behalf of the Plan in connection with the denial, without regard to whether the advice was relied upon in making the benefit determination.

Pre-Service Claims

In the case of a pre-service claim, the Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review within a reasonable period of time appropriate to the medical circumstances, but not later than 15 days after receipt of your request for review.

Post-Service Claims

In the case of a post-service claim, the Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review within a reasonable period of time, but not later than 30 days after receipt of your request for review.

Expedited Review for Urgent Care Claims

In the case of a claim involving urgent care, you may submit a request for an expedited appeal either in writing or orally. All necessary information for the review, including the determination on review, will be transmitted between the Claims Administrator and you by telephone, facsimile, or another similarly expeditious method. To proceed with an expedited internal appeal, you or your authorized representative must contact the Claims Administrator and provide at least the following information:

- Your name;
- The date(s) of the medical service;
- The specific medical condition or symptom;
- The provider's name
- The service or supply for which approval of benefits was sought; and
- Any reasons why the appeal should be processed on a more expedited basis.

You will be notified of the determination on review as soon as possible, taking into account the medical exigencies, but not later than 72 hours after receipt of your request for review of an adverse benefit determination.

If the Claims Administrator Makes an Adverse Benefit Determination on Your First-Level Appeal

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination on your first-level appeal, it will notify you of the following, in a manner to be understood by you:

- The specific reason or reasons for the adverse benefit determination;
- Reference to the specific Plan provisions on which the adverse benefit determination is based;
- A statement that you are entitled to receive, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim;
- A statement describing any voluntary appeal procedures offered by the Plan and your right to obtain information about such procedures; and
- A statement indicating your right to bring a civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA following an adverse benefit determination on all appeals.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon an internal rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion in making the adverse benefit determination, either the specific rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such rule, guideline, protocol, or other criterion will be provided free of charge to you upon request. If the Claims Administrator relied upon medical necessity or experimental treatment or similar exclusion or limit in making the adverse benefit determination, either an explanation of the scientific or clinical judgment for the determination (applying the terms of the Plan to your medical circumstances) will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such explanation will be provided free of charge to you upon request.

If the Claims Administrator denies an urgent care claim on review, the Claims Administrator may provide oral notice of its determination, then follow-up with a written or electronic confirmation within three days.

Second-Level Appeal for Pre-and Post-Service Claims

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination with respect to your pre- or post-service claim on appeal, you or your duly authorized representative may request a review of such determination by the Claims Administrator by sending a written request for review within 60 days of your receipt of the Claims Administrator's notice of adverse benefit determination.

Your request for review should be sent to the Claims Administrator for the Plan at the address for the Claims Administrator set forth in the section entitled "General Program Information" found in the individual SPD section for the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

You may submit written comments, documents, records, and other information relating to your claim for benefits. Upon your written request, you will be provided, free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all relevant documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim.

Your written request should state why you think your claim should not have been denied. Your request also should include your name, the covered person's name and date of birth, the name of the provider of services, the name of your employer, any denial letter you received, the claim number and any additional documents, information or comments you think may have a bearing on your claim.

Upon receipt of your request, the Claims Administrator will conduct a review that takes into account all comments, documents, records, and other information submitted by you or your authorized representative relating to your claim, without regard to whether such information was submitted or considered in the initial benefit determination. The review will not afford any deference to the Claims Administrator's denial of your claim on appeal and will be conducted by an individual who is neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual.

If the denial was based in whole or in part on a medical judgment, the Claims Administrator will consult with a health care professional who has appropriate training and experience in the field of medicine involved in the medical judgment. This health care professional consultant will be neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual. Upon request, the Claims Administrator will provide the identities of any medical or vocational experts whose advice was obtained on behalf of the Plan in connection with your adverse benefit determination, without regard to whether the advice was relied upon in making the benefit determination.

Pre-Service Claims

In the case of a pre-service claim, you will be notified of the determination on review within a reasonable period of time appropriate to the medical circumstances, but not later than 15 days after receipt of your request for review.

Post-Service Claims

In the case of a post-service claim, you will be notified of the determination on review within a reasonable period of time, but not later than 30 days after receipt of your request for review.

If the Claims Administrator Makes an Adverse Benefit Determination on Your Second-Level Appeal

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination on your second-level appeal, it will notify you of the following, in a manner to be understood by you:

- The specific reason or reasons for the adverse benefit determination;
- Reference to the specific Plan provisions on which the benefit determination is based;
- A statement that you are entitled to receive, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim;

- A statement describing any voluntary appeal procedures offered by the Plan and your right to obtain information about such procedures; and
- A statement indicating your right to bring a civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA following an adverse benefit determination on all appeals.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon an internal rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion in making the adverse benefit determination, either the specific rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion will be provided to you free of charge, or you will be informed that such rule, guideline, protocol, or other criterion will be provided free of charge to you upon request.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon medical necessity or experimental treatment or similar exclusion or limit in making the adverse benefit determination, either an explanation of the scientific or clinical judgment for the determination (applying the terms of the Plan to your medical circumstances) will be provided to you free of charge, or you will be informed that such explanation will be provided to you free of charge upon request.

Limitation of Actions and Venue

No lawsuit or legal action of any kind regarding a claim for benefits under the Plan may be commenced unless the claims procedure process has been exhausted. In addition, in no event may any lawsuit or other legal action regarding a claim for benefits be commenced later than three years after the date such claim was incurred. A claim for benefits is incurred when the services giving rise to the claim were rendered.

Any suit, action or proceeding seeking to enforce any provision of, or based on any matter arising out of or in connection with, the Plan shall be brought in any court of the State of Indiana or in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Indiana.

Claim Determination and Appeal Process – Retiree Life Insurance Plan

The claim determination and appeal process described below applies to the Retiree Life Insurance Plan. As used in this section, (i) the term “Claims Administrator” refers to Securian, (ii) a “claim for disability benefits” means a claim for accidental dismemberment benefits or for a waiver of premium, (iii) the term “adverse benefit determination” means a denial, reduction, or termination of, or a failure to provide or make payment (in whole or in part) for, a benefit, including any such denial, reduction, termination, or failure to provide or make payment that is based on a determination of a claimant’s eligibility to participate in a plan and, with respect to a claim for disability benefits, also means a rescission of disability coverage with respect to a claimant (regardless of whether, in connection with the rescission, there is an adverse effect on any particular benefit at that time), and (iv) the term “rescission,” with respect to a claim for disability benefits, means a cancellation or discontinuance of coverage that has retroactive effect, except to the extent it is attributable to a failure to timely pay required premiums or contributions toward the cost of coverage.

Please Note: The Outbreak Period (defined above) will be disregarded in determining the period within which individuals may file a benefit claim or an appeal of an adverse benefit determination under the claims procedures described below.

Consideration of Initial Claim

The Claims Administrator shall notify you of an adverse benefit determination within a reasonable period of time, but not later than 90 days after the receipt of your claim. This period may be extended by 90 days if such an extension is necessary due to matters beyond the control of the Plan. A written notice of the extension, the reason for the extension and the date by which the Plan expects to decide your claim, shall be furnished to you within the initial 90-day period.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, with respect to a claim for disability benefits, the Claims Administrator shall notify you of an adverse benefit determination within a reasonable period of time, but not later than 45 days after the receipt of your claim. This period may be extended for up to 30 days for matters beyond the control of the Plan if, prior to the expiration of the initial 45-day period, the Claims Administrator notifies you of the circumstances requiring the extension and the date by which the Claims Administrator expects to render a decision. If, prior to the end of the first 30-day extension period, the Claims Administrator determines that, due to matters beyond the control of the Plan, a decision cannot be rendered within that extension period, the period for making the determination may be extended for up to an additional 30 days, provided the Claims Administrator notifies you, prior to the expiration of the first 30-day extension period, of the circumstances requiring the extension and the date as of which the Claim Administrator expects to render its decision. In the case of any extension under this paragraph, the notice of extension shall specifically explain the standards on which entitlement to a benefit is based, the unresolved issues that prevent a decision on the claim and the additional information needed to resolve those issues, and you shall be afforded at least 45 days within which to provide the specified information. However, if a period of time is extended due to your failure to submit information necessary to decide the claim, the period for making the benefit determination by the Claims Administrator will be tolled (i.e., suspended) from the date on which the notification of the extension is sent to you until the date on which you respond to the request for additional information.

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination with respect to your claim, you or your authorized representative will receive a written notice from the Claims Administrator of the adverse benefit determination. The notice will be written in a manner calculated to be understood by you and shall include:

- the specific reason(s) for the adverse benefit determination,

- references to the specific Plan provisions on which the adverse benefit determination was based,
- a description of any additional material or information necessary for you to perfect a claim and an explanation of why such information is necessary, and
- a description of the Claims Administrator's appeals procedures and applicable time limits, including a statement of your right to bring a civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA following an adverse benefit determination on appeal.

In addition, in the case of an adverse benefit determination with respect to a claim for disability benefits, the notice shall include:

- a discussion of the decision, including an explanation of the basis for disagreeing with or not following: (A) the views that you presented to the Plan of health care professionals treating you and of vocational professionals who evaluated you; (B) the views of medical or vocational experts whose advice was obtained on behalf of the Plan in connection with your adverse benefit determination, without regard to whether the advice was relied upon in making the benefit determination; and (C) a disability determination regarding you that was made by the Social Security Administration and that you presented to the Plan,
- either the specific internal rules, guidelines, protocols, standards or other similar criteria of the Plan relied upon in making the adverse benefit determination or, alternatively, a statement that such rules, guidelines, protocols, standards or other similar criteria of the Plan do not exist, and
- a statement that you are entitled to receive, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim for benefits.

Appeal to the Claims Administrator

If an adverse benefit determination is made with respect to your claim for benefits or if you do not receive a response to your claim within the appropriate time frame (in which case the claim for benefits is deemed to have been denied), you or your representative may appeal the adverse benefit determination in writing to the Claims Administrator within 60 days (180 days in the case of a claim for disability benefits) of the receipt of the written adverse benefit determination or from the date such claim is deemed denied. You may submit with your appeal any written comments, documents, records and any other information relating to your claim. Upon your request, and free of charge, you will also have access to, and the right to obtain copies of, all documents, records and information relevant to your claim.

A full review of the information in the claim file and any new information submitted to support the appeal will be conducted by the Claims Administrator, utilizing individuals who were not involved in the initial benefit determination and who are not the subordinates of such individuals. This review will not afford any deference to the initial benefit determination.

In connection with a claim for disability benefits, if the adverse benefit determination was based in whole or in part on a medical judgment, the Claims Administrator shall consult with a health care professional who has appropriate training and experience in the field of medicine involved in the medical judgment. This health care professional shall be neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of the appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual. The Claims Administrator shall provide to you upon request the identities of any medical or vocational experts whose advice was obtained on behalf of the Plan in connection with your adverse benefit determination, without regard to whether the advice was relied upon in making the benefit determination.

In connection with a claim for disability benefits, the Claims Administrator will provide you, free of charge, with any new or additional evidence considered, relied upon, or generated by the Plan (or at the direction of the Plan) in connection with the claim. Such evidence will be provided in advance of the date on which a notice of an adverse benefit determination is required to be provided. In addition, before you receive an adverse benefit determination on review based upon a new or additional rationale, the Claims Administrator will provide to you, free of charge, the rationale. The rationale will be provided in advance of the date on which a notice of the adverse benefit determination on review is required to be provided.

The Claims Administrator shall make a determination on your claim appeal within a reasonable period of time, but not later than 60 days (45 days in the case of a claim for disability benefits) after the receipt of your appeal request. This period may be extended by up to an additional 60 days (45 days in the case of a claim for disability benefits) if the Claims Administrator determines that special circumstances require an extension of time. A written notice of the extension, the reason for the extension and the date that the Claims Administrator expects to render a decision shall be furnished to you within the initial 60-day period (45-day period in the case of a claim for disability benefits). However, in the case of a claim for disability benefits, if the period of time is extended due to your failure to submit information necessary to decide the appeal, the period for making the benefit determination will be tolled (i.e., suspended) from the date on which the notification of the extension is sent to you until the date on which you respond to the request for additional information.

If an adverse benefit determination is made with respect to your claim on appeal you will receive a written notification from the Claims Administrator of the adverse benefit determination. The notice will be written in a manner calculated to be understood by you and shall include:

- the specific reason(s) for the adverse benefit determination,
- references to the specific Plan provisions on which the adverse benefit determination was based,
- a statement that you are entitled to receive, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and to make copies of, all records, documents and other information relevant to your benefit claim,
- a statement describing any voluntary appeals procedures offered by the Plan, and your right to obtain information about such procedures, and

- a statement of your right to bring a civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA following completion of the appeals process.

In addition, in the case of an adverse benefit determination with respect to a claim for disability benefits, the notice shall include:

- a discussion of the decision, including an explanation of the basis for disagreeing with or not following: (A) the views that you presented to the Plan of health care professionals treating you and of vocational professionals who evaluated you; (B) the views of medical or vocational experts whose advice was obtained on behalf of the Plan in connection with your adverse benefit determination, without regard to whether the advice was relied upon in making the benefit determination; and (C) a disability determination regarding you that was made by the Social Security Administration and that you presented to the Plan;
- either the specific internal rules, guidelines, protocols, standards or other similar criteria of the Plan relied upon in making the adverse determination or, alternatively, a statement that such rules, guidelines, protocols, standards or other similar criteria of the Plan do not exist; and
- a statement indicating (A) that any civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA must be brought not later than three years after the date such claim was incurred, and (B) the calendar date upon which such limitations period expires.

If a decision on appeal is not furnished to you within the time frames mentioned above, the claim shall be deemed denied on appeal.

Discretion and Authority of Claims Administrator

The Claims Administrator has the sole discretion to interpret the terms of the benefits provisions of the Plan, to make factual findings, and to determine eligibility for benefits. A benefits-related decision of the Claims Administrator shall not be overturned unless arbitrary and capricious. Benefits under the Plan shall be paid only if the Claims Administrator decides in its discretion that the applicant is entitled to them.

The Claims Administrator has the right to recover any overpayments for whatever reason, including due to (i) fraud and (ii) any error the Claims Administrator makes in processing a claim. You must reimburse the Claims Administrator in full for any overpayments. The Claims Administrator will determine the method by which the repayment is to be made. The Claims Administrator will not recover more money than the amount it paid you.

Limitation of Actions and Venue

No lawsuit or legal action of any kind regarding a claim for benefits under the Plan may be commenced unless the claims procedure process for internal appeals (but not including any voluntary appeal) has been exhausted. In addition, in no event may any lawsuit or other legal action regarding a claim for benefits be commenced later than three years after the end of the period within which proof of claim is required, unless otherwise provided under Federal law.

Any suit, action or proceeding seeking to enforce any provision of, or based on any matter arising out of or in connection with, the Plan shall be brought in any court of the State of Indiana or in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Indiana.

Continuation of Coverage

COBRA

This subsection contains important information about your right to COBRA continuation coverage, which is a temporary extension of coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan (each of the foregoing a "Plan" for purposes of this COBRA section).

This section generally explains COBRA continuation coverage, when it may become available to you and your family, and what you need to do to protect the right to receive it. For a discussion of special survivor coverage that may extend coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan beyond the maximum period of COBRA continuation coverage, see the section below entitled "Survivor Coverage." COBRA continuation coverage does not apply to EAP/Work Life/Legal & Financial.

In the event you are eligible for COBRA continuation coverage, there may be other coverage options for you and your family as well. With the advent of health care reform, you may be able to buy coverage through the Health Insurance Marketplace. In the Marketplace, you could be eligible for a new kind of tax credit that lowers your monthly premiums right away, and you can see what your premium, deductibles, and out-of-pocket costs will be before you make a decision to enroll. Being eligible (but not enrolled) for COBRA continuation coverage does not limit your eligibility for coverage for a tax credit through the Marketplace. Additionally, you may qualify for a special enrollment opportunity for another group health plan for which you are eligible (such as a spouse's plan), even if the plan generally does not accept late enrollees, if you request enrollment within 30 days.

Please Note: Notwithstanding the timeframes described below, you may disregard the Outbreak Period in determining (i) the 60-day election period for COBRA continuation coverage, and (ii) the date for making COBRA premium payments.

What Is COBRA Continuation Coverage?

COBRA continuation coverage is a continuation of Plan coverage when coverage would otherwise end because of a life event known as a "qualifying event." Specific qualifying events are listed later in this subsection. After a qualifying event, COBRA continuation coverage must be offered to each person who is a "qualified beneficiary." You, your spouse (if he or she is treated as a spouse under the Internal Revenue Code), and your dependent children could become qualified beneficiaries on account of coverage under a Plan if coverage under such Plan is lost because of a qualifying event. Under each

Plan, qualified beneficiaries who elect COBRA continuation coverage must pay for the cost of such coverage. The cost of coverage is up to 102 percent of the total premium rate (a two percent administrative cost is added to the actual cost of the coverage). If you are entitled to extended coverage by reason of a disability (as described below), you may be required to pay up to 150 percent of the full cost of the coverage. These costs are subject to change.

You must elect COBRA during your COBRA election period. Your COBRA election period begins on the date of your qualifying event and ends on the date that is 60 days after the later of (i) the date coverage would have stopped due to the qualifying event, or (ii) the date the qualified beneficiary is sent notice of the right to continue coverage under COBRA.

You will have 45 days from the date of your coverage election to submit your first premium payment. This premium payment will include all premiums prior to your election for the period of COBRA continuation coverage. After your initial premium payment is remitted, you or your dependents will be billed monthly for the elected coverage. If payment is not received within 45 days of the monthly due date, COBRA coverage will be cancelled.

Your spouse will become a qualified beneficiary on account of coverage under a Plan if he or she loses coverage under such Plan because any of the following qualifying events happens:

- You die;
- You become entitled to Medicare benefits (under Part A, Part B, or both); or
- You become divorced or legally separated from your spouse.

Your dependent children will become qualified beneficiaries on account of coverage under a Plan if they lose coverage under such Plan because any of the following qualifying events happens:

- You die;
- You become entitled to Medicare benefits (Part A, Part B, or both);

- You become divorced or legally separated; or
- Your child stops being eligible for coverage under the Plan as a "dependent child."

With respect to coverage under a Plan for Retirees, sometimes the filing a proceeding in bankruptcy under Title 11 of the United States Code can be a qualifying event. If a proceeding in bankruptcy is filed with respect to NiSource or one of its affiliates, and that bankruptcy results in your loss of coverage under the Plan, you will become a qualified beneficiary with respect to the bankruptcy. Your spouse, surviving spouse, and dependent children will also become qualified beneficiaries if they were covered under the Plan on the day immediately preceding the commencement of the bankruptcy proceeding and the proceeding resulted in their loss of coverage.

When Is COBRA Continuation Coverage Available?

Each Plan will offer COBRA continuation coverage to qualified beneficiaries only after the Plan Administrator has been notified that a qualifying event has occurred. When the qualifying event is your death, the commencement of a proceeding in bankruptcy with respect to your employer (in the case of loss of retiree coverage), or your becoming entitled to Medicare benefits (under Part A, Part B, or both), your employer must notify the Plan Administrator of the qualifying event.

Notice of Some Qualifying Events

For some qualifying events (divorce or legal separation or a dependent child's losing eligibility for coverage as a dependent child), you must notify the Plan Administrator within 60 days after the latest of (i) the date qualifying event occurs, or (ii) the date on which the dependent loses (or would lose coverage) as a result of the qualifying event. This notice must be provided to the Benefits Source by calling the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320, or in the case of a notice of divorce or legal separation, by visiting the website mysourceforhr.com.

Any such notice must provide the date of divorce or legal separation or the date a dependent child lost eligibility for coverage, as the case may be, and must indicate that the notice is being provided for purposes of obtaining COBRA continuation coverage. If notice is not provided within the 60-day period, you and your dependent will not be eligible for COBRA continuation coverage.

How Is COBRA Continuation Coverage Provided?

Once the Plan Administrator receives notice that a qualifying event has occurred, COBRA continuation coverage will be offered to each of the qualified beneficiaries. Each qualified beneficiary will have an independent right to elect COBRA continuation coverage. You may elect COBRA continuation coverage on behalf of your spouse, and parents may elect COBRA continuation coverage on behalf of their children.

COBRA continuation coverage is a temporary continuation of coverage. When the qualifying event is your death, your becoming entitled to Medicare benefits (under Part A, Part B, or both), your divorce or legal separation, or a dependent child losing eligibility as a dependent child, COBRA continuation coverage lasts for up to a total of 36 months.

When the qualifying event is an employer's bankruptcy, COBRA continuation coverage for you ends upon your death and coverage for a qualified beneficiary who is your spouse or dependent child ends on the earlier of the date of the qualified beneficiary's death or three years after your death.

COBRA Continuation Coverage Ends

In addition to the maximum coverage durations set forth above, COBRA continuation coverage for a qualified beneficiary will end on the earliest to occur of the following:

- The date such qualified beneficiary first becomes entitled to benefits under Medicare.
- The date on which all employers participating in a Plan cease to provide any group health plan or coverage to any employee.

- If you fail to make a required contribution (coverage will end at the end of the period for which the last contribution was made).
- The date such qualified beneficiary first becomes covered under any other group health plan that does not contain any exclusion or limitation with respect to any pre-existing condition, other than a pre-existing condition that does not apply to (or is satisfied by) the qualified beneficiary pursuant to applicable law. Please see the "Coordination with HIPAA and Affordable Care Act" provisions set forth below for additional information.

Coordination with HIPAA and Affordable Care Act

Under COBRA, your rights to continue coverage terminate if you become covered by another employer's group health plan that does not limit or exclude coverage for your pre-existing conditions. If you become covered by another group health plan and that plan contains a pre-existing condition limitation that affects you, your COBRA continuation coverage cannot be terminated before the maximum coverage period. HIPAA and the Affordable Care Act limit the extent to which certain group health plans can impose pre-existing condition exclusions. Thus, if another plan's pre-existing condition exclusion cannot apply to you because of HIPAA or the Affordable Care Act, your entitlement to COBRA continuation coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan will terminate before the maximum coverage period.

Questions

Questions concerning the Plans or your COBRA continuation coverage rights should be addressed to the contact identified below. For more information about rights under ERISA, including COBRA, HIPAA, and other laws affecting group health plans, contact the nearest Regional or District Office of the U.S. Department of Labor's Employee Benefits Security Administration ("EBSA") in your area or visit the EBSA website at dol.gov/ebsa (addresses and phone numbers of Regional and District Offices are available through EBSA's website).

If you have questions about enrolling in COBRA, contact the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

Notification of Address Changes

In order to protect your family's rights, you should keep the Plan Administrator informed of any changes in the addresses of family members. If your home address changes while on COBRA, contact the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

You should also keep a copy, for your records, of any notices you send to the Plan Administrator.

Survivor Coverage

In the event of a covered Retiree's death within 30 days preceding, or at any time on or after, May 1, 2010, if COBRA continuation coverage under a Retiree Medical Plan has been elected and has not terminated prior to the maximum continuation coverage period (36 months) for such Retiree's surviving dependents who are covered under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan on the date of that Retiree's death, then coverage for such dependents may continue beyond such 36-month period until the earlier of (i) the date the Retiree's surviving spouse dies, (ii) the last day of the month in which the Retiree's surviving spouse remarries or enters into a domestic partnership or civil union with another person, (iii) the last date for which any required contribution was made, (iv) with respect to a dependent child, the last day of the month in which the child no longer qualifies as a dependent, (v) with respect to any dependent covered under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, the date such dependent reaches age 65, and (vi) the date the Employer from whom the Retiree retired from employment ceases to be a "related employer," as defined in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

If medical coverage under the NiSource Consolidated Flex Medical Plan ends for an active employee's dependent because of such employee's death within thirty days preceding, or at any time on or after May 1, 2010, and if such employee would have satisfied the conditions for being a Retiree had he or she retired from service with an Employer on the day immediately preceding his or her death, then solely for the purpose of COBRA continuation coverage and survivor coverage for any surviving dependents covered under the NiSource Consolidated Flex Medical Plan at the time of the employee's death, the employee will be deemed to have (i) retired from service with an Employer on the day immediately preceding his or her death (the "Deemed Retirement Date") and be a "Deemed Retiree", (ii) enrolled in retiree medical coverage on the Deemed Retirement Date, and (iii) enrolled each such surviving dependent in coverage under either the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan (in the coverage option in which the dependent was enrolled immediately prior to the Deemed Retirement Date) or the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan (in an available coverage option selected by the dependent), as applicable. An eligible surviving dependent of a Deemed Retiree shall be entitled to survivor coverage in accordance with the terms and conditions described in the immediately preceding paragraph. An eligible surviving dependent of a Deemed Retiree who has not attained age 65 as of the Deemed Retirement Date will be entitled to survivor coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan. An eligible surviving dependent of a Deemed Retiree who has attained age 65 as of the Deemed Retirement Date will be entitled to survivor coverage under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

If survivor coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan will end for a surviving dependent solely on account of his or her attaining age 65, such dependent may continue survivor coverage under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan by enrolling in such Plan and by selecting an available post-65 retiree medical coverage option on or before attaining age 65. Such survivor coverage shall be subject to the terms and conditions set forth in the first paragraph of this section entitled "Survivor Coverage."

If a surviving dependent's COBRA continuation coverage has terminated for any reason prior to the expiration of the maximum COBRA continuation coverage period or if survivor coverage provided beyond the maximum COBRA continuation coverage period is terminated for any reason, such dependent may not reenroll in coverage. Notwithstanding the preceding sentence, if coverage for a surviving dependent is terminated during a Plan Year for failure to pay required contributions for coverage, the dependent may apply to the NiSource Benefits Department during the same Plan Year to reinstate coverage retroactive to the date of termination. The dependent's application must be in writing and must describe the extenuating circumstances that resulted in his or her missed payment. The Benefits Department, in its sole and absolute discretion, will determine whether there are sufficient grounds for reinstating coverage. If the Benefits Department makes a favorable determination, the dependent must repay any missed premiums before the end of the Plan Year and before coverage will be reinstated.

Additional Information

Assignment of Benefits

Except as required by applicable law, none of your rights or interests under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan (for purposes of this section only, each a "Plan") and no benefit payable under a Plan shall in any manner be alienated, sold, assigned or transferred, or be subject to any lien, pledge or encumbrance, in whole or in part, either directly or by operation of law or otherwise, including without limitation by execution, levy, garnishment, attachment, pledge, or bankruptcy, nor will any benefit payable under a Plan be liable for, or subject to, any obligation or liability you may have. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, except as required by applicable law, you may not assign or transfer to any third party, including without limitation any person or institution providing medical care, treatment, services or supplies, the right to receive benefit payments under a Plan, or the right to pursue a claim, to appeal an adverse benefit determination or to maintain a cause of action under ERISA in respect of any benefit covered, alleged to be covered or denied under a Plan, and any such attempted assignment or transfer is void.

Nothing contained in a Plan or in this Handbook, nor any course of dealing, act or omission on the part of a Plan, its Plan Administrator or any Claim Administrator or other party, shall be construed to make a Plan liable to any third party to whom you may be liable for medical care, treatment, services or supplies. Although a Plan may, at your direction or otherwise, make payments directly to persons or institutions providing covered services under the Plan, such payment or direction does not constitute a transfer or assignment of benefits or of any other right or interest under the Plan, including without limitation any legal or equitable right to institute any court proceeding. Any such payments by a Plan shall constitute a complete discharge of the Plan's obligation to you. Under no circumstances will any person or institution providing medical care, treatment, services or supplies to you be deemed a participant or beneficiary under a Plan.

If you attempt to alienate, sell, transfer, assign, pledge or otherwise impede a benefit under a Plan or any part, or if by reason of your bankruptcy or other event happening at any time, a benefit devolves upon anyone else or would not be enjoyed by you, then upon becoming aware of such attempted alienation, sale, transfer, assignment or pledge, the Plan Administrator in its discretion, which will be exercised uniformly by treating individuals in similar circumstances alike, may terminate your interest in any such benefit and hold or apply it to or for your benefit or the benefit of your dependents, in a manner the Plan Administrator may deem proper.

Subrogation and Right of Recovery

An Other Party may be liable or legally responsible to pay expenses, compensation and/or damages in relation to a Sickness or Injury incurred by you or one of your covered dependents (a "covered person").

An "Other Party" includes, but is not limited to, any of the following:

- The party or parties who caused the Sickness or Injury;
- The insurer or other indemnifier of the party or parties who caused the Sickness or Injury;
- A guarantor of the party or parties who caused the Sickness or Injury;
- The covered person's own insurer (for example, in the case of uninsured or underinsured coverage, no-fault coverage or med-pay);
- A worker's compensation insurer (including the covered person's employer if worker's compensation is self-insured);
- Any other person, entity, policy or plan that is liable or legally responsible in relation to the covered person's Sickness or Injury.

Benefits may also be payable under the applicable benefit plan in relation to the Sickness or Injury. When this happens, the applicable benefit plan may, at its option:

- Subrogate, that is, take over the covered person's right to receive payments from the Other Party. If so, the covered person or his or her legal representative must transfer to the applicable benefit plan any rights he or she may have to take legal action arising from the Sickness or Injury so that the applicable benefit plan may recover any sums paid under such benefit plan on behalf of the covered person;
- Recover from the covered person or his or her legal representative any benefits paid under the applicable benefit plan from any payment the covered person receives or is entitled to receive from the Other Party.

As a condition of participation in the applicable benefit plan, the covered person agrees, and will cause his or her legal representative to agree, to cooperate fully with the applicable benefit plan in asserting its subrogation and recovery rights. No covered person shall take any action to prejudice the applicable benefit plan's subrogation and recovery rights. The covered person or his or her legal representative must, upon request from the applicable benefit plan, provide all information and sign and return all documents or agreements deemed necessary or desirable by the benefit plan for it to exercise its rights under this provision. Failure or refusal to execute such agreements or furnish information, to comply with the obligations under such agreements or to cooperate fully with the applicable benefit plan in asserting its subrogation and recovery rights does not preclude the benefit plan from exercising its right to subrogation or obtaining full reimbursement, and in such case, the benefit plan may cease paying benefits and reduce future benefits payable until full reimbursement is received.

The covered person shall provide notice to the applicable benefit plan within a reasonable time prior to the date that he or she expects to receive a payment from an Other Party. The covered person acknowledges that the applicable benefit plan has a right to intervene in any lawsuit involving an Other Party, and the covered person consents to the unfettered exercise of that right. The covered person further agrees that any funds received by him or her (or his or her legal representative) from any source for any purpose up to the amount of benefits paid under the applicable benefit plan shall be held separately and in trust with either the person receiving benefits (or his or her legal representative) as trustee and the applicable benefit plan as beneficiary, until such time as the obligation under this provision is fully satisfied. Accordingly, such covered person or legal representative shall be deemed a fiduciary of the applicable benefit plan to the extent of the benefit plan assets that are so held in trust.

A covered person and his or her legal representative shall place any and all funds recovered from an Other Party in a separate reserve account under the control of the covered person and/or his or her legal representative. As a condition of participating in the applicable benefit plan, a covered person and his or her legal representative shall agree that any funds received from an Other Party rightfully and in good conscience belong to the applicable benefit plan, and that such funds shall be held in a constructive trust until distributed in accordance with this Subrogation and Right of Recovery provision.

The applicable benefit plan will have a first lien and priority right upon any recovery, whether by settlement, judgment, mediation, arbitration or otherwise, that the covered person (or his or her legal representative) receives or is entitled to receive from any source whatsoever, including without limitation any of the sources listed above. Such lien and priority right shall extend to the first proceeds of any such recovery in the possession of the covered person, his or her legal representative or any third party, who shall hold the same in trust for the benefit of the plan. This lien and priority right will not exceed the lesser of:

- The amount of benefits paid by the applicable benefit plan for the Sickness or Injury, plus the amount of all future benefits that may become payable under the applicable benefit plan that result from the Sickness or Injury. The applicable benefit plan will have the right to offset or recover such future benefits from the amount received from the Other Party; or
- The amount recovered from the Other Party.

If the covered person or his or her legal representative:

- Makes any recovery from any of the sources described above; and
- Fails to reimburse the applicable benefit plan for any benefits that arise from the Sickness or Injury;

then:

- The covered person or his or her legal representative will be personally liable to the applicable benefit plan for the amount of the benefits paid under that benefit plan; and
- The applicable benefit plan may reduce future benefits payable for any illness, sickness or bodily injury by the payment that the covered person or his or her legal representative has received from the Other Party.

The applicable benefit plan's first lien and priority rights will not be reduced due to the covered person's own negligence; or due to the covered person not being made whole; or due to attorney's fees and costs. All attorney's fees and court costs, including the applicable benefit plan's attorney fees and court costs, are the responsibility of the covered person, not the benefit plan. Neither the "common fund" or "make whole" doctrines shall be applicable with regard to the benefit plan, and as a condition of participating in the benefit plan, the covered person agrees that he or she will not retain counsel, unless such counsel agrees to not assert either of these doctrines during the representation.

For clarification, this provision for subrogation and right of recovery applies to any funds recovered from the Other Party by or on behalf of:

- The Retiree;
- The Retiree's covered dependent;
- The estate of any covered person; or
- Any incapacitated person.

If the covered person is a minor, any amount recovered by the minor, the minor's trustee, guardian, parent, or other representative, shall be subject to this Subrogation and Right of Recovery provision, regardless of state law and whether the minor's representative has access to, or control of, any recovery funds.

If it becomes necessary for the applicable benefit plan to enforce this provision by initiating any action against any person, including the covered person's legal representative, then the covered person agrees to pay the benefit plan's attorney's fees and costs associated with the action, regardless of the action's outcome.

Overpayment of a Claim

If a Plan pays benefits for the Retiree or a covered dependent, the Retiree or any other person or organization that received the payment must refund the applicable benefit plan if all or some of the expense:

- Did not legally have to be paid;
- Exceeded the benefits under the benefit plan; or
- Was paid by a source other than the benefit plan (i.e. claim for an illness or injury that someone else is legally responsible to pay). See the "Subrogation and Right of Recovery" subsection for further details.

If you or the person or organization that was paid does not refund the full amount, the benefit plan may reduce the amount of any future benefits payable.

Provider Networks

Certain of the benefit plans make use of provider networks. As a general matter, benefit coverage may be greater and your out-of-pocket expenses may be lower if you use an In-Network Provider rather than an Out-of-Network Provider. For the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, provider lists may be obtained, without charge, at anthem.com, or by contacting an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card.

HIPAA Privacy

In General

The Department of Health and Human Services has issued Standards for Privacy of Individually Identifiable Health Information (the "Privacy Standards"), effective April 14, 2003, that govern the manner in which the group health plans (for purpose of this subsection, the "Plans") must handle Protected Health Information. "Protected Health Information" means individually identifiable health information related to a Covered Employee or Dependent.

Permitted Uses and Disclosures

The Plans may use and disclose Protected Health Information to carry out payment and health care operations without consent or authorization. If the Plans must use and disclose Protected Health Information for purposes other than payment or health care operations, patient authorization for such use or disclosure shall be required, unless such use or disclosure is expressly permitted by the Policies and Procedures Regarding Protected Health Information related to the Plans or the Privacy Standards.

Disclosures to Company

The Plans may disclose Protected Health Information to the Company to the extent that such disclosure is permissible under law, but prior to any such disclosure the Company shall certify that (1) the Plans' documents have been amended as required by the Privacy Standards and (2) the Company has agreed to certain conditions set forth in the Privacy Standards regarding the use and disclosure of that Protected Health Information.

Adequate Separation

There shall be adequate separation between the Plans and the Company to help ensure that only persons involved in Plan administration have access to Protected Health Information. Only the Plan Privacy Official, Security Official, members of the Committee, persons specifically designated in the Plans and any other persons properly designated by one of the foregoing shall have access to Protected Health Information created under the Plans. Access to and use of Protected Health Information by such employees shall be restricted to the Plan administration functions that the Company and its affiliates perform for the Plans. The Plans or the Committee have retained one or more third party administrators and others that receive Protected Health Information in the ordinary course of business performed on behalf of the Plans. Such persons or entities, known in the Privacy Standards as "Business Associates," shall enter into agreements with the Plans governing their obligations under the Privacy Standards.

Unauthorized Use or Disclosure.

The improper use or disclosure of Protected Health Information by an employee of Company (or an affiliate) shall be governed by the Policies and Procedures Regarding Protected Health Information related to the Plans. The terms of the applicable Business Associate Agreement shall address non-compliance with the Privacy Standards by a Business Associate.

HIPAA Nondiscrimination

Notwithstanding any other provision of this Handbook, to the extent a group health plan subject to HIPAA's nondiscrimination rules generally provides benefits for a type of injury, benefits otherwise provided for treatment of the injury will not be denied if the injury results from an act of domestic violence or a medical condition (including both physical and mental health conditions).

Employment Rights Not Guaranteed

Your participation in the Program or any benefit plan does not ensure you of continued (or renewed) employment with the Company or any Employer. It also does not ensure your rights to benefits, except as specified under the terms of the Program. This Handbook is not a contract of employment.

Amendment and Termination

Subject to the terms of any applicable collective bargaining agreement, the Committee may amend the benefit plans at any time. In addition, (i) the Director, Benefits, of the Company, or an employee of the Company or its affiliates succeeding to the duties and responsibilities of such person, may amend the benefit plans at any time, if such amendments are required by applicable law or regulations, and (ii) the Senior Vice President and Chief Human Resources Officer of the Company and the Director, Benefits of the Company (or officers or employees of the Company or its affiliates succeeding to the duties and responsibilities of such persons) may amend the benefit plans or adopt amendments to, or guidelines with respect to the administration of, the benefit plans, and may take such other actions with respect to the benefit plans, as such persons deem necessary or desirable in response to the health emergency created by the COVID-19 virus or to any other similar health emergency and in response to the effect of any such emergency upon the benefit plans or the participants thereunder. The Committee reserves the right to terminate any benefit plan at any time without the consent of, or advance notice to, you or your covered dependents.

Named Fiduciary and Plan Administrator

The Committee is the "Named Fiduciary" and "Plan Administrator" of each benefit plan as defined in ERISA, and, as such, has authority to control and manage the operation and administration of the benefit plans. See also the "Definitions" section of this Benefits Program Overview for the definition of "Plan Administrator."

The Plan Administrator or its delegate has complete discretionary authority to make all determinations under the benefit plans, including determinations of eligibility for benefits and factual determinations, and to interpret the terms and provisions of the benefit plans.

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Plan Administrator or its delegate has full discretionary authority to: interpret the benefit plans and construe the benefit plans terms; determine eligibility for and the amount of benefits; determine the status and rights of employees, dependents and other persons; make rulings; make regulations and prescribe procedures; gather needed information; prescribe forms; exercise all of the power and authority contemplated by ERISA and the Internal Revenue Code with respect to the benefit plans; employ or appoint persons to help or advise in any administrative functions; and generally do anything needed to operate, manage and administer the benefit plans. The Plan Administrator or its delegate has the requisite discretionary authority and control over the benefit plans to require deferential judicial review of its decisions as set forth by the United States Supreme Court in Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. v. Bruch. The Committee has delegated certain authority to the NiSource Benefits Department, to insurers, and to third party administrators or Claims Administrators. To the extent not retained by the Committee, the Committee has delegated to the Claims Administrators, to the NiSource Benefits Department or to insurers the discretionary authority to:

- Make decisions regarding the interpretation or application of benefit plan provisions;

- Make determinations (including factual determinations) as to the rights and benefits of employees and participants under the benefit plans;
- Make claims determinations under the benefit plans; and
- Decide the appeal of denied claims.

Other authority may be delegated to the extent allowed by ERISA.

Benefits will be paid under the benefit plans only if the Plan Administrator or its delegate determines that the claimant is entitled to them. The decision of the Plan Administrator or its delegate is final and binding.

The Role of the Claims Administrator

With respect to the benefit plans, or portions thereof, that are self-insured, the Committee has retained one or more Claims Administrator to provide claims payment and other administrative services to such plans. Each Claims Administrator has full discretionary authority to decide claims and appeals for the claims it administers. However, even though a Retiree may receive a benefit check from a Claims Administrator, the Company, a participating employer or another plan funding vehicle actually pays benefit claims; the Claims Administrator does not pay claims out of its pocket. Although a Claims Administrator may have insurance coverage as part of its business, a Claims Administrator is not an insurer in relation to benefit plans, or portions thereof, that are self-insured. The self-insured portions of benefit plans are funded from the general assets of the Company or a participating employer or another lawful funding vehicle that is in place, such as a Voluntary Employees' Beneficiary Association Trust.

With respect to the fully insured benefit plans, the Claims Administrator is also the Plan's insurer and has full and absolute authority to decide claims and appeals by virtue of authority delegated by the Committee.

Claims Administrators are identified in the General Program Information section for each benefit plan and are subject to change from time to time.

Statement of ERISA Rights

As a participant in a benefit plan maintained by NiSource Inc., you are entitled to certain rights and protections under ERISA. ERISA provides that all plan participants shall be entitled to:

Receive Information About Plan and Benefits

- Examine, without charge, at the Plan Administrator's office and at other specified locations, such as worksites and union halls, all documents governing the benefit plan, including insurance contracts and collective bargaining agreements, and a copy of the latest annual report (Form 5500 Series) filed by the benefit plan with the U.S. Department of Labor and available at the Public Disclosure Room of the Employee Benefits Security Administration.
- Obtain, upon written request to the Plan Administrator, copies of documents governing the operation of the benefit plan, including insurance contracts and collective bargaining agreements, and copies of the latest annual report (Form 5500 Series) and updated Summary Plan Description. The Plan Administrator may make a reasonable charge for the copies.
- Receive a summary of the benefit plan's annual financial report. The Plan Administrator is required by law to furnish each participant with a copy of this Summary Annual Report.
- Continue health care coverage for you, your spouse or dependents if there is a loss of coverage under the benefit plan as a result of a qualifying event. You or your dependents may have to pay for such coverage. Review this Summary Plan Description and the documents governing the benefit plan on the rules governing your COBRA continuation coverage rights.

Prudent Actions by Plan Fiduciaries

In addition to creating rights for benefit plan participants, ERISA imposes duties upon the people who are responsible for the operation of the benefit plan. The people who operate the benefit plan, called “fiduciaries” of the benefit plan, have a duty to do so prudently and in the interest of the employee and other benefit plan participants and beneficiaries. No one, including your employer or any other person, may fire you or otherwise discriminate against you in any way to prevent you from obtaining a welfare benefit or exercising your rights under ERISA.

Enforce Your Rights

If your claim for a welfare benefit is denied or ignored, in whole or in part, you have a right to know why this was done, to obtain copies of documents relating to the decision without charge, and to appeal any denial, all within certain time schedules.

Under ERISA, there are steps you can take to enforce the above rights. For instance, if you request a copy of benefit plan documents or the latest annual report from the benefit plan and do not receive them within 30 days, you may file suit in a Federal court. In such a case, the court may require the Plan Administrator to provide the materials and pay you up to $110 a day until you receive the materials, unless the materials were not sent because of reasons beyond the control of the Plan Administrator. If your claim for benefits is denied or ignored, in whole or in part, you may file suit in a state or Federal court after exhausting all required administrative appeals. In addition, if you disagree with the benefit plan’s decision or lack thereof concerning the qualified status of a medical child support order, you may file suit in Federal court. If it should happen that benefit plan fiduciaries misuse the benefit plan’s money, or if you are discriminated against for asserting your rights, you may seek assistance from the U.S. Department of Labor, or you may file suit in a Federal court.

The court will decide who should pay court costs and legal fees. If you are successful, the court may order the person you have sued to pay these costs and fees. If you lose, the court may order you to pay these costs and fees, for example, if it finds your claim is frivolous.

Assistance with Questions

Questions regarding the benefit plan should be directed to the Plan Administrator. If there are questions about this statement or about your rights under ERISA, or if as an employee you need assistance in obtaining documents from the Plan Administrator, you should contact the nearest office of the Employee Benefits Security Administration, U.S. Department of Labor, listed in your telephone directory or the Division of Technical Assistance and Inquiries, Employee Benefits Security Administration, U.S. Department of Labor, 200 Constitution Avenue N.W., Washington, DC 20210. You may also obtain certain publications about your rights and responsibilities under ERISA by calling the publications hotline of the Employee Benefits Security Administration.

Your Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan Options

This is the SPD (the “Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD”) for the NiSource Consolidated Flex Medical Plan, also referred to as the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan. In this Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD, the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan is sometimes referred to as the “Plan.”

NiSource Inc. (the “Company”) provides eligible Pre-65 Retirees and their eligible dependents, as well as eligible dependents of Post-65 Retirees who are covered under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, with the following medical coverage options administered by Anthem BlueCross/BlueShield, each of which uses the Blue Cross/BlueShield Network:

- The Preferred Provider Organization (PPO);
- HDPPO 1 (HDPPO 1)
- HDPPO 2 (HDPPO 2)

The Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan may also offer Health Maintenance Organizations (“HMO”)—provided you live in an area where a NiSource HMO option is available. If this option is available to you and you elect the option, your insurer will provide you with a separate HMO SPD. Please refer to that document for further information regarding HMO coverage.

Keep in mind that the Plan covers expenses based on a determination of the “Maximum Allowed Amount”. Charges above the Maximum Allowed Amount are not paid by the Plan and are your responsibility. The Maximum Allowed Amount is determined based upon guidelines established by the Claims Administrator in its discretion from time to time. For more information about the determination of the Maximum Allowed Amount, please see the subsection below entitled “Maximum Allowed Amount”. If you have a question about the determination of the Maximum Allowed Amount, contact an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card.

The PPO option includes a network of qualified health care providers who offer discounted services for being able to participate in the network. You may also use Out-of-Network Providers and still receive a benefit; however, your costs may be higher if you choose out-of-network services.

The HDPPO 1 and HDPPO 2 are both administered by Anthem. With these options, you may go in-network or out-of-network each time you seek care. The Plan pays more if you stay in the network. Office visits (for non-preventive care) and prescription drugs are subject to the same deductible and co-insurance as other medical expenses. No medical or prescription drug benefits (except preventive and wellness care) are payable until you satisfy the annual deductible. After you meet your deductible, you will generally pay 20% of your expenses (assuming you use In-Network Providers) until you reach your out-of-pocket maximum. There are separate out-of-pocket maximums for in-network and out-of-network services. Once you reach your out-of-pocket maximum, the plan pays 100% of your eligible expenses for the rest of the calendar year.

If you enroll in either HDPPO 1 or HDPPO 2, you may be eligible to contribute to a Health Savings Account (HSA), although as a Pre-65 Retiree you may not contribute to an HSA through the Company. The money you contribute to an HSA can be used to reimburse you for eligible expenses that are not covered under the Plan.

To find a provider who participates in the network, log on to anthem.com or contact an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card.

Prescription Drugs

If you are a PPO participant, you and your dependents are eligible for prescription drug coverage offered by the Anthem Prescription Drug Program, which coverage offers you access to a network of participating retail pharmacies for most of your short-term medications. You also have access to a mail order service for long-term or maintenance medications.

If you select the HMO medical coverage, you have prescription drug coverage through your HMO. Please refer to the HMO SPD for details regarding your prescription drug coverage.

If you select the HDPPO 1 or HDPPO 2 coverage, you and your dependents are eligible for prescription drug coverage offered by the Anthem Prescription Drug Program. Prescription drug expenses are covered the same way as any other medical expenses, subject to the deductible and co-insurance. These expenses are not subject to separate co-insurance or out-of-pocket maximum amounts. No prescription drug benefits are payable until you satisfy the annual deductible.

Utilization Review Program

The Utilization Review (UR) Program is designed to help you determine the course of treatment that will maximize your plan benefits regardless of which coverage option you select.

The UR Program offers the following services:

- Pre-admission authorization;
- Pre-Certification;

- Urgent Hospital Admission;
- Continued Stay Review;
- Other Required Pre-certifications; and
- Penalty for Non-Compliance.

The Utilization Review Program provides pre-authorization services to help verify the need for recommended treatment. This service also can propose treatment alternatives that may be more appropriate and cost-effective. Pre-authorization does not guarantee benefits. Benefit availability is subject to eligibility and other terms, conditions, limitations, and exclusions of the Plan.

You must contact Anthem (who provides the Utilization Review services) to receive pre-authorization any time your doctor recommends treatment that requires pre-authorization as outlined below:

- Pre-Admission/Pre-Certification: Except in the case of an urgent hospitalization, all hospitalizations shall be pre-certified prior to admission for any reason. The Pre-certification Provider's name and telephone number will be provided to each participant. Hospital admission pre-certification does not guarantee benefits under the Plan. Actual benefits provided under the Plan are determined based on the provisions of the Plan.
- Pre-Certification Procedure: When your physician recommends a non-urgent hospitalization, you or your physician must call the Pre-certification Provider. You must advise your physician of the Plan's pre-admission certification requirement and provide such physician with adequate information to obtain the pre-certification. You or your physician should secure pre-certification as soon as possible and before a covered person actually enters the hospital. It is your responsibility to see that the Pre-certification Provider is notified.
- Urgent Hospital Admission: In the case of an urgent hospitalization, the covered person's physician, the hospital, or a family member must telephone the Pre-certification Provider within 48 hours of admission or the first business day following weekend or holiday admissions.

You must provide the Pre-certification Provider with the information required by the Pre-certification Provider.

- Continued Stay Review: The Pre-certification Provider may monitor all hospital stays through contact with the covered person's physician.
- Other Required Pre-certifications: You and your physician must notify the Pre-certification Provider prior to the provision of the following additional services or supplies: (1) inpatient surgery, (2) a newborn child hospital stay beyond that of the mother; (3) plastic reconstructive surgery; and (4) durable medical equipment/prosthetics. With approval of the Plan, the Pre-certification Provider may require pre-certification for other services or supplies in accordance with reasonable procedures.
- Penalty for Non-compliance: If you fail to comply with the requirements as described above, the Plan may assess a $300 penalty.

How Deductibles Work in the PPO Option

For charges that are subject to the calendar year deductible requirement under the PPO Coverage Option, a covered member generally must satisfy the “individual” covered member deductible requirement (currently $500 for in-network and $1,000 for out-of-network) each calendar year before the Plan will pay any benefits for such charges. Charges incurred by a covered member may not be applied toward satisfaction of any other covered person’s “individual” deductible requirement.

However, once the “family” deductible has been satisfied for a category of coverage (e.g., for In-Network Providers, $1,000 for covered member + spouse or for covered member + child(ren), or $1,500 for covered member + family), additional covered members within the family do not need to satisfy any deductible requirement.

For example, if you choose the covered member + children category of coverage and you and one of your children each satisfy the $500 in-network deductible requirement in a given year, none of your other children will be subject to the in-network deductible requirement for that year. On the other hand, if you choose the covered member + family category of coverage and you and your spouse each incur $1,000 of charges that are subject to the in-network deductible requirement, one of your children who is a covered member must satisfy the $500 in-network deductible requirement before the “family” deductible requirement is met.

Please note that prescription drug expenses are not counted against the calendar year deductible.

For the PPO Coverage Option only, charges that are incurred during the last three months of the calendar plan year and that are applied to the individual and family deductible for such calendar plan year (that is, charges incurred before the deductible is satisfied) apply also toward the deductible requirement for the following calendar plan year.

How Deductibles Work in the HDPPO 1 and HDPPO 2 Options

For charges that are subject to the calendar year deductible requirement under the HDPPO 1 and HDPPO 2 Coverage Options, each calendar year the covered family as a unit must satisfy the specified deductible requirement for a category of coverage before the Plan will pay any benefits for such charges.

Thus, for example, if you choose the covered member + family category of coverage and you incur $2,000 of charges that are subject to the in-network deductible, but no other covered family member incurs any charges, you (or other covered family members) must still satisfy the remaining $1,000 of the in-network deductible requirement before the Plan will pay any benefits. On the other hand, if you choose the covered member + family category of coverage and your spouse incurs $3,500 of charges in a year that are subject to the in-network deductible, no other family members will be subject to an in-network deductible requirement for that year.

The Individual Out-of-Pocket Maximum Limit in the HDPPO 2 Option

In the HDPPO 2 Coverage Option, for categories of coverage other than "covered member only," there is an individual out-of-pocket maximum limit. This means that regardless of the overall out-of-pocket maximum limit for the category of coverage, no covered person will pay more than the individual out-of-pocket maximum for expenses that are subject to that limit. For services received from In-Network Providers, the individual out-of-pocket maximum as of January 1, 2021 is equal to $8,550. For services received from Out-of-Network Providers, the individual out-of-pocket maximum as of January 1, 2021 is $15,000.

Maximum Allowed Amount

General

This section describes how Anthem, as Claims Administrator for the Plan, determines the amount of reimbursement for services, treatments or supplies covered by the Plan ("Covered Services"). However, this section does not address Covered Services under the Plan for which claims are not administered by Anthem.

Reimbursement for services, treatments or supplies rendered or furnished by In-Network and Out-of-Network Providers is based on the Plan's Maximum Allowed Amount for the Covered Service that you receive.

The Maximum Allowed Amount is the maximum amount of reimbursement the Claims Administrator will allow for services, treatments and supplies:

- to the extent the cost for such services, treatments and supplies are covered under the Plan and are not excluded;
- that are Medically Necessary; and
- that are provided in accordance with all applicable preauthorization, utilization management or other requirements set forth in the Plan.

You will be required to pay a portion of the Maximum Allowed Amount to the extent you have not met your Deductible or have a Co-payment or Co-insurance. In addition, when you receive Covered Services from an Out-of-Network Provider, you may be responsible for paying any difference between the Maximum Allowed Amount and the Provider's actual charges. This amount can be significant.

When you receive Covered Services from a Provider, the Claims Administrator will, to the extent applicable, apply claim processing rules to the claim submitted for those Covered Services. These rules evaluate the claim information and, among other things, determine the accuracy and appropriateness of the procedure and diagnosis codes included in the claim. Applying these rules may affect Claims Administrator's determination of the Maximum Allowed Amount. The Claims Administrator's application of these rules does not mean that the Covered Services you received were not Medically Necessary. It means the Claims Administrator has determined that the claim was submitted inconsistent with procedure coding rules and/or reimbursement policies. For example, your Provider may have submitted the claim using several procedure codes when there is a single procedure code that includes all of the procedures that were performed. When this occurs, the Maximum Allowed Amount will be based on the single procedure code rather than a separate Maximum Allowed Amount for each billed code.

Likewise, when multiple procedures are performed on the same day by the same physician or other healthcare professional, the Plan may reduce the Maximum Allowed Amounts for those secondary and subsequent procedures because reimbursement at 100% of the Maximum Allowed Amount for those procedures would represent duplicative payment for components of the primary procedure that may be considered incidental or inclusive.

Provider Network Status

The Maximum Allowed Amount may vary depending upon whether the Provider is an In-Network Provider or an Out-of-Network Provider.

An In-Network Provider is a Provider who is in the managed network for the Plan or in a closely managed specialty network, or who has a participation contract with the Claims Administrator. For Covered Services performed by an In-Network Provider, the Maximum Allowed Amount for the Plan is the rate the Provider has agreed with the Claims Administrator to accept as reimbursement for the Covered Services. Because In-Network Providers have agreed to accept the Maximum Allowed Amount as payment in full for those Covered Services, they should not send you a bill or collect for amounts above the Maximum Allowed Amount. However, you may receive a bill or be asked to pay all or a portion of the Maximum Allowed Amount to the extent you have not met your Deductible or have a Co-payment or Co-insurance. Please call an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card for help in finding an In-Network Provider or visit the Claims Administrator's website at anthem.com.

Providers who have not signed any contract with the Claims Administrator and are not in any of the Claims Administrator's networks are Out-of-Network Providers, subject to Blue Cross Blue Shield Association rules governing claims filed by certain ancillary providers.

For Covered Services you receive from an Out-of-Network Provider, the Maximum Allowed Amount for the Plan will be one of the following as determined by the Claims Administrator:

- An amount based on the Claims Administrator's Out-of-Network Provider fee schedule/rate, which the Claims Administrator has established in its discretion, and which the Claims Administrator reserves the right to modify from time to time, after considering one or more of the following: reimbursement amounts accepted by like/similar providers contracted with the Claims Administrator, reimbursement amounts paid by the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services ("CMS") for the same services or supplies, and other industry cost, reimbursement and utilization data; or
- An amount based on reimbursement or cost information from CMS. When basing the Maximum Allowed amount upon the level or method of reimbursement used by CMS, the Claims Administrator will update such information, which is unadjusted for geographic locality, no less than annually; or
- An amount based on information provided by a third party vendor, which may reflect one or more of the following factors: (1) the complexity or severity of treatment; (2) level of skill and experience required for the treatment; or (3) comparable providers' fees and costs to deliver care; or
- An amount negotiated by the Claims Administrator or a third party vendor which has been agreed to by the Provider. This may include rates for services coordinated through case management; or
- An amount based on or derived from the total charges billed by the Out-of-Network Provider.

Providers who are not contracted for the Plan, but contracted for other benefit plans with the Claims Administrator are also considered Out-of-Network. For the Plan, the Maximum Allowed Amount for services from these Providers will be one of the five methods shown above unless the contract between the Claims Administrator and that Provider specifies a different amount.

For Covered Services rendered outside the Claims Administrator's service area by Out-of-Network Providers, claims may be priced using the local Blue Cross Blue Shield plan's non-participating Provider fee schedule/rate or the pricing arrangements required by applicable state or Federal law. In certain situations, the Maximum Allowed Amount for out of area claims may be based on billed charges, the pricing the Plan would use if the healthcare services had been obtained within the Claims Administrator's service area, or a special negotiated price.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, when determining the Maximum Allowable Amount for Out-of-Network emergency services, the Claims Administrator will provide benefits for such services in an amount at least equal to the greatest of the methods required under the Affordable Care Act and the regulations thereunder (adjusted for in-network cost sharing).

Unlike In-Network Providers, Out-of-Network Providers may send you a bill and collect for the amount of the Provider's charge that exceeds the Plan's Maximum Allowed Amount. You are responsible for paying the difference between the Maximum Allowed Amount and the amount the Provider charges. This amount can be significant. Choosing an In-Network Provider will likely result in lower out-of-pocket costs to you. Please call an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card for help in finding an In-Network Provider or visit the Claims Administrator's website at anthem.com.

An Anthem customer service associate is also available to assist you in determining the Plan's Maximum Allowed Amount for a particular service from an Out-of-Network Provider. In order for the Claims Administrator to assist you, you will need to obtain from your Provider the specific procedure code(s) and diagnosis code(s) for the services the Provider will render. You will also need to know the Provider's charges to calculate your out-of-pocket responsibility. Although an Anthem customer service associate can assist you with this pre-service information, the final Maximum Allowed Amount for your claim will be based on the actual claim submitted by the Provider.

For Prescription Drugs Obtained through the HDPPO

For prescription drugs obtained under an HDPPO Option, the Maximum Allowed Amount is the amount determined by the Claims Administrator using prescription drug cost information provided by the Pharmacy Benefits Manager (PBM) for that Option.

Participant Cost Share

For certain Covered Services and depending on your plan design, you may be required to pay a part of the Maximum Allowed Amount as your cost share amount (for example, Deductible, Co-payment, and/or Co-insurance).

Your cost share amount and out-of-pocket limits may vary depending on whether you received services from an In-Network or Out-of-Network Provider. Specifically, you may be required to pay higher cost sharing amounts or may have limits on your benefits when using Out-of-Network Providers. Please see the Highlights of the PPO Option, Highlights of the HDPPO 1 and HDPPO 2 Options, and Highlights of Your Prescription Drug Coverage in the HDPPO 1 and HDPPO 2 Options sections in this Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD for your cost share responsibilities and limitations in the Plan, or call an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card to learn how the Plan's benefits or cost share amounts may vary by the type of Provider you use.

Special Cost-Sharing Provisions during Public Health Emergency

During any portion of the emergency period defined in paragraph (1)(B) of section 1135(g) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1320b-5(g)), beginning on or after March 18, 2020, the Medical Plan will provide coverage of the following items and services without any cost sharing (including Deductibles, Co-Payments, and Co-Insurance) requirements or prior authorization or other medical management requirements, to the extent (i) required by applicable law, (ii) medically appropriate for you, as determined by your attending healthcare provider in accordance with accepted standards of current medical practice, and (iii) ordered by your attending healthcare provider:

- (a) An in vitro diagnostic test as defined in section 809.3 of title 21, Code of Federal Regulations, (or its successor regulations) for the detection of SARS-CoV-2 or the diagnosis of COVID-19, and the administration of such a test, that—
 - (1) is approved, cleared, or authorized under section 510(k), 513, 515, or 564 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21 U.S.C. §§ 360(k), 360c, 360e, 360bbb-3);
 - (2) the developer has requested, or intends to request, emergency use authorization under section 564 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21 U.S.C. 360bbb-3), unless and until the emergency use authorization request under such section 564 has been denied or the developer of such test does not submit a request under such section within a reasonable timeframe;
 - (3) is developed in and authorized by a State that has notified the Secretary of HHS of its intention to review tests intended to diagnose COVID-19; or
 - (4) other tests that the Secretary of HHS determines appropriate in guidance.
- (b) Items and services furnished to an individual during healthcare provider office visits (which includes in-person visits and telehealth visits), urgent care center visits, and emergency room visits that result in an order for or administration of an in vitro diagnostic product described in paragraph (a), but only to the extent the items and services relate to the furnishing or administration of the product or to the evaluation of the individual for purposes of determining the need of the individual for such product.

Reimbursement of Out-of-Network Providers furnishing any of the foregoing items or services shall not exceed an amount that equals the cash price for such service as listed by the Provider on a public internet website.

The Plan will not provide any reimbursement for non-Covered Services. You may be responsible for the total amount billed by your Provider for non-Covered Services, regardless of whether such services are performed by an In-Network or Non Network Provider. Non-Covered Services include services specifically excluded from coverage by the terms of the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD and services received after benefits have been exhausted. Benefits may be exhausted by exceeding, for example, benefit caps or day/visit limits.

In some instances you may only be asked to pay the lower In-Network cost sharing amount when you use an Out-of-Network Provider. For example, if you go to an In-Network hospital or Provider facility and receive Covered Services from an Out-of-Network Provider such as a radiologist, anesthesiologist or pathologist who is employed by or contracted with an In-Network hospital or facility, you will pay the In-Network cost share amounts for those Covered Services. However, you also may be liable for the difference between the Maximum Allowed Amount and the Out-of-Network Provider's charge.

The Claims Administrator and/or its designated pharmacy benefits manager may receive discounts, rebates, or other funds from drug manufacturers, wholesalers, distributors, and/or similar vendors, which may be related to certain prescription drug purchases under this Plan and which positively impact the cost effectiveness of Covered Services. These amounts are retained by the Claims Administrator. These amounts will not be applied to your Deductible, if any, or taken into account in determining your Copayment or Coinsurance.

Authorized Services

In some circumstances, such as where there is no In-Network Provider available for the Covered Service, the Plan may authorize the In-Network cost share amounts (Deductible, Co-payment, and/or Co-insurance) to apply to a claim for a Covered Service you receive from an Out-of-Network Provider. In such circumstance, you must contact the Claims Administrator in advance of obtaining the Covered Service. The Plan also may authorize the In-Network cost share amounts to apply to a claim for Covered Services if you receive emergency services from an Out-of-Network Provider and are not able to contact the Claims Administrator until after the Covered Service is rendered. If the Plan authorizes an In-Network cost share amount to apply to a Covered Service received from an Out-of-Network Provider, you also may still be liable for the difference between the Maximum Allowed Amount and the Out-of-Network Provider's charge. Please contact an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card for Authorized Services information or to request authorization.

Medical Expenses Covered

The Plan pays benefits for you (or your covered dependents) for Medically Necessary eligible expenses up to the Maximum Allowed Amount. For services covered under an HMO plan, please refer to the HMO SPD.

For expenses not covered under the PPO and HD PPO options, see the section below entitled "Medical Expenses Not Covered."

Please Note: No lawsuit or legal action of any kind regarding a claim for benefits under the Plan may be commenced unless the claims procedure process for internal appeals (but not including any voluntary appeal) has been exhausted. In addition, in no event may any lawsuit or other legal action regarding a claim for benefits be commenced later than three years after the date such claim was incurred or the date when the rescission of coverage occurred, as the case may be. For more information, see the "Claims Determination and Appeal Process – Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan" section of the Benefits Program Overview, and in particular the section entitled "Limitation of Actions and Venue," found on page 30.

The Plan will not discriminate with respect to participation under the Plan against any health care provider who is acting within the scope of that provider's license or certification under applicable law. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Plan is not required to contract with any health care provider willing to abide by the terms and conditions for participation established by the Plan and the Plan may establish varying reimbursement rates based on quality or performance measures.

The covered expenses under the Plan include, but may not be limited to the following:

Inpatient Services

The Plan pays benefits for the following inpatient hospital/medical services and supplies.

- Hospital facility services – such as inpatient room and board – when you are in:
 - A semi-private room;
 - A private room (the Plan limits benefits to the hospital's prevailing semi-private room rate); or
 - An intensive care unit.

The Plan pays benefits for both day and nighttime care.

- Inpatient ancillary services and supplies, including:
 - Operating room charges;
 - X-rays;
 - Laboratory work;
 - Surgical dressing; and
 - Prescribed medications (Outpatient prescription drug services are covered under the prescription drug program. See the sections of this Handbook relating to Prescription Drugs for details).
- Inpatient surgical services, including:
 - Surgeon's fees when related to the surgical procedure; and
 - Surgery for morbid obesity.
- Skilled nursing facility care, up to the hospital's prevailing semi-private room rate, including:
 - Bed, board, and general nursing care; and
 - Ancillary services (such as drugs, surgical dressings, or supplies).

- General nursing care provided by an RN or LPN when you are in:
 - A semi-private room;
 - A private room; or
 - An intensive care unit.
- Pre-admission testing, x-rays, or laboratory services performed before inpatient surgery. These tests are considered part of your inpatient hospital surgical stay and are performed on an outpatient basis. The Plan pays benefits provided you would have otherwise been eligible to receive such tests as a hospital inpatient.

Outpatient Services

The Plan pays benefits for the following services, provided you receive them on an outpatient basis:

- Hospital facility services and ancillary charges for services performed on an outpatient basis;
- Outpatient surgery and related surgical services when performed in an office setting, including:
 - Any related diagnostic services received on the same day as the outpatient surgery;
 - Surgeon's fees when related to the surgical procedure; and
 - Surgery for morbid obesity.
- Dental/oral surgical services, only when required because of an accidental injury to natural teeth (within 12 months of injury), to extract completely bony impacted teeth, including completely impacted wisdom teeth, or (for the PPO option only) in connection with a gingivectomy. The Plan pays benefits for outpatient facility charges only if your medical condition or the dental procedure requires a hospital setting to ensure your safety.
- Temporomandibular joint dysfunction and related medical disorders. The Plan limits benefits to:
 - Surgery, provided the surgical procedure is medically appropriate; and

- Appliances (the Plan pays benefits for appliances just like any other durable medical equipment).
- A second surgical opinion and additional required testing at your request or when recommended by the Utilization Review (UR) Program. The Plan pays benefits provided your physician (other than the one who offers the second opinion) performs the eventual surgery.

Professional Services (Outpatient)

The Plan pays benefits for care you receive from a physician or other specified professional provider (i.e., a general practitioner, family practitioner, a physician of internal medicine, pediatrician, gynecologist, nurse practitioner, or physician assistant), on an outpatient basis.

- Office visits, visits to a clinic, or a physician's visit to your home as part of home care services. You must meet the co-pay or deductible requirement, as applicable, before the Plan pays benefits.
- Services provided by a professional, including:
 - Allergy injections, shots, serums, and immunizations;
 - Diagnostic allergy testing;
 - Hearing exams and hearing aids. The Plan limits benefits to one hearing exam and one hearing aid per ear during a two calendar-year period; and
- Diabetes management services, including:
 - Educational services;
 - Eye exams; and
 - Blood glucose testing machines (diabetic supplies and other diagnostics are covered under the prescription drug coverage).

Emergency Care Services

The Plan pays benefits for the cost of the following emergency care services:

- Hospital emergency room care when care is associated with:

- An accident;
- A medical emergency; or
- A non-medical emergency.
- Urgent care;
- Ambulance services (local ground or air transportation), when medically necessary to transport you to the nearest appropriately equipped facility that is able to provide necessary treatment. The Plan pays benefits for air-ambulance services only if medically necessary. When ambulance services are used because they are more convenient than other types of transportation, the Plan does not pay benefits.

If your condition is life threatening and you receive emergency care at a hospital outside the network because it is not possible to safely transfer you to a hospital within the network, the Plan still pays benefits at the in-network level.

Rehabilitation Services

The Plan pays benefits for the following inpatient and outpatient rehabilitation services.

- The following rehabilitation services provided on an inpatient or outpatient basis (unless otherwise noted):
 - Physical Medicine/Rehabilitation (PMR) (inpatient only, limited to 60 days per person per year; outpatient PMR is considered physical therapy and is subject to the limits outlined below for outpatient physical therapy). The Plan may extend these limits based upon medical necessity;
 - Cardiac rehabilitation;
 - Chemotherapy;
 - Radiation therapy;
 - Respiratory therapy (including respiratory therapy devices);
 - Infusion; and
 - Renal dialysis treatments.
- Outpatient therapy treatments, including:

- Physical therapy (therapy is subject to significant improvement through relatively short-term therapy);
- Occupational therapy;
- Speech therapy, provided therapy is restorative in nature or rehabilitative treatment is needed for speech loss or impairment due to an illness or injury or surgery on account of an illness (other than a functional nervous disorder). If speech loss is due to a congenital anomaly for which corrective surgery has been performed, the corrective surgery must be performed before the therapy and therapy must be designed to provide significant improvement on a relatively short-term basis.

The Plan pays benefits provided a registered professional physical or occupational therapist, or speech therapist certified by the American Speech and Hearing Association renders the appropriate services under the supervision of a physician. Benefits for physical therapy and occupational therapy are limited to a combined 26 visits per person per year. Benefits for speech therapy are limited to 26 visits per person per year. Additional visits for physical therapy, occupational therapy, and speech therapy may be authorized based upon medical necessity.

- Chiropractic and spinal manipulation therapy provided a licensed chiropractor performs the services on an outpatient basis. The Plan limits benefits for chiropractic services regardless of medical necessity to 26 manipulations per person per year;
- Physiotherapy, provided a licensed physiotherapist performs the services and he or she does not normally live with you or is not related to you or your spouse by blood, marriage, or legal adoption.

Diagnostic and Laboratory Services

The Plan pays benefits for the following diagnostic and laboratory services.

- Inpatient radiology and laboratory services
- Outpatient radiology, diagnostic, and laboratory services performed when you are an outpatient and the services are related to surgery or medical care, including:

- X-rays;
- Radium treatments;
- Microscopic tests; and
- Laboratory tests and exams.

Preventive Health Services

Generally

The Plan pays benefits for certain preventive health services.

Preventive health services include outpatient services and office services. Screenings and other services are covered as preventive health services for adults and children with no current symptoms or prior history of a medical condition associated with that screening or service.

Members who have current symptoms or have been diagnosed with a medical condition are not considered to require preventive health services for that condition, but instead benefits will be considered as diagnostic services.

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, if performed as a preventive care service or screening, the Plan pays benefits for one in-network colonoscopy per covered person per calendar year, and one in-network mammography per covered person per calendar year with no deductible, co-insurance or co-payment requirement, notwithstanding that any treatment incidental or ancillary to such service or screening (such as the removal of polyps during a diagnostic colonoscopy) is also performed during such service or screening.

Preventive health services covered under the Plan may constitute either recommended preventive health services or additional preventive health services. Additional preventive health services are certain preventive health services covered under the Plan that do not constitute recommended health services. Please contact an Anthem customer service associate using the number on the back of your ID card for any questions concerning what constitutes a recommended preventive health service or an additional preventive health service. Additional preventive health services furnished by In-Network Providers are covered by the Plan with no deductible, co-payments or co-insurance. Additional preventive health services furnished by Out-of-Network Providers are subject to deductibles and co-insurance under the PPO option, but are covered by the Plan with no deductible, co-payments or co-insurance under the HDPPO options.

Recommended preventive health services shall meet requirements as determined by Federal law and, if applicable, state law. Recommended preventive health services are covered by this Plan with no deductible, co-payments or co-insurance under the HDPPO options and when furnished by an In-Network Provider under the PPO option.

Recommended preventive health services furnished by an Out-of-Network Provider under the PPO option are subject to deductibles and co-insurance.

To the extent required by federal regulation, if there is no In-Network Provider who can provide a recommended preventive health service, the Plan will cover the service, with no deductible, co-payment or co-insurance, when performed by an Out-of-Network Provider.

Limitations With Respect To Recommended Preventive Health Services

The services described in the recommendations or guidelines above will not constitute recommended preventive health services earlier than Plan Year that begins on or after the date that is one year after the recommendations or guidelines are issued; provided, however, that recommended preventive health services shall include any “qualifying coronavirus preventive service,” as defined in applicable federal regulations, on the date that is 15 business days after the date on which a recommendation is made relating to the qualifying coronavirus preventive service.

Please Note: Regardless of whether such services continue to be listed above, recommended preventive health services will remain covered services under the Plan only until the end of the Plan Year following the date the related recommendation or guideline is no longer described in the federal regulations regarding coverage of preventive health services. Provided, however, that to the extent a service covered on the first day of a Plan Year is, during the Plan Year, downgraded to a “D” rating, or any item or service associated with any recommendation or guideline described in the federal regulations regarding coverage of preventive health services is subject to a safety recall or is otherwise determined by a federal agency authorized to regulate the item or service to pose a significant safety concern, such service will cease to be a covered service as of the date of the rating downgrade or agency determination.

Please also note: The frequency, method, treatment and setting of recommended preventive health services are subject to reasonable medical management techniques determined by the Plan Administrator or Claims Administrator in their discretion. Please contact an Anthem customer service associate using the number on the back of your ID card for information concerning any limitations upon recommended preventive health services arising out of the use of such techniques.

If a recommended preventive health service is billed separately (or is not tracked as individual encounter data separately) from an office visit, then the Plan may impose a co-payment and/or deductible for the office visit. If a recommended preventive health service is not billed separately (or is not tracked as individual encounter data separately) from an office visit and the primary purpose of the office visit is the delivery of the recommended preventive health service, then the Plan will not impose a co-payment, co-insurance and/or deductible for the office visit, unless you have chosen the PPO option and the office visit involves an Out-of-Network Provider. If a recommended preventive health service is not billed separately (or is not tracked as individual encounter data separately) from an office visit and the primary purpose of the office visit is not the delivery of the recommended preventive health service, then the Plan may impose a co-payment, co-insurance and/or deductible for the office visit.

You may contact an Anthem customer service associate using the number on the back of your ID card for additional information about these recommended preventive health services (or you may view the following federal government websites:

Gender Reassignment Surgery

Generally

Gender reassignment surgery is one treatment option for extreme cases of gender dysphoria. It is not a single procedure, but part of a complex process involving multiple medical, psychiatric, and surgical specialists working in conjunction with each other and the individual.

Plan Benefits for Specific Surgeries

The Plan pays benefits for gender reassignment surgery consisting of any combination of the following, if the Plan Administrator determines in its sole and absolute discretion that each such surgery is Medical Necessary: hysterectomy, salpingo-oophorectomy, ovariectomy, orchiectomy, metoidioplasty, phalloplasty, vaginoplasty, penectomy, clitoroplasty, labiaplasty, vaginectomy, scrotoplasty, urethroplasty, or placement of testicular prostheses.

See the “Definitions” subsection of the Benefits Program Overview for what constitutes a Medically Necessary service or supply. For a surgery to be considered Medically Necessary, all criteria established by the Plan Administrator for such surgery must be satisfied. For information concerning the criteria to be satisfied to establish medical necessity, please contact an Anthem customer service associate using the number on the back of your ID card.

Before the Plan pays benefits, Anthem, as Claims Administrator, must approve all hospital confinements and/or surgical procedures related to any gender reassignment surgery. Be sure to contact Anthem before you proceed with any gender reassignment surgery or related procedure.

Cosmetic Procedures or Services Not Covered

Cosmetic procedures or services in connection with gender reassignment surgery are not covered under the Plan. However, if the newborn requires treatment for an illness or injury or remains hospitalized after the mother is discharged from the hospital after giving birth, the Plan pays benefits for that care only if you add the newborn to coverage, provided the newborn is eligible for coverage under the Plan. (The newborn child of your female child is not eligible for coverage under the Plan.) To add an eligible newborn child to your coverage, you must call the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320, or log on to the website mysourceforhr.com and add the newborn child within 31 days of the actual birth. Provided the newborn child is eligible for coverage and you timely enroll the child, coverage for the newborn takes effect as of the date of birth. Please see the "Enrollment" and the "Changing and Continuing Your Elections" section of the Benefits Program Overview for further details.

The Plan pays also benefits for services performed to diagnose infertility. However, the Plan does not pay benefits for the treatment of infertility (i.e., artificial insemination, in-vitro fertilization, embryo transfer, etc.)

The Plan pays benefits for the rental of durable medical equipment at the Claims Administrator's determination. The durable medical equipment or supply must be primarily and customarily used to serve a medical purpose and be required for temporary therapeutic use (benefits are limited to the total cost of the equipment).

- Elective vasectomies and tubal ligations for the participant and his or her spouse (Please note that sterilization procedures for women will be covered as Preventive Care benefits);

- Extended care facility (convalescent care), as approved through the Claims Administrator;
- Home health care services. The Plan pays benefits as long as home health care is medically necessary, and the care is necessary for the same or a related condition as the hospital stay. The Plan pays benefits for the following home health care services:
 - Nursing services (RN or LPN);
 - Therapist services;
 - Home IV infusion;
 - Home health aid services;
 - Medically necessary services, supplies, and medications.

For the PPO coverage option, care must be provided through an accredited hospice care program and the hospice care program must be approved by the Claims Administrator and be licensed, certified or registered, if the state in which it is located requires the same.  - Coordinated home care;

 - Medications;
 - Nursing services (skilled and non-skilled);

To be eligible for hospice care benefits, you must be terminally ill and your attending physician must certify that your life expectancy is six months or less.

There may be instances when short episodes of traditional care are appropriate – even if you remain in the hospice setting. Even if the traditional services are not eligible for hospice care benefits, the Plan may still cover them. Charges incurred during periods of remission are not covered.

- Human organ and tissue transplant services. The Plan pays benefits for any medically necessary human organ and tissue transplant, as determined by the Plan Administrator, including necessary acquisition costs and preparatory myeloblastic therapy, and for all covered services that are (i) Medically Necessary, as determined by the Plan Administrator, and (ii) directly related to the disease that has necessitated the covered transplant procedure or that arise as a result of the procedure, including any diagnostic evaluation for the purpose of determining the appropriateness of the procedure for a covered person.

For cornea and kidney transplants, the benefits or requirements described below do not apply. These services are paid as inpatient services, outpatient services or physician office services, depending where the service is performed.

The Plan pays benefits only for facility and provider expenses that are described as covered expenses elsewhere in this Handbook.

Before the Plan pays benefits, Anthem, as Claims Administrator, must approve all hospital confinements and/or surgical procedures related to an organ or tissue transplant. Be sure to contact Anthem before you proceed with any treatment related to a transplant.

You should contact Anthem's transplant department to discuss benefit coverage when it is determined a transplant may be needed. Contact the Anthem Customer Service telephone number on the back of your Identification Card and ask for the transplant coordinator. Anthem will then assist you in maximizing your benefits by providing coverage information, including details regarding what is covered and whether any Plan provisions, network requirements or exclusions are applicable. Failure to obtain this information prior to receiving services could result in increased financial responsibility for you. If you choose an out-of-network facility or provider, the Plan will pay covered expenses based upon a determination of the Maximum Allowed

Amount and you will be responsible for any amount not paid by the Plan.

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Plan pays benefits for the following medically necessary services related to a human organ or tissue transplant:

- Physician's charges related to surgery, including charges for a surgical physician's assistant (if medically necessary), and related anesthesia.
- Inpatient covered hospital services related to the transplant procedure.
- Storage and transportation costs related to the donated organ or tissue (including the donor's medical expenses incurred as the result of a transplant provided the recipient is covered under the Plan, the expense is charged to the covered person, and no other source is available to pay the actual donor's medical expenses).
- Storage of the patient's own blood in advance of an approved transplant surgical procedure.

If a participating (in-network) transplant facility performs transplant-related services, the Plan pays benefits for medically necessary pre-transplant evaluations and 12 months of transplant-related follow-up care (including any rejection events).

The Plan will provide assistance with reasonable and necessary travel expenses as determined by the Plan Administrator when you obtain prior approval and are required to travel more than 100 miles from your residence to reach the facility where your covered transplant procedure will be performed. The Plan's assistance with travel expenses includes transportation to and from the facility and lodging for the patient and one companion. If the covered person receiving treatment is a minor, then reasonable and necessary expenses for transportation and lodging may be allowed for two companions.

Benefits for lodging are limited to $75.00 per day. There is a $20,000 combined maximum for travel and lodging. The covered person must submit itemized receipts for transportation and lodging expenses in a form satisfactory to the Plan Administrator when claims are filed.

Contact the Plan Administrator for detailed information.

How Your Prescription Drug Coverage Works in the PPO

When you participate in the PPO coverage option under the Plan, you are also provided with prescription drug coverage through the Anthem Prescription Drug Program. HMOs will provide separate prescription drug coverage.

Your benefits will vary depending on the type of prescription drug you take (generic, formulary or non-formulary) and how you buy it (at the pharmacy or through the mail).

- Generic - Drugs are no longer covered by the original patent. They include the same active ingredients as the brand-name drug at a fraction of the cost.

- Formulary - A list of approved drugs covered under the prescription drug plan. Drugs are selected for the formulary based on a combination of features, including safety, effectiveness and cost. You will pay less for a formulary drug than for a non-formulary drug.
- Non-formulary – Drugs that are not on the formulary list, but generally have a formulary alternative. You may choose non-formulary drugs, but you will pay more than a generic or formulary drug.

Prescription drug coverage under the PPO coverage option shall be subject to quantity limit and dose optimization programs. For certain prescription drugs, (i) the quantity limit program limits the amount of medicine that is covered by the Plan for a certain length of time, and (ii) the dose optimization program generally identifies covered persons receiving multiple doses of lower strength medications and, where clinically appropriate, optimizes or consolidates the regimen to a single dose of a higher strength medication. With respect to certain prescription drugs, the dose optimization program may also help ensure that as higher dosages of a given medication are prescribed, the covered person takes a single dose at the higher strength.

The PPO coverage option utilizes a step care therapy program for certain classes of prescription drugs. For a list of the drugs included in this program, please contact Anthem at the number on the back of your ID card. This program requires the utilization of an effective first-line medication before a more expensive alternative may be covered under the Plan. Therefore, medications that meet established guidelines and/or have a generic alternative must be used as the first-line medication before more expensive medications are authorized, unless your doctor informs Anthem otherwise.

The PPO coverage option utilizes a clinical prior authorization (CPA) program. CPA simply means you must get approval from Anthem before certain prescription drugs will be covered under the Plan. The CPA program reviews the use of certain very costly drugs, certain drugs that could be abused by the patient, and drugs that might not be the best choice for the patient's health problem. To see if the CPA program applies to a particular drug prescribed for you, contact Anthem toll-free at 1-800-228-2891.

Also, for the PPO coverage option, regardless of whether you use a retail pharmacy or the mail order service, if a prescribed brand-name drug has a generic substitute (that is, a drug with the same active ingredients as the brand-name drug), and if you or your Provider request that the brand-name drug be dispensed, you will be responsible for the applicable co-pay or co-insurance plus the difference in cost between the brand-name drug and the generic substitute.

You can fill your prescription at any participating pharmacy.

Retail

If you fill your prescription at a participating retail pharmacy, you need to meet a co-pay requirement. If your share of the drug's cost is less than the "minimum co-pay," you pay the minimum co-pay amount. If your share of the drug's cost is greater than the "maximum co-pay," you pay up to the maximum co-pay amount. See the "Highlights of Your Prescription Drug Coverage in the PPO Option" section of this Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD for further details on plan benefits.

The Plan provides no coverage for prescriptions filled through a retail pharmacy that is not a member of the network of participating retail pharmacies established by the PBM.

Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program

You and your covered dependents may also have your prescription filled for a 90-day supply at a retail pharmacy through the Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program. The prescription must be filled at a network pharmacy participating in the Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program. With this program you pay 20% of the cost of a three-month supply of the drug with applicable minimum and maximum of three times retail co-pays.

Mail Order Service

If you or your covered dependents use long-term medications, you can receive up to a 90-

day supply of certain covered medications through Anthem's mail order service. With the mail order service, you must submit your prescription and applicable co-pay amount through the mail. The amount you pay depends on whether you receive a generic, formulary brand, or non-formulary brand drug.

To use the Mail Order Service:

- Complete the Mail Service Pharmacy Order Form. A new order form and envelope will be sent to you with each delivery. Please Note: The registration/profile process may also be completed over the phone or online.
- Attach the prescription and a check in the amount of the applicable co-pay. Make your check payable to Anthem or provide a credit card number (follow the instructions on the form). Please do not submit cash with your order.
- Mail the Mail Service Pharmacy Order Form and your check to the Anthem mailing address included on the Form.
- Have your physician write a new original prescription so that you can submit it directly to the mail order service pharmacy with your Mail Service Pharmacy Order Form. If you need medication immediately, ask your doctor for two prescriptions:
 - One for an immediate supply (you can then take this to your local participating pharmacy)
 - A second one for the extended supply (you can then submit this one to the mail order service)

You will receive your mail order prescription approximately 14 days from the date your mail order is received.

To find out if your pharmacy is in the network, contact Anthem at 1-800-228-2891 to speak with a customer service representative. You may also log on to the Anthem website at anthem.com.

See the "Highlights of your Prescriptions Drug Coverage in the PPO Option" section for further details on plan benefits.

How Your Prescription Drug Coverage Works in the High Deductible Options

Regardless which High Deductible Option you participate in, you are covered under the Anthem Prescription Drug Program for your prescription drug coverage.

Prescription drug expenses are covered the same way as any other medical expense, subject to the deductible and co-insurance. These expenses are not subject to separate co-insurance or out-of-pocket maximum amounts. The drug plan is an open formulary, so there is no designation in terms of generic, brand, etc. Therefore, you will pay the discounted cost of the drug.

The High Deductible Options utilize a step care therapy program for certain classes of prescription drugs. For a list of the drugs included in this program, please contact Anthem at the number on the back of your ID card. This program requires the utilization of an effective first-line medication before a more expensive alternative may be covered under the Plan. Therefore, medications that meet established guidelines and/or have a generic alternative must be used as the first-line medication before more expensive medications are authorized, unless your doctor informs Anthem otherwise.

Also, for the High Deductible Options, regardless of whether you use a retail pharmacy or the mail order service, if a prescribed brand-name drug has a generic substitute (that is, a drug with the same active ingredients as the brand-name drug), and if you or your physician request that the brand-name drug be dispensed, you will be responsible for the applicable co-insurance plus the difference in cost between the brand-name drug and the generic substitute.

Retail Service

If you fill your prescription at a retail pharmacy and have not satisfied your deductible, you will pay the discounted cost of the drug. If you have satisfied your deductible, you will pay the applicable co-insurance amount, either 20% or 40%, dependent upon whether the pharmacy offers Anthem discounts.

To find out if your pharmacy is in the network, contact Anthem at 1-800-228-2891 to speak with a customer service representative. You may also log on to the Anthem website at anthem.com.

Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program

You and your covered dependents may also have your prescription filled for a 90-day supply at a retail pharmacy through the Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program. The prescription must be filled at a network pharmacy participating in the Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program. With this program you pay 20% of the cost of a three-month supply of the drug after you satisfy your deductible.

Mail Order Service

If you or your covered dependents use long-term medications, you can receive up to a 90-day supply of certain covered medications through the mail order service.

With the mail order service, you must submit an original prescription from your doctor and:

- Complete the Mail Order Pharmacy Form. A new order form envelope will be sent to you with each delivery.
- Attach the prescription and a check in the amount of the applicable discounted cost of the drug or co-insurance.
- Mail the Mail Order Pharmacy Form and your check to the address on the Form.

If you need medication immediately, ask your doctor for two prescriptions:

- One for an immediate supply (you can then take this to your local participating pharmacy and
- A second one for the extended supply (you can then submit this one to the mail order service)

You will receive your mail order prescription approximately 14 days from the date your mail order is received. To request a form or if you have questions, you may go to the Anthem website anthem.com or contact mail order customer service at 1-800-228-2891 to ask for assistance.

Beacon Health Options offers you and your family an Employee Assistance Program (EAP), which provides short term counseling, information, resources, and referrals on a variety of life issues that you may be facing. These issues can include:

- Marital and family relationships
- Finding child care
- Depression and anxiety
- Adopting a child
- Workplace Concerns
- Caring for an elderly parent
- Balancing work and your personal life
- Legal and financial issues

The EAP provides clinical, professional assistance 24 hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days a year at 1-800-946-5360. The EAP is a confidential program available at no cost; you and your household members have up to six (6) sessions per year with an EAP counselor, either in-person, telephonically or via video. Counselors will help you define your needs, and provide counseling, support and referrals as needed. If clinical assistance is needed beyond the six EAP sessions for outpatient or inpatient treatment, you are responsible for the care selected.

You can also call the EAP for Work Life issues, e.g., eldercare and childcare. Extensive searches for information and services compatible with your family's preferences and finances will be provided. Work Life Consultants work hard to find resources that fit your budget requirements. Resource and referral information provided to you is at no cost. However, you are responsible for costs associated with services and businesses with whom you may contract.

Additionally, you can call the EAP for guidance on legal and financial issues including, but not limited to, divorce, domestic violence, criminal, civil, landlord tenant issues, debt management, estate planning, family budgeting, etc. The benefit allows for a free 30-minute consultation with a financial consultant, a 60-minute consultation with an attorney for family law issues and a 35% discount if you retain the attorney, and a free 30-minute consultation with an attorney for legal issues other than family law, with a 25% discount if the attorney is retained.

Health Savings Account (HSA)

As a Pre-65 Retiree, you cannot continue to make contributions by means of payroll deduction to the health savings account ("HSA") you established through the Company. However you may continue to contribute to your HSA outside of payroll deduction (or to another health savings account you establish) until you attain age 65, provided you are enrolled in the HDPPO 1 or HDPPO 2 options or other eligible high deductible coverage and you are otherwise eligible under Federal law to contribute to such an account.

If you previously contributed to an HSA through the Company by means of payroll deduction, your HSA contributions made through payroll deduction as well as the Company's contributions to your HSA will stop when you retire. Your account balance goes with you, however, and continues to earn interest. You may continue to use your HSA to pay for future medical expenses during retirement. However, you will be responsible for paying any monthly fees related to the administration of your account. Upon your retirement, your HSA will be converted to a new direct account in your name, and you will receive a new debit card you can use to pay for eligible expenses.

Contact the HSA custodian, UMB, directly at 1-866-520-4472 if you have any questions about your HSA or your debit card after you retire.

Coordination of Benefits (COB)

If you or your dependents have coverage under another medical plan or program, your benefits under the Plan coordinate with benefits outside the Plan to help eliminate duplicate payments for the same services. See the "Coordination of Benefits (COB)" information in the Benefits Program Overview section to learn more about the Plan's COB features.

Please Note: If you or your covered dependent are enrolled in Medicare due to end-stage renal disease, and if Medicare is not already paying as primary, the Plan continues to pay as primary during the first 30 months of dialysis or the first 30 months of treatment in connection with a kidney transplant. Thereafter, Medicare generally becomes the primary payor of benefits.

Filing a Claim

Generally, In-Network Providers file claims on your behalf. If so, the Claims Administrator will send payments directly to the provider. You will be sent a statement itemizing what has been paid.

If your provider does not file claims on your behalf, you must file your claims as follows:

- Complete the appropriate claim form. Claim forms can be obtained by calling Anthem at the number listed on the back of your ID card.
- Attach copies of all available medical bills that should be considered for Plan benefits. These bills should include:
 - Name of patient;
 - Name and Social Security number of Retiree;
 - Date of treatment;
 - Type of treatment;
 - Charge for the treatment;
 - Provider of the treatment; and
 - Any other information that clearly indicates the medical expense
- Mail your completed claim form to the address on the back of your benefit plan ID card.

- Submit your claim to the Claims Administrator as soon as possible after you receive the covered service.

The Claims Administrator will process your claim. Generally, claim payments are sent directly to providers. However, there may be situations where payments are sent directly to you (i.e. your provider is not a member of the network). Any claims submitted after 18 months from the date of service generally will not be considered for payment. If you have any questions regarding filing claims, contact Anthem at the number listed on the back of your ID card.

Claim Determination and Appeal Process

For information regarding the Plan's claim determination and appeal process, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled "Claim Determination and Appeal Process – Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan."

Continuation of Coverage

General

For information regarding continuation of coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, including COBRA continuation coverage, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled "Continuation of Coverage."

Additional Information

Your Rights Under the Newborn's and Mother's Health Protection Act

Under Federal law, the Plan generally may not restrict benefits for any hospital length of stay in connection with childbirth for the mother or newborn child to less than 48 hours following a vaginal delivery, or less than 96 hours following a delivery by cesarean section. However, Federal law generally does not prohibit a shorter stay if the attending provider, after consultation with the mother, discharges the mother or newborn earlier than 48 hours (or 96 hours as applicable). In any case, the Plan may not require that the provider obtain authorization from the Plan for prescribing a length of stay that is not in excess of the above periods.

Women's Health and Cancer Rights Act of 1998

Federal law requires the Plan to provide coverage for the following services to an individual receiving Plan benefits in connection with a mastectomy:

- All stages of reconstruction of the breast on which the mastectomy has been performed;
- Surgery and reconstruction of the other breast to produce a symmetrical appearance;
- Prostheses; and
- Treatment of physical complications for all stages of a mastectomy, including lymphedemas (swelling associated with the removal of lymph nodes).

These benefits will be provided subject to the same deductibles and co-insurance applicable to other medical and surgical benefits provided under the Plan. If you would like more information on these benefits, contact the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

*Medicare introduced an optional prescription drug benefit (also known as Medicare part D) in January 2006. This benefit offers coverage for part of the cost of many prescription drugs for Medicare-eligible participants. You may want to consider enrolling in Medicare Part D to receive prescription drug benefits through Medicare. If you are eligible for coverage under Medicare Part D and do not enroll during your initial enrollment period, you may incur significant penalties in the form of higher Medicare premiums when you ultimately do enroll in coverage. Note: The MAP Option offers prescription drug coverage. Once you enroll in the MAP-Med Only Option, you may not later enroll in the MAP Option. See "Enrollment in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan" in the Benefits Program Overview for more information. You cannot be enrolled in both Medicare Part D prescription drug coverage and prescription drug coverage under the MAP Option.

Medical Expenses Not Covered

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the medical expenses not covered under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan include, but may not be limited to those medical expenses that would not be covered by Medicare, charges that a covered person is not legally required to pay and charges that would not have been made if the Plan had not existed, and charges incurred prior to the effective date of coverage, or after the termination date of coverage.

Please contact the Claims Administrator with questions regarding those medical expenses not covered.

To confirm if an expense is eligible for reimbursement, contact an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card.

How to File a Claim

Since the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan is designed to supplement your coverage under Medicare, Medicare is your primary carrier. That means that, as a general rule, your expenses must be submitted to Medicare before they are submitted to the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan for payment.

Medical expenses are usually submitted to Medicare directly by the provider. However, it is your responsibility to submit your claim to the Plan's Claim Administrator for benefit payments under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

Some providers, however, may submit your expenses to both Medicare and the Plan for payment. In that event, you would not need to submit any additional claim forms. Please ask your provider whether your claim filing will be submitted to Anthem for your Medicare Supplement benefit payments.

In the event you must submit a claim form to Anthem for your benefit payment, that claim form may be obtained by calling Anthem at the number listed on the back of your ID card. Your Medicare Explanation of Benefits (EOB) must be included when filing a claim with Anthem. If you have any questions relating to your claim filing process, you can call Anthem at the number listed on the back of your ID card. Claim forms should be submitted to:

Anthem Blue Cross and Blue Shield
P.O. Box 105187
Atlanta, GA 30348
anthem.com
1-800-228-2891

Please note that it is essential that you include the Medicare Explanation of Benefits form with your claim form because the Plan's benefits are computed on the basis of what Medicare approved as eligible expense.

Retain copies of all bills and Medicare correspondence for your records.

Below is a list of details that are often erroneously omitted from claim forms. Please refer to it when completing your claim form so you can make sure your claim form is complete.

1. Age and relationship of dependent
2. Physician's statement showing place, date and charge for treatment.
3. Itemized X-ray and laboratory bills showing date, charge and type of examination.
4. Full statement as to how, when and where injury occurred.

No cancelled checks, receipts or summaries of balances due are acceptable as evidence of expense incurred—only itemized statements accompanied by a Medicare Explanation of Benefits form are acceptable. Furthermore, a separate claim form must be completed by you and your physician for each sickness or injury. However, in case of chronic illnesses such as allergies or hypertension, you only must submit one physician's statement each calendar year.

One additional point to keep in mind is that the MAP-Med Only Option and the Medicare Supplement Option do not cover prescription drug expenses.

EAP/Work Life/Legal & Financial Services

Beacon Health Options offers you and your family an Employee Assistance Program (EAP), which provides short term counseling, information, resources, and referrals on a variety of life issues that you may be facing. These issues can include:

- Marital and family relationships
- Finding child care
- Depression and anxiety
- Adopting a child
- Workplace Concerns
- Caring for an elderly parent
- Balancing work and your personal life
- Legal and financial issues

The EAP provides clinical, professional assistance 24 hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days a year at 1-800-946-5360. The EAP is a confidential program available at no cost; you and your household members have up to six (6) sessions per year with an EAP counselor, either in-person, telephonically or via video. Counselors will help you define your needs, and provide counseling, support and referrals as needed. If clinical assistance is needed beyond the six EAP sessions for outpatient or inpatient treatment, you are responsible for the care selected.

You can also call the EAP for Work Life issues, e.g., eldercare and childcare. Extensive searches for information and services compatible with your family's preferences and finances will be provided. Work Life Consultants work hard to find resources that fit your budget requirements. Resource and referral information provided to you is at no cost. However, you are responsible for costs associated with services and businesses with whom you may contract.

Additionally, you can call the EAP for guidance on legal and financial issues including, but not limited to, divorce, domestic violence, criminal, civil, landlord tenant issues, debt management, estate planning, family budgeting, etc. The benefit allows for a free 30-minute consultation with a financial consultant, a 60-minute consultation with an attorney for family law issues and a 35% discount if you retain the attorney, and a free 30-minute consultation with an attorney for legal issues other than family law, with a 25% discount if the attorney is retained.

Claim Determination and Appeal Process

For information regarding the Plan's claim determination and appeal process, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled "Claim Determination and Appeal Process – Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan."

Continuation of Coverage

For information regarding continuation of coverage under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, including COBRA continuation coverage, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled "Continuation of Coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan."

Additional Information

Your Rights Under the Newborn's and Mother's Health Protection Act

Under Federal law, the Plan generally may not restrict benefits for any hospital length of stay in connection with childbirth for the mother or newborn child to less than 48 hours following a vaginal delivery, or less than 96 hours following a delivery by cesarean section. However, Federal law generally does not prohibit a shorter stay if the attending provider, after consultation with the mother, discharges the mother or newborn earlier than 48 hours (or 96 hours as applicable). In any case, the Plan may not require that the provider obtain authorization from the Plan for prescribing a length of stay that is not in excess of the above periods.

Retiree Life Insurance Plan

Retiree Term Life Coverage -Basic Plan

Retiree Supplemental AD&D Coverage

Dependents AD&D Coverage

Your Retiree Life Insurance and AD&D Options

This is the SPD (the "Retiree Life Insurance SPD") for the NiSource Life Insurance Plan, also referred to as the Retiree Life Insurance Plan. In this Retiree Life Insurance SPD, the Retiree Life Insurance Plan is sometimes referred to as the "Plan."

NiSource Inc. (the "Company") offers the NiSource Life Insurance Plan to eligible Retirees with the following coverage options (each a "Coverage Option"):

- Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage Option;
- Supplemental Retiree AD&D Coverage Option; and
- Dependents AD&D Coverage Option.

Benefits are provided under one or more group insurance contracts (collectively, the "Group Contract") and one or more group insurance certificates (collectively, the "Group Insurance Certificate") issued by Minnesota Life Insurance Company ("Securian"), an affiliate of Securian Financial Group, Inc., who is the Insurer and Claims Administrator and is wholly responsible for the payment of benefits.

If there is a conflict between the Group Contract and Group Insurance Certificate, on the one hand, and this Retiree Life Insurance SPD, on the other hand, the terms of the Group Contract and the Group Insurance Certificate shall prevail. You should refer to the Group Insurance Certificate for a detailed explanation of the benefits offered under the Plan and the limitations upon those benefits, and for an explanation of the various terms and concepts used in this Retiree Life Insurance SPD. You may obtain a copy of the Group Insurance Certificate by contacting the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

The Plan provides (i) life insurance and, if elected, AD&D coverage on the persons of eligible Retirees, and (ii) AD&D coverage, if elected on the persons of your "eligible dependents".

Eligibility

For information regarding eligibility under the Retiree Life Insurance Plan, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled "Eligibility under the Retiree Life Insurance Plan."

Information regarding eligibility can be accessed through the website mysourceforhr.com or by calling the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320 to speak to a service representative.

Enrollment

For information regarding enrollment under the Retiree Life Insurance Plan, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled "Enrollment in the Retiree Life Insurance Plan."

Contributions

Premium contributions are not required for the Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage Option. However, if you elect any of the AD&D Coverage Options, you will contribute to the cost of such coverage. If you have questions regarding the amount of your required contributions, please contact the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

When Coverage Begins and Ends

For information regarding when coverage begins and ends under the Retiree Life Insurance Plan, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled "When Coverage Begins and Ends – Retiree Life Insurance Plan."

Beneficiaries and Assignments

Refer to the Group Insurance Certificate for details regarding designation of beneficiaries under the Coverage Option. You can obtain a beneficiary form by calling the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320. Securian has prepared information about the modes of settlement that are available. For further information, contact the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

The Group Insurance Certificate also contains rules regarding the assignment of your insurance under a Coverage Option. Refer to the Group Insurance Certificate for the terms and conditions under which such assignments may be made.

Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage

The Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage Option provides a benefit to your beneficiary or beneficiaries in the amount of $25,000. There is no cash value associated with, or attributable to, the Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage Option.

Please Note: No lawsuit or legal action of any kind regarding a claim for benefits under the Plan may be commenced unless the claims procedure process for internal appeals (but not including any voluntary appeal) has been exhausted. In addition, in no event may any lawsuit or other legal action regarding a claim for benefits be commenced later than three years after the end of the period within which proof of claim is required, unless otherwise provided under Federal law. For more information, see the "Claims Determination and Appeal Process – Life Insurance Plan" section of the Benefits Program Overview, and in particular the section entitled "Limitation of Actions and Venue," found on page 39.

Payment of Death Benefits under Life Coverage

If you die while covered under the Plan, the amount of insurance on you is payable when Securian's home office receives written proof satisfactory to it that you died while covered under the Plan and insured under the Group Insurance Certificate. If you die within 31 days after ceasing to be covered under the Plan, but while you are entitled to convert insurance under the Plan to an individual contract, death benefits in the amount of insurance that could have been converted may be payable when Securian receives written proof as described above.

Death Benefits under the Retiree Term Life Coverage Option are payable according to Securian's beneficiary and mode of settlement rules.

Conversion Privilege for Life Coverage

If all or a part of your Retiree Term Life Insurance terminates because you move from one existing eligible class to another, or you are no longer in an eligible class, you may convert up to the full amount of terminated insurance.

Limited conversion is available if, after you have been insured for at least five years, insurance is terminated because (1) the Group Contract is terminated; or (2) the Group Contract is changed to reduce or terminate your insurance. In such case, you may convert up to the full amount of terminated insurance, but not more than the maximum. The maximum is the lesser of: (a) $10,000; and (b) the amount of life insurance which terminated minus any amount of group life insurance for which you become eligible under any group policy issued or reinstated by Securian or any other carrier within 31 days of the date the insurance terminated under the Group Contract.

Under both the conversion right and the limited conversion right, you may convert your insurance to any type of individual policy of life insurance then customarily issued by the life insurance company for purposes of conversion, except term insurance. The individual policy will not include any supplemental benefits, including, but not limited to, any disability benefits, accidental death and dismemberment benefits, or accelerated benefits.

See the "Highlights of Conversion and Portability Features" below for additional details regarding the conversion privilege. Also, refer to the Group Insurance Certificate for additional details, terms and conditions.

AD&D Coverage

Supplemental Retiree AD&D Coverage Option

Subject to eligibility and enrollment requirements described above, you may enroll for supplemental retiree AD&D coverage in any multiple of $10,000 up to a maximum of $50,000.

Please Note: No lawsuit or legal action of any kind regarding a claim for benefits under the Plan may be commenced unless the claims procedure process for internal appeals (but not including any voluntary appeal) has been exhausted. In addition, in no event may any lawsuit or other legal action regarding a claim for benefits be commenced later than three years after the end of the period within which proof of claim is required, unless otherwise provided under Federal law. For more information, see the "Claims Determination and Appeal Process – Life Insurance Plan" section of the Benefits Program Overview, and in particular the section entitled "Limitation of Actions and Venue," found on page 39.

Dependents AD&D Coverage Option

You may enroll for AD&D coverage on each of your "eligible dependents" in an amount equal to a percentage of your Supplemental Retiree AD&D Coverage, as set forth below:

Eligible dependents	Amount of Insurance on each Eligible Dependent (as % of Retiree AD&D Coverage)
Spouse (with children)	50% on spouse
Spouse (no children)	60% on spouse
Each child	10% on each child

Additional AD&D Coverage

The Plan provides additional benefits under Supplemental Retiree and Dependents AD&D Coverage for a person's loss of life as a result of a covered accident in an automobile while using a seat belt or as a result of an accident in an automobile while using an air bag. The additional benefits are both in an amount equal to 10% of the amount payable due to the death or dismemberment. The additional benefits are subject to various conditions and limitations. For a description of these conditions and limitations, refer to the Group Insurance Certificate.

Covered Losses under AD&D Coverage

AD&D Coverage pays benefits for death or dismemberment resulting, directly and independently of all other causes, from an accidental injury which is unintended, unexpected and unforeseen.

The injury must occur while your coverage under the Plan and the Group Insurance Certificate is in force. Your death or dismemberment must occur within 365 days after the date of the injury and while your coverage under the Plan and the Group Insurance Certificate is in force.

The amount of the accidental death and dismemberment benefit is described below:

Loss of or by reason of	Percent of Person's Amount of Insurance
Life; both hands; both feet; sight of both eyes; speech and hearing; one hand and one foot; one foot and sight of one eye; one hand and sight of one eye; quadriplegia	100%
Paraplegia	75%
Sight of one eye; speech; hearing; one hand; one foot; hemiplegia	50%
Thumb and index finger of one hand	25%

Loss of hands or feet means complete severance at or above the wrist or ankle joints. Loss of sight, speech, or hearing means the entire and irrecoverable loss of sight, speech, or hearing which cannot be corrected by medical or surgical treatment or by artificial means. Loss of thumb and index finger means complete severance of both the thumb and the index finger at or above the metacarpophalangeal joints.

Quadriplegia means total and permanent paralysis of both upper limbs and both lower limbs.

Paraplegia means total and permanent paralysis of both lower limbs. Hemiplegia means total and permanent paralysis of both the upper limb and lower limb on one side of the body.

A benefit is not payable for both loss of thumb and index finger of one hand and the loss of one hand for injury to the same hand as a result of any one accident.

Benefits may be paid for more than one accidental injury, but the total amount of insurance payable under the Plan and the Group Insurance Certificate for all of your losses due to any one accident will never exceed the full amount of insurance described above.

Benefits will be paid upon receipt by Securian at its home office of written proof satisfactory to it that you or your eligible dependent died or suffered dismemberment as a result of an accidental injury.

Losses Not Covered

A loss is not covered if it results from or is caused directly or indirectly by any of the following: (1) Suicide or attempted suicide, while sane or insane; (2) Intentionally self-inflicted injuries, or any attempt to inflict such injuries; (3) sickness, whether the loss results directly or indirectly from the sickness; (4) medical or surgical treatment of sickness, whether the loss results directly or indirectly from the treatment; (5) Any infection (but this does not include (a) a pyogenic infection resulting from an accidental cut or wound; or (b) a bacterial infection resulting from accidental ingestion of a contaminated substance); (6) War, or any act of war ("War" means declared or undeclared war and includes resistance to armed aggression); (7) an accident that occurs while the person is serving on full-time active duty for more than 30 days in any armed forces (not including Reserve or National Guard active duty for training); (8) travel in or descent from any aircraft, except: a) as a fare-paying passenger on a regularly scheduled commercial flight on a licensed passenger aircraft carrier; b) while the employee is performing as a pilot or crew member of an employer owned, leased or operated aircraft; or c) while the employee is riding as a passenger in an aircraft which is owned, leased, or operated by the eligible employee's employer or its affiliate or by a customer of the employer or its affiliate; (9) commission of or attempt to commit a felony; (10) being legally intoxicated or under the influence of any narcotic unless administered or consumed on the advice of a doctor; or (11) participation in these hazardous sports: scuba diving; bungee jumping; skydiving; parachuting; hang gliding; or ballooning.

Portability of AD&D Coverage

If AD&D Coverage ceases, you may have the right to apply for coverage for yourself or for your "eligible dependent," as the case may be, under a Portability Plan maintained by the life insurance company. The terms and conditions (including the amount of coverage) under the Portability Plan will not be the same as those under the Plan.

To continue coverage under the Portability Plan, you must make a written request and make the first premium contribution within 31 days after insurance provided by the Plan or Group Contract would otherwise terminate. Evidence of insurability will not be required. Portability coverage then be deemed effective retroactive to the beginning of the 31-day period. This date is considered to be your portability date and you are then considered to have portability status. In order for your eligible dependents to continue Dependents AD&D Coverage, you must port your Retiree Supplemental AD&D Insurance.

See the table below entitled "Highlights of Conversion and Portability Features," for additional details regarding the portability feature. Also, refer to the Group Insurance Certificate for additional details, terms and conditions.

Your Eligibility for Portability Coverage

You and your eligible dependents are eligible to continue your Retiree Supplemental AD&D

Coverage and Dependents AD&D Coverage under the terms of the Plan and Group Insurance Certificate if you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for coverage (other than portability coverage) due to any of the following:

- (1) you are no longer in a class eligible for coverage; or
- (2) a class or group of employees insured under the Plan is no longer considered eligible and there is no successor plan for that class or group. (Successor plan means an insurance policy or policies provided by the life insurance company or another insurer that replaces insurance provided under the Plan).

You will not be eligible to request portability coverage if you:

- (1) have attained the age of 80; or
- (2) lose eligibility due to termination of the Plan or Group Contract.

Maximum and Minimum Amount of Coverage under the Portability Plan

The maximum amount of insurance that can be continued under the Portability Plan is the amount of insurance that was in force on the insured's portability date. However, for an insured age 65 or older on his or her portability date, the amount will not be more than 65% of the amount in force on the insured's portability date.

When an insured attains age 65, the amount of insurance continued under the Portability Plan will reduce to 65% of the amount of insurance in force on the day prior to attainment of age 65. Insurance terminates at age 80.

The minimum amount of insurance that can be continued under the Portability Plan is $10,000. This minimum does not apply to an eligible dependent.

You may elect to reduce the amount of insurance on your life under the Portability Plan. However, your remaining amount of insurance must be at least $10,000. The amount of insurance continued under the Portability Plan will never increase.

Regaining Eligibility Under Plan

If you are continuing coverage under the terms of Portability Plan, and you again meet the eligibility requirements of the Plan and the Group Insurance Certificate (not including the requirements for portability coverage), you shall no longer be considered to have portability status. Insurance may be continued only under the terms of the Plan and the Group Insurance Certificate, unless and until you no longer meet the eligibility requirements thereunder and again return to portability status as provided for herein.

Continuation of Portability Coverage After Termination of Group Contract

Termination of the Group Contract will not terminate insurance then in force for any person with portability status. The Group Contract will be deemed to remain in force solely for the purpose of continuing such insurance, but without the obligation of the Company.

Termination of Portability Coverage

Insurance being continued under the Portability Plan will terminate on the earliest of the following:

- (1) the insured attaining age 80; or
- (2) the date the insured again meets the eligibility requirements of the Plan and the Group Insurance Certificate; or
- (3) in the case of your dependent child or a spouse who is covered under the Plan, the date your coverage is no longer being continued under the Portability Plan or the date your spouse or child ceases to be eligible under the Plan; or
- (4) 31 days after the due date of any premium contribution which is not made.

See the "Highlights of Conversion and Portability Features" below for additional details regarding the portability privilege. Also, refer to the Group Insurance Certificate for additional details, terms and conditions.

Benefits Program Overview

The Benefit of Choice – An Introduction to the Program

The benefit information contained in this Handbook applies to eligible retired employees (A) who were former non-union full-time employees (non-exempt hired before January 1, 2013, or exempt hired before January 1, 2010) who retired from employment with NiSource Inc. ("NiSource" or the "Company") or a participating employer (the Company and each participating employer, an "Employer") through CMA Bridging (defined below) on or after October 9, 2020, after having attained age 55, and (B) who are covered under one or more of the NiSource Life and Medical Benefits Program and the NiSource Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan (collectively, the "Program"), or various component benefit plans of the foregoing. For Program recordkeeping purposes, the Plan Administrator, in its discretion, has designated such eligible retirees as belonging to Retiree Benefit Program 101Y21.

A participating employer with respect to any particular benefit coverage under the Program is an affiliate of the Company that has adopted, or is deemed to have adopted, such benefit coverage, as provided in the plan documents governing such coverage. The NiSource Benefits Committee (the "Committee") has sole discretion to determine who is a participating employer.

This Handbook serves as the Summary Plan Descriptions ("SPDs") for the benefit plans as of January 1, 2021. It completely replaces any SPDs or summaries of material modifications that you have previously received with respect to the benefits described herein. The information enclosed has been prepared to summarize the benefits in an easy to understand format and is not intended to replace or supersede the official plan documents. The official plan documents are the governing documents in the event that questions arise or if there is a conflict between an SPD or any oral communication, on the one hand, and an official plan document, on the other hand. The Committee reserves the right to terminate, change or modify any plan provision at any time without the consent of, or advance notice to, you or your covered dependents, subject to the provisions of any applicable collective bargaining agreement.

The Program, or a portion thereof, also covers the following classes of employees, although benefits for such classes of employees are described in separate Handbooks and not herein: full-time exempt employees; part-time exempt employees; full-time non-exempt employees; part-time non-exempt employees; full-time employees who are members of certain collective bargaining units; part-time employees who are members of certain collective bargaining units; retirees who formerly were employees described in certain of the foregoing classes; and certain temporary work force and/or part-time status employees

General Information Concerning Eligibility

You and your eligible dependents (as defined below or in the applicable individual benefit plan sections of this Handbook) will be eligible to participate in the benefit plans when and to the extent provided under the applicable benefit plan. Generally, you and your eligible dependents will be eligible to elect to participate in the benefit plans on the later of the date of your retirement.

A Retiree (other than a Safety Plan Rehired) who is rehired by an Employer shall lose eligibility for coverage as a Retiree under the Retiree Medical Plans (and shall not be eligible for such coverage upon his or her subsequent retirement), but may be eligible for coverage under the NiSource Consolidated Flex Medical Plan as an employee, subject to the terms and conditions for employee coverage under that benefit plan.

A "Safety Plan Rehired" is a Retiree who is rehired by Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc. after January 1, 2019 to support the construction activities associated with regulator station replacement in conjunction with the LP-

Enhanced Safety Plan and natural gas system replacement projects. Upon retirement from Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., a Safety Plan Rehired shall once more be eligible for retiree medical benefits under the applicable Retiree Medical Plan and shall be treated as a member of the Covered Retiree Group to which he or she belonged immediately prior to being rehired by Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc. A "Covered Retiree Group" is a group of similarly situated employees that is entitled to retiree medical benefits at retirement, as determined by the Plan Administrator in its absolute discretion.

Please Note: It is your responsibility to advise the Benefits Source when a person is no longer eligible for coverage as a dependent under a benefit plan. Any amounts paid by a benefit plan on behalf of a person who is no longer an eligible dependent will be required to be repaid to the plan. Enrollment of, or failure to disenroll, a person who does not satisfy the eligibility requirements for coverage under a benefit plan will be deemed to constitute fraud or intentional misrepresentation of a material fact and may result in retroactive termination of benefits and required repayment of any ineligible expenses. Also, enrollment of a dependent under a benefit plan may be denied or revoked if you fail to provide information or evidence reasonably requested by the Plan Administrator or its designee concerning the dependent's eligibility for coverage under the plan.

Eligibility under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan

Pre-65 Retirees are eligible to participate in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan. Post-65 Retirees are eligible to participate in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan. Provided, however, that your eligibility will not commence before your Retiree Eligibility Date.

If you are a Pre-65 Retiree participating in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or a Post-65 Retiree participating in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, (a) you may cover your eligible dependents under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan if they have not attained age 65, and (b) you may cover your eligible dependents under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan if they have attained age 65.

Your eligible dependents include:

- Your Spouse, provided you are not legally separated;
- With respect to insured Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan coverage that is provided under a policy of health insurance or pursuant to a contract with a health maintenance organization, but only to the extent and for as long as required by applicable state law, your former spouse or your spouse from whom you are legally separated;
- Your child who has not attained 26 years of age;
- Your unmarried child who satisfies the dependency test below and who is incapable of self-sustaining employment due to mental or physical disability if:
(1) the child's disability arose before the date dependent status would otherwise have terminated; (2) proof of the child's disability, if requested by the Claims Administrator, is received by the Claims Administrator within 31 days of the date dependent status would otherwise have terminated, (3) the child is dependent upon you for financial support and maintenance, (4) you continue to be covered by the Plan, and (5) the child's disability continues;

Please Note: To maintain coverage, you must furnish proof of your child's disability to the Claims Administrator every three years, or more frequently as requested by the Claims Administrator. If the Claims Administrator determines that you have failed to furnish sufficient proof of your child's disability or if it determines that your child is no longer disabled, coverage for your child will cease.

- Your child who is recognized under any court order, including a Qualified Medical Child Support Order recognized as being legally sufficient, as having a right to participate in the Plan as a dependent (and with respect to the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, who is age 65 or older).

A child satisfies the dependency test for a particular Plan Year if you would be allowed a dependent exemption for such child in computing your federal taxable income for such year, even if the Code provides that the value of such exemption for a particular year is zero. Your child also satisfies the dependency test for a particular Plan Year if (1) such child receives over half of his or her support during the year from his or her parents and is in the custody of one or both parents for more than half of the year, (2) at least one parent would be allowed a dependent exemption for such child in computing such parent's federal taxable income for such year, and (3) the child's parents are divorced, legally separated under a decree of divorce or separate maintenance, legally separated under a written separation agreement, or live apart at all times for the last six months of the year. In making these determinations, you may ignore the child's gross income for such year. You should consult a tax advisor if you have any questions about whether your child satisfies this dependency test.

Please refer to the website mysourceforhr.com, or call the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320 if you are unsure of whether you are eligible to participate in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

Enrollment

General Information Concerning Enrollment

When you first become eligible to participate in a benefit plan, and each year during annual enrollment, you have the opportunity to select retiree medical coverage for you and your eligible dependents.

You are automatically enrolled for EAP/Work Life/Legal & Financial coverage (even if you elect the No Coverage Option for retiree medical coverage) upon the date you become eligible for such coverage.

To enroll in retiree medical coverage, you must log on to the website mysourceforhr.com or call the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

Enrollment in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan

Provided you meet the eligibility requirements, as described in the "Eligibility" section above, you and your eligible dependents can participate in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and/or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, as applicable, if you properly enroll or are deemed to have enrolled.

For the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, if you are a newly eligible retiree, you must enroll yourself and any eligible dependents in retiree medical coverage no later than 31 days after the later of (i) the date of your retirement, and (ii) your Retiree Eligibility Date.

For the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, you must enroll yourself and any eligible dependents before 31 days after the later of (i) the date of your retirement, and (ii) the date you attain age 65.

In general, once you enroll for (or decline) coverage in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, your elections stay in effect for the entire Plan Year and can only be changed during annual enrollment. However, if you experience a qualified life event, you may enroll or change existing coverage during the year. Please see the "Changing and Continuing Elections" section of this Benefits Program Overview for further details. Also, you may select the "No Coverage" option at any time; however once you select this option, you may select another coverage option only at annual enrollment or in connection with a qualified life event that would permit such change.

With respect to the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, you and your eligible dependents may not enroll in the Medicare Supplement Option if at any time you were enrolled in the MAP Option or MAP-Med Only Option. Similarly, you and your eligible dependents may not enroll in the MAP Option or MAP-Med Only Option if at any time you were enrolled in the Medicare Supplement Option. You may change your enrollment from the MAP Option to the MAP-Med Only Option only at annual enrollment or in connection with a qualified life event that would permit such change. You may not change your enrollment from the MAP Med-Only Option to the MAP Option and you may not enroll in the MAP Option if at any time you or any of your dependents once were enrolled in the MAP-Med Only Option. If you have enrolled your eligible dependent in a Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan option and you subsequently become eligible for coverage under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, you may enroll only in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan coverage option in which your dependent is enrolled or in the "No Coverage" option.

If you enroll in Medicare Part D prescription drug coverage, you may not enroll or remain enrolled in the MAP Option providing prescription drug coverage. If you later lose or drop Medicare Part D coverage, you will not be able to enroll in the MAP Option.

To enroll in retiree medical coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan upon first becoming eligible, you must call the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320 within 31 days after you attain age 55. Provided you have timely elected coverage, your benefit plan enrollment in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan will be effective on the first day of the month in which you attain age 55.

After becoming eligible for coverage, if at any time you have enrolled in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, enrollment materials for the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan will automatically be sent to you when you approach age 65. You will have 31 days after you attain age 65 to mail your medical plan election form or otherwise to complete enrollment in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan. If, after becoming eligible for coverage, you never enroll in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, you must call the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320 no later than 31 days after you attain age 65 to enroll in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan. Provided you timely elect coverage, your enrollment in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan will be effective as of the first day of the month in which you attain age 65. (If you are a Pre-65 Retiree who attains age 65 on the first day of a month, your enrollment in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan will be effective as of the first day of the month immediately preceding the month in which you attain age 65.)

Please Note:

You will not automatically receive enrollment materials for retiree medical coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, whether at the time of your termination of employment or when you first become eligible for coverage upon attaining age 55. You must contact the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320 as you approach age 55 to enroll in retiree medical coverage. If you do not call and enroll in retiree medical coverage within 31 days after you attain age 55, your next opportunity to enroll in retiree medical coverage will be at the next annual enrollment or upon the occurrence of a qualified life event. You will not receive any notification of these additional enrollment opportunities.

If you never enroll in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan after becoming eligible for coverage, you must contact the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320 within 31 days after attaining age 65 to enroll in coverage under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan. If you do not call and enroll in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan within 31 days after you attain age 65, your next opportunity to enroll in retiree medical coverage will be at the next annual enrollment or upon the occurrence of a qualified life event. You will not receive any notification of these additional enrollment opportunities.

In the event you fail to enroll in retiree medical coverage upon first becoming eligible (including by failing to elect the No Coverage Option), you fail to enroll in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan upon attaining age 65, or you fail to enroll your eligible dependent in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan when he or she attains age 65, the following will take place:

- If you or an eligible dependent are under age 65, you will be deemed to have elected the No Coverage Option under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan;
- If you are age 65 or over, you will not be covered by any plan for retiree medical benefits as of the date of your retirement or the date you attain age 65; and

- If your eligible dependent is age 65 or over, he or she will not be covered by any plan for retiree medical benefits as of the date he or she attains age 65.

Your next opportunity to enroll in retiree medical coverage will be at the next annual enrollment or upon the occurrence of a qualified life event.

If you are a current Retiree enrolled in retiree medical coverage and you do not make changes during the annual enrollment process, your current benefits, if available, will be maintained.

Special Enrollment Rights and Opportunities

Please see the "Changing and Continuing Elections" subsection of this Benefits Program Overview for details.

Dual Coverages

If you and your dependent(s) (spouse and/or your child) are eligible for Program benefits as active employees or retirees of NiSource or one of its affiliates, any of you may choose coverage either for yourselves only or for yourselves and your eligible dependents. However, for most Program benefits, it is not possible to be covered by more than one NiSource benefit plan of the same type (e.g., more than one medical plan). Also, for most benefit plans, a NiSource active employee or retiree cannot be covered under the benefit plan both as a participant and as a dependent. Likewise, if you and your spouse are both eligible employees or retirees of NiSource or one of its affiliates, either of you may choose to cover your eligible child(ren); however, it is not possible for both of you to cover your child(ren) under the same plan. Double benefits are not available.

If your covered dependent becomes employed by an Employer and either timely elects medical coverage or makes no medical coverage election and is thereby deemed to have elected medical coverage under the NiSource Consolidated Flex Medical Plan, you will be deemed to have requested that coverage for such dependent under a Retiree Medical Plan be dropped.

Coverage under the Program for active employees or for eligible retirees other than the Retirees for whom this Handbook is prepared is described in separate Handbooks and not herein.

Enrollment Pursuant to a Qualified Medical Child Support Order

The Program also provides group health plan coverage for your eligible child pursuant to the terms of a Qualified Medical Child Support Order ("QMCSO"). This may apply even if you do not have legal custody of the child, the child is not dependent on you for support, and regardless of any enrollment restrictions that might otherwise exist for dependent coverage. If the Company or participating employer receives a valid QMCSO and you do not enroll the dependent child, the custodial parent or state agency may enroll the dependent child.

You may obtain, without charge, a copy of the benefit plans' QMCSO procedures from the Company.

Annual Enrollment

Each year, at annual enrollment, you will receive information regarding the benefit plans. Except as noted below, if you do not enroll within the annual enrollment period, your current coverages remain in effect for the upcoming Plan Year, if available, at the applicable rates. You will be advised of any new benefit plans, plans that require enrollment and the deadline date.

In the event your current plan coverage is not available and you fail to elect coverage under another plan that is offered to you, you will be deemed to have elected the default coverage, if applicable. Please see the section above entitled "Enrollment in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan" for further details.

ID Cards

Once you enroll and become a participant, you will receive identification cards for the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan at your home address.

Your ID card should be presented to your provider at the time of service. If additional cards are needed or an ID card is lost, please contact Anthem, in the case of the PPO or HDPPPO options or the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, or, if applicable, your HMO in the case of an HMO option.

Defined Dollar Subsidy for Retiree Medical Coverage

Pre-65 Retirees, Post-65 Retirees and their eligible Spouses are entitled to receive an annual defined dollar subsidy ("Defined Dollar Subsidy") to be credited toward the cost of their retiree medical coverage under a Retiree Medical Plan.

The Defined Dollar Subsidy is determined by multiplying your Defined Dollars Years of Service by a fixed dollar amount established by the Company.

If you and your Spouse are both enrolled in a Retiree Medical Plan, and if you die prior to your Spouse, your surviving Spouse may receive a Defined Dollar Subsidy, to be credited toward the cost of coverage under a Retiree Medical Plan, in the amount to which you would have been entitled had you survived and were the same age as your Spouse.

The Committee reserves the right to terminate, change or modify the Defined Dollar Subsidy at any time without the consent of, or advance notice to, you or your covered dependents.

When Coverage Begins and Ends - General

Please see below or the individual benefit plan sections of this Handbook for a complete description of when the coverage begins and ends with respect to each benefit plan.

When Coverage Begins and Ends – Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan

Coverage Begins

Generally, coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan may become effective on the later of (1) the date you retire, (2) the first day of the following Plan Year for eligible Retirees who enroll during the annual enrollment period, (3) the date the Plan approves your enrollment based upon a qualified life event, and (4) the date you properly enroll. Coverage for your eligible dependent under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan may become effective, if you properly enroll him or her, (1) on the date your coverage becomes effective, (2) the first day of the following Plan Year if you enroll your eligible dependent during the annual enrollment period, or (3) on the date the Plan approves his or her enrollment based upon a qualified life event.

Coverage for you under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan may become effective on the later of (1) the date you retire, (2) the first day of the month in which you attain age 65 (or on the first day of the immediately preceding month, if you attain age 65 on the first day of the month), and (3) the date you properly enroll. Coverage for your eligible dependent under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan may become effective, if you properly enroll him or her, (1) the date your coverage becomes effective, (2) the first day of the following Plan Year if you enroll your eligible dependent during the annual enrollment period, or (3) the date the Plan approves his or her enrollment based upon a qualified life event.

Coverage Ends

Except in the case of your death (in which case coverage ends on the date of your death) or in the case of a divorce or legal separation (in which case coverage for your Spouse ends on the date of divorce or legal separation), coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or the Post-65 Retiree

Medical Plan will end on the earliest of (i) the date the Plan is terminated, or (ii) the last day of the month in which you and/or your dependent loses eligibility.

Your eligibility generally ends on the earliest of the following dates:

- The date that the Plan is amended to terminate coverage with respect to a Retiree;
- The date a Retiree is no longer eligible for coverage under the Plan, including without limitation as a result of being rehired by an Employer;
- The last date for which any required contribution was made;
- The date the covered Retiree provides notice to the Company of his or her intent to terminate coverage; or
- With respect to the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, the date a Pre-65 Retiree attains age 65.

A dependent's eligibility generally ends on the earliest of the following dates:

- The date the Retiree's coverage ends;
- The last date for which any required contributions for the dependent's coverage was made;
- The date the covered Retiree provides notice to the Company of his or her intent to terminate coverage for such dependent;
- With respect to a Spouse who becomes divorced or legally separated from a Retiree, the date of divorce or legal separation; or
- The end of the month following the date a dependent no longer qualifies as a dependent.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, if coverage for you or your dependents is terminated during a Plan Year for failure to pay required contributions for coverage, you may apply to the NiSource Benefits Department during the same Plan Year to reinstate coverage retroactive to the date of termination. Your application must be in writing and must describe the extenuating circumstances that resulted in your missed payment. The Benefits

Department, in its sole and absolute discretion, will determine whether there are sufficient grounds for reinstating coverage. If the Benefits Department makes a favorable determination, you must repay any missed premiums before the end of the Plan Year and before coverage will be reinstated.

Also, notwithstanding the foregoing, if your dependent experiences a COBRA qualifying event, coverage for EAP/Work Life/Legal & Financial will end the day after the expiration of the maximum COBRA continuation coverage period that would otherwise apply to such dependent, if COBRA were to apply to EAP/Work Life/Legal & Financial coverage. For a description of COBRA qualifying events, please see the "COBRA" subsection of the "Continuation of Coverage" section of this Benefits Program Overview

Please see the "Continuation of Coverage" section of this Benefits Program Overview for circumstances under which your coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan may be continued beyond the periods described above.

Changing and Continuing Elections

General

In general, once you enroll for (or decline) coverage, your elections stay in effect in the entire Plan Year. However, you may make or change certain Retiree Medical Plan elections during the Plan Year under certain limited circumstances, referred to herein as "qualified life events." For example, you may change certain elections if you experience a "qualified status change" that affects your, your spouse's, or your dependent's eligibility for benefits under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan. A "qualified status change" is one type of qualified life event. Examples of qualified status changes and a description of other qualified life events are set forth below.

You must contact a customer service associate at the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320 to request a change in election within 31 days of the date of the qualified life event.

In connection with any requested election change, you may be required to provide certifications or other evidence requested by the Company or Plan Administrator.

To the extent permitted by the applicable benefit plan, if you experience a qualified status change, you may elect a different category of coverage (e.g., no coverage, employee only, employee + spouse, employee + family) if that new election is on account of, and corresponds with, your qualified status change and if the new election satisfies other Internal Revenue Service consistency rules.

Examples of qualified status changes include any of the following circumstances that may affect eligibility for coverage under one of the benefit plans listed above:

- You get a divorce, become legally separated, or your marriage is legally annulled.
- Your spouse or dependent dies.
- Your dependent becomes ineligible for coverage (e.g., he or she reaches the eligibility age limit).
- Your dependent becomes eligible for coverage (e.g., with respect to the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, he or she attains age 65).
- You get married.
- You have a baby, adopt, or have a child placed with you for adoption.
- You, your spouse, or your dependent experiences a change in employment status (e.g., gain or terminate employment, change worksites) that leads to a loss or gain of eligibility for coverage.
- You, your spouse or your dependent experiences a change in employment status that affects eligibility for coverage (e.g., change from part-time to full-time or vice versa, strike or lockout, begin or return from an unpaid leave of absence).
- You, your spouse, or your dependent has a change in home address (outside the network service area).

Other qualified life events that may permit a change in your elections (including a change in category of coverage and, in some instances, a change in coverage option) include the following:

- You, your spouse, or your dependent experiences a significant change in cost or coverage of a benefit plan.
- With respect to the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, you qualify for special enrollment during the year under HIPAA. For example, you may qualify for special enrollment if (1) you acquire an eligible dependent after your employment begins, (2) you (or your dependent) were covered under another group health plan or had other health insurance coverage (including coverage purchased through a government exchange or other health insurance coverage purchased in the individual market) when you declined coverage and you (or your dependent) lose coverage because of loss of eligibility (other than for failure to pay premiums or termination for cause), termination of employer contributions or exhaustion of COBRA continuation coverage, or (3) you (or your dependent) lose coverage as a result of loss of eligibility under a Medicaid plan under title XIX of the Social Security Act or under a State child health plan under title XXI of the Social Security Act, or you (or your dependent) become eligible for assistance, with respect to coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, under such a Medicaid plan or State child health plan. Please Note: For an event described in item (3), your special enrollment period will be 60 days, not 31 days. Please note, however, that the Outbreak Period (defined above) will be disregarded in calculating the 31-day or 60-day period permitted by HIPAA special enrollment provisions).
- The benefit plan receives a Qualified Medical Child Support Order ("QMCSO") or other court order, judgment, or decree that requires you to enroll a dependent child in an accident or health plan.
- You, your spouse or dependent lose coverage under any group health coverage sponsored by a governmental or educational institution, in which case you may be able to elect coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, as applicable.

- With respect to accident or health plan coverage, you, your spouse, or your dependent qualifies for or loses Medicare or Medicaid coverage.

If a dependent you are covering under a Retiree Medical Plan is hired by an Employer and either timely elects coverage under the NiSource Consolidated Flex Medical Plan or fails to make a timely coverage election and is thereby deemed to have elected a coverage option thereunder other than the "No Coverage" option, you will be deemed to have elected to drop Retiree Medical Plan coverage for such dependent in connection his or her change in employment status.

Notwithstanding the foregoing or any other provision of this Handbook, if you are covered under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, you may drop your coverage or reduce the number of dependents covered under a Retiree Medical Plan at any time. However, once you drop your coverage or drop coverage for one or more of your dependents, you will not be able to enroll again in coverage until the next annual enrollment period or until you experience a qualified life event that would permit enrollment.

Coordination of Benefits (COB)

If you or your dependent have coverage under another medical or prescription drug plan or program, your medical and prescription drug benefits under the benefit plans coordinate with those other benefits to help eliminate duplicate payments for the same services.

Coordinating Plans

Types of plans that normally coordinate benefits include, but may not be limited to, the following:

- Group or blanket plans or coverages provided by an employer, union, trust, or other similar sponsor.

- Other group or prepayment health care plans or coverages that cover you or your dependents, including student coverage provided through a school above the high school level.
- Federal government benefit programs, including Medicare or Medicaid. (Medicaid or any other plan, program, policy or arrangement will not be included if, by its terms, it does not allow coordination.)
- Automobile insurance plans in the case of accidents, when inclusion is not prohibited by law.
- Other plans required or provided by law.

These coordination provisions do not apply to individual or private insurance plans. Any other benefits (apart from those under individual or private insurance plans) to which you may be entitled are considered for possible coordination.

How Coordination Works With Other Group Plans

If you are covered by more than one of the types of plans mentioned above, one plan is primary. The primary plan pays benefits first without considering the other plans. Then – based on what the primary plan pays – the other (secondary) plans may pay a benefit (if any).

If your coverage under the applicable benefit plan is primary, the benefit plan pays the amount payable under such plan.

If your coverage under the applicable benefit plan is secondary, the primary plan pays its benefits first. Then, the secondary benefit plan pays the lesser of:

- The amounts payable under the secondary benefit plan; or
- The balance left after the primary plan pays benefits.

When combined, the benefits that the two coverages pay will not exceed 100 percent of the eligible expense.

Determining the Order of Payment

When benefits coordinate, the plans or coverages involved determine which pays benefits first (“primary plan”), and then second (“secondary plan”). Below are the benefit plans’ guidelines for determining which is primary:

- If the plan has no coordination of benefits provision, it automatically is primary.
- If medical benefits are available under an automobile insurance plan, the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan will always be considered secondary.
- The plan covering the person as the employee, rather than as a dependent, laid-off employee, terminated employee, COBRA beneficiary, or retired employee is primary and pays benefits first. The other coverage is secondary and only pays any remaining eligible expenses.
- If both parents’ plans cover a dependent, the plans use the “Birthday Rule” to determine which parent’s plan pays first. If the other plan does not follow the Birthday Rule and as a result both coverages would be considered either primary or secondary, the order of benefits will be determined at the option of the applicable Claims Administrator.

In the case of a divorce or separation, the following order will establish responsibility for payment:

- If there is a court order that requires a parent to take financial responsibility for the relevant coverage for the child, that parent’s plan is always primary. If the parent with financial responsibility does not have coverage, but the parent’s spouse does, such spouse’s plan is primary.
- The plan of the parent with custody of the dependent child usually pays benefits before the plan of the other parent or the plan of a stepparent.
- If the parent with custody of the child remarries and the stepparent’s plan also covers the child, the custodial parent’s plan pays first and the stepparent's (custodial parent's spouse's) plan pays second. The plan of the parent without custody pays third, and the noncustodial parent's spouse's plan (if any) pays last.

- The plan of the parent without custody of the child pays before the non-custodial stepparent.

If, after using the guidelines above, a determination cannot be made as to the order of payment, the plan that has covered the person longer is the primary plan.

How Coordination Works With Medicare

Under current law, you and your dependents become eligible for Medicare at age 65. However, if one of you has been entitled to Social Security disability benefits for 25 months as an insured individual, child, widow, or widower who is "under a disability," that person may become Medicare-eligible before age 65.

You should notify a Benefits Source customer service associate if you start Medicare benefits. The way medical coverage under the benefit plans coordinates with Medicare depends upon whether you are in "current employment status," as that term is defined in Medicare regulations, and upon a covered person's age and whether he or she is receiving Social Security disability benefits. A retiree generally is not in current employment status. The discussion below assumes that a retiree covered under a Retiree Medical Plan is not in current employment status for purposes of Medicare. However, if you believe you have current employment status for purposes of Medicare regulations, you should contact the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

How Coordination of Benefits Works for Those Not in "Current Employment Status"

If you are covered under a Retiree Medical Plan but are no longer considered by Medicare to be in "current employment status," and if you, your covered spouse or your other covered dependents are Medicare-eligible, then Medicare will generally be treated by the Retiree Medical Plan as the primary payor for the covered person who is Medicare-eligible, regardless of the covered person's age and, except for Medicare Part D prescription drug coverage, regardless of whether he or she has enrolled in Medicare or any part thereof. If your covered spouse or other covered dependent is not Medicare-eligible, the Retiree Medical Plan will be treated as the primary payor with respect to such person's benefits.

If a covered person is eligible for, but not enrolled in, Medicare benefits, the Retiree Medical Plan will deduct from the amount otherwise payable with respect to a claim the amount Medicare would have paid had that person been enrolled in Medicare or in any part thereof. (However, no deduction will be made for failure to enroll in Medicare Part D prescription drug coverage.) For example, if you are eligible for, but not enrolled in, Medicare Part B, and you incur a claim that would be payable in whole or in part by Medicare Part B, the Retiree Medical Plan will deduct from the amount it would otherwise pay for such claim the amount Medicare Part B would have paid.

You are responsible for notifying the Claims Administrator if you, your spouse or your other dependents become Medicare-eligible.

How Coordination of Benefits Work with Medicare Part D

If you have prescription drug coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Medicare Part D at the same time, such coverage will coordinate as provided by law.

How Coordination Works With TRICARE

If you are a TRICARE beneficiary, your coverage under TRICARE will coordinate with group health plan coverage under the Program as provided by law.

Claim Determination and Appeal Process - General

General

The Committee delegates the authority to decide certain claims and appeals to the applicable Claims Administrator (listed in the “General Program Information” found at the end of each benefit plan section, or SPD, in this Handbook). The Claims Administrator adheres to specific timeframes for notifying you of its determination regarding your claim. If your claim for benefits is denied (in whole or in part), formal procedures are in place if you want to appeal the denial.

In certain cases, the Plan Administrator or its designee may decide claims requiring a determination of whether you meet the requirements for eligibility under the terms of the applicable plan, which determination may result in a denial, reduction, termination or failure to provide payment for a benefit.

There are different categories of claims, and each is subject to different timeframes for notifying you of the Claims Administrator’s or Plan Administrator’s determination if your claim has been denied (in whole or in part).

Please Note: The Outbreak Period (defined above) will be disregarded in determining the period within which individuals may file a benefit claim or an appeal of an adverse benefit determination under the claims procedures described below.

You may have someone else represent you in any of the review processes as long as you provide written notice to the Claims Administrator or Plan Administrator, as appropriate, of the name of the person who will represent you.

For details regarding how to file a claim and the claim denial and appeal processes for each of the benefit plans, please see below or the individual benefit plan sections, or SPDs, in this Handbook. Any claim relating to whether you meet the requirements for eligibility under the terms of an applicable benefit plan should be submitted in writing to the Benefits Department of the Company at the address for the Plan Administrator set forth in the General Program Information section of the SPD for such plan.

Discretion and Authority of Plan Administrator and Claims Administrator

See the subsection entitled “Named Fiduciary and Plan Administrator” under the “Additional Information” section below for information concerning the discretionary authority of the Plan Administrator, the Claims Administrator and the NiSource Benefits Department to interpret the various benefit plans and to make determinations thereunder.

Legal Action

You cannot bring any legal action against a benefit plan unless you first complete all required steps of the applicable appeals process described in this Handbook. Once you complete that process, you can bring legal action against the applicable benefit plan. If you decide to take legal action, you must do so before the deadline, if any, specified in the applicable individual benefit plan section of the Handbook.

Claim Determination and Appeal Process – Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan

The claim determination and appeal process described below applies to the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan. The term “Plan” as used in this section refers to the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, and the term “Claims Administrator” refers to the applicable claims administrator appointed for the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan. (Note that there may be more than one claims administrator for the Plan.)

The type of claim that you make determines the time frame under which the Claims Administrator makes a determination regarding your claim. There are four different categories of claims, and each is subject to different time frames for notifying you of the Claims Administrator’s determination. In addition, you will be notified of any adverse benefit determination that results in a rescission of your coverage.

Please Note: The Outbreak Period (defined above) will be disregarded in determining the period within which individuals may file a benefit claim or an appeal of an adverse benefit determination under the claims procedures described below.

An “adverse benefit determination” is (i) a denial, reduction, or termination of, or a failure to provide or make payment (in whole or in part) for, a benefit, including any such denial, reduction, termination, or failure to provide or make payment that is based on a determination of your eligibility to participate in a plan, and including a denial, reduction, or termination of, or a failure to provide or make payment (in whole or in part) for, a benefit resulting from the application of any utilization review, as well as a failure to cover an item or service for which benefits are otherwise provided because it is determined to be experimental or investigational or not medically necessary or appropriate, and (ii) a rescission of coverage.

A “rescission of coverage” is a cancellation or discontinuance of coverage that has retroactive effect, but does not include any such cancellation or discontinuance to the extent it is attributable to a failure to pay on a timely basis premiums or contributions towards the cost of coverage.

The Plan Administrator or its designee may decide claims (i) that involve a rescission of coverage, (ii) that call for a determination of whether you meet the requirements for eligibility under the Plan, which determination may result in a denial, reduction, termination or failure to provide payment for a benefit, or (iii) for which a Claims Administrator has not been delegated authority, or has not assumed authority, to decide. The Plan Administrator has delegated to the Company’s Benefits Department authority to make these determinations. Solely with respect to claims involving a rescission of coverage, a determination of your eligibility under the Plan, or a matter for which the Claims Administrator has not been delegated, or has not assumed, authority to decide, the term “Claims Administrator” used below shall refer to the Plan Administrator or its designee. Any claim relating to (i) a rescission of coverage, (ii) whether you meet the requirements for eligibility under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, or (iii) a matter for which the Claims Administrator has not been delegated, or has not assumed, authority to decide should be submitted in writing to the Benefits Department of the Company at the address for the Plan Administrator set forth in the General Program Information section of the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD.

Consideration of Initial Claim

Pre-Service Claim (Not Involving Urgent Care)

Generally, a “pre-service claim” is any claim involving a benefit where the Plan requires approval of the benefit in advance of obtaining medical care.

If you submit a pre-service claim properly with all necessary information, the Claims Administrator will decide your claim within a reasonable period of time appropriate to the medical circumstances (but not later than 15 days from the date the claim is received). The Claims Administrator may obtain a one-time extension (not longer than 15 days) for matters beyond its control if, prior to expiration of the initial 15-day period, the Claims Administrator notifies you of the circumstances requiring the extension and the date by which the Claims Administrator expects to render a decision.

If you file a pre-service claim but do not provide sufficient information for the Claims Administrator to make a determination, you will be notified within five days after your pre-service claim is received of the specific information necessary to complete the claim. Once you receive this notice, you then have 45 days to provide any needed information.

Post-Service Claims

Generally, a “post-service claim” is any claim that is not an urgent care claim, a pre-service claim or a concurrent care claim.

If you submit a post-service claim, you will receive a written notice of the Claims Administrator’s determination within 30 days of the day the Claims Administrator receives your claim (as long as you provide all necessary information). The Claims Administrator may obtain a one-time extension (not longer than 15 days) for matters beyond its control if, prior to the expiration of the initial 30-day period, the Claims Administrator notifies you of the circumstances requiring the extension and the date by which the Claims Administrator expects to render a decision.

If additional information is needed to process your post-service claim, you will be notified within the 30-day period and the notice will specify the required information. Once you receive notice, you then have 45 days to provide any needed information.

Urgent Care Claims

Generally, an “urgent care claim” is any claim that must be processed on an expedited basis because a delay in processing could seriously jeopardize the life or health of the patient or jeopardize the ability of the patient to regain maximum function, or in the opinion of the patient’s doctor with knowledge of the patient’s medical condition, a delay would subject the patient to severe pain that cannot be adequately managed without the care or treatment that is subject of this claim.

Unless you have failed to provide sufficient information to permit a determination of whether, or to what extent, benefits are covered or payable under the Plan, you will receive notice of the benefit determination (in writing or electronically) within 72 hours after the Claims Administrator receives your urgent care claim. The Claims Administrator will take into account the seriousness of your condition. The Claims Administrator may provide an oral notice of its determination, and then follow up with a written or electronic confirmation within three days.

If you file an urgent care claim but have not provided sufficient information to permit a determination of whether, or to what extent, benefits are covered or payable under the Plan, you will be notified of the specific information needed to complete the claim within 24 hours after the Claims Administrator receives your urgent care claim. Once you receive this notice, you then have 48 hours to provide the requested information.

If you are asked to provide specific information to complete your urgent care claim, you will receive a notice of the Claims Administrator’s determination no later than 48 hours after the earlier of:

- The Claims Administrator’s receipt of the specified information; or
- The end of the period that you have to provide the specified additional information.

Concurrent Care Claims

Generally, a “concurrent care claim” is any claim involving (i) a decision to reduce or terminate an ongoing course of treatment to be provided over a period of time or number of treatments, or (ii) your request to extend a course of treatment beyond the period of time or number of treatments that has been approved.

The Claims Administrator may approve (for a specific period of time or number of treatments), reduce, or terminate an ongoing course of treatment. Any reduction or termination of ongoing treatments is an adverse benefit determination. The Claims Administrator must notify you within a reasonable time period prior to the reduction or termination of services.

If you request to extend the treatment and your request is that of an urgent care claim (as defined above), the Claims Administrator will decide your request within 24 hours after it receives your request. You must make your request at least 24 hours before the end of your approved treatment.

If your request to extend ongoing treatment is not an urgent care claim, the Claims Administrator will treat your claim as either a pre-service or post-service claim (as applicable) and consider the claim according to the post-service or pre-service time frames, whichever applies.

Full and Fair Review

In connection with a claim or internal appeal, the Claims Administrator will provide you, free of charge, with any new or additional evidence considered, relied upon, or generated by the Plan (or at the direction of the Plan) in connection with your claim. Such evidence will be provided in advance of the date on which a notice of a final internal adverse benefit determination is required to be provided, in order to give you an opportunity to respond prior to that date. In addition, before you receive a final internal adverse benefit determination on review based upon a new or additional rationale, the Claims Administrator will provide to you, free of charge, the rationale. The rationale will be provided in advance of the date on which a notice of a final internal adverse benefit determination is required to be provided, in order to give you an opportunity to respond prior to that date.

If the Claims Administrator Makes an Adverse Benefit Determination Regarding an Initial Claim or Rescinds Coverage

If you receive a notice of an adverse benefit determination, the notice will:

- Include information sufficient to identify the claim involved and a statement describing the availability, upon request, of the diagnosis code and its corresponding meaning, and the treatment code and its corresponding meaning;
- Explain the reasons for the adverse benefit determination;
- Describe any additional material or information necessary for you to complete your claim and explain why the material or information is necessary;
- Refer you to the part of the Plan upon which the determination is based;
- Describe the Plan's review procedures and the time limits applicable to such procedures, including a description of available internal appeals and external review processes and information regarding how to initiate an appeal, as well as a statement of your right to bring a civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA following an adverse benefit determination on all appeals;
- In the case of an urgent care claim, describe the expedited review process applicable to such claims; and
- To the extent required by applicable regulations, disclose the availability of, and contact information for, an applicable office of health insurance consumer assistance or ombudsman who may assist you.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon an internal rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion in making the adverse determination, either the specific rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such rule, guideline, protocol, or other criterion will be provided free of charge to you upon request. If the Claims Administrator relied upon medical necessity or experimental treatment or similar exclusion or limit in making the adverse determination, either an explanation of the scientific or clinical judgment for the determination (applying the terms of the Plan to your medical circumstances) will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such explanation will be provided free of charge to you upon request.

If the Claims Administrator denies an urgent care claim, the Claims Administrator will provide a description of the expedited review process for urgent care claims (as set forth below). The Claims Administrator may provide an oral notice of its determination, then follow-up with a written or electronic confirmation within three days.

Mandatory First-Level Internal Appeal to Claims Administrator

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination regarding an initial claim or rescission of coverage, you or your duly authorized representative have the right to appeal the adverse benefit determination by sending a written request for review to the Claims Administrator within 180 days of your receipt of notice of the adverse benefit determination.

Your request for review should be sent to the Claims Administrator at the address for the Claims Administrator set forth in the section entitled "General Program Information" found in the individual SPD section for the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

You may submit written comments, documents, records, and other information relating to your claim for benefits. Upon your request, you will be provided, free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim.

Your written request should state why you think your claim should not have been denied or your coverage under the Plan should not have been rescinded. Your request also should include the name of your employer, any adverse benefit determination letter you received and any additional documents, information or comments you think may have a bearing on your claim.

Upon receipt of your request, the Claims Administrator will conduct a review that takes into account all comments, documents, records, and other information submitted by you or your authorized representative relating to your claim, without regard to whether such information was submitted or considered in the initial benefit determination. The review will not afford any deference to the initial adverse benefit determination and will be conducted by an individual who is neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual.

If the adverse benefit determination was based in whole or in part on a medical judgment, the individual conducting the review shall consult with a health care professional who has appropriate training and experience in the field of medicine involved in the medical judgment. This health care professional will be neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual. The Claims Administrator will provide the identities of any medical or vocational experts whose advice was obtained on behalf of the Plan in connection with the denial, without regard to whether the advice was relied upon in making the benefit determination.

Pre-Service Claims

In the case of a pre-service claim, the Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review within a reasonable period of time appropriate to the medical circumstances, but not later than 30 days after receipt of your request for review.

Post-Service Claims

In the case of a post-service claim, the Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review within a reasonable period of time, but not later than 60 days after receipt of your request for review.

Expedited Review for Urgent Care Claims

In the case of a claim involving urgent care, you or your duly authorized representative may submit a request for an expedited internal appeal either in writing or orally. All necessary information for the review, including the Claims Administrator's determination, may be transmitted between the Claims Administrator and you by telephone, facsimile, or another similarly expeditious method. To proceed with an expedited internal appeal, you or your authorized representative must contact the Claims Administrator and provide at least the following information:

- Your name;
- The date(s) of the medical service;
- The specific medical condition or symptom;
- The provider's name
- The service or supply for which approval of benefits was sought; and
- Any reasons why the appeal should be processed on a more expedited basis.

The Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review as soon as possible, taking into account the medical exigencies, but not later than 72 hours after receipt of your request for review of an adverse benefit determination.

If the Claims Administrator Makes an Adverse Benefit Determination on Your Mandatory First-Level Internal Appeal

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination on a mandatory first-level internal appeal (this determination will constitute a "final adverse benefit determination"), it will notify you of the following, in a manner to be understood by you:

- Information sufficient to identify the claim involved and a statement describing the availability, upon request, of the diagnosis code and its corresponding meaning, and the treatment code and its corresponding meaning;
- The specific reason or reasons for the adverse benefit determination;
- The specific Plan provisions on which the adverse benefit determination is based;
- A statement that you are entitled to receive, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim;
- A statement describing any voluntary appeal procedures offered by the Plan and your right to obtain information about such procedures; and
- A statement indicating your right to file a lawsuit upon completion of the claims procedure process.
- To the extent required by applicable regulations, the availability of, and contact information for, an applicable office of health insurance consumer assistance or ombudsman who may assist you.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon an internal rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion in making the adverse determination, either the specific rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such rule, guideline, protocol, or other criterion will be provided free of charge to you upon request. If the Claims Administrator relied upon medical necessity or experimental treatment or similar exclusion or limit in making the adverse determination, either an explanation of the scientific or clinical judgment for the determination (applying the terms of the Plan to your medical circumstances) will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such explanation will be provided free of charge to you upon request.

If the Claims Administrator denies an urgent care claim on review, the Claims Administrator may provide oral notice of its determination, then follow-up with a written or electronic confirmation within three days.

Second-Level Internal Appeal to the Claims Administrator

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination on a mandatory first-level internal appeal with respect to your pre- or post-service claim or a rescission of coverage, you or your duly authorized representative may request a review of such determination by the Claims Administrator by sending a written request for a second-level internal appeal to the Claims Administrator within 60 days of your receipt of the Claims Administrator's notice of denial of your mandatory first-level internal appeal.

This second-level appeal is a voluntary appeal. That means you are not required to request a second-level internal appeal under the Plan before submitting a request for an independent external review. However, if you request a voluntary second-level internal appeal under the Plan, you must receive a determination on that appeal before requesting an independent external review.

The Plan waives any right to assert that you failed to exhaust administrative remedies because you did not request a voluntary second-level internal appeal. The Plan agrees that any statute of limitations or other defense based upon timeliness is tolled during the time that any properly initiated second-level voluntary internal appeal is pending. The Claims Administrator will, upon request, provide you with information relating to the voluntary second-level internal appeal to enable you to make an informed judgment about whether to request such an appeal. Your decision whether or not to request a voluntary second-level internal appeal under the Plan will have no effect on your right to any other benefits under the Plan.

Your request for review should be sent to the Claims Administrator at the address for the Claims Administrator set forth in the section entitled "General Program Information" found in the individual SPD section for the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

You may submit written comments, documents, records, and other information relating to your claim for benefits. Upon your written request, you will be provided, free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all relevant documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim.

Your written request should state why you think your claim should not have been denied. Your request also should include the name of your employer, any denial letter you received and any additional documents, information or comments you think may have a bearing on your claim.

Upon receipt of your request, the Claims Administrator will conduct a review that takes into account all comments, documents, records, and other information submitted by you or your authorized representative relating to your claim, without regard to whether such information was submitted or considered in the initial benefit determination. The review will not afford any deference to the Claims Administrator's denial of your claim on appeal and will be conducted by an individual who is neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual.

If the denial of your claim on appeal was based in whole or in part on a medical judgment, the Claims Administrator will consult with a health care professional who has appropriate training and experience in the field of medicine involved in the medical judgment. This health care professional consultant will be neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual. The Claims Administrator will provide the identities of any medical or vocational experts whose advice was obtained on behalf of the Plan in connection with your adverse benefit determination, without regard to whether the advice was relied upon in making the benefit determination.

Pre-Service Claims

In the case of a pre-service claim, the Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review within a reasonable period of time appropriate to the medical circumstances, but not later than 30 days after receipt of your request for review.

Post-Service Claims

In the case of a post-service claim, the Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review within a reasonable period of time, but not later than 60 days after receipt of your request for review.

If the Claims Administrator Makes an Adverse Benefit Determination on Your Second-Level Internal Appeal

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination on your second-level internal appeal, it will notify you of the following, in a manner to be understood by you:

- Information sufficient to identify the claim involved and a statement describing the availability, upon request, of the diagnosis code and its corresponding meaning, and the treatment code and its corresponding meaning;
- The specific reason or reasons for the adverse benefit determination;
- The specific Plan provisions on which the adverse benefit determination is based;
- A statement that you are entitled to receive, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim;
- A statement describing any additional voluntary appeal procedures offered by the Plan and your right to obtain information about such procedures;
- A description of available internal appeals and external review processes, including information about how to initiate an appeal;
- A statement indicating your right to bring a civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA following a final adverse benefit determination; and
- To the extent required by applicable regulations, the availability of, and contact information for, an applicable office of health insurance consumer assistance or ombudsman who may assist you.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon an internal rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion in making the adverse determination, either the specific rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion will be provided to you free of charge, or you will be informed that such rule, guideline, protocol, or other criterion will be provided free of charge to you upon request.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon medical necessity or experimental treatment or similar exclusion or limit in making the adverse determination, either an explanation of the scientific or clinical judgment for the determination (applying the terms of the Plan to your medical circumstances) will be provided to you free of charge, or you will be informed that such explanation will be provided to you free of charge upon request.

Voluntary External Review by Independent Review Organization

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination with respect to your initial claim, a rescission of coverage or your mandatory first-level internal appeal or second-level internal appeal, you may be entitled to obtain an independent external review pursuant to Federal law, as provided below. External review applies only to an adverse benefit determination (including a final internal adverse benefit determination) by the Claims Administrator that involves medical judgment or a rescission of coverage (whether or not the rescission has any effect on any particular benefit at that time). External review is not available in connection with an adverse benefit determination based upon a determination that you fail to meet the requirements for eligibility under the terms of the Plan. You do not need to pursue an external review in order to complete or exhaust the appeal procedure described above. Your decision to seek an independent external review will not affect your rights to any other benefits under the Plan. Any statute of limitations or other defense based upon timeliness is tolled during the time that any properly initiated independent external review is pending. There is no charge for you to initiate an independent external review. The external review decision is final and binding on all parties except for any relief available through ERISA.

Standard External Review

This section sets forth procedures for standard external review. Standard external review is external review that is not considered expedited (as described below).

If the Claims Administrator makes a final adverse benefit determination with respect to your mandatory first-level appeal or second-level appeal, as the case may be, or makes an adverse benefit determination under circumstances in which you are not required to exhaust the Plan's internal appeals process, you or your duly authorized representative may file a request for an external review under Federal law within four months of the date you received notice of an adverse benefit determination or final internal adverse benefit determination. Your request must be in writing, unless the Claims Administrator determines that it is not reasonable to require a written statement. You do not have to resubmit information that you submitted for your initial claim or internal appeal. However, you are encouraged to submit any additional information you believe is important for review.

Within five business days following the date your external review request is received, the Claims Administrator will complete a preliminary review of the request to determine whether:

- You are or were covered under the Plan at the time the health care item or service was requested or, in the case of a retrospective review, were covered under the Plan at the time the health care item or service was provided;
- The adverse benefit determination or the final adverse benefit determination involves medical judgment or a rescission of coverage and does not relate to your failure to meet the requirements for eligibility under the terms of the Plan;

- You have exhausted the Plan's internal appeal process, unless you are not required to exhaust such process under applicable federal regulations;
- You have provided all the information and forms required to process an external review.

Within one business day after completion of its preliminary review, the Claims Administrator will notify you in writing of the results of such review. If the request is complete, the Claims Administrator will assign an accredited independent review organization ("IRO") to conduct the external review.

The assigned IRO is required to notify you in writing of the request's eligibility and acceptance for external review. Within ten business days following the date of your receipt of such notice, you may submit in writing to the assigned IRO additional information that the IRO must consider when conducting the external review. The IRO is not required to, but may, accept and consider additional information submitted after ten business days.

Within five business days after the date of assignment of the IRO, the Plan must provide to the assigned IRO the documents and any information considered in making the adverse benefit determination or final internal adverse benefit determination. If the Plan fails to provide the documents and information on a timely basis, the assigned IRO may terminate the external review and make a decision to reverse the adverse benefit determination or final internal adverse benefit determination. The IRO will notify you and the Plan within one business day after making any such decision.

Upon receipt of any information submitted by you, the assigned IRO must within one business day forward the information to the Plan. Upon receipt of any such information, the Plan may reconsider its adverse benefit determination or final internal adverse benefit determination that is the subject of the external review. The external review may be terminated as a result of the reconsideration only if the Plan decides, upon completion of its reconsideration, to reverse its adverse benefit determination or final internal adverse benefit determination and provide coverage or payment. Within one business day after making such a decision, the Plan must provide written notice of its decision to you and to the assigned IRO. The assigned IRO is required to terminate the external review upon receipt of any such notice from the Plan.

The IRO is required to review all of the information and documents timely received. In reaching a decision, the assigned IRO will review the claim de novo and not be bound by any decisions or conclusions reached during the Plan's internal claims and appeals process. In addition to the documents and information provided, the assigned IRO, to the extent the information or documents are available and the IRO considers them appropriate, will consider the following in reaching a decision:

- Your medical records;
- The attending health care professional's recommendation;
- Reports from appropriate health care professionals and other documents
- The terms of the Plan, to ensure that the IRO's decision is not contrary to the terms of the Plan;
- Appropriate practice guidelines, which must include applicable evidence-based standards and may include any other practice guidelines developed by the Federal government, national or professional medical societies, boards and associations;
- Any applicable clinical review criteria developed and used by the Plan, unless the criteria are inconsistent with the terms of the Plan or with applicable law;
- The opinion of the IRO's clinical reviewer or reviewers after considering the information above and applicable Federal guidance, to the extent the information or documents are available and the clinical reviewer or reviewers consider such information or documents appropriate.

The assigned IRO is required to provide written notice of the final external review decision within 45 days after it receives the request for the external review. The IRO must deliver the notice of final external review decision to you and to the Plan.

The assigned IRO's decision notice on external review will contain:

- A general description of the reason for the request for external review, including information sufficient to identify the claim;
- The date the IRO received the assignment to conduct the external review and the date of the IRO decision;
- References to the evidence or documentation, including the specific coverage provisions and evidence-based standards, considered in reaching its decision;
- A discussion of the principal reason or reasons for its decision, including the rationale for its decision and any evidence-based standards that were relied on in making its decision;
- A statement that the determination is binding except to the extent that other remedies may be available under State or Federal law to either the Plan or to you;
- A statement that judicial review may be available to you; and
- Current contact information, including phone number, for any applicable office of health insurance consumer assistance or ombudsman.

Expedited External Review

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination with respect to your initial claim, and your claim is an urgent care claim or a concurrent care claim, you may proceed with an expedited external review without filing an internal appeal or while simultaneously pursuing an expedited appeal through the Plan's internal appeal process.

You or your duly authorized representative may request an expedited external review orally or in writing. All necessary information for the review, including the Claims Administrator's determination, may be transmitted between the Claims Administrator and you by telephone, facsimile, or another similarly expeditious method. To proceed with an expedited external review, you or your authorized representative must contact the Claims Administrator and provide at least the following information:

- Your name;
- The date(s) of the medical service;
- The specific medical condition or symptom;
- The provider's name
- The service or supply for which approval of benefits was sought; and
- Any reasons why the appeal should be processed on a more expedited basis.

Upon receipt of your request for expedited external review, the Claims Administrator will determine whether the request meets the reviewability requirements set forth above for standard external review. The Claims Administrator will notify you in writing of the results of such review.

If the Claims Administrator determines that your request is eligible for external review, the Claims Administrator will assign an IRO to conduct the review.

The assigned IRO, to the extent the information or documents are available and the IRO considers them appropriate, will consider the information or documents described above under the procedures for standard external review. In reaching a decision, the assigned IRO will review your claim de novo and is not bound by any decisions or conclusions reached during the Plan's internal claims and appeals process.

The IRO is required to notify you of the final external review decision as expeditiously as your medical condition or circumstances require, but in no event more than 72 hours after the IRO receives your request for an expedited external review. If the notice is not in writing, within 48 hours after the date of providing that notice, the assigned IRO is required to provide written confirmation of the decision to you and to the Plan.

Limitation of Actions and Venue

No lawsuit or legal action of any kind regarding a claim for benefits under the Plan may be commenced unless the claims procedure process for internal appeals (but not including any voluntary appeal) has been exhausted. In addition, in no event may any lawsuit or other legal action regarding a claim for benefits be commenced later than three years after the date such claim was incurred or the date when the rescission of coverage occurred, as the case may be. A claim for benefits is incurred when the services giving rise to the claim were rendered.

Any suit, action or proceeding seeking to enforce any provision of, or based on any matter arising out of or in connection with, the Plan shall be brought in any court of the State of Indiana or in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Indiana.

Claim Determination and Appeal Process – Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan

The claim determination and appeal process described below applies to the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan. The term “Plan,” as used in this section, refers to the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, and the term “Claims Administrator” refers to the applicable claims administrator appointed for the Plan. (Note that there may be more than one claims administrator for the Plan.)

The type of claim that you make determines the time frame under which the Claims Administrator will make a determination regarding your claim. There are four different categories of claims, and each is subject to different time frames for notifying you of the Claims Administrator’s determination.

Please Note: The Outbreak Period (defined above) will be disregarded in determining the period within which individuals may file a benefit claim or an appeal of an adverse benefit determination under the claims procedures described below.

An “adverse benefit determination” is a denial, reduction, or termination of, or a failure to provide or make payment (in whole or in part) for, a benefit, including any such denial, reduction, termination, or failure to provide or make payment that is based on a determination of your eligibility to participate in a plan, and including a denial, reduction, or termination of, or a failure to provide or make payment (in whole or in part) for, a benefit resulting from the application of any utilization review, as well as a failure to cover an item or service for which benefits are otherwise provided because it is determined to be experimental or investigational or not medically necessary or appropriate.

The Plan Administrator or its designee may decide claims (i) that call for a determination of whether you meet the requirements for eligibility under the Plan, which determination may result in a denial, reduction, termination or failure to provide payment for a benefit, or (ii) for which a Claims Administrator has not been delegated authority, or has not assumed authority, to decide. The Plan Administrator has delegated to the Company’s Benefits Department authority to make these determinations. Solely with respect to claims involving a determination of your eligibility under the Plan or a matter for which the Claims Administrator has not been delegated, or has not assumed, authority to decide, the term “Claims Administrator” used below shall refer to the Plan Administrator or its designee. Any claim relating to (i) whether you meet the requirements for eligibility under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, or (ii) a matter for which the Claims Administrator has not been delegated, or has not assumed, authority to decide should be submitted in writing to the Benefits Department of the Company at the address for the Plan Administrator set forth in the General Program Information section of the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD.

Consideration of Initial Claim

Pre-Service Claim (Not Involving Urgent Care)

Generally, a “pre-service claim” is any claim involving a benefit where the Plan requires approval of the benefit in advance of obtaining medical care.

If you submit a pre-service claim properly with all necessary information, the Claims Administrator will decide your claim within a reasonable period of time appropriate to the medical circumstances (but not later than 15 days from the date the claim is received). The Claims Administrator may obtain a one-time extension (not longer than 15 days) for matters beyond its control if, prior to expiration of the initial 15-day period, the Claims Administrator notifies you of the circumstances requiring the extension and the date by which the Claims Administrator expects to render a decision.

If you file a pre-service claim but do not provide sufficient information for the Claims Administrator to make a determination, you will be notified within five days after your pre-service claim is received of the specific information necessary to complete the claim. Once you receive this notice, you then have 45 days to provide any needed information.

Post-Service Claims

Generally, a "post-service claim" is any claim that is not an urgent care claim, a pre-service claim or a concurrent care claim.

If you submit a post-service claim, you will receive a written notice of the Claims Administrator's determination within 30 days of the day the Claims Administrator receives your claim (as long as you provide all necessary information). The Claims Administrator may obtain a one-time extension (not longer than 15 days) for matters beyond its control if, prior to the expiration of the initial 30-day period, the Claims Administrator notifies you of the circumstances requiring the extension and the date by which the Claims Administrator expects to render a decision.

If additional information is needed to process your post-service claim, you will be notified within the 30-day period and the notice will specify the required information. Once you receive notice, you then have 45 days to provide any needed information.

Urgent Care Claims

Generally, an "urgent care claim" is any claim that must be processed on an expedited basis because a delay in processing could seriously jeopardize the life or health of the patient, jeopardize the patient's ability to regain maximum function, or, in the opinion of the patient's doctor, with knowledge of the patient's medical condition, a delay would subject the patient to severe pain that cannot be adequately managed without the care or treatment that is the subject of the claim.

Unless you have failed to provide sufficient information to permit a determination of whether, or to what extent, benefits are covered or payable under the Plan, you will receive notice of the benefit determination (in writing or electronically) within 72 hours after the Claims Administrator receives your urgent care claim. The Claims Administrator will take into account the seriousness of your condition. The Claims Administrator may provide an oral notice of its determination, and then follow up with a written or electronic confirmation within three days.

If you file an urgent care claim but have not provided sufficient information to permit a determination of whether, or to what extent, benefits are covered or payable under the Plan, you will be notified of the specific information needed to complete the claim within 24 hours after the Claims Administrator receives your urgent care claim. Once you receive this notice, you then have 48 hours to provide the requested information.

If you are asked to provide specific information to complete your urgent care claim, you will receive a notice of the Claims Administrator's determination no later than 48 hours after the earlier of:

- The Claims Administrator's receipt of the specified information; or
- The end of the period that you have to provide the specified additional information.

Concurrent Care Claims

Generally, a “concurrent care claim” is any claim involving (i) a decision to reduce or terminate an ongoing course of treatment to be provided over a period of time or number of treatments, or (ii) your request to extend a course of treatment beyond the period of time or number of treatments that has been approved.

The Claims Administrator may approve (for a specific period of time or number of treatments), reduce, or terminate an ongoing course of treatment. Any reduction or termination of ongoing treatments is an adverse benefit determination. The Claims Administrator must notify you within a reasonable time period prior to the reduction or termination of services.

If you request to extend the treatment and your request is an urgent care claim (as defined above), the Claims Administrator will decide your request within 24 hours after it receives your request. You must make your request at least 24 hours before the end of your approved treatment.

If your request to extend ongoing treatment is not an urgent care claim, the Claims Administrator will treat your claim as either a pre-service or post-service claim (as applicable) and will consider the claim according to the post-service or pre-service time frames, whichever applies.

If the Claims Administrator Makes an Adverse Benefit Determination Regarding an Initial Claim

If you receive a notice of adverse benefit determination, the notice will:

- Explain the reasons for the adverse benefit determination;
- Describe any additional material or information necessary for you to complete your claim and explain why the material or information is necessary;
- Refer you to the part of the Plan upon which the denial is based;
- Describe the Plan’s review procedures and the time limits applicable to such procedures, including a statement of your right to bring a civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA following an adverse benefit determination on all appeals; and

- In the case of an urgent care claim, describe the expedited review process applicable to such claims.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon an internal rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion in making the adverse benefit determination, either the specific rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such rule, guideline, protocol, or other criterion will be provided free of charge to you upon request. If the Claims Administrator relied upon medical necessity or experimental treatment or similar exclusion or limit in making the adverse benefit determination, either an explanation of the scientific or clinical judgment for the determination (applying the terms of the Plan to your medical circumstances) will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such explanation will be provided free of charge to you upon request.

If the Claims Administrator denies an urgent care claim, the Claims Administrator will provide a description of the expedited review process for urgent care claims (as set forth below). The Claims Administrator may provide an oral notice of its determination, then follow-up with a written or electronic confirmation within three days.

First-Level Appeal to Claims Administrator

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination regarding an initial claim, you have the right to appeal the decision by sending a written request for review to the Claims Administrator within 180 days of your receipt of the adverse benefit determination.

Your request for review should be sent to the Claims Administrator for the Plan at the address for the Claims Administrator set forth in the section entitled “General Program Information” found in the individual SPD section for the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

You may submit written comments, documents, records, and other information relating to your claim for benefits. Upon your request, you will be provided, free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim.

Your written request should state why you think your claim should not have been denied. Your request also should include your name, the covered person's name and date of birth, the name of the provider of services, the name of your employer, any denial letter you received, the claim number and any additional documents, information or comments you think may have a bearing on your claim.

Upon receipt of your request, the Claims Administrator will conduct a review that takes into account all comments, documents, records, and other information submitted by you or your authorized representative relating to your claim, without regard to whether such information was submitted or considered in the initial benefit determination. The review will not afford any deference to the initial adverse benefit determination and will be conducted by an individual who is neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual.

If the denial was based in whole or in part on a medical judgment, the individual conducting the review shall consult with a health care professional who has appropriate training and experience in the field of medicine involved in the medical judgment. This health care professional will be neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual. Upon request, the Claims Administrator will provide the identities of any medical or vocational experts whose advice was obtained on behalf of the Plan in connection with the denial, without regard to whether the advice was relied upon in making the benefit determination.

Pre-Service Claims

In the case of a pre-service claim, the Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review within a reasonable period of time appropriate to the medical circumstances, but not later than 15 days after receipt of your request for review.

Post-Service Claims

In the case of a post-service claim, the Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review within a reasonable period of time, but not later than 30 days after receipt of your request for review.

Expedited Review for Urgent Care Claims

In the case of a claim involving urgent care, you may submit a request for an expedited appeal either in writing or orally. All necessary information for the review, including the determination on review, will be transmitted between the Claims Administrator and you by telephone, facsimile, or another similarly expeditious method. To proceed with an expedited internal appeal, you or your authorized representative must contact the Claims Administrator and provide at least the following information:

- Your name;
- The date(s) of the medical service;
- The specific medical condition or symptom;
- The provider's name
- The service or supply for which approval of benefits was sought; and
- Any reasons why the appeal should be processed on a more expedited basis.

You will be notified of the determination on review as soon as possible, taking into account the medical exigencies, but not later than 72 hours after receipt of your request for review of an adverse benefit determination.

If the Claims Administrator Makes an Adverse Benefit Determination on Your First-Level Appeal

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination on your first-level appeal, it will notify you of the following, in a manner to be understood by you:

- The specific reason or reasons for the adverse benefit determination;

- Reference to the specific Plan provisions on which the adverse benefit determination is based;
- A statement that you are entitled to receive, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim;
- A statement describing any voluntary appeal procedures offered by the Plan and your right to obtain information about such procedures; and
- A statement indicating your right to bring a civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA following an adverse benefit determination on all appeals.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon an internal rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion in making the adverse benefit determination, either the specific rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such rule, guideline, protocol, or other criterion will be provided free of charge to you upon request. If the Claims Administrator relied upon medical necessity or experimental treatment or similar exclusion or limit in making the adverse benefit determination, either an explanation of the scientific or clinical judgment for the determination (applying the terms of the Plan to your medical circumstances) will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such explanation will be provided free of charge to you upon request.

If the Claims Administrator denies an urgent care claim on review, the Claims Administrator may provide oral notice of its determination, then follow-up with a written or electronic confirmation within three days.

Second-Level Appeal for Pre-and Post-Service Claims

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination with respect to your pre- or post-service claim on appeal, you or your duly authorized representative may request a review of such determination by the Claims Administrator by sending a written request for review within 60 days of your receipt of the Claims Administrator's notice of adverse benefit determination.

Your request for review should be sent to the Claims Administrator for the Plan at the address for the Claims Administrator set forth in the section entitled "General Program Information" found in the individual SPD section for the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

You may submit written comments, documents, records, and other information relating to your claim for benefits. Upon your written request, you will be provided, free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all relevant documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim.

Your written request should state why you think your claim should not have been denied. Your request also should include your name, the covered person's name and date of birth, the name of the provider of services, the name of your employer, any denial letter you received, the claim number and any additional documents, information or comments you think may have a bearing on your claim.

Upon receipt of your request, the Claims Administrator will conduct a review that takes into account all comments, documents, records, and other information submitted by you or your authorized representative relating to your claim, without regard to whether such information was submitted or considered in the initial benefit determination. The review will not afford any deference to the Claims Administrator's denial of your claim on appeal and will be conducted by an individual who is neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual.

If the denial was based in whole or in part on a medical judgment, the Claims Administrator will consult with a health care professional who has appropriate training and experience in the field of medicine involved in the medical judgment. This health care professional consultant will be neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual. Upon request, the Claims

Administrator will provide the identities of any medical or vocational experts whose advice was obtained on behalf of the Plan in connection with your adverse benefit determination, without regard to whether the advice was relied upon in making the benefit determination.

Pre-Service Claims

In the case of a pre-service claim, you will be notified of the determination on review within a reasonable period of time appropriate to the medical circumstances, but not later than 15 days after receipt of your request for review.

Post-Service Claims

In the case of a post-service claim, you will be notified of the determination on review within a reasonable period of time, but not later than 30 days after receipt of your request for review.

If the Claims Administrator Makes an Adverse Benefit Determination on Your Second-Level Appeal

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination on your second-level appeal, it will notify you of the following, in a manner to be understood by you:

- The specific reason or reasons for the adverse benefit determination;
- Reference to the specific Plan provisions on which the benefit determination is based;
- A statement that you are entitled to receive, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim;
- A statement describing any voluntary appeal procedures offered by the Plan and your right to obtain information about such procedures; and
- A statement indicating your right to bring a civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA following an adverse benefit determination on all appeals.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon an internal rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion in making the adverse benefit determination, either the specific rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion will be provided to you free of charge, or you will be informed that such rule, guideline, protocol, or other criterion will be provided free of charge to you upon request.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon medical necessity or experimental treatment or similar exclusion or limit in making the adverse benefit determination, either an explanation of the scientific or clinical judgment for the determination (applying the terms of the Plan to your medical circumstances) will be provided to you free of charge, or you will be informed that such explanation will be provided to you free of charge upon request.

Limitation of Actions and Venue

No lawsuit or legal action of any kind regarding a claim for benefits under the Plan may be commenced unless the claims procedure process has been exhausted. In addition, in no event may any lawsuit or other legal action regarding a claim for benefits be commenced later than three years after the date such claim was incurred. A claim for benefits is incurred when the services giving rise to the claim were rendered.

Any suit, action or proceeding seeking to enforce any provision of, or based on any matter arising out of or in connection with, the Plan shall be brought in any court of the State of Indiana or in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Indiana.

Any suit, action or proceeding seeking to enforce any provision of, or based on any matter arising out of or in connection with, the Plan shall be brought in any court of the State of Indiana or in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Indiana.

Continuation of Coverage

COBRA

This subsection contains important information about your right to COBRA continuation coverage, which is a temporary extension of coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan (each of the foregoing a "Plan" for purposes of this COBRA section).

This section generally explains COBRA continuation coverage, when it may become available to you and your family, and what you need to do to protect the right to receive it. For a discussion of special survivor coverage that may extend coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan beyond the maximum period of COBRA continuation coverage, see the section below entitled "Survivor Coverage." COBRA continuation coverage does not apply to EAP/Work Life/Legal & Financial.

In the event you are eligible for COBRA continuation coverage, there may be other coverage options for you and your family as well. With the advent of health care reform, you may be able to buy coverage through the Health Insurance Marketplace. In the Marketplace, you could be eligible for a new kind of tax credit that lowers your monthly premiums right away, and you can see what your premium, deductibles, and out-of-pocket costs will be before you make a decision to enroll. Being eligible (but not enrolled) for COBRA continuation coverage does not limit your eligibility for coverage for a tax credit through the Marketplace. Additionally, you may qualify for a special enrollment opportunity for another group health plan for which you are eligible (such as a spouse's plan), even if the plan generally does not accept late enrollees, if you request enrollment within 30 days.

Please Note: Notwithstanding the timeframes described below, you may disregard the Outbreak Period in determining (i) the 60-day election period for COBRA continuation coverage, and (ii) the date for making COBRA premium payments.

What Is COBRA Continuation Coverage?

COBRA continuation coverage is a continuation of Plan coverage when coverage would otherwise end because of a life event known as a "qualifying event." Specific qualifying events are listed later in this subsection. After a qualifying event, COBRA continuation coverage must be offered to each person who is a "qualified beneficiary." You, your spouse (if he or she is treated as a spouse under the Internal Revenue Code), and your dependent children could become qualified beneficiaries on account of coverage under a Plan if coverage under such Plan is lost because of a qualifying event. Under each Plan, qualified beneficiaries who elect COBRA continuation coverage must pay for the cost of such coverage. The cost of coverage is up to 102 percent of the total premium rate (a two percent administrative cost is added to the actual cost of the coverage). If you are entitled to extended coverage by reason of a disability (as described below), you may be required to pay up to 150 percent of the full cost of the coverage. These costs are subject to change.

You must elect COBRA during your COBRA election period. Your COBRA election period begins on the date of your qualifying event and ends on the date that is 60 days after the later of (i) the date coverage would have stopped due to the qualifying event, or (ii) the date the qualified beneficiary is sent notice of the right to continue coverage under COBRA.

You will have 45 days from the date of your coverage election to submit your first premium payment. This premium payment will include all premiums prior to your election for the period of COBRA continuation coverage. After your initial premium payment is remitted, you or your dependents will be billed monthly for the elected coverage. If payment is not received within 45 days of the monthly due date, COBRA coverage will be cancelled.

Your spouse will become a qualified beneficiary on account of coverage under a Plan if he or she loses coverage under such Plan because any of the following qualifying events happens:

- You die;
- You become entitled to Medicare benefits (under Part A, Part B, or both); or
- You become divorced or legally separated from your spouse.

Your dependent children will become qualified beneficiaries on account of coverage under a Plan if they lose coverage under such Plan because any of the following qualifying events happens:

- You die;
- You become entitled to Medicare benefits (Part A, Part B, or both);
- You become divorced or legally separated; or
- Your child stops being eligible for coverage under the Plan as a "dependent child."

With respect to coverage under a Plan for Retirees, sometimes the filing a proceeding in bankruptcy under Title 11 of the United States Code can be a qualifying event. If a proceeding in bankruptcy is filed with respect to NiSource or one of its affiliates, and that bankruptcy results in your loss of coverage under the Plan, you will become a qualified beneficiary with respect to the bankruptcy. Your spouse, surviving spouse, and dependent children will also become qualified beneficiaries if they were covered under the Plan on the day immediately preceding the commencement of the bankruptcy proceeding and the proceeding resulted in their loss of coverage.

When Is COBRA Continuation Coverage Available?

Each Plan will offer COBRA continuation coverage to qualified beneficiaries only after the Plan Administrator has been notified that a qualifying event has occurred. When the qualifying event is your death, the commencement of a proceeding in bankruptcy with respect to your employer (in the case of loss of retiree coverage), or your becoming entitled to Medicare benefits (under Part A, Part B, or both), your employer must notify the Plan Administrator of the qualifying event.

Notice of Some Qualifying Events

For some qualifying events (divorce or legal separation or a dependent child's losing eligibility for coverage as a dependent child), you must notify the Plan Administrator within 60 days after the latest of (i) the date qualifying event occurs, or (ii) the date on which the dependent loses (or would lose coverage) as a result of the qualifying event. This notice must be provided to the Benefits Source by calling the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320, or in the case of a notice of divorce or legal separation, by visiting the website mysourceforhr.com.

Any such notice must provide the date of divorce or legal separation or the date a dependent child lost eligibility for coverage, as the case may be, and must indicate that the notice is being provided for purposes of obtaining COBRA continuation coverage. If notice is not provided within the 60-day period, you and your dependent will not be eligible for COBRA continuation coverage.

How Is COBRA Continuation Coverage Provided?

Once the Plan Administrator receives notice that a qualifying event has occurred, COBRA continuation coverage will be offered to each of the qualified beneficiaries. Each qualified beneficiary will have an independent right to elect COBRA continuation coverage. You may elect COBRA continuation coverage on behalf of your spouse, and parents may elect COBRA continuation coverage on behalf of their children.

COBRA continuation coverage is a temporary continuation of coverage. When the qualifying event is your death, your becoming entitled to Medicare benefits (under Part A, Part B, or both), your divorce or legal separation, or a dependent child losing eligibility as a dependent child, COBRA continuation coverage lasts for up to a total of 36 months.

When the qualifying event is an employer's bankruptcy, COBRA continuation coverage for you ends upon your death and coverage for a qualified beneficiary who is your spouse or dependent child ends on the earlier of the date of the qualified beneficiary's death or three years after your death.

COBRA Continuation Coverage Ends

In addition to the maximum coverage durations set forth above, COBRA continuation coverage for a qualified beneficiary will end on the earliest to occur of the following:

- The date such qualified beneficiary first becomes entitled to benefits under Medicare.
- The date on which all employers participating in a Plan cease to provide any group health plan or coverage to any employee.
- If you fail to make a required contribution (coverage will end at the end of the period for which the last contribution was made).
- The date such qualified beneficiary first becomes covered under any other group health plan that does not contain any exclusion or limitation with respect to any pre-existing condition, other than a pre-existing condition that does not apply to (or is satisfied by) the qualified beneficiary pursuant to applicable law. Please see the "Coordination with HIPAA and Affordable Care Act" provisions set forth below for additional information.

Coordination with HIPAA and Affordable Care Act

Under COBRA, your rights to continue coverage terminate if you become covered by another employer's group health plan that does not limit or exclude coverage for your pre-existing conditions. If you become covered by another group health plan and that plan contains a pre-existing condition limitation that affects you, your COBRA continuation coverage cannot be terminated before the maximum coverage period. HIPAA and the Affordable Care Act limit the extent to which certain group health plans can impose pre-existing condition exclusions. Thus, if another plan's pre-existing condition exclusion cannot apply to you because of HIPAA or the Affordable Care Act, your entitlement to COBRA continuation coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan will terminate before the maximum coverage period.

Questions

Questions concerning the Plans or your COBRA continuation coverage rights should be addressed to the contact identified below. For more information about rights under ERISA, including COBRA, HIPAA, and other laws affecting group health plans, contact the nearest Regional or District Office of the U.S. Department of Labor's Employee Benefits Security Administration ("EBSA") in your area or visit the EBSA website at dol.gov/ebsa (addresses and phone numbers of Regional and District Offices are available through EBSA's website).

If you have questions about enrolling in COBRA, contact the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

Notification of Address Changes

In order to protect your family's rights, you should keep the Plan Administrator informed of any changes in the addresses of family members. If your home address changes while on COBRA, contact the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

You should also keep a copy, for your records, of any notices you send to the Plan Administrator.

Survivor Coverage

In the event of a covered Retiree's death within 30 days preceding, or at any time on or after, May 1, 2010, if COBRA continuation coverage under a Retiree Medical Plan has been elected and has not terminated prior to the maximum continuation coverage period (36 months) for such Retiree's surviving dependents who are covered under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan on the date of that Retiree's death, then coverage for such dependents may continue beyond such 36-month period until the earlier of (i) the date the Retiree's surviving spouse dies, (ii) the last day of the month in which the Retiree's surviving spouse remarries or enters into a domestic partnership or civil union with another person, (iii) the last date for which any required contribution was made, (iv) with respect to a dependent child, the last day of the month in which the child no longer qualifies as a dependent, (v) with respect to any dependent covered under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, the date such dependent reaches age 65, and (vi) the date the Employer from whom the Retiree retired from employment ceases to be a "related employer," as defined in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

If medical coverage under the NiSource Consolidated Flex Medical Plan ends for an active employee's dependent because of such employee's death within thirty days preceding, or at any time on or after May 1, 2010, and if such employee would have satisfied the conditions for being a Retiree had he or she retired from service with an Employer on the day immediately preceding his or her death, then solely for the purpose of COBRA continuation coverage and survivor coverage for any surviving dependents covered under the NiSource Consolidated Flex Medical Plan at the time of the employee's death, the employee will be deemed to have (i) retired from service with an Employer on the day immediately preceding his or her death (the "Deemed Retirement Date") and be a "Deemed Retiree", (ii) enrolled in retiree medical coverage on the Deemed Retirement Date, and (iii) enrolled each such surviving dependent in coverage under either the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan (in the coverage option in which the dependent was enrolled immediately prior to the Deemed Retirement Date) or the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan (in an available coverage option selected by the dependent), as applicable. An eligible surviving dependent of a Deemed Retiree shall be entitled to survivor coverage in accordance with the terms and conditions described in the immediately preceding paragraph. An eligible surviving dependent of a Deemed Retiree who has not attained age 65 as of the Deemed Retirement Date will be entitled to survivor coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan. An eligible surviving dependent of a Deemed Retiree who has attained age 65 as of the Deemed Retirement Date will be entitled to survivor coverage under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

If survivor coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan will end for a surviving dependent solely on account of his or her attaining age 65, such dependent may continue survivor coverage under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan by enrolling in such Plan and by selecting an available post-65 retiree medical coverage option on or before attaining age 65. Such survivor coverage shall be subject to the terms and conditions set forth in the first paragraph of this section entitled "Survivor Coverage."

If a surviving dependent's COBRA continuation coverage has terminated for any reason prior to the expiration of the maximum COBRA continuation coverage period or if survivor coverage provided beyond the maximum COBRA continuation coverage period is terminated for any reason, such dependent may not reenroll in coverage. Notwithstanding the preceding sentence, if coverage for a surviving dependent is terminated during a Plan Year for failure to pay required contributions for coverage, the dependent may apply to the NiSource Benefits Department during the same Plan Year to reinstate coverage retroactive to the date of termination. The dependent's application must be in writing and must describe the extenuating circumstances that resulted in his or her missed payment. The Benefits Department, in its sole and absolute discretion, will determine whether there are sufficient grounds for reinstating coverage. If the Benefits Department makes a favorable determination, the dependent must repay any missed premiums before the end of the Plan Year and before coverage will be reinstated.

Additional Information

Assignment of Benefits

Except as required by applicable law, none of your rights or interests under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan (for purposes of this section only, each a "Plan") and no benefit payable under a Plan shall in any manner be alienated, sold, assigned or transferred, or be subject to any lien, pledge or encumbrance, in whole or in part, either directly or by operation of law or otherwise, including without limitation by execution, levy, garnishment, attachment, pledge, or bankruptcy, nor will any benefit payable under a Plan be liable for, or subject to, any obligation or liability you may have. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, except as required by applicable law, you may not assign or transfer to any third party, including without limitation any person or institution providing medical care, treatment, services or supplies, the right to receive benefit payments under a Plan, or the right to pursue a claim, to appeal an adverse benefit determination or to maintain a cause of action under ERISA in respect of any benefit covered, alleged to be covered or denied under a Plan, and any such attempted assignment or transfer is void.

Nothing contained in a Plan or in this Handbook, nor any course of dealing, act or omission on the part of a Plan, its Plan Administrator or any Claim Administrator or other party, shall be construed to make a Plan liable to any third party to whom you may be liable for medical care, treatment, services or supplies. Although a Plan may, at your direction or otherwise, make payments directly to persons or institutions providing covered services under the Plan, such payment or direction does not constitute a transfer or assignment of benefits or of any other right or interest under the Plan, including without limitation any legal or equitable right to institute any court proceeding. Any such payments by a Plan shall constitute a complete discharge of the Plan's obligation to you. Under no circumstances will any person or institution providing medical care, treatment, services or supplies to you be deemed a participant or beneficiary under a Plan.

If you attempt to alienate, sell, transfer, assign, pledge or otherwise impede a benefit under a Plan or any part, or if by reason of your bankruptcy or other event happening at any time, a benefit devolves upon anyone else or would not be enjoyed by you, then upon becoming aware of such attempted alienation, sale, transfer, assignment or pledge, the Plan Administrator in its discretion, which will be exercised uniformly by treating individuals in similar circumstances alike, may terminate your interest in any such benefit and hold or apply it to or for your benefit or the benefit of your dependents, in a manner the Plan Administrator may deem proper.

Subrogation and Right of Recovery

An Other Party may be liable or legally responsible to pay expenses, compensation and/or damages in relation to a Sickness or Injury incurred by you or one of your covered dependents (a "covered person").

An "Other Party" includes, but is not limited to, any of the following:

- The party or parties who caused the Sickness or Injury;
- The insurer or other indemnifier of the party or parties who caused the Sickness or Injury;
- A guarantor of the party or parties who caused the Sickness or Injury;
- The covered person's own insurer (for example, in the case of uninsured or underinsured coverage, no-fault coverage or med-pay);
- A worker's compensation insurer (including the covered person's employer if worker's compensation is self-insured);
- Any other person, entity, policy or plan that is liable or legally responsible in relation to the covered person's Sickness or Injury.

Benefits may also be payable under the applicable benefit plan in relation to the Sickness or Injury. When this happens, the applicable benefit plan may, at its option:

- Subrogate, that is, take over the covered person's right to receive payments from the Other Party. If so, the covered person or his or her legal representative must transfer to the applicable benefit plan any rights he or she may have to take legal action arising from the Sickness or Injury so that the applicable benefit plan may recover any sums paid under such benefit plan on behalf of the covered person;
- Recover from the covered person or his or her legal representative any benefits paid under the applicable benefit plan from any payment the covered person receives or is entitled to receive from the Other Party.

As a condition of participation in the applicable benefit plan, the covered person agrees, and will cause his or her legal representative to agree, to cooperate fully with the applicable benefit plan in asserting its subrogation and recovery rights. No covered person shall take any action to prejudice the applicable benefit plan's subrogation and recovery rights. The covered person or his or her legal representative must, upon request from the applicable benefit plan, provide all information and sign and return all documents or agreements deemed necessary or desirable by the benefit plan for it to exercise its rights under this provision. Failure or refusal to execute such agreements or furnish information, to comply with the obligations under such agreements or to cooperate fully with the applicable benefit plan in asserting its subrogation and recovery rights does not preclude the benefit plan from exercising its right to subrogation or obtaining full reimbursement, and in such case, the benefit plan may cease paying benefits and reduce future benefits payable until full reimbursement is received.

The covered person shall provide notice to the applicable benefit plan within a reasonable time prior to the date that he or she expects to receive a payment from an Other Party. The covered person acknowledges that the applicable benefit plan has a right to intervene in any lawsuit involving an Other Party, and the covered person consents to the unfettered exercise of that right. The covered person further agrees that any funds received by him or her (or his or her legal representative) from any source for any purpose up to the amount of benefits paid under the applicable benefit plan shall be held separately and in trust with either the person receiving benefits (or his or her legal representative) as trustee and the applicable benefit plan as beneficiary, until such time as the obligation under this provision is fully satisfied. Accordingly, such covered person or legal representative shall be deemed a fiduciary of the applicable benefit plan to the extent of the benefit plan assets that are so held in trust.

A covered person and his or her legal representative shall place any and all funds recovered from an Other Party in a separate reserve account under the control of the covered person and/or his or her legal representative. As a condition of participating in the applicable benefit plan, a covered person and his or her legal representative shall agree that any funds received from an Other Party rightfully and in good conscience belong to the applicable benefit plan, and that such funds shall be held in a constructive trust until distributed in accordance with this Subrogation and Right of Recovery provision.

The applicable benefit plan will have a first lien and priority right upon any recovery, whether by settlement, judgment, mediation, arbitration or otherwise, that the covered person (or his or her legal representative) receives or is entitled to receive from any source whatsoever, including without limitation any of the sources listed above. Such lien and priority right shall extend to the first proceeds of any such recovery in the possession of the covered person, his or her legal representative or any third party, who shall hold the same in trust for the benefit of the plan. This lien and priority right will not exceed the lesser of:

- The amount of benefits paid by the applicable benefit plan for the Sickness or Injury, plus the amount of all future benefits that may become payable under the applicable benefit plan that result from the Sickness or Injury. The applicable benefit plan will have the right to offset or recover such future benefits from the amount received from the Other Party; or
- The amount recovered from the Other Party.

If the covered person or his or her legal representative:

- Makes any recovery from any of the sources described above; and
- Fails to reimburse the applicable benefit plan for any benefits that arise from the Sickness or Injury;

then:

- The covered person or his or her legal representative will be personally liable to the applicable benefit plan for the amount of the benefits paid under that benefit plan; and

- The applicable benefit plan may reduce future benefits payable for any illness, sickness or bodily injury by the payment that the covered person or his or her legal representative has received from the Other Party.

The applicable benefit plan's first lien and priority rights will not be reduced due to the covered person's own negligence; or due to the covered person not being made whole; or due to attorney's fees and costs. All attorney's fees and court costs, including the applicable benefit plan's attorney fees and court costs, are the responsibility of the covered person, not the benefit plan. Neither the "common fund" or "make whole" doctrines shall be applicable with regard to the benefit plan, and as a condition of participating in the benefit plan, the covered person agrees that he or she will not retain counsel, unless such counsel agrees to not assert either of these doctrines during the representation.

For clarification, this provision for subrogation and right of recovery applies to any funds recovered from the Other Party by or on behalf of:

- The Retiree;
- The Retiree's covered dependent;
- The estate of any covered person; or
- Any incapacitated person.

If the covered person is a minor, any amount recovered by the minor, the minor's trustee, guardian, parent, or other representative, shall be subject to this Subrogation and Right of Recovery provision, regardless of state law and whether the minor's representative has access to, or control of, any recovery funds.

If it becomes necessary for the applicable benefit plan to enforce this provision by initiating any action against any person, including the covered person's legal representative, then the covered person agrees to pay the benefit plan's attorney's fees and costs associated with the action, regardless of the action's outcome.

Overpayment of a Claim

If a Plan pays benefits for the Retiree or a covered dependent, the Retiree or any other person or organization that received the payment must refund the applicable benefit plan if all or some of the expense:

- Did not legally have to be paid;
- Exceeded the benefits under the benefit plan; or
- Was paid by a source other than the benefit plan (i.e. claim for an illness or injury that someone else is legally responsible to pay). See the "Subrogation and Right of Recovery" subsection for further details.

If you or the person or organization that was paid does not refund the full amount, the benefit plan may reduce the amount of any future benefits payable.

Provider Networks

Certain of the benefit plans make use of provider networks. As a general matter, benefit coverage may be greater and your out-of-pocket expenses may be lower if you use an In-Network Provider rather than an Out-of-Network Provider. For the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, provider lists may be obtained, without charge, at anthem.com, or by contacting an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card.

HIPAA Privacy

In General

The Department of Health and Human Services has issued Standards for Privacy of Individually Identifiable Health Information (the "Privacy Standards"), effective April 14, 2003, that govern the manner in which the group health plans (for purpose of this subsection, the "Plans") must handle Protected Health Information. "Protected Health Information" means individually identifiable health information related to a Covered Employee or Dependent.

Permitted Uses and Disclosures

The Plans may use and disclose Protected Health Information to carry out payment and health care operations without consent or authorization. If the Plans must use and disclose Protected Health Information for purposes other than payment or health care operations, patient authorization for such use or disclosure shall be required, unless such use or disclosure is expressly permitted by the Policies and Procedures Regarding Protected Health Information related to the Plans or the Privacy Standards.

Disclosures to Company

The Plans may disclose Protected Health Information to the Company to the extent that such disclosure is permissible under law, but prior to any such disclosure the Company shall certify that (1) the Plans' documents have been amended as required by the Privacy Standards and (2) the Company has agreed to certain conditions set forth in the Privacy Standards regarding the use and disclosure of that Protected Health Information.

Adequate Separation

There shall be adequate separation between the Plans and the Company to help ensure that only persons involved in Plan administration have access to Protected Health Information. Only the Plan Privacy Official, Security Official, members of the Committee, persons specifically designated in the Plans and any other persons properly designated by one of the foregoing shall have access to Protected Health Information created under the Plans. Access to and use of Protected Health Information by such employees shall be restricted to the Plan administration functions that the Company and its affiliates perform for the Plans. The Plans or the Committee have retained one or more third party administrators and others that receive Protected Health Information in the ordinary course of business performed on behalf of the Plans. Such persons or entities, known in the Privacy Standards as "Business Associates," shall enter into agreements with the Plans governing their obligations under the Privacy Standards.

Unauthorized Use or Disclosure.

The improper use or disclosure of Protected Health Information by an employee of Company (or an affiliate) shall be governed by the Policies and Procedures Regarding Protected Health Information related to the Plans. The terms of the applicable Business Associate Agreement shall address non-compliance with the Privacy Standards by a Business Associate.

HIPAA Nondiscrimination

Notwithstanding any other provision of this Handbook, to the extent a group health plan subject to HIPAA's nondiscrimination rules generally provides benefits for a type of injury, benefits otherwise provided for treatment of the injury will not be denied if the injury results from an act of domestic violence or a medical condition (including both physical and mental health conditions).

Employment Rights Not Guaranteed

Your participation in the Program or any benefit plan does not ensure you of continued (or renewed) employment with the Company or any Employer. It also does not ensure your rights to benefits, except as specified under the terms of the Program. This Handbook is not a contract of employment.

Amendment and Termination

Subject to the terms of any applicable collective bargaining agreement, the Committee may amend the benefit plans at any time. In addition, (i) the Director, Benefits, of the Company, or an employee of the Company or its affiliates succeeding to the duties and responsibilities of such person, may amend the benefit plans at any time, if such amendments are required by applicable law or regulations, and (ii) the Senior Vice President and Chief Human Resources Officer of the Company and the Director, Benefits of the Company (or officers or employees of the Company or its affiliates succeeding to the duties and responsibilities of such persons) may amend the benefit plans or adopt amendments to, or guidelines with respect to the administration of, the benefit plans, and may take such other actions with respect to the benefit plans, as such persons deem necessary or desirable in response to the health emergency created by the COVID-19 virus or to any other similar health emergency and in response to the effect of any such emergency upon the benefit plans or the participants thereunder. The Committee reserves the right to terminate any benefit plan at any time without the consent of, or advance notice to, you or your covered dependents.

Named Fiduciary and Plan Administrator

The Committee is the "Named Fiduciary" and "Plan Administrator" of each benefit plan as defined in ERISA, and, as such, has authority to control and manage the operation and administration of the benefit plans. See also the "Definitions" section of this Benefits Program Overview for the definition of "Plan Administrator."

The Plan Administrator or its delegate has complete discretionary authority to make all determinations under the benefit plans, including determinations of eligibility for benefits and factual determinations, and to interpret the terms and provisions of the benefit plans.

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Plan Administrator or its delegate has full discretionary authority to: interpret the benefit plans and construe the benefit plans terms; determine eligibility for and the amount of benefits; determine the status and rights of employees, dependents and other persons; make rulings; make regulations and prescribe procedures; gather needed information; prescribe forms; exercise all of the power and authority contemplated by ERISA and the Internal Revenue Code with respect to the benefit plans; employ or appoint persons to help or advise in any administrative functions; and generally do anything needed to operate, manage and administer the benefit plans. The Plan Administrator or its delegate has the requisite discretionary authority and control over the benefit plans to require deferential judicial review of its decisions as set forth by the United States Supreme Court in Firestone Tire

& Rubber Co. v. Bruch. The Committee has delegated certain authority to the NiSource Benefits Department, to insurers, and to third party administrators or Claims Administrators. To the extent not retained by the Committee, the Committee has delegated to the Claims Administrators, to the NiSource Benefits Department or to insurers the discretionary authority to:

- Make decisions regarding the interpretation or application of benefit plan provisions;
- Make determinations (including factual determinations) as to the rights and benefits of employees and participants under the benefit plans;
- Make claims determinations under the benefit plans; and
- Decide the appeal of denied claims.

Other authority may be delegated to the extent allowed by ERISA.

Benefits will be paid under the benefit plans only if the Plan Administrator or its delegate determines that the claimant is entitled to them. The decision of the Plan Administrator or its delegate is final and binding.

The Role of the Claims Administrator

With respect to the benefit plans, or portions thereof, that are self-insured, the Committee has retained one or more Claims Administrator to provide claims payment and other administrative services to such plans. Each Claims Administrator has full discretionary authority to decide claims and appeals for the claims it administers. However, even though a Retiree may receive a benefit check from a Claims Administrator, the Company, a participating employer or another plan funding vehicle actually pays benefit claims; the Claims Administrator does not pay claims out of its pocket. Although a Claims Administrator may have insurance coverage as part of its business, a Claims Administrator is not an insurer in relation to benefit plans, or portions thereof, that are self-insured. The self-insured portions of benefit plans are funded from the general assets of the Company or a participating employer or another lawful funding vehicle that is in place, such as a Voluntary Employees' Beneficiary Association Trust.

With respect to the fully insured benefit plans, the Claims Administrator is also the Plan's insurer and has full and absolute authority to decide claims and appeals by virtue of authority delegated by the Committee.

Claims Administrators are identified in the General Program Information section for each benefit plan and are subject to change from time to time.

Statement of ERISA Rights

As a participant in a benefit plan maintained by NiSource Inc., you are entitled to certain rights and protections under ERISA. ERISA provides that all plan participants shall be entitled to:

Receive Information About Plan and Benefits

- Examine, without charge, at the Plan Administrator's office and at other specified locations, such as worksites and union halls, all documents governing the benefit plan, including insurance contracts and collective bargaining agreements, and a copy of the latest annual report (Form 5500 Series) filed by the benefit plan with the U.S. Department of Labor and available at the Public Disclosure Room of the Employee Benefits Security Administration.
- Obtain, upon written request to the Plan Administrator, copies of documents governing the operation of the benefit plan, including insurance contracts and collective bargaining agreements, and copies of the latest annual report (Form 5500 Series) and updated Summary Plan Description. The Plan Administrator may make a reasonable charge for the copies.
- Receive a summary of the benefit plan's annual financial report. The Plan Administrator is required by law to furnish each participant with a copy of this Summary Annual Report.
- Continue health care coverage for you, your spouse or dependents if there is a loss of coverage under the benefit plan as a result of a qualifying event. You or your dependents may have to pay for such coverage. Review this Summary Plan Description and the documents governing the benefit plan on the rules governing your COBRA continuation coverage rights.

Prudent Actions by Plan Fiduciaries

In addition to creating rights for benefit plan participants, ERISA imposes duties upon the people who are responsible for the operation of the benefit plan. The people who operate the benefit plan, called "fiduciaries" of the benefit plan, have a duty to do so prudently and in the interest of the employee and other benefit plan participants and beneficiaries. No one, including your employer or any other person, may fire you or otherwise discriminate against you in any way to prevent you from obtaining a welfare benefit or exercising your rights under ERISA.

Enforce Your Rights

If your claim for a welfare benefit is denied or ignored, in whole or in part, you have a right to know why this was done, to obtain copies of documents relating to the decision without charge, and to appeal any denial, all within certain time schedules.

Under ERISA, there are steps you can take to enforce the above rights. For instance, if you request a copy of benefit plan documents or the latest annual report from the benefit plan and do not receive them within 30 days, you may file suit in a Federal court. In such a case, the court may require the Plan Administrator to provide the materials and pay you up to $110 a day until you receive the materials, unless the materials were not sent because of reasons beyond the control of the Plan Administrator. If your claim for benefits is denied or ignored, in whole or in part, you may file suit in a state or Federal court after exhausting all required administrative appeals. In addition, if you disagree with the benefit plan's decision or lack thereof concerning the qualified status of a medical child support order, you may file suit in Federal court. If it should happen that benefit plan fiduciaries misuse the benefit plan's money, or if you are discriminated against for asserting your rights, you may seek assistance from the U.S. Department of Labor, or you may file suit in a Federal court.

The court will decide who should pay court costs and legal fees. If you are successful, the court may order the person you have sued to pay these costs and fees. If you lose, the court may order you to pay these costs and fees, for example, if it finds your claim is frivolous.

Assistance with Questions

Questions regarding the benefit plan should be directed to the Plan Administrator. If there are questions about this statement or about your rights under ERISA, or if as an employee you need assistance in obtaining documents from the Plan Administrator, you should contact the nearest office of the Employee Benefits Security Administration, U.S. Department of Labor, listed in your telephone directory or the Division of Technical Assistance and Inquiries, Employee Benefits Security Administration, U.S. Department of Labor, 200 Constitution Avenue N.W., Washington, DC 20210. You may also obtain certain publications about your rights and responsibilities under ERISA by calling the publications hotline of the Employee Benefits Security Administration.

Your Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan Options

This is the SPD (the “Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD”) for the NiSource Consolidated Flex Medical Plan, also referred to as the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan. In this Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD, the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan is sometimes referred to as the “Plan.”

NiSource Inc. (the “Company”) provides eligible Pre-65 Retirees and their eligible dependents, as well as eligible dependents of Post-65 Retirees who are covered under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, with the following medical coverage options administered by Anthem BlueCross/BlueShield, each of which uses the Blue Cross/BlueShield Network:

- The Preferred Provider Organization (PPO);
- HDPPO 1 (HDPPO 1)
- HDPPO 2 (HDPPO 2)

The Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan may also offer Health Maintenance Organizations (“HMO”)—provided you live in an area where a NiSource HMO option is available. If this option is available to you and you elect the option, your insurer will provide you with a separate HMO SPD. Please refer to that document for further information regarding HMO coverage.

Keep in mind that the Plan covers expenses based on a determination of the “Maximum Allowed Amount”. Charges above the Maximum Allowed Amount are not paid by the Plan and are your responsibility. The Maximum Allowed Amount is determined based upon guidelines established by the Claims Administrator in its discretion from time to time. For more information about the determination of the Maximum Allowed Amount, please see the subsection below entitled “Maximum Allowed Amount”. If you have a question about the determination of the Maximum Allowed Amount, contact an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card.

The PPO option includes a network of qualified health care providers who offer discounted services for being able to participate in the network. You may also use Out-of-Network Providers and still receive a benefit; however, your costs may be higher if you choose out-of-network services.

The HDPPO 1 and HDPPO 2 are both administered by Anthem. With these options, you may go in-network or out-of-network each time you seek care. The Plan pays more if you stay in the network. Office visits (for non-preventive care) and prescription drugs are subject to the same deductible and co-insurance as other medical expenses. No medical or prescription drug benefits (except preventive and wellness care) are payable until you satisfy the annual deductible. After you meet your deductible, you will generally pay 20% of your expenses (assuming you use In-Network Providers) until you reach your out-of-pocket maximum. There are separate out-of-pocket maximums for in-network and out-of-network services. Once you reach your out-of-pocket maximum, the plan pays 100% of your eligible expenses for the rest of the calendar year.

If you enroll in either HDPPO 1 or HDPPO 2, you may be eligible to contribute to a Health Savings Account (HSA), although as a Pre-65 Retiree you may not contribute to an HSA through the Company. The money you contribute to an HSA can be used to reimburse you for eligible expenses that are not covered under the Plan.

To find a provider who participates in the network, log on to anthem.com or contact an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card.

Utilization Review Program

The Utilization Review (UR) Program is designed to help you determine the course of treatment that will maximize your plan benefits regardless of which coverage option you select.

The UR Program offers the following services:

- Pre-admission authorization;
- Pre-Certification;

- Urgent Hospital Admission;
- Continued Stay Review;
- Other Required Pre-certifications; and
- Penalty for Non-Compliance.

The Utilization Review Program provides pre-authorization services to help verify the need for recommended treatment. This service also can propose treatment alternatives that may be more appropriate and cost-effective. Pre-authorization does not guarantee benefits. Benefit availability is subject to eligibility and other terms, conditions, limitations, and exclusions of the Plan.

You must contact Anthem (who provides the Utilization Review services) to receive pre-authorization any time your doctor recommends treatment that requires pre-authorization as outlined below:

- Pre-Admission/Pre-Certification: Except in the case of an urgent hospitalization, all hospitalizations shall be pre-certified prior to admission for any reason. The Pre-certification Provider's name and telephone number will be provided to each participant. Hospital admission pre-certification does not guarantee benefits under the Plan. Actual benefits provided under the Plan are determined based on the provisions of the Plan.
- Pre-Certification Procedure: When your physician recommends a non-urgent hospitalization, you or your physician must call the Pre-certification Provider. You must advise your physician of the Plan's pre-admission certification requirement and provide such physician with adequate information to obtain the pre-certification. You or your physician should secure pre-certification as soon as possible and before a covered person actually enters the hospital. It is your responsibility to see that the Pre-certification Provider is notified.
- Urgent Hospital Admission: In the case of an urgent hospitalization, the covered person's physician, the hospital, or a family member must telephone the Pre-certification Provider within 48 hours of admission or the first business day following weekend or holiday admissions.

You must provide the Pre-certification Provider with the information required by the Pre-certification Provider.

- Continued Stay Review: The Pre-certification Provider may monitor all hospital stays through contact with the covered person's physician.
- Other Required Pre-certifications: You and your physician must notify the Pre-certification Provider prior to the provision of the following additional services or supplies: (1) inpatient surgery, (2) a newborn child hospital stay beyond that of the mother; (3) plastic reconstructive surgery; and (4) durable medical equipment/prosthetics. With approval of the Plan, the Pre-certification Provider may require pre-certification for other services or supplies in accordance with reasonable procedures.
- Penalty for Non-compliance: If you fail to comply with the requirements as described above, the Plan may assess a $300 penalty.

How Deductibles Work in the PPO Option

For charges that are subject to the calendar year deductible requirement under the PPO Coverage Option, a covered member generally must satisfy the “individual” covered member deductible requirement (currently $500 for in-network and $1,000 for out-of-network) each calendar year before the Plan will pay any benefits for such charges. Charges incurred by a covered member may not be applied toward satisfaction of any other covered person’s “individual” deductible requirement.

However, once the “family” deductible has been satisfied for a category of coverage (e.g., for In-Network Providers, $1,000 for covered member + spouse or for covered member + child(ren), or $1,500 for covered member + family), additional covered members within the family do not need to satisfy any deductible requirement.

For example, if you choose the covered member + children category of coverage and you and one of your children each satisfy the $500 in-network deductible requirement in a given year, none of your other children will be subject to the in-network deductible requirement for that year. On the other hand, if you choose the covered member + family category of coverage and you and your spouse each incur $1,000 of charges that are subject to the in-network deductible requirement, one of your children who is a covered member must satisfy the $500 in-network deductible requirement before the “family” deductible requirement is met.

Please note that prescription drug expenses are not counted against the calendar year deductible.

For the PPO Coverage Option only, charges that are incurred during the last three months of the calendar plan year and that are applied to the individual and family deductible for such calendar plan year (that is, charges incurred before the deductible is satisfied) apply also toward the deductible requirement for the following calendar plan year.

How Deductibles Work in the HDPPO 1 and HDPPO 2 Options

For charges that are subject to the calendar year deductible requirement under the HDPPO 1 and HDPPO 2 Coverage Options, each calendar year the covered family as a unit must satisfy the specified deductible requirement for a category of coverage before the Plan will pay any benefits for such charges.

Thus, for example, if you choose the covered member + family category of coverage and you incur $2,000 of charges that are subject to the in-network deductible, but no other covered family member incurs any charges, you (or other covered family members) must still satisfy the remaining $1,000 of the in-network deductible requirement before the Plan will pay any benefits. On the other hand, if you choose the covered member + family category of coverage and your spouse incurs $3,500 of charges in a year that are subject to the in-network deductible, no other family members will be subject to an in-network deductible requirement for that year.

The Individual Out-of-Pocket Maximum Limit in the HDPPO 2 Option

In the HDPPO 2 Coverage Option, for categories of coverage other than "covered member only," there is an individual out-of-pocket maximum limit. This means that regardless of the overall out-of-pocket maximum limit for the category of coverage, no covered person will pay more than the individual out-of-pocket maximum for expenses that are subject to that limit. For services received from In-Network Providers, the individual out-of-pocket maximum as of January 1, 2021 is equal to $8,550. For services received from Out-of-Network Providers, the individual out-of-pocket maximum as of January 1, 2021 is $15,000.

Maximum Allowed Amount

General

This section describes how Anthem, as Claims Administrator for the Plan, determines the amount of reimbursement for services, treatments or supplies covered by the Plan ("Covered Services"). However, this section does not address Covered Services under the Plan for which claims are not administered by Anthem.

Reimbursement for services, treatments or supplies rendered or furnished by In-Network and Out-of-Network Providers is based on the Plan's Maximum Allowed Amount for the Covered Service that you receive.

The Maximum Allowed Amount is the maximum amount of reimbursement the Claims Administrator will allow for services, treatments and supplies:

- to the extent the cost for such services, treatments and supplies are covered under the Plan and are not excluded;
- that are Medically Necessary; and
- that are provided in accordance with all applicable preauthorization, utilization management or other requirements set forth in the Plan.

You will be required to pay a portion of the Maximum Allowed Amount to the extent you have not met your Deductible or have a Co-payment or Co-insurance. In addition, when you receive Covered Services from an Out-of-Network Provider, you may be responsible for paying any difference between the Maximum Allowed Amount and the Provider's actual charges. This amount can be significant.

When you receive Covered Services from a Provider, the Claims Administrator will, to the extent applicable, apply claim processing rules to the claim submitted for those Covered Services. These rules evaluate the claim information and, among other things, determine the accuracy and appropriateness of the procedure and diagnosis codes included in the claim. Applying these rules may affect Claims Administrator's determination of the Maximum Allowed Amount. The Claims Administrator's application of these rules does not mean that the Covered Services you received were not Medically Necessary. It means the Claims Administrator has determined that the claim was submitted inconsistent with procedure coding rules and/or reimbursement policies. For example, your Provider may have submitted the claim using several procedure codes when there is a single procedure code that includes all of the procedures that were performed. When this occurs, the Maximum Allowed Amount will be based on the single procedure code rather than a separate Maximum Allowed Amount for each billed code.

Likewise, when multiple procedures are performed on the same day by the same physician or other healthcare professional, the Plan may reduce the Maximum Allowed Amounts for those secondary and subsequent procedures because reimbursement at 100% of the Maximum Allowed Amount for those procedures would represent duplicative payment for components of the primary procedure that may be considered incidental or inclusive.

Provider Network Status

The Maximum Allowed Amount may vary depending upon whether the Provider is an In-Network Provider or an Out-of-Network Provider.

An In-Network Provider is a Provider who is in the managed network for the Plan or in a closely managed specialty network, or who has a participation contract with the Claims Administrator. For Covered Services performed by an In-Network Provider, the Maximum Allowed Amount for the Plan is the rate the Provider has agreed with the Claims Administrator to accept as reimbursement for the Covered Services. Because In-Network Providers have agreed to accept the Maximum Allowed Amount as payment in full for those Covered Services, they should not send you a bill or collect for amounts above the Maximum Allowed Amount. However, you may receive a bill or be asked to pay all or a portion of the Maximum Allowed Amount to the extent you have not met your Deductible or have a Co-payment or Co-insurance. Please call an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card for help in finding an In-Network Provider or visit the Claims Administrator's website at anthem.com.

Providers who have not signed any contract with the Claims Administrator and are not in any of the Claims Administrator's networks are Out-of-Network Providers, subject to Blue Cross Blue Shield Association rules governing claims filed by certain ancillary providers.

For Covered Services you receive from an Out-of-Network Provider, the Maximum Allowed Amount for the Plan will be one of the following as determined by the Claims Administrator:

- An amount based on the Claims Administrator's Out-of-Network Provider fee schedule/rate, which the Claims Administrator has established in its discretion, and which the Claims Administrator reserves the right to modify from time to time, after considering one or more of the following: reimbursement amounts accepted by like/similar providers contracted with the Claims Administrator, reimbursement amounts paid by the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services ("CMS") for the same services or supplies, and other industry cost, reimbursement and utilization data; or
- An amount based on reimbursement or cost information from CMS. When basing the Maximum Allowed amount upon the level or method of reimbursement used by CMS, the Claims Administrator will update such information, which is unadjusted for geographic locality, no less than annually; or
- An amount based on information provided by a third party vendor, which may reflect one or more of the following factors: (1) the complexity or severity of treatment; (2) level of skill and experience required for the treatment; or (3) comparable providers' fees and costs to deliver care; or
- An amount negotiated by the Claims Administrator or a third party vendor which has been agreed to by the Provider. This may include rates for services coordinated through case management; or
- An amount based on or derived from the total charges billed by the Out-of-Network Provider.

Providers who are not contracted for the Plan, but contracted for other benefit plans with the Claims Administrator are also considered Out-of-Network. For the Plan, the Maximum Allowed Amount for services from these Providers will be one of the five methods shown above unless the contract between the Claims Administrator and that Provider specifies a different amount.

For Covered Services rendered outside the Claims Administrator's service area by Out-of-Network Providers, claims may be priced using the local Blue Cross Blue Shield plan's non-participating Provider fee schedule/rate or the pricing arrangements required by applicable state or Federal law. In certain situations, the Maximum Allowed Amount for out of area claims may be based on billed charges, the pricing the Plan would use if the healthcare services had been obtained within the Claims Administrator's service area, or a special negotiated price.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, when determining the Maximum Allowable Amount for Out-of-Network emergency services, the Claims Administrator will provide benefits for such services in an amount at least equal to the greatest of the methods required under the Affordable Care Act and the regulations thereunder (adjusted for in-network cost sharing).

Unlike In-Network Providers, Out-of-Network Providers may send you a bill and collect for the amount of the Provider's charge that exceeds the Plan's Maximum Allowed Amount. You are responsible for paying the difference between the Maximum Allowed Amount and the amount the Provider charges. This amount can be significant. Choosing an In-Network Provider will likely result in lower out-of-pocket costs to you. Please call an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card for help in finding an In-Network Provider or visit the Claims Administrator's website at anthem.com.

An Anthem customer service associate is also available to assist you in determining the Plan's Maximum Allowed Amount for a particular service from an Out-of-Network Provider. In order for the Claims Administrator to assist you, you will need to obtain from your Provider the specific procedure code(s) and diagnosis code(s) for the services the Provider will render. You will also need to know the Provider's charges to calculate your out-of-pocket responsibility. Although an Anthem customer service associate can assist you with this pre-service information, the final Maximum Allowed Amount for your claim will be based on the actual claim submitted by the Provider.

For Prescription Drugs Obtained through the HDPPO

For prescription drugs obtained under an HDPPO Option, the Maximum Allowed Amount is the amount determined by the Claims Administrator using prescription drug cost information provided by the Pharmacy Benefits Manager (PBM) for that Option.

Participant Cost Share

For certain Covered Services and depending on your plan design, you may be required to pay a part of the Maximum Allowed Amount as your cost share amount (for example, Deductible, Co-payment, and/or Co-insurance).

Your cost share amount and out-of-pocket limits may vary depending on whether you received services from an In-Network or Out-of-Network Provider. Specifically, you may be required to pay higher cost sharing amounts or may have limits on your benefits when using Out-of-Network Providers. Please see the Highlights of the PPO Option, Highlights of the HDPPO 1 and HDPPO 2 Options, and Highlights of Your Prescription Drug Coverage in the HDPPO 1 and HDPPO 2 Options sections in this Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD for your cost share responsibilities and limitations in the Plan, or call an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card to learn how the Plan's benefits or cost share amounts may vary by the type of Provider you use.

Special Cost-Sharing Provisions during Public Health Emergency

During any portion of the emergency period defined in paragraph (1)(B) of section 1135(g) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1320b-5(g)), beginning on or after March 18, 2020, the Medical Plan will provide coverage of the following items and services without any cost sharing (including Deductibles, Co-Payments, and Co-Insurance) requirements or prior authorization or other medical management requirements, to the extent (i) required by applicable law, (ii) medically appropriate for you, as determined by your attending healthcare provider in accordance with accepted standards of current medical practice, and (iii) ordered by your attending healthcare provider:

- (a) An in vitro diagnostic test as defined in section 809.3 of title 21, Code of Federal Regulations, (or its successor regulations) for the detection of SARS-CoV-2 or the diagnosis of COVID-19, and the administration of such a test, that—
 - (1) is approved, cleared, or authorized under section 510(k), 513, 515, or 564 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21 U.S.C. §§ 360(k), 360c, 360e, 360bbb-3);
 - (2) the developer has requested, or intends to request, emergency use authorization under section 564 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21 U.S.C. 360bbb-3), unless and until the emergency use authorization request under such section 564 has been denied or the developer of such test does not submit a request under such section within a reasonable timeframe;
 - (3) is developed in and authorized by a State that has notified the Secretary of HHS of its intention to review tests intended to diagnose COVID-19; or
 - (4) other tests that the Secretary of HHS determines appropriate in guidance.
- (b) Items and services furnished to an individual during healthcare provider office visits (which includes in-person visits and telehealth visits), urgent care center visits, and emergency room visits that result in an order for or administration of an in vitro diagnostic product described in paragraph (a), but only to the extent the items and services relate to the furnishing or administration of the product or to the evaluation of the individual for purposes of determining the need of the individual for such product.

Reimbursement of Out-of-Network Providers furnishing any of the foregoing items or services shall not exceed an amount that equals the cash price for such service as listed by the Provider on a public internet website.

The Plan will not provide any reimbursement for non-Covered Services. You may be responsible for the total amount billed by your Provider for non-Covered Services, regardless of whether such services are performed by an In-Network or Non Network Provider. Non-Covered Services include services specifically excluded from coverage by the terms of the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD and services received after benefits have been exhausted. Benefits may be exhausted by exceeding, for example, benefit caps or day/visit limits.

In some instances you may only be asked to pay the lower In-Network cost sharing amount when you use an Out-of-Network Provider. For example, if you go to an In-Network hospital or Provider facility and receive Covered Services from an Out-of-Network Provider such as a radiologist, anesthesiologist or pathologist who is employed by or contracted with an In-Network hospital or facility, you will pay the In-Network cost share amounts for those Covered Services. However, you also may be liable for the difference between the Maximum Allowed Amount and the Out-of-Network Provider's charge.

The Claims Administrator and/or its designated pharmacy benefits manager may receive discounts, rebates, or other funds from drug manufacturers, wholesalers, distributors, and/or similar vendors, which may be related to certain prescription drug purchases under this Plan and which positively impact the cost effectiveness of Covered Services. These amounts are retained by the Claims Administrator. These amounts will not be applied to your Deductible, if any, or taken into account in determining your Copayment or Coinsurance.

Authorized Services

In some circumstances, such as where there is no In-Network Provider available for the Covered Service, the Plan may authorize the In-Network cost share amounts (Deductible, Co-payment, and/or Co-insurance) to apply to a claim for a Covered Service you receive from an Out-of-Network Provider. In such circumstance, you must contact the Claims Administrator in advance of obtaining the Covered Service. The Plan also may authorize the In-Network cost share amounts to apply to a claim for Covered Services if you receive emergency services from an Out-of-Network Provider and are not able to contact the Claims Administrator until after the Covered Service is rendered. If the Plan authorizes an In-Network cost share amount to apply to a Covered Service received from an Out-of-Network Provider, you also may still be liable for the difference between the Maximum Allowed Amount and the Out-of-Network Provider's charge. Please contact an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card for Authorized Services information or to request authorization.

Medical Expenses Covered

The Plan pays benefits for you (or your covered dependents) for Medically Necessary eligible expenses up to the Maximum Allowed Amount. For services covered under an HMO plan, please refer to the HMO SPD.

For expenses not covered under the PPO and HD PPO options, see the section below entitled "Medical Expenses Not Covered."

Please Note: No lawsuit or legal action of any kind regarding a claim for benefits under the Plan may be commenced unless the claims procedure process for internal appeals (but not including any voluntary appeal) has been exhausted. In addition, in no event may any lawsuit or other legal action regarding a claim for benefits be commenced later than three years after the date such claim was incurred or the date when the rescission of coverage occurred, as the case may be. For more information, see the "Claims Determination and Appeal Process – Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan" section of the Benefits Program Overview, and in particular the section entitled "Limitation of Actions and Venue," found on page 27.

The Plan will not discriminate with respect to participation under the Plan against any health care provider who is acting within the scope of that provider's license or certification under applicable law. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Plan is not required to contract with any health care provider willing to abide by the terms and conditions for participation established by the Plan and the Plan may establish varying reimbursement rates based on quality or performance measures.

The covered expenses under the Plan include, but may not be limited to the following:

Inpatient Services

The Plan pays benefits for the following inpatient hospital/medical services and supplies.

- Hospital facility services – such as inpatient room and board – when you are in:
 - A semi-private room;
 - A private room (the Plan limits benefits to the hospital's prevailing semi-private room rate); or
 - An intensive care unit.

The Plan pays benefits for both day and nighttime care.

- Inpatient ancillary services and supplies, including:
 - Operating room charges;
 - X-rays;
 - Laboratory work;
 - Surgical dressing; and
 - Prescribed medications (Outpatient prescription drug services are covered under the prescription drug program. See the sections of this Handbook relating to Prescription Drugs for details).
- Inpatient surgical services, including:
 - Surgeon's fees when related to the surgical procedure; and
 - Surgery for morbid obesity.
- Skilled nursing facility care, up to the hospital's prevailing semi-private room rate, including:
 - Bed, board, and general nursing care; and
 - Ancillary services (such as drugs, surgical dressings, or supplies).

- General nursing care provided by an RN or LPN when you are in:
 - A semi-private room;
 - A private room; or
 - An intensive care unit.
- Pre-admission testing, x-rays, or laboratory services performed before inpatient surgery. These tests are considered part of your inpatient hospital surgical stay and are performed on an outpatient basis. The Plan pays benefits provided you would have otherwise been eligible to receive such tests as a hospital inpatient.

Outpatient Services

The Plan pays benefits for the following services, provided you receive them on an outpatient basis:

- Hospital facility services and ancillary charges for services performed on an outpatient basis;
- Outpatient surgery and related surgical services when performed in an office setting, including:
 - Any related diagnostic services received on the same day as the outpatient surgery;
 - Surgeon's fees when related to the surgical procedure; and
 - Surgery for morbid obesity.
- Dental/oral surgical services, only when required because of an accidental injury to natural teeth (within 12 months of injury), to extract completely bony impacted teeth, including completely impacted wisdom teeth, or (for the PPO option only) in connection with a gingivectomy. The Plan pays benefits for outpatient facility charges only if your medical condition or the dental procedure requires a hospital setting to ensure your safety.
- Temporomandibular joint dysfunction and related medical disorders. The Plan limits benefits to:
 - Surgery, provided the surgical procedure is medically appropriate; and

- Appliances (the Plan pays benefits for appliances just like any other durable medical equipment).
- A second surgical opinion and additional required testing at your request or when recommended by the Utilization Review (UR) Program. The Plan pays benefits provided your physician (other than the one who offers the second opinion) performs the eventual surgery.

Professional Services (Outpatient)

The Plan pays benefits for care you receive from a physician or other specified professional provider (i.e., a general practitioner, family practitioner, a physician of internal medicine, pediatrician, gynecologist, nurse practitioner, or physician assistant), on an outpatient basis.

- Office visits, visits to a clinic, or a physician's visit to your home as part of home care services. You must meet the co-pay or deductible requirement, as applicable, before the Plan pays benefits.
- Services provided by a professional, including:
 - Allergy injections, shots, serums, and immunizations;
 - Diagnostic allergy testing;
 - Hearing exams and hearing aids. The Plan limits benefits to one hearing exam and one hearing aid per ear during a two calendar-year period; and
- Diabetes management services, including:
 - Educational services;
 - Eye exams; and
 - Blood glucose testing machines (diabetic supplies and other diagnostics are covered under the prescription drug coverage).

Emergency Care Services

The Plan pays benefits for the cost of the following emergency care services:

- Hospital emergency room care when care is associated with:

- An accident;
- A medical emergency; or
- A non-medical emergency.
- Urgent care;
- Ambulance services (local ground or air transportation), when medically necessary to transport you to the nearest appropriately equipped facility that is able to provide necessary treatment. The Plan pays benefits for air-ambulance services only if medically necessary. When ambulance services are used because they are more convenient than other types of transportation, the Plan does not pay benefits.

If your condition is life threatening and you receive emergency care at a hospital outside the network because it is not possible to safely transfer you to a hospital within the network, the Plan still pays benefits at the in-network level.

Rehabilitation Services

The Plan pays benefits for the following inpatient and outpatient rehabilitation services.

- The following rehabilitation services provided on an inpatient or outpatient basis (unless otherwise noted):
 - Physical Medicine/Rehabilitation (PMR) (inpatient only, limited to 60 days per person per year; outpatient PMR is considered physical therapy and is subject to the limits outlined below for outpatient physical therapy). The Plan may extend these limits based upon medical necessity;
 - Cardiac rehabilitation;
 - Chemotherapy;
 - Radiation therapy;
 - Respiratory therapy (including respiratory therapy devices);
 - Infusion; and
 - Renal dialysis treatments.
- Outpatient therapy treatments, including:

- Physical therapy (therapy is subject to significant improvement through relatively short-term therapy);
- Occupational therapy;
- Speech therapy, provided therapy is restorative in nature or rehabilitative treatment is needed for speech loss or impairment due to an illness or injury or surgery on account of an illness (other than a functional nervous disorder). If speech loss is due to a congenital anomaly for which corrective surgery has been performed, the corrective surgery must be performed before the therapy and therapy must be designed to provide significant improvement on a relatively short-term basis.

The Plan pays benefits provided a registered professional physical or occupational therapist, or speech therapist certified by the American Speech and Hearing Association renders the appropriate services under the supervision of a physician. Benefits for physical therapy and occupational therapy are limited to a combined 26 visits per person per year. Benefits for speech therapy are limited to 26 visits per person per year. Additional visits for physical therapy, occupational therapy, and speech therapy may be authorized based upon medical necessity.

- Chiropractic and spinal manipulation therapy provided a licensed chiropractor performs the services on an outpatient basis. The Plan limits benefits for chiropractic services regardless of medical necessity to 26 manipulations per person per year;
- Physiotherapy, provided a licensed physiotherapist performs the services and he or she does not normally live with you or is not related to you or your spouse by blood, marriage, or legal adoption.

Diagnostic and Laboratory Services

The Plan pays benefits for the following diagnostic and laboratory services.

- Inpatient radiology and laboratory services
- Outpatient radiology, diagnostic, and laboratory services performed when you are an outpatient and the services are related to surgery or medical care, including:

- X-rays;
- Radium treatments;
- Microscopic tests; and
- Laboratory tests and exams.

Preventive Health Services

Generally

The Plan pays benefits for certain preventive health services.

Preventive health services include outpatient services and office services. Screenings and other services are covered as preventive health services for adults and children with no current symptoms or prior history of a medical condition associated with that screening or service.

Members who have current symptoms or have been diagnosed with a medical condition are not considered to require preventive health services for that condition, but instead benefits will be considered as diagnostic services.

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, if performed as a preventive care service or screening, the Plan pays benefits for one in-network colonoscopy per covered person per calendar year, and one in-network mammography per covered person per calendar year with no deductible, co-insurance or co-payment requirement, notwithstanding that any treatment incidental or ancillary to such service or screening (such as the removal of polyps during a diagnostic colonoscopy) is also performed during such service or screening.

Preventive health services covered under the Plan may constitute either recommended preventive health services or additional preventive health services. Additional preventive health services are certain preventive health services covered under the Plan that do not constitute recommended health services. Please contact an Anthem customer service associate using the number on the back of your ID card for any questions concerning what constitutes a recommended preventive health service or an additional preventive health service. Additional preventive health services furnished by In-Network Providers are covered by the Plan with no deductible, co-payments or co-insurance. Additional preventive health services furnished by Out-of-Network Providers are subject to deductibles and co-insurance under the PPO option, but are covered by the Plan with no deductible, co-payments or co-insurance under the HDPPO options.

Recommended preventive health services shall meet requirements as determined by Federal law and, if applicable, state law. Recommended preventive health services are covered by this Plan with no deductible, co-payments or co-insurance under the HDPPO options and when furnished by an In-Network Provider under the PPO option.

Recommended preventive health services furnished by an Out-of-Network Provider under the PPO option are subject to deductibles and co-insurance.

To the extent required by federal regulation, if there is no In-Network Provider who can provide a recommended preventive health service, the Plan will cover the service, with no deductible, co-payment or co-insurance, when performed by an Out-of-Network Provider.

Categories of Recommended Preventive Health Services

Recommended preventive health services fall under four broad categories, described below, that are specified in federal regulations regarding coverage of preventive health services:

These items or services may include the following, subject to the limitations and conditions with respect to such services that are set forth in the specific USPSTF recommendations, including limitations and conditions relating to the timing and frequency of such services and the designation, by age, gender, medical history or condition, or risk factors of those individuals for which such items or services may be appropriate:

In addition to preventive care and screening already noted above, such preventive care and screenings may include the following, subject to the limitations and conditions with respect to such services that are set forth in the specific recommendations, including limitations and conditions relating to the timing and frequency of such services and the designation, by age, gender or medical history or condition, of those individuals for which such items or services may be appropriate:

- Alcohol and drug use assessments;
- Autism screening;
- Behavioral assessments;
- Blood pressure screening;
- Cervical dysplasia screening for sexually active females;

Limitations With Respect To Recommended Preventive Health Services

The services described in the recommendations or guidelines above will not constitute recommended preventive health services earlier than Plan Year that begins on or after the date that is one year after the recommendations or guidelines are issued, provided, however, that recommended preventive health services shall include any “qualifying coronavirus preventive service,” as defined in applicable federal regulations, on the date that is 15 business days after the date on which a recommendation is made relating to the qualifying coronavirus preventive service.

Please Note: Regardless of whether such services continue to be listed above, recommended preventive health services will remain covered services under the Plan only until the end of the Plan Year following the date the related recommendation or guideline is no longer described in the federal regulations regarding coverage of preventive health services. Provided, however, that to the extent a service covered on the first day of a Plan Year is, during the Plan Year, downgraded to a “D” rating, or any item or service associated with any recommendation or guideline described in the federal regulations regarding coverage of preventive health services is subject to a safety recall or is otherwise determined by a federal agency authorized to regulate the item or service to pose a significant safety concern, such service will cease to be a covered service as of the date of the rating downgrade or agency determination.

Please also note: The frequency, method, treatment and setting of recommended preventive health services are subject to reasonable medical management techniques determined by the Plan Administrator or Claims Administrator in their discretion. Please contact an Anthem customer service associate using the number on the back of your ID card for information concerning any limitations upon recommended preventive health services arising out of the use of such techniques.

If a recommended preventive health service is billed separately (or is not tracked as individual encounter data separately) from an office visit, then the Plan may impose a co-payment and/or deductible for the office visit. If a recommended preventive health service is not billed separately (or is not tracked as individual encounter data separately) from an office visit and the primary purpose of the office visit is the delivery of the recommended preventive health service, then the Plan will not impose a co-payment, co-insurance and/or deductible for the office visit, unless you have chosen the PPO option and the office visit involves an Out-of-Network Provider. If a recommended preventive health service is not billed separately (or is not tracked as individual encounter data separately) from an office visit and the primary purpose of the office visit is not the delivery of the recommended preventive health service, then the Plan may impose a co-payment, co-insurance and/or deductible for the office visit.

Gender Reassignment Surgery

Generally

Gender reassignment surgery is one treatment option for extreme cases of gender dysphoria. It is not a single procedure, but part of a complex process involving multiple medical, psychiatric, and surgical specialists working in conjunction with each other and the individual.

Plan Benefits for Specific Surgeries

The Plan pays benefits for gender reassignment surgery consisting of any combination of the following, if the Plan Administrator determines in its sole and absolute discretion that each such surgery is Medical Necessary: hysterectomy, salpingo-oophorectomy, ovariectomy, orchiectomy, metoidioplasty, phalloplasty, vaginoplasty, penectomy, clitoroplasty, labiaplasty, vaginectomy, scrotoplasty, urethroplasty, or placement of testicular prostheses.

See the “Definitions” subsection of the Benefits Program Overview for what constitutes a Medically Necessary service or supply. For a surgery to be considered Medically Necessary, all criteria established by the Plan Administrator for such surgery must be satisfied. For information concerning the criteria to be satisfied to establish medical necessity, please contact an Anthem customer service associate using the number on the back of your ID card.

Before the Plan pays benefits, Anthem, as Claims Administrator, must approve all hospital confinements and/or surgical procedures related to any gender reassignment surgery. Be sure to contact Anthem before you proceed with any gender reassignment surgery or related procedure.

Cosmetic Procedures or Services Not Covered

Cosmetic procedures or services in connection with gender reassignment surgery are not covered under the Plan. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the following surgeries are considered cosmetic when used to improve the gender specific appearance of an individual who has undergone or is planning to undergo gender reassignment surgery:

 - Birthing center expenses.

The Plan pays maternity benefits for services provided to the mother (if covered under the Plan) as well as certain services provided to the newborn infant while the mother is hospitalized after childbirth (even if you initially have Retiree-only coverage).

However, if the newborn requires treatment for an illness or injury or remains hospitalized after the mother is discharged from the hospital after giving birth, the Plan pays benefits for that care only if you add the newborn to coverage, provided the newborn is eligible for coverage under the Plan. (The newborn child of your female child is not eligible for coverage under the Plan.) To add an eligible newborn child to your coverage, you must call the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320, or log on to the website mysourceforhr.com and add the newborn child within 31 days of the actual birth. Provided the newborn child is eligible for coverage and you timely enroll the child, coverage for the newborn takes effect as of the date of birth. Please see the "Enrollment" and the "Changing and Continuing Your Elections" section of the Benefits Program Overview for further details.

The Plan pays also benefits for services performed to diagnose infertility. However, the Plan does not pay benefits for the treatment of infertility (i.e., artificial insemination, in-vitro fertilization, embryo transfer, etc.)

Other Covered Services

- Extended care facility (convalescent care), as approved through the Claims Administrator;

 - Home health aid services;
 - Medically necessary services, supplies, and medications.

- Human organ and tissue transplant services. The Plan pays benefits for any medically necessary human organ and tissue transplant, as determined by the Plan Administrator, including necessary acquisition costs and preparatory myeloblastic therapy, and for all covered services that are (i) Medically Necessary, as determined by the Plan Administrator, and (ii) directly related to the disease that has necessitated the covered transplant procedure or that arise as a result of the procedure, including any diagnostic evaluation for the purpose of determining the appropriateness of the procedure for a covered person.

For cornea and kidney transplants, the benefits or requirements described below do not apply. These services are paid as inpatient services, outpatient services or physician office services, depending where the service is performed.

The Plan pays benefits only for facility and provider expenses that are described as covered expenses elsewhere in this Handbook.

Before the Plan pays benefits, Anthem, as Claims Administrator, must approve all hospital confinements and/or surgical procedures related to an organ or tissue transplant. Be sure to contact Anthem before you proceed with any treatment related to a transplant.

You should contact Anthem's transplant department to discuss benefit coverage when it is determined a transplant may be needed. Contact the Anthem Customer Service telephone number on the back of your Identification Card and ask for the transplant coordinator. Anthem will then assist you in maximizing your benefits by providing coverage information, including details regarding what is covered and whether any Plan provisions, network requirements or exclusions are applicable. Failure to obtain this information prior to receiving services could result in increased financial responsibility for you. If you choose an out-of-network facility or provider, the Plan will pay covered expenses based upon a determination of the Maximum Allowed

Amount and you will be responsible for any amount not paid by the Plan.

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Plan pays benefits for the following medically necessary services related to a human organ or tissue transplant:

- Physician's charges related to surgery, including charges for a surgical physician's assistant (if medically necessary), and related anesthesia.
- Inpatient covered hospital services related to the transplant procedure.
- Storage and transportation costs related to the donated organ or tissue (including the donor's medical expenses incurred as the result of a transplant provided the recipient is covered under the Plan, the expense is charged to the covered person, and no other source is available to pay the actual donor's medical expenses).
- Storage of the patient's own blood in advance of an approved transplant surgical procedure.

If a participating (in-network) transplant facility performs transplant-related services, the Plan pays benefits for medically necessary pre-transplant evaluations and 12 months of transplant-related follow-up care (including any rejection events).

The Plan will provide assistance with reasonable and necessary travel expenses as determined by the Plan Administrator when you obtain prior approval and are required to travel more than 100 miles from your residence to reach the facility where your covered transplant procedure will be performed. The Plan's assistance with travel expenses includes transportation to and from the facility and lodging for the patient and one companion. If the covered person receiving treatment is a minor, then reasonable and necessary expenses for transportation and lodging may be allowed for two companions.

Benefits for lodging are limited to $75.00 per day. There is a $20,000 combined maximum for travel and lodging. The covered person must submit itemized receipts for transportation and lodging expenses in a form satisfactory to the Plan Administrator when claims are filed.

Contact the Plan Administrator for detailed information.

How Your Prescription Drug Coverage Works in the PPO

When you participate in the PPO coverage option under the Plan, you are also provided with prescription drug coverage through the Anthem Prescription Drug Program. HMOs will provide separate prescription drug coverage.

Your benefits will vary depending on the type of prescription drug you take (generic, formulary or non-formulary) and how you buy it (at the pharmacy or through the mail).

- Generic - Drugs are no longer covered by the original patent. They include the same active ingredients as the brand-name drug at a fraction of the cost.

- Formulary - A list of approved drugs covered under the prescription drug plan. Drugs are selected for the formulary based on a combination of features, including safety, effectiveness and cost. You will pay less for a formulary drug than for a non-formulary drug.
- Non-formulary – Drugs that are not on the formulary list, but generally have a formulary alternative. You may choose non-formulary drugs, but you will pay more than a generic or formulary drug.

Prescription drug coverage under the PPO coverage option shall be subject to quantity limit and dose optimization programs. For certain prescription drugs, (i) the quantity limit program limits the amount of medicine that is covered by the Plan for a certain length of time, and (ii) the dose optimization program generally identifies covered persons receiving multiple doses of lower strength medications and, where clinically appropriate, optimizes or consolidates the regimen to a single dose of a higher strength medication. With respect to certain prescription drugs, the dose optimization program may also help ensure that as higher dosages of a given medication are prescribed, the covered person takes a single dose at the higher strength.

The PPO coverage option utilizes a step care therapy program for certain classes of prescription drugs. For a list of the drugs included in this program, please contact Anthem at the number on the back of your ID card. This program requires the utilization of an effective first-line medication before a more expensive alternative may be covered under the Plan. Therefore, medications that meet established guidelines and/or have a generic alternative must be used as the first-line medication before more expensive medications are authorized, unless your doctor informs Anthem otherwise.

The PPO coverage option utilizes a clinical prior authorization (CPA) program. CPA simply means you must get approval from Anthem before certain prescription drugs will be covered under the Plan. The CPA program reviews the use of certain very costly drugs, certain drugs that could be abused by the patient, and drugs that might not be the best choice for the patient's health problem. To see if the CPA program applies to a particular drug prescribed for you, contact Anthem toll-free at 1-800-228-2891.

Also, for the PPO coverage option, regardless of whether you use a retail pharmacy or the mail order service, if a prescribed brand-name drug has a generic substitute (that is, a drug with the same active ingredients as the brand-name drug), and if you or your Provider request that the brand-name drug be dispensed, you will be responsible for the applicable co-pay or co-insurance plus the difference in cost between the brand-name drug and the generic substitute.

You can fill your prescription at any participating pharmacy.

Retail

If you fill your prescription at a participating retail pharmacy, you need to meet a co-pay requirement. If your share of the drug's cost is less than the "minimum co-pay," you pay the minimum co-pay amount. If your share of the drug's cost is greater than the "maximum co-pay," you pay up to the maximum co-pay amount. See the "Highlights of Your Prescription Drug Coverage in the PPO Option" section of this Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD for further details on plan benefits.

The Plan provides no coverage for prescriptions filled through a retail pharmacy that is not a member of the network of participating retail pharmacies established by the PBM.

Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program

You and your covered dependents may also have your prescription filled for a 90-day supply at a retail pharmacy through the Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program. The prescription must be filled at a network pharmacy participating in the Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program. With this program you pay 20% of the cost of a three-month supply of the drug with applicable minimum and maximum of three times retail co-pays.

Mail Order Service

If you or your covered dependents use long-term medications, you can receive up to a 90-

day supply of certain covered medications through Anthem's mail order service. With the mail order service, you must submit your prescription and applicable co-pay amount through the mail. The amount you pay depends on whether you receive a generic, formulary brand, or non-formulary brand drug.

To use the Mail Order Service:

- Complete the Mail Service Pharmacy Order Form. A new order form and envelope will be sent to you with each delivery. Please Note: The registration/profile process may also be completed over the phone or online.
- Attach the prescription and a check in the amount of the applicable co-pay. Make your check payable to Anthem or provide a credit card number (follow the instructions on the form). Please do not submit cash with your order.
- Mail the Mail Service Pharmacy Order Form and your check to the Anthem mailing address included on the Form.
- Have your physician write a new original prescription so that you can submit it directly to the mail order service pharmacy with your Mail Service Pharmacy Order Form. If you need medication immediately, ask your doctor for two prescriptions:
 - One for an immediate supply (you can then take this to your local participating pharmacy)
 - A second one for the extended supply (you can then submit this one to the mail order service)

You will receive your mail order prescription approximately 14 days from the date your mail order is received.

To find out if your pharmacy is in the network, contact Anthem at 1-800-228-2891 to speak with a customer service representative. You may also log on to the Anthem website at anthem.com.

See the "Highlights of your Prescriptions Drug Coverage in the PPO Option" section for further details on plan benefits.

For the PPO Coverage Option, if you request that a brand-name drug be dispensed instead of its generic substitute, you may be responsible for paying the difference between the cost of the brand-name drug and the generic substitute, in addition to the applicable co-pay or co-insurance.

How Your Prescription Drug Coverage Works in the High Deductible Options

Regardless which High Deductible Option you participate in, you are covered under the Anthem Prescription Drug Program for your prescription drug coverage.

Prescription drug expenses are covered the same way as any other medical expense, subject to the deductible and co-insurance. These expenses are not subject to separate co-insurance or out-of-pocket maximum amounts. The drug plan is an open formulary, so there is no designation in terms of generic, brand, etc. Therefore, you will pay the discounted cost of the drug.

The High Deductible Options utilize a step care therapy program for certain classes of prescription drugs. For a list of the drugs included in this program, please contact Anthem at the number on the back of your ID card. This program requires the utilization of an effective first-line medication before a more expensive alternative may be covered under the Plan. Therefore, medications that meet established guidelines and/or have a generic alternative must be used as the first-line medication before more expensive medications are authorized, unless your doctor informs Anthem otherwise.

Also, for the High Deductible Options, regardless of whether you use a retail pharmacy or the mail order service, if a prescribed brand-name drug has a generic substitute (that is, a drug with the same active ingredients as the brand-name drug), and if you or your physician request that the brand-name drug be dispensed, you will be responsible for the applicable co-insurance plus the difference in cost between the brand-name drug and the generic substitute.

Retail Service

If you fill your prescription at a retail pharmacy and have not satisfied your deductible, you will pay the discounted cost of the drug. If you have satisfied your deductible, you will pay the applicable co-insurance amount, either 20% or 40%, dependent upon whether the pharmacy offers Anthem discounts.

To find out if your pharmacy is in the network, contact Anthem at 1-800-228-2891 to speak with a customer service representative. You may also log on to the Anthem website at anthem.com.

Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program

You and your covered dependents may also have your prescription filled for a 90-day supply at a retail pharmacy through the Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program. The prescription must be filled at a network pharmacy participating in the Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program. With this program you pay 20% of the cost of a three-month supply of the drug after you satisfy your deductible.

Mail Order Service

If you or your covered dependents use long-term medications, you can receive up to a 90-day supply of certain covered medications through the mail order service.

With the mail order service, you must submit an original prescription from your doctor and:

- Complete the Mail Order Pharmacy Form. A new order form envelope will be sent to you with each delivery.
- Attach the prescription and a check in the amount of the applicable discounted cost of the drug or co-insurance.
- Mail the Mail Order Pharmacy Form and your check to the address on the Form.

If you need medication immediately, ask your doctor for two prescriptions:

- One for an immediate supply (you can then take this to your local participating pharmacy and
- A second one for the extended supply (you can then submit this one to the mail order service)

You will receive your mail order prescription approximately 14 days from the date your mail order is received. To request a form or if you have questions, you may go to the Anthem website anthem.com or contact mail order customer service at 1-800-228-2891 to ask for assistance.

EAP/Work Life/Legal & Financial Services

Beacon Health Options offers you and your family an Employee Assistance Program (EAP), which provides short term counseling, information, resources, and referrals on a variety of life issues that you may be facing. These issues can include:

- Marital and family relationships
- Finding child care
- Depression and anxiety
- Adopting a child
- Workplace Concerns
- Caring for an elderly parent
- Balancing work and your personal life
- Legal and financial issues

The EAP provides clinical, professional assistance 24 hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days a year at 1-800-946-5360. The EAP is a confidential program available at no cost; you and your household members have up to six (6) sessions per year with an EAP counselor, either in-person, telephonically or via video. Counselors will help you define your needs, and provide counseling, support and referrals as needed. If clinical assistance is needed beyond the six EAP sessions for outpatient or inpatient treatment, you are responsible for the care selected.

You can also call the EAP for Work Life issues, e.g., eldercare and childcare. Extensive searches for information and services compatible with your family's preferences and finances will be provided. Work Life Consultants work hard to find resources that fit your budget requirements. Resource and referral information provided to you is at no cost. However, you are responsible for costs associated with services and businesses with whom you may contract.

Additionally, you can call the EAP for guidance on legal and financial issues including, but not limited to, divorce, domestic violence, criminal, civil, landlord tenant issues, debt management, estate planning, family budgeting, etc. The benefit allows for a free 30-minute consultation with a financial consultant, a 60-minute consultation with an attorney for family law issues and a 35% discount if you retain the attorney, and a free 30-minute consultation with an attorney for legal issues other than family law, with a 25% discount if the attorney is retained.

Health Savings Account (HSA)

As a Pre-65 Retiree, you cannot continue to make contributions by means of payroll deduction to the health savings account ("HSA") you established through the Company. However you may continue to contribute to your HSA outside of payroll deduction (or to another health savings account you establish) until you attain age 65, provided you are enrolled in the HDPPO 1 or HDPPO 2 options or other eligible high deductible coverage and you are otherwise eligible under Federal law to contribute to such an account.

If you previously contributed to an HSA through the Company by means of payroll deduction, your HSA contributions made through payroll deduction as well as the Company's contributions to your HSA will stop when you retire. Your account balance goes with you, however, and continues to earn interest. You may continue to use your HSA to pay for future medical expenses during retirement. However, you will be responsible for paying any monthly fees related to the administration of your account. Upon your retirement, your HSA will be converted to a new direct account in your name, and you will receive a new debit card you can use to pay for eligible expenses.

Contact the HSA custodian, UMB, directly at 1-866-520-4472 if you have any questions about your HSA or your debit card after you retire.

Coordination of Benefits (COB)

If you or your dependents have coverage under another medical plan or program, your benefits under the Plan coordinate with benefits outside the Plan to help eliminate duplicate payments for the same services. See the "Coordination of Benefits (COB)" information in the Benefits Program Overview section to learn more about the Plan's COB features.

Please Note: If you or your covered dependent are enrolled in Medicare due to end-stage renal disease, and if Medicare is not already paying as primary, the Plan continues to pay as primary during the first 30 months of dialysis or the first 30 months of treatment in connection with a kidney transplant. Thereafter, Medicare generally becomes the primary payor of benefits.

Filing a Claim

Generally, In-Network Providers file claims on your behalf. If so, the Claims Administrator will send payments directly to the provider. You will be sent a statement itemizing what has been paid.

If your provider does not file claims on your behalf, you must file your claims as follows:

- Complete the appropriate claim form. Claim forms can be obtained by calling Anthem at the number listed on the back of your ID card.
- Attach copies of all available medical bills that should be considered for Plan benefits. These bills should include:
 - Name of patient;
 - Name and Social Security number of Retiree;
 - Date of treatment;
 - Type of treatment;
 - Charge for the treatment;
 - Provider of the treatment; and
 - Any other information that clearly indicates the medical expense
- Mail your completed claim form to the address on the back of your benefit plan ID card.
- Submit your claim to the Claims Administrator as soon as possible after you receive the covered service.

The Claims Administrator will process your claim. Generally, claim payments are sent directly to providers. However, there may be situations where payments are sent directly to you (i.e. your provider is not a member of the network). Any claims submitted after 18 months from the date of service generally will not be considered for payment. If you have any questions regarding filing claims, contact Anthem at the number listed on the back of your ID card.

Claim Determination and Appeal Process

For information regarding the Plan's claim determination and appeal process, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled "Claim Determination and Appeal Process – Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan."

Continuation of Coverage

General

For information regarding continuation of coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, including COBRA continuation coverage, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled "Continuation of Coverage."

Additional Information

Your Rights Under the Newborn's and Mother's Health Protection Act

Under Federal law, the Plan generally may not restrict benefits for any hospital length of stay in connection with childbirth for the mother or newborn child to less than 48 hours following a vaginal delivery, or less than 96 hours following a delivery by cesarean section. However, Federal law generally does not prohibit a shorter stay if the attending provider, after consultation with the mother, discharges the mother or newborn earlier than 48 hours (or 96 hours as applicable). In any case, the Plan may not require that the provider obtain authorization from the Plan for prescribing a length of stay that is not in excess of the above periods.

Women's Health and Cancer Rights Act of 1998

Federal law requires the Plan to provide coverage for the following services to an individual receiving Plan benefits in connection with a mastectomy:

- All stages of reconstruction of the breast on which the mastectomy has been performed;
- Surgery and reconstruction of the other breast to produce a symmetrical appearance;
- Prostheses; and
- Treatment of physical complications for all stages of a mastectomy, including lymphedemas (swelling associated with the removal of lymph nodes).

These benefits will be provided subject to the same deductibles and co-insurance applicable to other medical and surgical benefits provided under the Plan. If you would like more information on these benefits, contact the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

*Medicare introduced an optional prescription drug benefit (also known as Medicare part D) in January 2006. This benefit offers coverage for part of the cost of many prescription drugs for Medicare-eligible participants. You may want to consider enrolling in Medicare Part D to receive prescription drug benefits through Medicare. If you are eligible for coverage under Medicare Part D and do not enroll during your initial enrollment period, you may incur significant penalties in the form of higher Medicare premiums when you ultimately do enroll in coverage. Note: The MAP Option offers prescription drug coverage. Once you enroll in the MAP-Med Only Option, you may not later enroll in the MAP Option. See "Enrollment in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan" in the Benefits Program Overview for more information. You cannot be enrolled in both Medicare Part D prescription drug coverage and prescription drug coverage under the MAP Option.

Highlights of the Medicare Supplement Option

The Medicare Supplement Option is designed to pay for certain, although not all, expenses that are eligible and allowable under Medicare, but that are not paid by Medicare due to the application of deductibles and co-insurance percentages. The Medicare Supplement Option shall not cover any charges that are also payable by Medicare.

Please Note: No lawsuit or legal action of any kind regarding a claim for benefits under the Plan may be commenced unless the claims procedure process for internal appeals (but not including any voluntary appeal) has been exhausted. In addition, in no event may any lawsuit or other legal action regarding a claim for benefits be commenced later than three years after the date such claim was incurred or the date when the rescission of coverage occurred, as the case may be. For more information, see the "Claims Determination and Appeal Process – Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan" section of the Benefits Program Overview, and in particular the section entitled "Limitation of Actions and Venue," found on page 32.

The following is a brief summary of benefits under the Medicare Supplement Option. This is not a confirmation or guaranty of coverage. Coverage listed below is subject to change.

Medical Expenses Not Covered

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the medical expenses not covered under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan include, but may not be limited to those medical expenses that would not be covered by Medicare, charges that a covered person is not legally required to pay and charges that would not have been made if the Plan had not existed, and charges incurred prior to the effective date of coverage, or after the termination date of coverage.

Please contact the Claims Administrator with questions regarding those medical expenses not covered.

To confirm if an expense is eligible for reimbursement, contact an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card.

How to File a Claim

Since the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan is designed to supplement your coverage under Medicare, Medicare is your primary carrier. That means that, as a general rule, your expenses must be submitted to Medicare before they are submitted to the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan for payment.

Medical expenses are usually submitted to Medicare directly by the provider. However, it is your responsibility to submit your claim to the Plan's Claim Administrator for benefit payments under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

Some providers, however, may submit your expenses to both Medicare and the Plan for payment. In that event, you would not need to submit any additional claim forms. Please ask your provider whether your claim filing will be submitted to Anthem for your Medicare Supplement benefit payments.

In the event you must submit a claim form to Anthem for your benefit payment, that claim form may be obtained by calling Anthem at the number listed on the back of your ID card. Your Medicare Explanation of Benefits (EOB) must be included when filing a claim with Anthem. If you have any questions relating to your claim filing process, you can call Anthem at the number listed on the back of your ID card. Claim forms should be submitted to:

Anthem Blue Cross and Blue Shield
P.O. Box 105187
Atlanta, GA 30348
anthem.com
1-800-228-2891

Please note that it is essential that you include the Medicare Explanation of Benefits form with your claim form because the Plan's benefits are computed on the basis of what Medicare approved as eligible expense.

Retain copies of all bills and Medicare correspondence for your records.

Below is a list of details that are often erroneously omitted from claim forms. Please refer to it when completing your claim form so you can make sure your claim form is complete.

1. Age and relationship of dependent
2. Physician's statement showing place, date and charge for treatment.
3. Itemized X-ray and laboratory bills showing date, charge and type of examination.
4. Full statement as to how, when and where injury occurred.

No cancelled checks, receipts or summaries of balances due are acceptable as evidence of expense incurred—only itemized statements accompanied by a Medicare Explanation of Benefits form are acceptable. Furthermore, a separate claim form must be completed by you and your physician for each sickness or injury. However, in case of chronic illnesses such as allergies or hypertension, you only must submit one physician's statement each calendar year.

One additional point to keep in mind is that the MAP-Med Only Option and the Medicare Supplement Option do not cover prescription drug expenses.

EAP/Work Life/Legal & Financial Services

Beacon Health Options offers you and your family an Employee Assistance Program (EAP), which provides short term counseling, information, resources, and referrals on a variety of life issues that you may be facing. These issues can include:

- Marital and family relationships
- Finding child care
- Depression and anxiety
- Adopting a child
- Workplace Concerns
- Caring for an elderly parent
- Balancing work and your personal life
- Legal and financial issues

The EAP provides clinical, professional assistance 24 hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days a year at 1-800-946-5360. The EAP is a confidential program available at no cost; you and your household members have up to six (6) sessions per year with an EAP counselor, either in-person, telephonically or via video. Counselors will help you define your needs, and provide counseling, support and referrals as needed. If clinical assistance is needed beyond the six EAP sessions for outpatient or inpatient treatment, you are responsible for the care selected.

You can also call the EAP for Work Life issues, e.g., eldercare and childcare. Extensive searches for information and services compatible with your family's preferences and finances will be provided. Work Life Consultants work hard to find resources that fit your budget requirements. Resource and referral information provided to you is at no cost. However, you are responsible for costs associated with services and businesses with whom you may contract.

Additionally, you can call the EAP for guidance on legal and financial issues including, but not limited to, divorce, domestic violence, criminal, civil, landlord tenant issues, debt management, estate planning, family budgeting, etc. The benefit allows for a free 30-minute consultation with a financial consultant, a 60-minute consultation with an attorney for family law issues and a 35% discount if you retain the attorney, and a free 30-minute consultation with an attorney for legal issues other than family law, with a 25% discount if the attorney is retained.

Claim Determination and Appeal Process

For information regarding the Plan's claim determination and appeal process, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled "Claim Determination and Appeal Process – Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan."

Continuation of Coverage

For information regarding continuation of coverage under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, including COBRA continuation coverage, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled "Continuation of Coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan."

Additional Information

Your Rights Under the Newborn's and Mother's Health Protection Act

Under Federal law, the Plan generally may not restrict benefits for any hospital length of stay in connection with childbirth for the mother or newborn child to less than 48 hours following a vaginal delivery, or less than 96 hours following a delivery by cesarean section. However, Federal law generally does not prohibit a shorter stay if the attending provider, after consultation with the mother, discharges the mother or newborn earlier than 48 hours (or 96 hours as applicable). In any case, the Plan may not require that the provider obtain authorization from the Plan for prescribing a length of stay that is not in excess of the above periods.

Benefits Program Overview

The Benefit of Choice – An Introduction to the Program

The benefit information contained in this Handbook applies to eligible retired employees (A) who were former regular full-time Columbia Energy Group Bargaining Unit employees of a Columbia Energy Group Subsidiary, an indirect subsidiary of NiSource Inc. (“NiSource” or the “Company”) (the Company and each Columbia Energy Group Subsidiary, an “Employer”), who were hired or rehired before January 1, 2013, and who retired from employment with an Employer after January 1, 2004, and (B) who are covered under one or more of the NiSource Life and Medical Benefits Program and the NiSource Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan (collectively, the “Program”), or various component benefit plans of the foregoing. For Program recordkeeping purposes, the Plan Administrator, in its discretion, has designated such eligible retirees as belonging to Retiree Benefit Program 621.

For definitions of “Columbia Energy Group Subsidiary” and Columbia Energy Group Bargaining Unit,” please see the “Definitions” Section of the Benefits Program Overview.

This Handbook serves as the Summary Plan Descriptions (“SPDs”) for the benefit plans as of January 1, 2021. It completely replaces any SPDs or summaries of material modifications that you have previously received with respect to the benefits described herein. The information enclosed has been prepared to summarize the benefits in an easy to understand format and is not intended to replace or supersede the official plan documents. The official plan documents are the governing documents in the event that questions arise or if there is a conflict between an SPD or any oral communication, on the one hand, and an official plan document, on the other hand. The NiSource Benefits Committee (the “Committee”) reserves the right to terminate, change or modify any plan provision at any time without the consent of, or advance notice to, you or your covered dependents, subject to the provisions of any applicable collective bargaining agreement.

The Program, or a portion thereof, also covers the following classes of employees, although benefits for such classes of employees are described in separate Handbooks and not herein: full-time exempt employees; part-time exempt employees; full-time non-exempt employees; part-time non-exempt employees; full-time employees who are members of certain collective bargaining units; part-time employees who are members of certain collective bargaining units; retirees who formerly were employees described in certain of the foregoing classes; and certain temporary work force and/or part-time status employees.

Eligibility

General Information Concerning Eligibility

You and your eligible dependents (as defined below or in the applicable individual Benefit Plan sections of this Handbook) will be eligible to participate in the Benefit Plans when and to the extent provided under the applicable Benefit Plan. Generally, you and your eligible dependents will be eligible to elect to participate in the Benefit Plans on the date of your retirement.

A Retiree who is rehired by an Employer (other than a person rehired as a union employee of Northern Indiana Public Service Company LLC) shall lose eligibility for coverage as a Retiree under the Retiree Medical Plans and the Retiree Life Insurance Plan (and shall not be eligible for such coverage upon his or her subsequent retirement), but may be eligible for coverage under the NiSource Consolidated Flex Medical Plan and the NiSource Life Insurance Plan as an employee, subject to the terms and conditions for employee coverage under those Benefit Plans.

Please Note: It is your responsibility to advise the Benefits Source when a person is no longer eligible for coverage as a dependent under a Benefit Plan. Any amounts paid by a Benefit Plan on behalf of a person who is no longer an eligible dependent will be required to be repaid to the plan. Enrollment of, or failure to disenroll, a person who does not satisfy the eligibility requirements for coverage under a Benefit Plan will be deemed to constitute fraud or intentional misrepresentation of a material fact and may result in retroactive termination of benefits and required repayment of any ineligible expenses. Also, enrollment of a dependent under a Benefit Plan may be denied or revoked if you fail to provide information or evidence reasonably requested by the Plan Administrator or its designee concerning the dependent's eligibility for coverage under the plan.

Eligibility under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan

Pre-65 Retirees are eligible to participate in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan. Post-65 Retirees are eligible to participate in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

If you are a Pre-65 Retiree participating in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or a Post-65 Retiree participating in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, (a) you may cover your eligible dependents under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan if they have not attained age 65, and (b) you may cover your eligible dependents under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan if they have attained age 65.

Your eligible dependents include:

- Your Spouse, provided you are not legally separated;
- With respect to insured Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan coverage that is provided under a policy of health insurance or pursuant to a contract with a health maintenance organization, but only to the extent and for as long as required by applicable state law, your former spouse or your spouse from whom you are legally separated;
- Your child who has not attained 26 years of age;
- Your unmarried child who satisfies the dependency test below and who is incapable of self-sustaining employment due to mental or physical disability if: (1) the child's disability arose before the date dependent status would otherwise have terminated; (2) proof of the child's disability, if requested by the Claims Administrator, is received by the Claims Administrator within 31 days of the date dependent status would otherwise have terminated, (3) the child is dependent upon you for financial support and maintenance, (4) you continue to be covered by the Plan, and (5) the child's disability continues;

Please Note: To maintain coverage, you must furnish proof of your child's disability to the Claims Administrator every three years, or more frequently as requested by the Claims Administrator. If the Claims Administrator determines that you have failed to furnish sufficient proof of your child's disability or if it determines that your child is no longer disabled, coverage for your child will cease.

- Your child who is recognized under any court order, including a Qualified Medical Child Support Order recognized as being legally sufficient, as having a right to participate in the Plan as a dependent (and with respect to the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, who is age 65 or older).

A child satisfies the dependency test for a particular Plan Year if you would be allowed a dependent exemption for such child in computing your federal taxable income for such year, even if the Code provides that the value of such exemption for a particular year is zero. Your child also satisfies the dependency test for a particular Plan Year if (1) such child receives over half of his or her support during the year from his or her parents and is in the custody of one or both parents for more than half of the year, (2) at least one parent would be allowed a dependent exemption for such child in computing such parent's federal taxable income for such year, and (3) the child's parents are divorced, legally separated under a decree of divorce or separate maintenance, legally separated under a written separation agreement, or live apart at all times for the last six months of the year. In making these determinations, you may ignore the child's gross income for such year. You should consult a tax advisor if you have any questions about whether your child satisfies this dependency test.

Please refer to the website mysourceforhr.com, or call the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320 if you are unsure of whether you are eligible to participate in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

Eligibility under the Retiree Life Insurance Plan

As a Retiree, you are eligible to participate in the Retiree Life Insurance Plan. Provided, however, that your eligibility will not commence before your Retiree Eligibility Date. Provided, further, to be eligible for supplemental AD&D coverage for you or your dependents, you must have been enrolled in supplemental AD&D coverage as a full-time employee on your last day of being actively at work.

If you are eligible to participate in the Plan, you may obtain certain coverage for your "eligible dependents." Your "eligible dependents" are:

- Your lawful spouse, provided you are not legally separated; and
- Your unmarried children from live birth to the end of the month in which the unmarried child attains age 26; and

Your "children" include: (1) your natural children, legally adopted children and children placed with you for adoption prior to legal adoption; and (2) each of your stepchildren, foster children, children subject to legal guardianship, grandchildren, and other children who are blood relatives who depend on you for more than fifty percent of their support and maintenance. A child placed with you for adoption prior to legal adoption is considered an eligible dependent from the date of placement for adoption, and is treated as though the child were a newborn child born to you.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, your unmarried children age 26 or older are also eligible if they are physically or mentally incapable of self-support, were incapable of self-support prior to age 26 and are financially dependent on you for more than 50% of their support and maintenance.

Also notwithstanding the foregoing,

- (1) Your spouse is not your "eligible dependent" while on active duty in the armed forces of any country; and
- (2) Your child is not your "eligible dependent" while (a) on active duty in the armed forces of any country; or (b) insured as an employee under the NiSource Life Insurance Plan or the Northern Indiana Public Service Company Employee Life Insurance Plan.

A child will not be considered the "eligible dependent" of more than one employee or retiree. If this would otherwise be the case, the child will be considered the "eligible dependent" of the employee or retiree named in a written agreement of all such employees or retirees filed with the Company. If there is no written agreement, the child will be considered the "eligible dependent" of:

- (1) the employee or retiree who became insured under the Plan with respect to the child while the child was an "eligible dependent" of only that employee or retiree; and otherwise
- (2) the employee or retiree who has the longest continuous service with a Participating Employer, based on the Company's records.

Enrollment

General Information Concerning Enrollment

When you first become eligible to participate in a Benefit Plan, and each year during annual enrollment, you have the opportunity to select for you and your eligible dependents, retiree medical coverage and, provided you and your dependents are eligible for such coverage, supplemental AD&D coverage.

You are automatically enrolled for EAP/Work Life/Legal & Financial coverage (even if you elect the No Coverage Option for retiree medical coverage) upon the date you become eligible for such coverage.

You are automatically enrolled for retiree term life insurance coverage upon the date you become eligible for such coverage.

To enroll in retiree medical coverage, you must log on to the website mysourceforhr.com or call the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320. To enroll in supplemental AD&D coverage, you must use forms approved by Minnesota Life Insurance Company ("Securian"), an affiliate of Securian Financial Group, Inc. You may obtain enrollment forms by contacting the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

Enrollment in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan

Provided you meet the eligibility requirements, as described in the "Eligibility" section above, you and your eligible dependents can participate in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and/or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, as applicable, if you properly enroll or are deemed to have enrolled.

For the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, if you are a newly eligible retiree, you must enroll yourself and any eligible dependents in retiree medical coverage no later than 31 days after the later of (i) the date of your retirement, and (ii) your Retiree Eligibility Date.

For the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, you must enroll yourself and any eligible dependents before 31 days after the later of (i) the date of your retirement, (ii) your Retiree Eligibility Date, and (iii) the date you attain age 65.

In general, once you enroll for (or decline) coverage in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, your elections stay in effect for the entire Plan Year and can only be changed during annual enrollment. However, if you experience a qualified life event, you may enroll or change existing coverage during the year. Please see the "Changing and Continuing Elections" section of this Benefits Program Overview for further details. Also, you may select the "No Coverage" option at any time; however once you select this option, you may select another coverage option only at annual enrollment or in connection with a qualified life event that would permit such change.

With respect to the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, you and your eligible dependents may not enroll in the Medicare Supplement Option if at any time you were enrolled in the MAP Option, the MAP-Med Only Option, or any other Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan coverage option. Similarly, you and your eligible dependents may not enroll in the MAP Option or MAP-Med Only Option if at any time you were enrolled in the Medicare Supplement Option or in any other Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan coverage option besides the MAP Option or MAP-Med Only Option. You may change your enrollment from the MAP Option to the MAP-Med Only Option only at annual enrollment or in connection with a qualified life event that would permit such change. You may not change your enrollment from the MAP Med-Only Option to the MAP Option and you may not enroll in the MAP Option if at any time you or any of your dependents once were enrolled in the MAP-Med Only Option. If you have enrolled your eligible dependent in a Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan option and you subsequently become eligible for coverage under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, you may enroll only in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan coverage option in which your dependent is enrolled or in the "No Coverage" option.

If you enroll in Medicare Part D prescription drug coverage, you may not enroll or remain enrolled in the MAP Option providing prescription drug coverage. If you later lose or drop Medicare Part D coverage, you will not be able to enroll in the MAP Option.

Enrollment materials will automatically be sent to you upon your retirement and you will have 31 days after the date you first become eligible for retiree medical coverage to mail your medical plan election form or otherwise to complete enrollment.

Provided you have timely elected coverage at your first opportunity to enroll in retiree medical coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, your Benefit Plan enrollment will be effective on the later of the first day of the month in which you retire or the first day of the month in which your Retiree Eligibility Date occurs, or in the case of a Pre-65 Retiree who attains age 65, your enrollment in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan will be effective as of the later of the first day of the month in which you attain age 65 or the first day of the month in which your Retiree Eligibility Date occurs. (If you are a Pre-65 Retiree who attains age 65 on the first day of a month, your enrollment in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan will be effective as of the later of the first day of the month immediately preceding the month in which you attain age 65 or the first day of the month in which your Retiree Eligibility Date occurs.) If you fail to enroll in retiree medical coverage at your first opportunity to enroll, your next opportunity to enroll will be in conjunction with the next annual enrollment or upon the occurrence of a qualified life event.

In the event you fail to enroll in retiree medical coverage at the time of your retirement (including by failing to elect the No Coverage Option), you fail to enroll in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan upon attaining age 65 after your retirement, or you fail to enroll your eligible dependent in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan when he or she attains age 65, the following will take place:

- If you or an eligible dependent are under age 65 you will be deemed to have elected the coverage option and category of coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan that was in place for you and/or your eligible dependent(s) on the date you retired;
- If you are age 65 or over, you will not be covered by any plan for retiree medical benefits as of the date of your retirement or the date you attain age 65; and
- If your eligible dependent is age 65 or over, he or she will not be covered by any plan for retiree medical benefits as of the date he or she attains age 65.

If you are a current Retiree enrolled in retiree medical coverage and you do not make changes during the annual enrollment process, your current benefits, if available, will be maintained.

Please Note:

If you do not enroll in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan within 31 days of your initial eligibility date, your next opportunity to enroll or change elections will not be until the next annual enrollment period or until you experience a qualified life event that would permit your enrollment.

Enrollment in the Retiree Life Insurance Plan

Provided eligibility requirements are met, as described in the section above entitled “Eligibility

under the Retiree Life Insurance Plan,” you will be enrolled in the Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage Option upon the later of (i) the date of your retirement, (ii) your Retiree Eligibility Date, and (iii) that date you contact the Benefits Source to enroll in the Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage Option in connection with your Retiree Eligibility Date.

For the Supplemental Retiree AD&D Coverage Option and the Dependents AD&D Coverage Option (collectively the “AD&D Coverage Options,” and together with the Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage Option, the “Life Insurance Coverage Options”), if you desire coverage as a newly eligible retiree, and provided you meet the eligibility requirements described in the section above entitled “Eligibility under the Retiree Life Insurance Plan,” you must enroll in coverage within 31 days of the date of your retirement. To enroll in the Dependents AD&D Coverage Option, you must have also enrolled in the Supplemental Retiree AD&D Coverage Option. If you do not enroll in an AD&D Coverage Option during this initial 31-day period, you will not have any further opportunity to enroll in such coverage. You must enroll using forms approved by Securian. You may obtain enrollment forms by contacting the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320

Special Enrollment Rights and Opportunities

Please see the “Changing and Continuing Elections” subsection of this Benefits Program Overview for details.

Dual Coverages

If you and your dependent(s) (spouse and/or your child) are eligible for Program benefits as active employees or retirees of NiSource or one of its affiliates, any of you may choose coverage either for yourselves only or for yourselves and your eligible dependents. However, for most Program benefits, it is not possible to be covered by more than one NiSource Benefit Plan of the same type (e.g., more than one medical plan). Also, for most Benefit Plans, a NiSource active employee or retiree cannot be covered under the Benefit Plan both as a participant and as a dependent. Likewise, if you and your spouse are both eligible employees or retirees of NiSource or one of its affiliates, either of you may choose to cover your eligible child(ren); however, it is not possible for both of you to cover your child(ren) under the same plan. Double benefits are not available.

If your covered dependent becomes employed by an Employer and either timely elects medical coverage or makes no medical coverage election and is thereby deemed to have elected medical coverage under the NiSource Consolidated Flex Medical Plan, you will be deemed to have requested that coverage for such dependent under a Retiree Medical Plan be dropped.

Coverage under the Program for active employees or for eligible retirees other than the Retirees for whom this Handbook is prepared is described in separate Handbooks and not herein.

Enrollment Pursuant to a Qualified Medical Child Support Order

The Program also provides group health plan coverage for your eligible child pursuant to the terms of a Qualified Medical Child Support Order ("QMCSO"). This may apply even if you do not have legal custody of the child, the child is not dependent on you for support, and regardless of any enrollment restrictions that might otherwise exist for dependent coverage. If the Company or Participating Employer receives a valid QMCSO and you do not enroll the dependent child, the custodial parent or state agency may enroll the dependent child.

You may obtain, without charge, a copy of the Benefit Plans' QMCSO procedures from the Company.

Annual Enrollment

Each year, at annual enrollment, you will receive information regarding the Benefit Plans. Except as noted below, if you do not enroll within the annual enrollment period, your current coverages remain in effect for the upcoming Plan Year, if available, at the applicable rates. You will be advised of any new benefit plans, plans that require enrollment and the deadline date.

In the event your current plan coverage is not available and you fail to elect coverage under another plan that is offered to you, you will be deemed to have elected the default coverage, if applicable. Please see the section above entitled "Enrollment in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan" for further details.

ID Cards

Once you enroll and become a participant, you will receive identification cards for the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan at your home address.

Your ID card should be presented to your provider at the time of service. If additional cards are needed or an ID card is lost, please contact Anthem, in the case of the PPO or HDPPPO options or the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, or, if applicable, your HMO in the case of an HMO option.

Defined Dollar Subsidy for Retiree Medical Coverage

Pre-65 Retirees, Post-65 Retirees and their eligible Spouses are entitled to receive an annual defined dollar subsidy ("Defined Dollar Subsidy") to be credited toward the cost of their retiree medical coverage under a Retiree Medical Plan. Provided, however, that no Defined Dollar Subsidy is available with respect to a Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan coverage option other than the Medicare Supplement Option, the MAP Option, or the MAP-Med Only Option.

The Defined Dollar Subsidy is determined by multiplying your Defined Dollars Years of Service by a fixed dollar amount.

If you and your Spouse are both enrolled in a Retiree Medical Plan, and if you die prior to your Spouse, your surviving Spouse may receive a Defined Dollar Subsidy, to be credited toward the cost of coverage under a Retiree Medical Plan, in the amount to which you would have been entitled had you survived and were the same age as your Spouse.

When Coverage Begins and Ends - General

Please see below for a complete description of when the coverage begins and ends with respect to each Benefit Plan.

When Coverage Begins and Ends – Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan

Coverage Begins

Generally, coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan may become effective on the later of (1) the date you retire, (2) the first day of the following Plan Year for eligible Retirees who enroll during the annual enrollment period, (3) the date the Plan approves your enrollment based upon a qualified life event, and (4) the date you properly enroll. Coverage for your eligible dependent under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan may become effective, if you properly enroll him or her, (1) on the date your coverage becomes effective, (2) the first day of the following Plan Year if you enroll your eligible dependent during the annual enrollment period, or (3) on the date the Plan approves his or her enrollment based upon a qualified life event.

Coverage for you under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan may become effective on the later of (1) the date you retire, (2) the first day of the month in which you attain age 65 (or on the first day of the immediately preceding month, if you attain age 65 on the first day of the month), and (3) the date you properly enroll. Coverage for your eligible dependent under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan may become effective, if you properly enroll him or her, (1) the date your coverage becomes effective, (2) the first day of the following Plan Year if you enroll your eligible dependent during the annual enrollment period, or (3) the date the Plan approves his or her enrollment based upon a qualified life event.

Coverage Ends

Except in the case of your death (in which case coverage ends on the date of your death) or in the case of a divorce or legal separation (in which case coverage for your Spouse ends on the date of divorce or legal separation), coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan will end on the earliest of (i) the date the Plan is terminated, or (ii) the last day of the month in which you and/or your dependent loses eligibility.

Your eligibility generally ends on the earliest of the following dates:

- The date that the Plan is amended to terminate coverage with respect to a Retiree;
- The date a Retiree is no longer eligible for coverage under the Plan, including without limitation as a result of being rehired by an Employer;
- The last date for which any required contribution was made;
- The date the covered Retiree provides notice to the Company of his or her intent to terminate coverage; or
- With respect to the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, the date a Pre-65 Retiree attains age 65.

A dependent's eligibility generally ends on the earliest of the following dates:

- The date the Retiree's coverage ends;
- The last date for which any required contributions for the dependent's coverage was made;
- The date the covered Retiree provides notice to the Company of his or her intent to terminate coverage for such dependent;
- With respect to a Spouse who becomes divorced or legally separated from a Retiree, the date of divorce or legal separation; or
- The end of the month following the date a dependent no longer qualifies as a dependent.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, if coverage for you or your dependents is terminated during a Plan Year for failure to pay required contributions for coverage, you may apply to the NiSource Benefits Department during the same Plan Year to reinstate coverage retroactive to the date of termination. Your application must be in writing and must describe the extenuating circumstances that resulted in your missed payment. The Benefits Department, in its sole and absolute discretion, will determine whether there are sufficient grounds for reinstating coverage. If the Benefits Department makes a favorable determination, you must repay any missed premiums before the end of the Plan Year and before coverage will be reinstated.

Also, notwithstanding the foregoing, if your dependent experiences a COBRA qualifying event, coverage for EAP/Work Life/Legal & Financial will end the day after the expiration of the maximum COBRA continuation coverage period that would otherwise apply to such dependent, if COBRA were to apply to EAP/Work Life/Legal & Financial coverage. For a description of COBRA qualifying events, please see the “COBRA” subsection of the “Continuation of Coverage” section of this Benefits Program Overview

Please see the “Continuation of Coverage” section of this Benefits Program Overview for circumstances under which your coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan may be continued beyond the periods described above.

When Coverage Begins and Ends – Retiree Life Insurance Plan

Provided you have satisfied the eligibility and enrollment requirements described above, coverage under the Supplemental Retiree AD&D Coverage Option may generally become effective on the first day on which each of the following conditions are met: (1) you have enrolled for coverage, including, if required, applying for coverage on forms approved by the Claims Administrator, and (2) the Claims Administrator has received the required premium.

Provided your dependent has satisfied the eligibility requirements described above, coverage under the Dependents AD&D Coverage Option may generally become effective on the first day on which each of the following conditions are met: (1) you have enrolled for dependent coverage, including, if required, applying for coverage on forms approved by the Claims Administrator, (2) you are insured for coverage under the Supplemental Retiree AD&D Coverage Option; and (3) the Claims Administrator has received the required premium.

If an eligible dependent (other than a newborn child) is hospitalized or confined because of illness or disease on the date his or her insurance would otherwise become effective, his or her effective date shall be delayed until he or she is released from such hospitalization or confinement.

Coverage Ends

Your coverage under the Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage Option and the Supplemental Retiree AD&D Coverage Option, and the coverage of your dependents under the Dependents AD&D Coverage Option, will end when the first of these occurs:

- The date as of which the Plan is terminated;
- The date the Group Contract (as defined in the Retiree Life Insurance SPD) is canceled, or with respect to a particular Life Insurance Coverage Option, the date a Coverage Option is terminated;
- The date that the Plan or Group Contract is amended to terminate coverage for you or to make you no longer eligible;
- The last day of the month in which you are no longer eligible for coverage under the Plan as a member of an eligible class, including without limitation as a result of being rehired by an Employer;
- For AD&D Coverage Options, 31 days after the due date of any required contribution that is not paid;
- For the Dependents AD&D Coverage Option, the date coverage under your Supplemental Retiree AD&D Coverage Option ends;
- For the Dependents AD&D Coverage Option, the date your dependent ceases to be an “eligible dependent” for the coverage or is no longer covered under the Group Contract;
- For the Supplemental Retiree AD&D Coverage Option, the last day for which premium contributions have been made following your written request to end such AD&D Coverage Option; and
- For the Dependents AD&D Coverage Option with respect to an eligible dependent, the last day for which premium contributions have been made following your written request to end such AD&D Coverage Option for such dependent.

You must notify the Claims Administrator or the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320 when a dependent is no longer eligible for coverage under the Retiree Life Insurance Plan so that premiums may be discontinued. No claims will be paid under the Retiree Life Insurance Plan in respect of an ineligible dependent.

If your Supplemental Retiree AD&D Coverage terminates because of non-payment of premiums, your coverage may be reinstated if all premiums due are paid and received by the Claims Administrator within 31 days of the date of termination and during your lifetime.

Changing and Continuing Elections

General

In general, once you enroll for (or decline) coverage, your elections stay in effect in the entire Plan Year. However, you may make or change certain Retiree Medical Plan elections during the Plan Year under certain limited circumstances, referred to herein as “qualified life events.” For example, you may change certain elections if you experience a “qualified status change” that affects your, your spouse’s, or your dependent’s eligibility for benefits under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan. A “qualified status change” is one type of qualified life event. Examples of qualified status changes and a description of other qualified life events are set forth below.

You must contact a customer service associate at the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320 to request a change in election within 31 days of the date of the qualified life event (or 60 days, in the case of certain HIPAA special enrollment events discussed below).

Please note, however, that the 31-day period will be extended for a limited period of time. More specifically, the portion of the Outbreak Period (defined above) that is before January 1, 2021 will be disregarded in calculating the 31-day period. Also, for qualified life events that are also HIPAA special enrollment events, the Outbreak Period both before and after January 1, 2021 will be disregarded.

In connection with any requested election change, you may be required to provide certifications or other evidence requested by the Company or Plan Administrator.

To the extent permitted by the applicable Benefit Plan, if you experience a qualified status change, you may elect a different category of coverage (e.g., no coverage, employee only, employee + spouse, employee + family) if that new election is on account of, and corresponds with, your qualified status change and if the new election satisfies other Internal Revenue Service consistency rules.

Examples of qualified status changes include any of the following circumstances that may affect eligibility for coverage under one of the Benefit Plans listed above:

- You get a divorce, become legally separated, or your marriage is legally annulled.
- Your spouse or dependent dies.
- Your dependent becomes ineligible for coverage (e.g., he or she reaches the eligibility age limit).
- Your dependent becomes eligible for coverage (e.g., with respect to the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, he or she attains age 65).
- You get married.
- You have a baby, adopt, or have a child placed with you for adoption.
- You, your spouse, or your dependent experiences a change in employment status (e.g., gain or terminate employment, change worksites) that leads to a loss or gain of eligibility for coverage.
- You, your spouse or your dependent experiences a change in employment status that affects eligibility for coverage (e.g., change from part-time to full-time or vice versa, strike or lockout, begin or return from an unpaid leave of absence).
- You, your spouse, or your dependent has a change in home address (outside the network service area).

Other qualified life events that may permit a change in your elections (including a change in category of coverage and, in some instances, a change in coverage option) include the following:

- You, your spouse, or your dependent experiences a significant change in cost or coverage of a Benefit Plan.
- With respect to the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, you qualify for special enrollment during the year under HIPAA. For example, you may qualify for special enrollment if (1) you acquire an eligible dependent after your employment begins, (2) you (or your dependent) were covered under another group health plan or had other health insurance coverage (including coverage purchased through a government exchange or other health insurance coverage purchased in the individual market) when you declined coverage and you (or your dependent) lose coverage because of loss of eligibility (other than for failure to pay premiums or termination for cause), termination of employer contributions or exhaustion of COBRA continuation coverage, or (3) you (or your dependent) lose coverage as a result of loss of eligibility under a Medicaid plan under title XIX of the Social Security Act or under a State child health plan under title XXI of the Social Security Act, or you (or your dependent) become eligible for assistance, with respect to coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, under such a Medicaid plan or State child health plan. Please note: For an event described in item (3), your special enrollment period will be 60 days, not 31 days. Please note, however, that the Outbreak Period (defined above) will be disregarded in calculating the 31-day or 60-day period permitted by HIPAA special enrollment provisions).

- The Benefit Plan receives a Qualified Medical Child Support Order (“QMCSO”) or other court order, judgment, or decree that requires you to enroll a dependent child in an accident or health plan.
- You, your spouse or dependent lose coverage under any group health coverage sponsored by a governmental or educational institution, in which case you may be able to elect coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, as applicable.
- With respect to accident or health plan coverage, you, your spouse, or your dependent qualifies for or loses Medicare or Medicaid coverage.

If a dependent you are covering under a Retiree Medical Plan is hired by an Employer and either timely elects coverage under the NiSource Consolidated Flex Medical Plan or fails to make a timely coverage election and is thereby deemed to have elected a coverage option thereunder other than the “No Coverage” option, you will be deemed to have elected to drop Retiree Medical Plan coverage for such dependent in connection his or her change in employment status.

Notwithstanding the foregoing or any other provision of this Handbook, if you are covered under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, you may drop your coverage or reduce the number of dependents covered under a Retiree Medical Plan at any time. However, once you drop your coverage or drop coverage for one or more of your dependents, you will not be able to enroll again in coverage until the next annual enrollment period or until you experience a qualified life event that would permit enrollment.

Coordination of Benefits (COB)

If you or your dependent have coverage under another medical or prescription drug plan or program, your medical and prescription drug benefits under the Benefit Plans coordinate with those other benefits to help eliminate duplicate payments for the same services.

Coordinating Plans

Types of plans that normally coordinate benefits include, but may not be limited to, the following:

- Group or blanket plans or coverages provided by an employer, union, trust, or other similar sponsor.
- Other group or prepayment health care plans or coverages that cover you or your dependents, including student coverage provided through a school above the high school level.
- Federal government benefit programs, including Medicare or Medicaid. (Medicaid or any other plan, program, policy or arrangement will not be included if, by its terms, it does not allow coordination.)
- Automobile insurance plans in the case of accidents, when inclusion is not prohibited by law.
- Other plans required or provided by law.

These coordination provisions do not apply to individual or private insurance plans. Any other benefits (apart from those under individual or private insurance plans) to which you may be entitled are considered for possible coordination.

How Coordination Works With Other Group Plans

If you are covered by more than one of the types of plans mentioned above, one plan is primary. The primary plan pays benefits first without considering the other plans. Then – based on what the primary plan pays – the other (secondary) plans may pay a benefit (if any).

If your coverage under the applicable benefit plan is primary, the benefit plan pays the amount payable under such plan.

If your coverage under the applicable benefit plan is secondary, the primary plan pays its benefits first. Then, the secondary benefit plan pays the lesser of:

- The amounts payable under the secondary benefit plan; or
- The balance left after the primary plan pays benefits.

When combined, the benefits that the two coverages pay will not exceed 100 percent of the eligible expense.

Determining the Order of Payment

When benefits coordinate, the plans or coverages involved determine which pays benefits first (“primary plan”), and then second (“secondary plan”). Below are the Benefit Plans’ guidelines for determining which is primary:

- If the plan has no coordination of benefits provision, it automatically is primary.
- If medical benefits are available under an automobile insurance plan, the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan will always be considered secondary.
- The plan covering the person as the employee, rather than as a dependent, laid-off employee, terminated employee, COBRA beneficiary, or retired employee is primary and pays benefits first. The other coverage is secondary and only pays any remaining eligible expenses.
- If both parents’ plans cover a dependent, the plans use the “Birthday Rule” to determine which parent’s plan pays first. If the other plan does not follow the Birthday Rule and as a result both coverages would be considered either primary or secondary, the order of benefits will be determined at the option of the applicable Claims Administrator.

In the case of a divorce or separation, the following order will establish responsibility for payment:

- If there is a court order that requires a parent to take financial responsibility for the relevant coverage for the child, that parent’s plan is always primary. If the parent with financial responsibility does not have coverage, but the parent’s spouse does, such spouse’s plan is primary.
- The plan of the parent with custody of the dependent child usually pays benefits before the plan of the other parent or the plan of a stepparent.
- If the parent with custody of the child remarries and the stepparent’s plan also covers the child, the custodial parent’s plan pays first and the stepparent’s (custodial parent’s spouse’s) plan pays second. The plan of the parent without custody pays third, and the noncustodial parent’s spouse’s plan (if any) pays last.
- The plan of the parent without custody of the child pays before the non-custodial stepparent.

If, after using the guidelines above, a determination cannot be made as to the order of payment, the plan that has covered the person longer is the primary plan.

How Coordination Works With Medicare

Under current law, you and your dependents become eligible for Medicare at age 65. However, if one of you has been entitled to Social Security disability benefits for 25 months as an insured individual, child, widow, or widower who is “under a disability,” that person may become Medicare-eligible before age 65.

You should notify a Benefits Source customer service associate if you start Medicare benefits. The way medical coverage under the Benefit Plans coordinates with Medicare depends upon whether you are in “current employment status,” as that term is defined in Medicare regulations, and upon a covered person’s age and whether he or she is receiving Social Security disability benefits. A retiree generally is not in current employment status. The discussion below assumes that a retiree covered under a Retiree Medical Plan is not in current employment status for purposes of Medicare. However, if you believe you have current employment status for purposes of Medicare regulations, you should contact the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

How Coordination of Benefits Works for Those Not in "Current Employment Status"

If you are covered under a Retiree Medical Plan but are no longer considered by Medicare to be in "current employment status," and if you, your covered spouse or your other covered dependents are Medicare-eligible, then Medicare will generally be treated by the Retiree Medical Plan as the primary payor for the covered person who is Medicare-eligible, regardless of the covered person's age and, except for Medicare Part D prescription drug coverage, regardless of whether he or she has enrolled in Medicare or any part thereof. If your covered spouse or other covered dependent is not Medicare-eligible, the Retiree Medical Plan will be treated as the primary payor with respect to such person's benefits.

If a covered person is eligible for, but not enrolled in, Medicare benefits, the Retiree Medical Plan will deduct from the amount otherwise payable with respect to a claim the amount Medicare would have paid had that person been enrolled in Medicare or in any part thereof. (However, no deduction will be made for failure to enroll in Medicare Part D prescription drug coverage.) For example, if you are eligible for, but not enrolled in, Medicare Part B, and you incur a claim that would be payable in whole or in part by Medicare Part B, the Retiree Medical Plan will deduct from the amount it would otherwise pay for such claim the amount Medicare Part B would have paid.

You are responsible for notifying the Claims Administrator if you, your spouse or your other dependents become Medicare-eligible.

How Coordination of Benefits Work with Medicare Part D

If you have prescription drug coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Medicare Part D at the same time, such coverage will coordinate as provided by law.

How Coordination Works With TRICARE

If you are a TRICARE beneficiary, your coverage under TRICARE will coordinate with group health plan coverage under the Program as provided by law.

Claim Determination and Appeal Process - General

General

The Committee delegates the authority to decide certain claims and appeals to the applicable Claims Administrator (listed in the "General Program Information" found at the end of each Benefit Plan section, or SPD, in this Handbook). The Claims Administrator adheres to specific timeframes for notifying you of its determination regarding your claim. If your claim for benefits is denied (in whole or in part), formal procedures are in place if you want to appeal the denial.

In certain cases, the Plan Administrator or its designee may decide claims requiring a determination of whether you meet the requirements for eligibility under the terms of the applicable plan, which determination may result in a denial, reduction, termination or failure to provide payment for a benefit.

There are different categories of claims, and each is subject to different timeframes for notifying you of the Claims Administrator's or Plan Administrator's determination if your claim has been denied (in whole or in part).

Please Note: The Outbreak Period (defined above) will be disregarded in determining the period within which individuals may file a benefit claim or an appeal of an adverse benefit determination under the claims procedures described below.

You may have someone else represent you in any of the review processes as long as you provide written notice to the Claims Administrator or Plan Administrator, as appropriate, of the name of the person who will represent you.

For details regarding how to file a claim and the claim denial and appeal processes for each of the Benefit Plans, please see below or the individual Benefit Plan sections, or SPDs, in this Handbook. Any claim relating to whether you meet the requirements for eligibility under the terms of an applicable Benefit Plan should be submitted in writing to the Benefits Department of the Company at the address for the Plan Administrator set forth in the General Program Information section of the SPD for such plan.

Discretion and Authority of Plan Administrator and Claims Administrator

See the subsection entitled “Named Fiduciary and Plan Administrator” under the “Additional Information” section below for information concerning the discretionary authority of the Plan Administrator, the Claims Administrator and the NiSource Benefits Department to interpret the various Benefit Plans and to make determinations thereunder.

Legal Action

You cannot bring any legal action against a Benefit Plan unless you first complete all required steps of the applicable appeals process described in this Handbook. Once you complete that process, you can bring legal action against the applicable Benefit Plan. If you decide to take legal action, you must do so before the deadline, if any, specified in the applicable individual Benefit Plan section of the Handbook.

Claim Determination and Appeal Process – Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan

The claim determination and appeal process described below applies to the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan. The term “Plan” as used in this section refers to the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, and the term “Claims Administrator” refers to the applicable claims administrator appointed for the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan. (Note that there may be more than one claims administrator for the Plan.)

The type of claim that you make determines the time frame under which the Claims Administrator makes a determination regarding your claim. There are four different categories of claims, and each is subject to different time frames for notifying you of the Claims Administrator’s determination. In addition, you will be notified of any adverse benefit determination that results in a rescission of your coverage.

Please Note: The Outbreak Period (defined above) will be disregarded in determining the period within which individuals may file a benefit claim or an appeal of an adverse benefit determination under the claims procedures described below.

An “adverse benefit determination” is (i) a denial, reduction, or termination of, or a failure to provide or make payment (in whole or in part) for, a benefit, including any such denial, reduction, termination, or failure to provide or make payment that is based on a determination of your eligibility to participate in a plan, and including a denial, reduction, or termination of, or a failure to provide or make payment (in whole or in part) for, a benefit resulting from the application of any utilization review, as well as a failure to cover an item or service for which benefits are otherwise provided because it is determined to be experimental or investigational or not medically necessary or appropriate, and (ii) a rescission of coverage.

A “rescission of coverage” is a cancellation or discontinuance of coverage that has retroactive effect, but does not include any such cancellation or discontinuance to the extent it is attributable to a failure to pay on a timely basis premiums or contributions towards the cost of coverage.

The Plan Administrator or its designee may decide claims (i) that involve a rescission of coverage, (ii) that call for a determination of whether you meet the requirements for eligibility under the Plan, which determination may result in a denial, reduction, termination or failure to provide payment for a benefit, or (iii) for which a Claims Administrator has not been delegated authority, or has not assumed authority, to decide. The Plan Administrator has delegated to the Company’s Benefits Department authority to make these determinations. Solely with respect to claims involving a rescission of coverage, a determination of your eligibility under the Plan, or a matter for which the Claims Administrator has not been delegated, or has not assumed, authority to decide, the term “Claims Administrator” used below shall refer to the Plan Administrator or its designee. Any claim relating to (i) a rescission of coverage, (ii) whether you meet the requirements for eligibility under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, or (iii) a matter for which the Claims Administrator has not been delegated, or has not assumed, authority to decide should be submitted in writing to the Benefits Department of the Company at the address for the Plan Administrator set forth in the General Program Information section of the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD.

Consideration of Initial Claim

Pre-Service Claim (Not Involving Urgent Care)

Generally, a “pre-service claim” is any claim involving a benefit where the Plan requires approval of the benefit in advance of obtaining medical care.

If you submit a pre-service claim properly with all necessary information, the Claims Administrator will decide your claim within a reasonable period of time appropriate to the medical circumstances (but not later than 15 days from the date the claim is received). The Claims Administrator may obtain a one-time extension (not longer than 15 days) for matters beyond its control if, prior to expiration of the initial 15-day period, the Claims Administrator notifies you of the circumstances requiring the extension and the date by which the Claims Administrator expects to render a decision.

If you file a pre-service claim but do not provide sufficient information for the Claims Administrator to make a determination, you will be notified within five days after your pre-service claim is received of the specific information necessary to complete the claim. Once you receive this notice, you then have 45 days to provide any needed information.

Post-Service Claims

Generally, a “post-service claim” is any claim that is not an urgent care claim, a pre-service claim or a concurrent care claim.

If you submit a post-service claim, you will receive a written notice of the Claims Administrator’s determination within 30 days of the day the Claims Administrator receives your claim (as long as you provide all necessary information). The Claims Administrator may obtain a one-time extension (not longer than 15 days) for matters beyond its control if, prior to the expiration of the initial 30-day period, the Claims Administrator notifies you of the circumstances requiring the extension and the date by which the Claims Administrator expects to render a decision.

If additional information is needed to process your post-service claim, you will be notified within the 30-day period and the notice will specify the required information. Once you receive notice, you then have 45 days to provide any needed information.

Urgent Care Claims

Generally, an “urgent care claim” is any claim that must be processed on an expedited basis because a delay in processing could seriously jeopardize the life or health of the patient or jeopardize the ability of the patient to regain maximum function, or in the opinion of the patient’s doctor with knowledge of the patient’s medical condition, a delay would subject the patient to severe pain that cannot be adequately managed without the care or treatment that is subject of this claim.

Unless you have failed to provide sufficient information to permit a determination of whether, or to what extent, benefits are covered or payable under the Plan, you will receive notice of the benefit determination (in writing or electronically) within 72 hours after the Claims Administrator receives your urgent care claim. The Claims Administrator will take into account the seriousness of your condition. The Claims Administrator may provide an oral notice of its determination, and then follow up with a written or electronic confirmation within three days.

If you file an urgent care claim but have not provided sufficient information to permit a determination of whether, or to what extent, benefits are covered or payable under the Plan, you will be notified of the specific information needed to complete the claim within 24 hours after the Claims Administrator receives your urgent care claim. Once you receive this notice, you then have 48 hours to provide the requested information.

If you are asked to provide specific information to complete your urgent care claim, you will receive a notice of the Claims Administrator’s determination no later than 48 hours after the earlier of:

- The Claims Administrator’s receipt of the specified information; or
- The end of the period that you have to provide the specified additional information.

Concurrent Care Claims

Generally, a “concurrent care claim” is any claim involving (i) a decision to reduce or terminate an ongoing course of treatment to be provided over a period of time or number of treatments, or (ii) your request to extend a course of treatment beyond the period of time or number of treatments that has been approved.

The Claims Administrator may approve (for a specific period of time or number of treatments), reduce, or terminate an ongoing course of treatment. Any reduction or termination of ongoing treatments is an adverse benefit determination. The Claims Administrator must notify you within a reasonable time period prior to the reduction or termination of services.

If you request to extend the treatment and your request is that of an urgent care claim (as defined above), the Claims Administrator will decide your request within 24 hours after it receives your request. You must make your request at least 24 hours before the end of your approved treatment.

If your request to extend ongoing treatment is not an urgent care claim, the Claims Administrator will treat your claim as either a pre-service or post-service claim (as applicable) and consider the claim according to the post-service or pre-service time frames, whichever applies.

Full and Fair Review

In connection with a claim or internal appeal, the Claims Administrator will provide you, free of charge, with any new or additional evidence considered, relied upon, or generated by the Plan (or at the direction of the Plan) in connection with your claim. Such evidence will be provided in advance of the date on which a notice of a final internal adverse benefit determination is required to be provided, in order to give you an opportunity to respond prior to that date. In addition, before you receive a final internal adverse benefit determination on review based upon a new or additional rationale, the Claims Administrator will provide to you, free of charge, the rationale. The rationale will be provided in advance of the date on which a notice of a final internal adverse benefit determination is required to be provided, in order to give you an opportunity to respond prior to that date.

If the Claims Administrator Makes an Adverse Benefit Determination Regarding an Initial Claim or Rescinds Coverage

If you receive a notice of an adverse benefit determination, the notice will:

- Include information sufficient to identify the claim involved and a statement describing the availability, upon request, of the diagnosis code and its corresponding meaning, and the treatment code and its corresponding meaning;

- Explain the reasons for the adverse benefit determination;
- Describe any additional material or information necessary for you to complete your claim and explain why the material or information is necessary;
- Refer you to the part of the Plan upon which the determination is based;
- Describe the Plan's review procedures and the time limits applicable to such procedures, including a description of available internal appeals and external review processes and information regarding how to initiate an appeal, as well as a statement of your right to bring a civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA following an adverse benefit determination on all appeals;
- In the case of an urgent care claim, describe the expedited review process applicable to such claims; and
- To the extent required by applicable regulations, disclose the availability of, and contact information for, an applicable office of health insurance consumer assistance or ombudsman who may assist you.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon an internal rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion in making the adverse determination, either the specific rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such rule, guideline, protocol, or other criterion will be provided free of charge to you upon request. If the Claims Administrator relied upon medical necessity or experimental treatment or similar exclusion or limit in making the adverse determination, either an explanation of the scientific or clinical judgment for the determination (applying the terms of the Plan to your medical circumstances) will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such explanation will be provided free of charge to you upon request.

If the Claims Administrator denies an urgent care claim, the Claims Administrator will provide a description of the expedited review process for urgent care claims (as set forth below). The Claims Administrator may provide an oral notice of its determination, then follow-up with a written or electronic confirmation within three days.

Mandatory First-Level Internal Appeal to Claims Administrator

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination regarding an initial claim or rescission of coverage, you or your duly authorized representative have the right to appeal the adverse benefit determination by sending a written request for review to the Claims Administrator within 180 days of your receipt of notice of the adverse benefit determination.

Your request for review should be sent to the Claims Administrator at the address for the Claims Administrator set forth in the section entitled "General Program Information" found in the individual SPD section for the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

You may submit written comments, documents, records, and other information relating to your claim for benefits. Upon your request, you will be provided, free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim.

Your written request should state why you think your claim should not have been denied or your coverage under the Plan should not have been rescinded. Your request also should include the name of your Employer, any adverse benefit determination letter you received and any additional documents, information or comments you think may have a bearing on your claim.

Upon receipt of your request, the Claims Administrator will conduct a review that takes into account all comments, documents, records, and other information submitted by you or your authorized representative relating to your claim, without regard to whether such information was submitted or considered in the initial benefit determination. The review will not afford any deference to the initial adverse benefit determination and will be conducted by an individual who is neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual.

If the adverse benefit determination was based in whole or in part on a medical judgment, the individual conducting the review shall consult with a health care professional who has appropriate training and experience in the field of medicine involved in the medical judgment. This health care professional will be neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual. The Claims Administrator will provide the identities of any medical or vocational experts whose advice was obtained on behalf of the Plan in connection with the denial, without regard to whether the advice was relied upon in making the benefit determination.

Pre-Service Claims

In the case of a pre-service claim, the Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review within a reasonable period of time appropriate to the medical circumstances, but not later than 30 days after receipt of your request for review.

Post-Service Claims

In the case of a post-service claim, the Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review within a reasonable period of time, but not later than 60 days after receipt of your request for review.

Expedited Review for Urgent Care Claims

In the case of a claim involving urgent care, you or your duly authorized representative may submit a request for an expedited internal appeal either in writing or orally. All necessary information for the review, including the Claims Administrator's determination, may be transmitted between the Claims Administrator and you by telephone, facsimile, or another similarly expeditious method. To proceed with an expedited internal appeal, you or your authorized representative must contact the Claims Administrator and provide at least the following information:

- Your name;
- The date(s) of the medical service;
- The specific medical condition or symptom;
- The provider's name
- The service or supply for which approval of benefits was sought; and

- Any reasons why the appeal should be processed on a more expedited basis.

The Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review as soon as possible, taking into account the medical exigencies, but not later than 72 hours after receipt of your request for review of an adverse benefit determination.

If the Claims Administrator Makes an Adverse Benefit Determination on Your Mandatory First-Level Internal Appeal

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination on a mandatory first-level internal appeal (this determination will constitute a “final adverse benefit determination”), it will notify you of the following, in a manner to be understood by you:

- Information sufficient to identify the claim involved and a statement describing the availability, upon request, of the diagnosis code and its corresponding meaning, and the treatment code and its corresponding meaning;
- The specific reason or reasons for the adverse benefit determination;
- The specific Plan provisions on which the adverse benefit determination is based;
- A statement that you are entitled to receive, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim;
- A statement describing any voluntary appeal procedures offered by the Plan and your right to obtain information about such procedures; and
- A statement indicating your right to file a lawsuit upon completion of the claims procedure process.
- To the extent required by applicable regulations, the availability of, and contact information for, an applicable office of health insurance consumer assistance or ombudsman who may assist you.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon an internal rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion in making the adverse determination, either the specific rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such rule, guideline, protocol, or other criterion will be provided free of charge to you upon request. If the Claims

Administrator relied upon medical necessity or experimental treatment or similar exclusion or limit in making the adverse determination, either an explanation of the scientific or clinical judgment for the determination (applying the terms of the Plan to your medical circumstances) will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such explanation will be provided free of charge to you upon request.

If the Claims Administrator denies an urgent care claim on review, the Claims Administrator may provide oral notice of its determination, then follow-up with a written or electronic confirmation within three days.

Second-Level Internal Appeal to the Claims Administrator

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination on a mandatory first-level internal appeal with respect to your pre- or post-service claim or a rescission of coverage, you or your duly authorized representative may request a review of such determination by the Claims Administrator by sending a written request for a second-level internal appeal to the Claims Administrator within 60 days of your receipt of the Claims Administrator’s notice of denial of your mandatory first-level internal appeal.

This second-level appeal is a voluntary appeal. That means you are not required to request a second-level internal appeal under the Plan before submitting a request for an independent external review. However, if you request a voluntary second-level internal appeal under the Plan, you must receive a determination on that appeal before requesting an independent external review.

The Plan waives any right to assert that you failed to exhaust administrative remedies because you did not request a voluntary second-level internal appeal. The Plan agrees that any statute of limitations or other defense based upon timeliness is tolled during the time that any properly initiated second-level voluntary internal appeal is pending. The Claims Administrator will, upon request, provide you with information relating to the voluntary second-level internal appeal to enable you to make an informed judgment about whether to request such an appeal. Your decision whether or not to request a voluntary second-level internal appeal under the Plan will have no effect on your right to any other benefits under the Plan.

Your request for review should be sent to the Claims Administrator at the address for the Claims Administrator set forth in the section entitled “General Program Information” found in the individual SPD section for the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

You may submit written comments, documents, records, and other information relating to your claim for benefits. Upon your written request, you will be provided, free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all relevant documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim.

Your written request should state why you think your claim should not have been denied. Your request also should include the name of your Employer, any denial letter you received and any additional documents, information or comments you think may have a bearing on your claim.

Upon receipt of your request, the Claims Administrator will conduct a review that takes into account all comments, documents, records, and other information submitted by you or your authorized representative relating to your claim, without regard to whether such information was submitted or considered in the initial benefit determination. The review will not afford any deference to the Claims Administrator’s denial of your claim on appeal and will be conducted by an individual who is neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual.

If the denial of your claim on appeal was based in whole or in part on a medical judgment, the Claims Administrator will consult with a health care professional who has appropriate training and experience in the field of medicine involved in the medical judgment. This health care professional consultant will be neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual. The Claims Administrator will provide the identities of any medical or vocational experts whose advice was obtained on behalf of the Plan in connection with your adverse benefit determination, without regard to whether the advice was relied upon in making the benefit determination.

Pre-Service Claims

In the case of a pre-service claim, the Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review within a reasonable period of time appropriate to the medical circumstances, but not later than 30 days after receipt of your request for review.

Post-Service Claims

In the case of a post-service claim, the Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review within a reasonable period of time, but not later than 60 days after receipt of your request for review.

If the Claims Administrator Makes an Adverse Benefit Determination on Your Second-Level Internal Appeal

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination on your second-level internal appeal, it will notify you of the following, in a manner to be understood by you:

- Information sufficient to identify the claim involved and a statement describing the availability, upon request, of the diagnosis code and its corresponding meaning, and the treatment code and its corresponding meaning;
- The specific reason or reasons for the adverse benefit determination;
- The specific Plan provisions on which the adverse benefit determination is based;
- A statement that you are entitled to receive, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim;
- A statement describing any additional voluntary appeal procedures offered by the Plan and your right to obtain information about such procedures;
- A description of available internal appeals and external review processes, including information about how to initiate an appeal;
- A statement indicating your right to bring a civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA following a final adverse benefit determination; and
- To the extent required by applicable regulations, the availability of, and contact information for, an applicable office of health insurance consumer assistance or ombudsman who may assist you.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon an internal rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion in making the adverse determination, either the specific rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion will be provided to you free of charge, or you will be informed that such rule, guideline, protocol, or other criterion will be provided free of charge to you upon request.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon medical necessity or experimental treatment or similar exclusion or limit in making the adverse determination, either an explanation of the scientific or clinical judgment for the determination (applying the terms of the Plan to your medical circumstances) will be provided to you free of charge, or you will be informed that such explanation will be provided to you free of charge upon request.

Voluntary External Review by Independent Review Organization

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination with respect to your initial claim, a rescission of coverage or your mandatory first-level internal appeal or second-level internal appeal, you may be entitled to obtain an independent external review pursuant to Federal law, as provided below. External review applies only to an adverse benefit determination (including a final internal adverse benefit determination) by the Claims Administrator that involves medical judgment or a rescission of coverage (whether or not the rescission has any effect on any particular benefit at that time). External review is not available in connection with an adverse benefit determination based upon a determination that you fail to meet the requirements for eligibility under the terms of the Plan. You do not need to pursue an external review in order to complete or exhaust the appeal procedure described above. Your decision to seek an independent external review will not affect your rights to any other benefits under the Plan. Any statute of limitations or other defense based upon timeliness is tolled during the time that any properly initiated independent external review is pending. There is no charge for you to initiate an independent external review. The external review decision is final and binding on all parties except for any relief available through ERISA.

Standard External Review

This section sets forth procedures for standard external review. Standard external review is external review that is not considered expedited (as described below).

If the Claims Administrator makes a final adverse benefit determination with respect to your mandatory first-level appeal or second-level appeal, as the case may be, or makes an adverse benefit determination under circumstances in which you are not required to exhaust the Plan's internal appeals process, you or your duly authorized representative may file a request for an external review under Federal law within four months of the date you received notice of an adverse benefit determination or final internal adverse benefit determination. Your request must be in writing, unless the Claims Administrator determines that it is not reasonable to require a written statement. You do not have to resubmit information that you submitted for your initial claim or internal appeal. However, you are encouraged to submit any additional information you believe is important for review.

Within five business days following the date your external review request is received, the Claims Administrator will complete a preliminary review of the request to determine whether:

- You are or were covered under the Plan at the time the health care item or service was requested or, in the case of a retrospective review, were covered under the Plan at the time the health care item or service was provided;
- The adverse benefit determination or the final adverse benefit determination involves medical judgment or a rescission of coverage and does not relate to your failure to meet the requirements for eligibility under the terms of the Plan;
- You have exhausted the Plan's internal appeal process, unless you are not required to exhaust such process under applicable federal regulations;
- You have provided all the information and forms required to process an external review.

Within one business day after completion of its preliminary review, the Claims Administrator will notify you in writing of the results of such review. If the request is complete, the Claims Administrator will assign an accredited independent review organization ("IRO") to conduct the external review.

The assigned IRO is required to notify you in writing of the request's eligibility and acceptance for external review. Within ten business days following the date of your receipt of such notice, you may submit in writing to the assigned IRO additional information that the IRO must consider when conducting the external review. The IRO is not required to, but may, accept and consider additional information submitted after ten business days.

Within five business days after the date of assignment of the IRO, the Plan must provide to the assigned IRO the documents and any information considered in making the adverse benefit determination or final internal adverse benefit determination. If the Plan fails to provide the documents and information on a timely basis, the assigned IRO may terminate the external review and make a decision to reverse the adverse benefit determination or final internal adverse benefit determination. The IRO will notify you and the Plan within one business day after making any such decision.

Upon receipt of any information submitted by you, the assigned IRO must within one business day forward the information to the Plan. Upon receipt of any such information, the Plan may reconsider its adverse benefit determination or final internal adverse benefit determination that is the subject of the external review. The external review may be terminated as a result of the reconsideration only if the Plan decides, upon completion of its reconsideration, to reverse its adverse benefit determination or final internal adverse benefit determination and provide coverage or payment. Within one business day after making such a decision, the Plan must provide written notice of its decision to you and to the assigned IRO. The assigned IRO is required to terminate the external review upon receipt of any such notice from the Plan.

The IRO is required to review all of the information and documents timely received. In reaching a decision, the assigned IRO will review the claim de novo and not be bound by any decisions or conclusions reached during the Plan's internal claims and appeals process. In addition to the documents and information provided, the assigned IRO, to the extent the information or documents are available and the IRO considers them appropriate, will consider the following in reaching a decision:

- Your medical records;

- The attending health care professional's recommendation;
- Reports from appropriate health care professionals and other documents
- The terms of the Plan, to ensure that the IRO's decision is not contrary to the terms of the Plan;
- Appropriate practice guidelines, which must include applicable evidence-based standards and may include any other practice guidelines developed by the Federal government, national or professional medical societies, boards and associations;
- Any applicable clinical review criteria developed and used by the Plan, unless the criteria are inconsistent with the terms of the Plan or with applicable law;
- The opinion of the IRO's clinical reviewer or reviewers after considering the information above and applicable Federal guidance, to the extent the information or documents are available and the clinical reviewer or reviewers consider such information or documents appropriate.

The assigned IRO is required to provide written notice of the final external review decision within 45 days after it receives the request for the external review. The IRO must deliver the notice of final external review decision to you and to the Plan.

The assigned IRO's decision notice on external review will contain:

- A general description of the reason for the request for external review, including information sufficient to identify the claim;
- The date the IRO received the assignment to conduct the external review and the date of the IRO decision;
- References to the evidence or documentation, including the specific coverage provisions and evidence-based standards, considered in reaching its decision;
- A discussion of the principal reason or reasons for its decision, including the rationale for its decision and any evidence-based standards that were relied on in making its decision;
- A statement that the determination is binding except to the extent that other remedies may be available under State or Federal law to either the Plan or to you;

- A statement that judicial review may be available to you; and
- Current contact information, including phone number, for any applicable office of health insurance consumer assistance or ombudsman.

Expedited External Review

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination with respect to your initial claim, and your claim is an urgent care claim or a concurrent care claim, you may proceed with an expedited external review without filing an internal appeal or while simultaneously pursuing an expedited appeal through the Plan's internal appeal process.

You or your duly authorized representative may request an expedited external review orally or in writing. All necessary information for the review, including the Claims Administrator's determination, may be transmitted between the Claims Administrator and you by telephone, facsimile, or another similarly expeditious method. To proceed with an expedited external review, you or your authorized representative must contact the Claims Administrator and provide at least the following information:

- Your name;
- The date(s) of the medical service;
- The specific medical condition or symptom;
- The provider's name
- The service or supply for which approval of benefits was sought; and
- Any reasons why the appeal should be processed on a more expedited basis.

Upon receipt of your request for expedited external review, the Claims Administrator will determine whether the request meets the reviewability requirements set forth above for standard external review. The Claims Administrator will notify you in writing of the results of such review.

If the Claims Administrator determines that your request is eligible for external review, the Claims Administrator will assign an IRO to conduct the review.

The assigned IRO, to the extent the information or documents are available and the IRO considers them appropriate, will consider the information or documents described above under the procedures for standard external review. In reaching a decision, the assigned IRO will review your claim de novo and is not bound by any decisions or conclusions reached during the Plan's internal claims and appeals process.

The IRO is required to notify you of the final external review decision as expeditiously as your medical condition or circumstances require, but in no event more than 72 hours after the IRO receives your request for an expedited external review. If the notice is not in writing, within 48 hours after the date of providing that notice, the assigned IRO is required to provide written confirmation of the decision to you and to the Plan.

Limitation of Actions and Venue

No lawsuit or legal action of any kind regarding a claim for benefits under the Plan may be commenced unless the claims procedure process for internal appeals (but not including any voluntary appeal) has been exhausted. In addition, in no event may any lawsuit or other legal action regarding a claim for benefits be commenced later than three years after the date such claim was incurred or the date when the rescission of coverage occurred, as the case may be. A claim for benefits is incurred when the services giving rise to the claim were rendered.

Any suit, action or proceeding seeking to enforce any provision of, or based on any matter arising out of or in connection with, the Plan shall be brought in any court of the State of Indiana or in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Indiana.

Claim Determination and Appeal Process – Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan

The claim determination and appeal process described below applies to the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan. The term "Plan," as used in this section, refers to the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, and the term "Claims Administrator" refers to the applicable claims administrator appointed for the Plan. (Note that there may be more than one claims administrator for the Plan.)

The type of claim that you make determines the time frame under which the Claims Administrator will make a determination regarding your claim. There are four different categories of claims, and each is subject to different time frames for notifying you of the Claims Administrator's determination.

Please Note: The Outbreak Period (defined above) will be disregarded in determining the period within which individuals may file a benefit claim or an appeal of an adverse benefit determination under the claims procedures described below.

An "adverse benefit determination" is a denial, reduction, or termination of, or a failure to provide or make payment (in whole or in part) for, a benefit, including any such denial, reduction, termination, or failure to provide or make payment that is based on a determination of your eligibility to participate in a plan, and including a denial, reduction, or termination of, or a failure to provide or make payment (in whole or in part) for, a benefit resulting from the application of any utilization review, as well as a failure to cover an item or service for which benefits are otherwise provided because it is determined to be experimental or investigational or not medically necessary or appropriate.

The Plan Administrator or its designee may decide claims (i) that call for a determination of whether you meet the requirements for eligibility under the Plan, which determination may result in a denial, reduction, termination or failure to provide payment for a benefit, or (ii) for which a Claims Administrator has not been delegated authority, or has not assumed authority, to decide. The Plan Administrator has delegated to the Company's Benefits Department authority to make these determinations. Solely with respect to claims involving a determination of your eligibility under the Plan or a matter for which the Claims Administrator has not been delegated, or has not assumed, authority to decide, the term "Claims Administrator" used below shall refer to the Plan Administrator or its designee. Any claim relating to (i) whether you meet the requirements for eligibility under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, or (ii) a matter for which the Claims Administrator has not been delegated, or has not assumed, authority to decide should be submitted in writing to the Benefits Department of the Company at the address for the Plan Administrator set forth in the General Program

Consideration of Initial Claim

Pre-Service Claim (Not Involving Urgent Care)

Generally, a "pre-service claim" is any claim involving a benefit where the Plan requires approval of the benefit in advance of obtaining medical care.

If you submit a pre-service claim properly with all necessary information, the Claims Administrator will decide your claim within a reasonable period of time appropriate to the medical circumstances (but not later than 15 days from the date the claim is received). The Claims Administrator may obtain a one-time extension (not longer than 15 days) for matters beyond its control if, prior to expiration of the initial 15-day period, the Claims Administrator notifies you of the circumstances requiring the extension and the date by which the Claims Administrator expects to render a decision.

If you file a pre-service claim but do not provide sufficient information for the Claims Administrator to make a determination, you will be notified within five days after your pre-service claim is received of the specific information necessary to complete the claim. Once you receive this notice, you then have 45 days to provide any needed information.

Post-Service Claims

Generally, a "post-service claim" is any claim that is not an urgent care claim, a pre-service claim or a concurrent care claim.

If you submit a post-service claim, you will receive a written notice of the Claims Administrator's determination within 30 days of the day the Claims Administrator receives your claim (as long as you provide all necessary information). The Claims Administrator may obtain a one-time extension (not longer than 15 days) for matters beyond its control if, prior to the expiration of the initial 30-day period, the Claims Administrator notifies you of the circumstances requiring the extension and the date by which the Claims Administrator expects to render a decision.

If additional information is needed to process your post-service claim, you will be notified within the 30-day period and the notice will specify the required information. Once you receive notice, you then have 45 days to provide any needed information.

Urgent Care Claims

Generally, an “urgent care claim” is any claim that must be processed on an expedited basis because a delay in processing could seriously jeopardize the life or health of the patient, jeopardize the patient's ability to regain maximum function, or, in the opinion of the patient's doctor, with knowledge of the patient's medical condition, a delay would subject the patient to severe pain that cannot be adequately managed without the care or treatment that is the subject of the claim.

Unless you have failed to provide sufficient information to permit a determination of whether, or to what extent, benefits are covered or payable under the Plan, you will receive notice of the benefit determination (in writing or electronically) within 72 hours after the Claims Administrator receives your urgent care claim. The Claims Administrator will take into account the seriousness of your condition. The Claims Administrator may provide an oral notice of its determination, and then follow up with a written or electronic confirmation within three days.

If you file an urgent care claim but have not provided sufficient information to permit a determination of whether, or to what extent, benefits are covered or payable under the Plan, you will be notified of the specific information needed to complete the claim within 24 hours after the Claims Administrator receives your urgent care claim. Once you receive this notice, you then have 48 hours to provide the requested information.

If you are asked to provide specific information to complete your urgent care claim, you will receive a notice of the Claims Administrator's determination no later than 48 hours after the earlier of:

- The Claims Administrator's receipt of the specified information; or
- The end of the period that you have to provide the specified additional information.

Concurrent Care Claims

Generally, a “concurrent care claim” is any claim involving (i) a decision to reduce or terminate an ongoing course of treatment to be provided over a period of time or number of treatments, or (ii) your request to extend a course of treatment beyond the period of time or number of treatments that has been approved.

The Claims Administrator may approve (for a specific period of time or number of treatments), reduce, or terminate an ongoing course of treatment. Any reduction or termination of ongoing treatments is an adverse benefit determination. The Claims Administrator must notify you within a reasonable time period prior to the reduction or termination of services.

If you request to extend the treatment and your request is an urgent care claim (as defined above), the Claims Administrator will decide your request within 24 hours after it receives your request. You must make your request at least 24 hours before the end of your approved treatment.

If your request to extend ongoing treatment is not an urgent care claim, the Claims Administrator will treat your claim as either a pre-service or post-service claim (as applicable) and will consider the claim according to the post-service or pre-service time frames, whichever applies.

If the Claims Administrator Makes an Adverse Benefit Determination Regarding an Initial Claim

If you receive a notice of adverse benefit determination, the notice will:

- Explain the reasons for the adverse benefit determination;
- Describe any additional material or information necessary for you to complete your claim and explain why the material or information is necessary;
- Refer you to the part of the Plan upon which the denial is based;
- Describe the Plan's review procedures and the time limits applicable to such procedures, including a statement of your right to bring a civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA following an adverse benefit determination on all appeals; and
- In the case of an urgent care claim, describe the expedited review process applicable to such claims.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon an internal rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion in making the adverse benefit determination, either the specific rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such rule, guideline, protocol, or other criterion will be provided free of charge to you upon request. If the Claims Administrator relied upon medical necessity or experimental treatment or similar exclusion or limit in making the adverse benefit determination, either an explanation of the scientific or clinical judgment for the determination (applying the terms of the Plan to your medical circumstances) will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such explanation will be provided free of charge to you upon request.

If the Claims Administrator denies an urgent care claim, the Claims Administrator will provide a description of the expedited review process for urgent care claims (as set forth below). The Claims Administrator may provide an oral notice of its determination, then follow-up with a written or electronic confirmation within three days.

First-Level Appeal to Claims Administrator

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination regarding an initial claim, you have the right to appeal the decision by sending a written request for review to the Claims Administrator within 180 days of your receipt of the adverse benefit determination.

Your request for review should be sent to the Claims Administrator for the Plan at the address for the Claims Administrator set forth in the section entitled "General Program Information" found in the individual SPD section for the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

You may submit written comments, documents, records, and other information relating to your claim for benefits. Upon your request, you will be provided, free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim.

Your written request should state why you think your claim should not have been denied. Your request also should include your name, the covered person's name and date of birth, the name of the provider of services, the name of your Employer, any denial letter you received, the claim number and any additional documents, information or comments you think may have a bearing on your claim.

Upon receipt of your request, the Claims Administrator will conduct a review that takes into account all comments, documents, records, and other information submitted by you or your authorized representative relating to your claim, without regard to whether such information was submitted or considered in the initial benefit determination. The review will not afford any deference to the initial adverse benefit determination and will be conducted by an individual who is neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual.

If the denial was based in whole or in part on a medical judgment, the individual conducting the review shall consult with a health care professional who has appropriate training and experience in the field of medicine involved in the medical judgment. This health care professional will be neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual. Upon request, the Claims Administrator will provide the identities of any medical or vocational experts whose advice was obtained on behalf of the Plan in connection with the denial, without regard to whether the advice was relied upon in making the benefit determination.

Pre-Service Claims

In the case of a pre-service claim, the Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review within a reasonable period of time appropriate to the medical circumstances, but not later than 15 days after receipt of your request for review.

Post-Service Claims

In the case of a post-service claim, the Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review within a reasonable period of time, but not later than 30 days after receipt of your request for review.

Expedited Review for Urgent Care Claims

In the case of a claim involving urgent care, you may submit a request for an expedited appeal either in writing or orally. All necessary information for the review, including the determination on review, will be transmitted between the Claims Administrator and you by telephone, facsimile, or another similarly expeditious method. To proceed with an expedited internal appeal, you or your authorized representative must contact the Claims Administrator and provide at least the following information:

- Your name;
- The date(s) of the medical service;
- The specific medical condition or symptom;
- The provider's name
- The service or supply for which approval of benefits was sought; and
- Any reasons why the appeal should be processed on a more expedited basis.

You will be notified of the determination on review as soon as possible, taking into account the medical exigencies, but not later than 72 hours after receipt of your request for review of an adverse benefit determination.

If the Claims Administrator Makes an Adverse Benefit Determination on Your First-Level Appeal

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination on your first-level appeal, it will notify you of the following, in a manner to be understood by you:

- The specific reason or reasons for the adverse benefit determination;
- Reference to the specific Plan provisions on which the adverse benefit determination is based;
- A statement that you are entitled to receive, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim;
- A statement describing any voluntary appeal procedures offered by the Plan and your right to obtain information about such procedures; and
- A statement indicating your right to bring a civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA following an adverse benefit determination on all appeals.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon an internal rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion in making the adverse benefit determination, either the specific rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such rule, guideline, protocol, or other criterion will be provided free of charge to you upon request. If the Claims Administrator relied upon medical necessity or experimental treatment or similar exclusion or limit in making the adverse benefit determination, either an explanation of the scientific or clinical judgment for the determination (applying the terms of the Plan to your medical circumstances) will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such explanation will be provided free of charge to you upon request.

If the Claims Administrator denies an urgent care claim on review, the Claims Administrator may provide oral notice of its determination, then follow-up with a written or electronic confirmation within three days.

Second-Level Appeal for Pre-and Post-Service Claims

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination with respect to your pre- or post-service claim on appeal, you or your duly authorized representative may request a review of such determination by the Claims Administrator by sending a written request for review within 60 days of your receipt of the Claims Administrator's notice of adverse benefit determination.

Your request for review should be sent to the Claims Administrator for the Plan at the address for the Claims Administrator set forth in the section entitled "General Program Information" found in the individual SPD section for the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

You may submit written comments, documents, records, and other information relating to your claim for benefits. Upon your written request, you will be provided, free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all relevant documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim.

Your written request should state why you think your claim should not have been denied. Your request also should include your name, the covered person's name and date of birth, the name of the provider of services, the name of your Employer, any denial letter you received, the claim number and any additional documents, information or comments you think may have a bearing on your claim.

Upon receipt of your request, the Claims Administrator will conduct a review that takes into account all comments, documents, records, and other information submitted by you or your authorized representative relating to your claim, without regard to whether such information was submitted or considered in the initial benefit determination. The review will not afford any deference to the Claims Administrator's denial of your claim on appeal and will be conducted by an individual who is neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual.

If the denial was based in whole or in part on a medical judgment, the Claims Administrator will consult with a health care professional who has appropriate training and experience in the field of medicine involved in the medical judgment. This health care professional consultant will be neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual. Upon request, the Claims Administrator will provide the identities of any medical or vocational experts whose advice was obtained on behalf of the Plan in connection with your adverse benefit determination, without regard to whether the advice was relied upon in making the benefit determination.

Pre-Service Claims

In the case of a pre-service claim, you will be notified of the determination on review within a reasonable period of time appropriate to the medical circumstances, but not later than 15 days after receipt of your request for review.

Post-Service Claims

In the case of a post-service claim, you will be notified of the determination on review within a reasonable period of time, but not later than 30 days after receipt of your request for review.

If the Claims Administrator Makes an Adverse Benefit Determination on Your Second-Level Appeal

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination on your second-level appeal, it will notify you of the following, in a manner to be understood by you:

- The specific reason or reasons for the adverse benefit determination;

- Reference to the specific Plan provisions on which the benefit determination is based;
- A statement that you are entitled to receive, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim;
- A statement describing any voluntary appeal procedures offered by the Plan and your right to obtain information about such procedures; and
- A statement indicating your right to bring a civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA following an adverse benefit determination on all appeals.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon an internal rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion in making the adverse benefit determination, either the specific rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion will be provided to you free of charge, or you will be informed that such rule, guideline, protocol, or other criterion will be provided free of charge to you upon request.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon medical necessity or experimental treatment or similar exclusion or limit in making the adverse benefit determination, either an explanation of the scientific or clinical judgment for the determination (applying the terms of the Plan to your medical circumstances) will be provided to you free of charge, or you will be informed that such explanation will be provided to you free of charge upon request.

Limitation of Actions and Venue

No lawsuit or legal action of any kind regarding a claim for benefits under the Plan may be commenced unless the claims procedure process has been exhausted. In addition, in no event may any lawsuit or other legal action regarding a claim for benefits be commenced later than three years after the date such claim was incurred. A claim for benefits is incurred when the services giving rise to the claim were rendered.

Any suit, action or proceeding seeking to enforce any provision of, or based on any matter arising out of or in connection with, the Plan shall be brought in any court of the State of Indiana or in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Indiana.

Claim Determination and Appeal Process – Retiree Life Insurance Plan

The claim determination and appeal process described below applies to the Retiree Life Insurance Plan. As used in this section, (i) the term “Claims Administrator” refers to Securian, (ii) a “claim for disability benefits” means a claim for accidental dismemberment benefits or for a waiver of premium, (iii) the term “adverse benefit determination” means a denial, reduction, or termination of, or a failure to provide or make payment (in whole or in part) for, a benefit, including any such denial, reduction, termination, or failure to provide or make payment that is based on a determination of a claimant’s eligibility to participate in a plan and, with respect to a claim for disability benefits, also means a rescission of disability coverage with respect to a claimant (regardless of whether, in connection with the rescission, there is an adverse effect on any particular benefit at that time), and (iv) the term “rescission,” with respect to a claim for disability benefits, means a cancellation or discontinuance of coverage that has retroactive effect, except to the extent it is attributable to a failure to timely pay required premiums or contributions toward the cost of coverage.

Please Note: The Outbreak Period (defined above) will be disregarded in determining the period within which individuals may file a benefit claim or an appeal of an adverse benefit determination under the claims procedures described below.

Consideration of Initial Claim

The Claims Administrator shall notify you of an adverse benefit determination within a reasonable period of time, but not later than 90 days after the receipt of your claim. This period may be extended by 90 days if such an extension is necessary due to matters beyond the control of the Plan. A written notice of the extension, the reason for the extension and the date by which the Plan expects to decide your claim, shall be furnished to you within the initial 90-day period.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, with respect to a claim for disability benefits, the Claims Administrator shall notify you of an adverse benefit determination within a reasonable period of time, but not later than 45 days after the receipt of your claim. This period may be extended for up to 30 days for matters beyond the control of the Plan if, prior to the expiration of the initial 45-day period, the Claims Administrator notifies you of the circumstances requiring the extension and the date by which the Claims Administrator expects to render a decision. If, prior to the end of the first 30-day extension period, the Claims Administrator determines that, due to matters beyond the control of the Plan, a decision cannot be rendered within that extension period, the period for making the determination may be extended for up to an additional 30 days, provided the Claims Administrator notifies you, prior to the expiration of the first 30-day extension period, of the circumstances requiring the extension and the date as of which the Claim Administrator expects to render its decision. In the case of any extension under this paragraph, the notice of extension shall specifically explain the standards on which entitlement to a benefit is based, the unresolved issues that prevent a decision on the claim and the additional information needed to resolve those issues, and you shall be afforded at least 45 days within which to provide the specified information. However, if a period of time is extended due to your failure to submit information necessary to decide the claim, the period for making the benefit determination by the Claims Administrator will be tolled (i.e., suspended) from the date on which the notification of the extension is sent to you until the date on which you respond to the request for additional information.

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination with respect to your claim, you or your authorized representative will receive a written notice from the Claims Administrator of the adverse benefit determination. The notice will be written in a manner calculated to be understood by you and shall include:

- the specific reason(s) for the adverse benefit determination,
- references to the specific Plan provisions on which the adverse benefit determination was based,
- a description of any additional material or information necessary for you to perfect a claim and an explanation of why such information is necessary, and

- a description of the Claims Administrator's appeals procedures and applicable time limits, including a statement of your right to bring a civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA following an adverse benefit determination on appeal.

In addition, in the case of an adverse benefit determination with respect to a claim for disability benefits, the notice shall include:

- a discussion of the decision, including an explanation of the basis for disagreeing with or not following: (A) the views that you presented to the Plan of health care professionals treating you and of vocational professionals who evaluated you; (B) the views of medical or vocational experts whose advice was obtained on behalf of the Plan in connection with your adverse benefit determination, without regard to whether the advice was relied upon in making the benefit determination; and (C) a disability determination regarding you that was made by the Social Security Administration and that you presented to the Plan,
- either the specific internal rules, guidelines, protocols, standards or other similar criteria of the Plan relied upon in making the adverse benefit determination or, alternatively, a statement that such rules, guidelines, protocols, standards or other similar criteria of the Plan do not exist, and
- a statement that you are entitled to receive, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim for benefits.

Appeal to the Claims Administrator

If an adverse benefit determination is made with respect to your claim for benefits or if you do not receive a response to your claim within the appropriate time frame (in which case the claim for benefits is deemed to have been denied), you or your representative may appeal the adverse benefit determination in writing to the Claims Administrator within 60 days (180 days in the case of a claim for disability benefits) of the receipt of the written adverse benefit determination or from the date such claim is deemed denied. You may submit with your appeal any written comments, documents, records and any other information relating to your claim. Upon your request, and free of charge, you will also have access to, and the right to obtain copies of, all documents, records and information relevant to your claim.

A full review of the information in the claim file and any new information submitted to support the appeal will be conducted by the Claims Administrator, utilizing individuals who were not involved in the initial benefit determination and who are not the subordinates of such individuals. This review will not afford any deference to the initial benefit determination.

In connection with a claim for disability benefits, if the adverse benefit determination was based in whole or in part on a medical judgment, the Claims Administrator shall consult with a health care professional who has appropriate training and experience in the field of medicine involved in the medical judgment. This health care professional shall be neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of the appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual. The Claims Administrator shall provide to you upon request the identities of any medical or vocational experts whose advice was obtained on behalf of the Plan in connection with your adverse benefit determination, without regard to whether the advice was relied upon in making the benefit determination.

In connection with a claim for disability benefits, the Claims Administrator will provide you, free of charge, with any new or additional evidence considered, relied upon, or generated by the Plan (or at the direction of the Plan) in connection with the claim. Such evidence will be provided in advance of the date on which a notice of an adverse benefit determination is required to be provided. In addition, before you receive an adverse benefit determination on review based upon a new or additional rationale, the Claims Administrator will provide to you, free of charge, the rationale. The rationale will be provided in advance of the date on which a notice of the adverse benefit determination on review is required to be provided.

The Claims Administrator shall make a determination on your claim appeal within a reasonable period of time, but not later than 60 days (45 days in the case of a claim for disability benefits) after the receipt of your appeal request. This period may be extended by up to an additional 60 days (45 days in the case of a claim for disability benefits) if the Claims Administrator determines that special circumstances require an extension of time. A written notice of the extension, the reason for the extension and the date that the Claims Administrator expects to render a decision shall be furnished to you within the initial 60-day period (45-day period in the case of a claim for disability benefits). However, in the case of a claim for disability benefits, if the period of time is extended due to your failure to submit information necessary to decide the appeal, the period for making the benefit determination will be tolled (i.e., suspended) from the date on which the notification of the extension is sent to you until the date on which you respond to the request for additional information.

If an adverse benefit determination is made with respect to your claim on appeal you will receive a written notification from the Claims Administrator of the adverse benefit determination. The notice will be written in a manner calculated to be understood by you and shall include:

- the specific reason(s) for the adverse benefit determination,
- references to the specific Plan provisions on which the adverse benefit determination was based,
- a statement that you are entitled to receive, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and to make copies of, all records, documents and other information relevant to your benefit claim,
- a statement describing any voluntary appeals procedures offered by the Plan, and your right to obtain information about such procedures, and
- a statement of your right to bring a civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA following completion of the appeals process.

In addition, in the case of an adverse benefit determination with respect to a claim for disability benefits, the notice shall include:

- a discussion of the decision, including an explanation of the basis for disagreeing with or not following: (A) the views that you presented to the Plan of health care professionals treating you and of vocational professionals who evaluated you; (B) the views of medical or vocational experts whose advice was obtained on behalf of the Plan in connection with your adverse benefit determination, without regard to whether the advice was relied upon in making the benefit determination; and (C) a disability determination regarding you that was made by the Social Security Administration and that you presented to the Plan;

- either the specific internal rules, guidelines, protocols, standards or other similar criteria of the Plan relied upon in making the adverse determination or, alternatively, a statement that such rules, guidelines, protocols, standards or other similar criteria of the Plan do not exist; and
- a statement indicating (A) that any civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA must be brought not later than three years after the date such claim was incurred, and (B) the calendar date upon which such limitations period expires.

If a decision on appeal is not furnished to you within the time frames mentioned above, the claim shall be deemed denied on appeal.

Discretion and Authority of Claims Administrator

The Claims Administrator has the sole discretion to interpret the terms of the benefits provisions of the Plan, to make factual findings, and to determine eligibility for benefits. A benefits-related decision of the Claims Administrator shall not be overturned unless arbitrary and capricious. Benefits under the Plan shall be paid only if the Claims Administrator decides in its discretion that the applicant is entitled to them.

The Claims Administrator has the right to recover any overpayments for whatever reason, including due to (i) fraud and (ii) any error the Claims Administrator makes in processing a claim. You must reimburse the Claims Administrator in full for any overpayments. The Claims Administrator will determine the method by which the repayment is to be made. The Claims Administrator will not recover more money than the amount it paid you.

Limitation of Actions and Venue

No lawsuit or legal action of any kind regarding a claim for benefits under the Plan may be commenced unless the claims procedure process for internal appeals (but not including any voluntary appeal) has been exhausted. In addition, in no event may any lawsuit or other legal action regarding a claim for benefits be commenced later than three years after the end of the period within which proof of claim is required, unless otherwise provided under Federal law.

Any suit, action or proceeding seeking to enforce any provision of, or based on any matter arising out of or in connection with, the Plan shall be brought in any court of the State of Indiana or in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Indiana.

Continuation of Coverage

COBRA

This subsection contains important information about your right to COBRA continuation coverage, which is a temporary extension of coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan (each of the foregoing a “Plan” for purposes of this COBRA section). This section generally explains COBRA continuation coverage, when it may become available to you and your family, and what you need to do to protect the right to receive it. For a discussion of special survivor coverage that may extend coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan beyond the maximum period of COBRA continuation coverage, see the section below entitled “Survivor Coverage.” COBRA continuation coverage does not apply to EAP/Work Life/Legal & Financial.

In the event you are eligible for COBRA continuation coverage, there may be other coverage options for you and your family as well. With the advent of health care reform, you may be able to buy coverage through the Health Insurance Marketplace. In the Marketplace, you could be eligible for a new kind of tax credit that lowers your monthly premiums right away, and you can see what your premium, deductibles, and out-of-pocket costs will be before you make a decision to enroll. Being eligible (but not enrolled) for COBRA continuation coverage does not limit your eligibility for coverage for a tax credit through the Marketplace. Additionally, you may qualify for a special enrollment opportunity for another group health plan for which you are eligible (such as a spouse’s plan), even if the plan generally does not accept late enrollees, if you request enrollment within 30 days.

Please Note: Notwithstanding the timeframes described below, you may disregard the Outbreak Period in determining (i) the 60-day election period for COBRA continuation coverage, and (ii) the date for making COBRA premium payments.

What Is COBRA Continuation Coverage?

COBRA continuation coverage is a continuation of Plan coverage when coverage would otherwise end because of a life event known as a “qualifying event.” Specific qualifying events are listed later in this subsection. After a qualifying event, COBRA continuation coverage must be offered to each person who is a “qualified beneficiary.” You, your spouse (if he or she is treated as a spouse under the Internal Revenue Code), and your dependent children could become qualified beneficiaries on account of coverage under a Plan if coverage under such Plan is lost because of a qualifying event. Under each Plan, qualified beneficiaries who elect COBRA continuation coverage must pay for the cost of such coverage. The cost of coverage is up to 102 percent of the total premium rate (a two percent administrative cost is added to the actual cost of the coverage). If you are entitled to extended coverage by reason of a disability (as described below), you may be required to pay up to 150 percent of the full cost of the coverage. These costs are subject to change.

You must elect COBRA during your COBRA election period. Your COBRA election period begins on the date of your qualifying event and ends on the date that is 60 days after the later of (i) the date coverage would have stopped due to the qualifying event, or (ii) the date the qualified beneficiary is sent notice of the right to continue coverage under COBRA.

You will have 45 days from the date of your coverage election to submit your first premium payment. This premium payment will include all premiums prior to your election for the period of COBRA continuation coverage. After your initial premium payment is remitted, you or your dependents will be billed monthly for the elected coverage. If payment is not received within 45 days of the monthly due date, COBRA coverage will be cancelled.

Your spouse will become a qualified beneficiary on account of coverage under a Plan if he or she loses coverage under such Plan because any of the following qualifying events happens:

- You die;
- You become entitled to Medicare benefits (under Part A, Part B, or both); or

- You become divorced or legally separated from your spouse.

Your dependent children will become qualified beneficiaries on account of coverage under a Plan if they lose coverage under such Plan because any of the following qualifying events happens:

- You die;
- You become entitled to Medicare benefits (Part A, Part B, or both);
- You become divorced or legally separated; or
- Your child stops being eligible for coverage under the Plan as a “dependent child.”

With respect to coverage under a Plan for Retirees, sometimes the filing a proceeding in bankruptcy under Title 11 of the United States Code can be a qualifying event. If a proceeding in bankruptcy is filed with respect to NiSource or one of its affiliates, and that bankruptcy results in your loss of coverage under the Plan, you will become a qualified beneficiary with respect to the bankruptcy. Your spouse, surviving spouse, and dependent children will also become qualified beneficiaries if they were covered under the Plan on the day immediately preceding the commencement of the bankruptcy proceeding and the proceeding resulted in their loss of coverage.

When Is COBRA Continuation Coverage Available?

Each Plan will offer COBRA continuation coverage to qualified beneficiaries only after the Plan Administrator has been notified that a qualifying event has occurred. When the qualifying event is your death, the commencement of a proceeding in bankruptcy with respect to your Employer (in the case of loss of retiree coverage), or your becoming entitled to Medicare benefits (under Part A, Part B, or both), your Employer must notify the Plan Administrator of the qualifying event.

Notice of Some Qualifying Events

For some qualifying events (divorce or legal separation or a dependent child’s losing eligibility for coverage as a dependent child), you must notify the Plan Administrator within 60 days after the latest of (i) the date qualifying event occurs, or (ii) the date on which the dependent loses (or would lose coverage) as a result of the qualifying event. This notice must be provided to the Benefits Source by calling the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320, or in the case of a notice of divorce or legal separation, by visiting the website mysourceforhr.com.

Any such notice must provide the date of divorce or legal separation or the date a dependent child lost eligibility for coverage, as the case may be, and must indicate that the notice is being provided for purposes of obtaining COBRA continuation coverage. If notice is not provided within the 60-day period, you and your dependent will not be eligible for COBRA continuation coverage.

How Is COBRA Continuation Coverage Provided?

Once the Plan Administrator receives notice that a qualifying event has occurred, COBRA continuation coverage will be offered to each of the qualified beneficiaries. Each qualified beneficiary will have an independent right to elect COBRA continuation coverage. You may elect COBRA continuation coverage on behalf of your spouse, and parents may elect COBRA continuation coverage on behalf of their children.

COBRA continuation coverage is a temporary continuation of coverage. When the qualifying event is your death, your becoming entitled to Medicare benefits (under Part A, Part B, or both), your divorce or legal separation, or a dependent child losing eligibility as a dependent child, COBRA continuation coverage lasts for up to a total of 36 months.

When the qualifying event is an employer’s bankruptcy, COBRA continuation coverage for you ends upon your death and coverage for a qualified beneficiary who is your spouse or dependent child ends on the earlier of the date of the qualified beneficiary’s death or three years after your death.

COBRA Continuation Coverage Ends

In addition to the maximum coverage durations set forth above, COBRA continuation coverage for a qualified beneficiary will end on the earliest to occur of the following:

- The date such qualified beneficiary first becomes entitled to benefits under Medicare.
- The date on which all employers participating in a Plan cease to provide any group health plan or coverage to any employee.

- If you fail to make a required contribution (coverage will end at the end of the period for which the last contribution was made).
- The date such qualified beneficiary first becomes covered under any other group health plan that does not contain any exclusion or limitation with respect to any pre-existing condition, other than a pre-existing condition that does not apply to (or is satisfied by) the qualified beneficiary pursuant to applicable law. Please see the “Coordination with HIPAA and Affordable Care Act” provisions set forth below for additional information.

Coordination with HIPAA and Affordable Care Act

Under COBRA, your rights to continue coverage terminate if you become covered by another employer’s group health plan that does not limit or exclude coverage for your pre-existing conditions. If you become covered by another group health plan and that plan contains a pre-existing condition limitation that affects you, your COBRA continuation coverage cannot be terminated before the maximum coverage period. HIPAA and the Affordable Care Act limit the extent to which certain group health plans can impose pre-existing condition exclusions. Thus, if another plan’s pre-existing condition exclusion cannot apply to you because of HIPAA or the Affordable Care Act, your entitlement to COBRA continuation coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan will terminate before the maximum coverage period.

Questions

Questions concerning the Plans or your COBRA continuation coverage rights should be addressed to the contact identified below. For more information about rights under ERISA, including COBRA, HIPAA, and other laws affecting group health plans, contact the nearest Regional or District Office of the U.S. Department of Labor’s Employee Benefits Security Administration (“EBSA”) in your area or visit the EBSA website at dol.gov/ebsa (addresses and phone numbers of Regional and District Offices are available through EBSA’s website).

If you have questions about enrolling in COBRA, contact the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

Notification of Address Changes

In order to protect your family’s rights, you should keep the Plan Administrator informed of any changes in the addresses of family members. If your home address changes while on COBRA, contact the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

You should also keep a copy, for your records, of any notices you send to the Plan Administrator.

Survivor Coverage

In the event of a covered Retiree’s death within 30 days preceding, or at any time on or after, May 1, 2010, if COBRA continuation coverage under a Retiree Medical Plan has been elected and has not terminated prior to the maximum continuation coverage period (36 months) for such Retiree’s surviving dependents who are covered under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan on the date of that Retiree’s death, then coverage for such dependents may continue beyond such 36-month period until the earlier of (i) the date the Retiree’s surviving spouse dies, (ii) the last day of the month in which the Retiree’s surviving spouse remarries or enters into a domestic partnership or civil union with another person, (iii) the last date for which any required contribution was made, (iv) with respect to a dependent child, the last day of the month in which the child no longer qualifies as a dependent, (v) with respect to any dependent covered under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, the date such dependent reaches age 65, and (vi) the date the Employer from whom the Retiree retired from employment ceases to be a “related employer,” as defined in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

If medical coverage under the NiSource Consolidated Flex Medical Plan ends for an active employee’s dependent because of such employee’s death within thirty days preceding, or at any time on or after May 1, 2010, and if such employee would have satisfied the conditions for being a Retiree had he or she retired from service with an Employer on the day immediately preceding his or her death, then solely for the purpose of COBRA continuation coverage and survivor coverage for any surviving dependents covered under the NiSource Consolidated Flex Medical Plan at the time of the employee’s death, the employee will be deemed to have (i) retired from service with an Employer on the day immediately preceding his or her death (the “Deemed Retirement Date”) and be a “Deemed Retiree”, (ii) enrolled in retiree medical coverage on the Deemed Retirement Date, and (iii) enrolled each such surviving dependent in coverage under either the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan (in the coverage option in which the dependent was enrolled immediately prior to the Deemed Retirement Date) or the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan (in an available coverage option selected by the dependent), as applicable. An eligible surviving dependent of a Deemed Retiree shall be entitled to survivor coverage in accordance with the terms and conditions described in the immediately preceding paragraph. An eligible surviving dependent of a Deemed Retiree who has not attained age 65 as of the Deemed Retirement Date will be entitled to survivor coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan. An eligible surviving dependent of a Deemed Retiree who has attained age 65 as of the Deemed Retirement Date will be entitled to survivor coverage under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

If survivor coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan will end for a surviving dependent solely on account of his or her attaining age 65, such dependent may continue survivor coverage under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan by enrolling in such Plan and by selecting an available post-65 retiree medical coverage option on or before attaining age 65. Such survivor coverage shall be subject to the terms and conditions set forth in the first paragraph of this section entitled "Survivor Coverage."

If a surviving dependent's COBRA continuation coverage has terminated for any reason prior to the expiration of the maximum COBRA continuation coverage period or if survivor coverage provided beyond the maximum COBRA continuation coverage period is terminated for any reason, such dependent may not reenroll in coverage. Notwithstanding the preceding sentence, if coverage for a surviving dependent is terminated during a Plan Year for failure to pay required contributions for coverage, the dependent may apply to the NiSource Benefits Department during the same Plan Year to reinstate coverage retroactive to the date of termination. The dependent's application must be in writing and must describe the extenuating circumstances that resulted in his or her missed payment. The Benefits Department, in its sole and absolute discretion, will determine whether there are sufficient grounds for reinstating coverage. If the Benefits Department makes a favorable determination, the dependent must repay any missed premiums before the end of the Plan Year and before coverage will be reinstated.

Additional Information

Assignment of Benefits

Except as required by applicable law, none of your rights or interests under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan (for purposes of this section only, each a "Plan") and no benefit payable under a Plan shall in any manner be alienated, sold, assigned or transferred, or be subject to any lien, pledge or encumbrance, in whole or in part, either directly or by operation of law or otherwise, including without limitation by execution, levy, garnishment, attachment, pledge, or bankruptcy, nor will any benefit payable under a Plan be liable for, or subject to, any obligation or liability you may have. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, except as required by applicable law, you may not assign or transfer to any third party, including without limitation any person or institution providing medical care, treatment, services or supplies, the right to receive benefit payments under a Plan, or the right to pursue a claim, to appeal an adverse benefit determination or to maintain a cause of action under ERISA in respect of any benefit covered, alleged to be covered or denied under a Plan, and any such attempted assignment or transfer is void.

Nothing contained in a Plan or in this Handbook, nor any course of dealing, act or omission on the part of a Plan, its Plan Administrator or any Claim Administrator or other party, shall be construed to make a Plan liable to any third party to whom you may be liable for medical care, treatment, services or supplies. Although a Plan may, at your direction or otherwise, make payments directly to persons or institutions providing covered services under the Plan, such payment or direction does not constitute a transfer or assignment of benefits or of any other right or interest under the Plan, including without limitation any legal or equitable right to institute any court proceeding. Any such payments by a Plan shall constitute a complete discharge of the Plan's obligation to you. Under no circumstances will any person or institution providing medical care, treatment, services or supplies to you be deemed a participant or beneficiary under a Plan.

If you attempt to alienate, sell, transfer, assign, pledge or otherwise impede a benefit under a Plan or any part, or if by reason of your bankruptcy or other event happening at any time, a benefit devolves upon anyone else or would not be enjoyed by you, then upon becoming aware of such attempted alienation, sale, transfer, assignment or pledge, the Plan Administrator in its discretion, which will be exercised uniformly by treating individuals in similar circumstances alike, may terminate your interest in any such benefit and hold or apply it to or for your benefit or the benefit of your dependents, in a manner the Plan Administrator may deem proper.

Subrogation and Right of Recovery

An Other Party may be liable or legally responsible to pay expenses, compensation and/or damages in relation to a Sickness or Injury incurred by you or one of your covered dependents (a “covered person”).

An “Other Party” includes, but is not limited to, any of the following:

- The party or parties who caused the Sickness or Injury;
- The insurer or other indemnifier of the party or parties who caused the Sickness or Injury;
- A guarantor of the party or parties who caused the Sickness or Injury;
- The covered person’s own insurer (for example, in the case of uninsured or underinsured coverage, no-fault coverage or med-pay);
- A worker’s compensation insurer (including the covered person’s employer if worker’s compensation is self-insured);
- Any other person, entity, policy or plan that is liable or legally responsible in relation to the covered person’s Sickness or Injury.

Benefits may also be payable under the applicable Benefit Plan in relation to the Sickness or Injury. When this happens, the applicable Benefit Plan may, at its option:

- Subrogate, that is, take over the covered person’s right to receive payments from the Other Party. If so, the covered person or his or her legal representative must transfer to the applicable Benefit Plan any rights he or she may have to take legal action arising from the Sickness or Injury so that the applicable Benefit Plan may recover any sums paid under such Benefit Plan on behalf of the covered person;

- Recover from the covered person or his or her legal representative any benefits paid under the applicable Benefit Plan from any payment the covered person receives or is entitled to receive from the Other Party.

As a condition of participation in the applicable Benefit Plan, the covered person agrees, and will cause his or her legal representative to agree, to cooperate fully with the applicable Benefit Plan in asserting its subrogation and recovery rights. No covered person shall take any action to prejudice the applicable Benefit Plan’s subrogation and recovery rights. The covered person or his or her legal representative must, upon request from the applicable Benefit Plan, provide all information and sign and return all documents or agreements deemed necessary or desirable by the Benefit Plan for it to exercise its rights under this provision. Failure or refusal to execute such agreements or furnish information, to comply with the obligations under such agreements or to cooperate fully with the applicable Benefit Plan in asserting its subrogation and recovery rights does not preclude the Benefit Plan from exercising its right to subrogation or obtaining full reimbursement, and in such case, the Benefit Plan may cease paying benefits and reduce future benefits payable until full reimbursement is received.

The covered person shall provide notice to the applicable Benefit Plan within a reasonable time prior to the date that he or she expects to receive a payment from an Other Party. The covered person acknowledges that the applicable Benefit Plan has a right to intervene in any lawsuit involving an Other Party, and the covered person consents to the unfettered exercise of that right. The covered person further agrees that any funds received by him or her (or his or her legal representative) from any source for any purpose up to the amount of benefits paid under the applicable Benefit Plan shall be held separately and in trust with either the person receiving benefits (or his or her legal representative) as trustee and the applicable Benefit Plan as beneficiary, until such time as the obligation under this provision is fully satisfied. Accordingly, such covered person or legal representative shall be deemed a fiduciary of the applicable Benefit Plan to the extent of the Benefit Plan assets that are so held in trust.

A covered person and his or her legal representative shall place any and all funds recovered from an

Other Party in a separate reserve account under the control of the covered person and/or his or her legal representative. As a condition of participating in the applicable Benefit Plan, a covered person and his or her legal representative shall agree that any funds received from an Other Party rightfully and in good conscience belong to the applicable Benefit Plan, and that such funds shall be held in a constructive trust until distributed in accordance with this Subrogation and Right of Recovery provision.

The applicable Benefit Plan will have a first lien and priority right upon any recovery, whether by settlement, judgment, mediation, arbitration or otherwise, that the covered person (or his or her legal representative) receives or is entitled to receive from any source whatsoever, including without limitation any of the sources listed above. Such lien and priority right shall extend to the first proceeds of any such recovery in the possession of the covered person, his or her legal representative or any third party, who shall hold the same in trust for the benefit of the plan. This lien and priority right will not exceed the lesser of:

- The amount of benefits paid by the applicable Benefit Plan for the Sickness or Injury, plus the amount of all future benefits that may become payable under the applicable Benefit Plan that result from the Sickness or Injury. The applicable Benefit Plan will have the right to offset or recover such future benefits from the amount received from the Other Party; or
- The amount recovered from the Other Party.

If the covered person or his or her legal representative:

- Makes any recovery from any of the sources described above; and
- Fails to reimburse the applicable Benefit Plan for any benefits that arise from the Sickness or Injury;

then:

- The covered person or his or her legal representative will be personally liable to the applicable Benefit Plan for the amount of the benefits paid under that Benefit Plan; and
- The applicable Benefit Plan may reduce future benefits payable for any illness, sickness or bodily injury by the payment that the covered person or his or her legal representative has received from the Other Party.

The applicable Benefit Plan's first lien and priority rights will not be reduced due to the covered person's own negligence; or due to the covered person not being made whole; or due to attorney's fees and costs. All attorney's fees and court costs, including the applicable Benefit Plan's attorney fees and court costs, are the responsibility of the covered person, not the Benefit Plan. Neither the "common fund" or "make whole" doctrines shall be applicable with regard to the Benefit Plan, and as a condition of participating in the Benefit Plan, the covered person agrees that he or she will not retain counsel, unless such counsel agrees to not assert either of these doctrines during the representation.

For clarification, this provision for subrogation and right of recovery applies to any funds recovered from the Other Party by or on behalf of:

- The Retiree;
- The Retiree's covered dependent;
- The estate of any covered person; or
- Any incapacitated person.

If the covered person is a minor, any amount recovered by the minor, the minor's trustee, guardian, parent, or other representative, shall be subject to this Subrogation and Right of Recovery provision, regardless of state law and whether the minor's representative has access to, or control of, any recovery funds.

If it becomes necessary for the applicable Benefit Plan to enforce this provision by initiating any action against any person, including the covered person's legal representative, then the covered person agrees to pay the Benefit Plan's attorney's fees and costs associated with the action, regardless of the action's outcome.

Overpayment of a Claim

If a Plan pays benefits for the Retiree or a covered dependent, the Retiree or any other person or organization that received the payment must refund the applicable Benefit Plan if all or some of the expense:

- Did not legally have to be paid;
- Exceeded the benefits under the Benefit Plan; or
- Was paid by a source other than the Benefit Plan (i.e. claim for an illness or injury that someone else is legally responsible to pay). See the "Subrogation and Right of Recovery" subsection for further details.

If you or the person or organization that was paid does not refund the full amount, the Benefit Plan may reduce the amount of any future benefits payable.

Provider Networks

Certain of the Benefit Plans make use of provider networks. As a general matter, benefit coverage may be greater and your out-of-pocket expenses may be lower if you use an In-Network Provider rather than an Out-of-Network Provider. For the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, provider lists may be obtained, without charge, at anthem.com, or by contacting an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card.

HIPAA Privacy

In General

The Department of Health and Human Services has issued Standards for Privacy of Individually Identifiable Health Information (the "Privacy Standards"), effective April 14, 2003, that govern the manner in which the group health plans (for purpose of this subsection, the "Plans") must handle Protected Health Information. "Protected Health Information" means individually identifiable health information related to a Covered Employee or Dependent.

Permitted Uses and Disclosures

The Plans may use and disclose Protected Health Information to carry out payment and health care operations without consent or authorization. If the Plans must use and disclose Protected Health Information for purposes other than payment or health care operations, patient authorization for such use or disclosure shall be required, unless such use or disclosure is expressly permitted by the Policies and Procedures Regarding Protected Health Information related to the Plans or the Privacy Standards.

Disclosures to Company

The Plans may disclose Protected Health Information to the Company to the extent that such disclosure is permissible under law, but prior to any such disclosure the Company shall certify that (1) the Plans' documents have been amended as required by the Privacy Standards and (2) the Company has agreed to certain conditions set forth in the Privacy Standards regarding the use and disclosure of that Protected Health Information.

Adequate Separation

There shall be adequate separation between the Plans and the Company to help ensure that only persons involved in Plan administration have access to Protected Health Information. Only the Plan Privacy Official, Security Official, members of the Committee, persons specifically designated in the Plans and any other persons properly designated by one of the foregoing shall have access to Protected Health Information created under the Plans. Access to and use of Protected Health Information by such employees shall be restricted to the Plan administration functions that the Company and its affiliates perform for the Plans. The Plans or the Committee have retained one or more third party administrators and others that receive Protected Health Information in the ordinary course of business performed on behalf of the Plans. Such persons or entities, known in the Privacy Standards as "Business Associates," shall enter into agreements with the Plans governing their obligations under the Privacy Standards.

Unauthorized Use or Disclosure.

The improper use or disclosure of Protected Health Information by an employee of Company (or an affiliate) shall be governed by the Policies and Procedures Regarding Protected Health Information related to the Plans. The terms of the applicable Business Associate Agreement shall address non-compliance with the Privacy Standards by a Business Associate.

HIPAA Nondiscrimination

Notwithstanding any other provision of this Handbook, to the extent a group health plan subject to HIPAA's nondiscrimination rules generally provides benefits for a type of injury, benefits otherwise provided for treatment of the injury will not be denied if the injury results from an act of domestic violence or a medical condition (including both physical and mental health conditions).

Employment Rights Not Guaranteed

Your participation in the Program or any Benefit Plan does not ensure you of continued (or renewed) employment with the Company or any Employer. It also does not ensure your rights to benefits, except as specified under the terms of the Program. This Handbook is not a contract of employment.

Amendment and Termination

Subject to the terms of any applicable collective bargaining agreement, the Committee may amend the Benefit Plans at any time. In addition, (i) the Director, Benefits, of the Company, or an employee of the Company or its affiliates succeeding to the duties and responsibilities of such person, may amend the Benefit Plans at any time, if such amendments are required by applicable law or regulations, and (ii) the Senior Vice President and Chief Human Resources Officer of the Company and the Director, Benefits of the Company (or officers or employees of the Company or its affiliates succeeding to the duties and responsibilities of such persons) may amend the Benefit Plans or adopt amendments to, or guidelines with respect to the administration of, the Benefit Plans, and may take such other actions with respect to the Benefit Plans, as such persons deem necessary or desirable in response to the health emergency created by the COVID-19 virus or to any other similar health emergency and in response to the effect of any such emergency upon the Benefit Plans or the participants thereunder. The Committee reserves the right to terminate any Benefit Plan at any time without the consent of, or advance notice to, you or your covered dependents.

Named Fiduciary and Plan Administrator

The Committee is the “Named Fiduciary” and “Plan Administrator” of each Benefit Plan as defined in ERISA, and, as such, has authority to control and manage the operation and administration of the Benefit Plans. See also the “Definitions” section of this Benefits Program Overview for the definition of “Plan Administrator.”

The Plan Administrator or its delegate has complete discretionary authority to make all determinations under the Benefit Plans, including determinations of eligibility for benefits and factual determinations, and to interpret the terms and provisions of the Benefit Plans.

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Plan Administrator or its delegate has full discretionary authority to: interpret the Benefit Plans and construe the Benefit Plans terms; determine eligibility for and the amount of benefits; determine the status and rights of employees, dependents and other persons; make rulings; make regulations and prescribe procedures; gather needed information; prescribe forms; exercise all of the power and authority contemplated by ERISA and the Internal Revenue Code with respect to the Benefit Plans; employ or appoint persons to help or advise in any administrative functions; and generally do anything needed to operate, manage and administer the Benefit Plans. The Plan Administrator or its delegate has the requisite discretionary authority and control over the Benefit Plans to require deferential judicial review of its decisions as set forth by the United States Supreme Court in Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. v. Bruch. The Committee has delegated certain authority to the NiSource Benefits Department, to insurers, and to third party administrators or Claims Administrators. To the extent not retained by the Committee, the Committee has delegated to the Claims Administrators, to the NiSource Benefits Department or to insurers the discretionary authority to:

- Make decisions regarding the interpretation or application of Benefit Plan provisions;
- Make determinations (including factual determinations) as to the rights and benefits of employees and participants under the Benefit Plans;
- Make claims determinations under the Benefit Plans; and
- Decide the appeal of denied claims.

Other authority may be delegated to the extent allowed by ERISA.

Benefits will be paid under the Benefit Plans only if the Plan Administrator or its delegate determines that the claimant is entitled to them. The decision of the Plan Administrator or its delegate is final and binding.

The Role of the Claims Administrator

With respect to the Benefit Plans, or portions thereof, that are self-insured, the Committee has retained one or more Claims Administrator to provide claims payment and other administrative services to such plans. Each Claims Administrator has full discretionary authority to decide claims and appeals for the claims it administers. However, even though a Retiree may receive a benefit check from a Claims Administrator, the Company, a Participating Employer or another plan funding vehicle actually pays benefit claims; the Claims Administrator does not pay claims out of its pocket. Although a Claims Administrator may have insurance coverage as part of its business, a Claims Administrator is not an insurer in relation to Benefit Plans, or portions thereof, that are self-insured. The self-insured portions of Benefit Plans are funded from the general assets of the Company or a Participating Employer or another lawful funding vehicle that is in place, such as a Voluntary Employees' Beneficiary Association Trust.

With respect to the fully insured Benefit Plans, the Claims Administrator is also the Plan's insurer and has full and absolute authority to decide claims and appeals by virtue of authority delegated by the Committee.

Claims Administrators are identified in the General Program Information section for each Benefit Plan and are subject to change from time to time.

Statement of ERISA Rights

As a participant in a Benefit Plan maintained by NiSource Inc., you are entitled to certain rights and protections under ERISA. ERISA provides that all plan participants shall be entitled to:

Receive Information About Plan and Benefits

- Examine, without charge, at the Plan Administrator's office and at other specified locations, such as worksites and union halls, all documents governing the Benefit Plan, including insurance contracts and collective bargaining agreements, and a copy of the latest annual report (Form 5500 Series) filed by the Benefit Plan with the U.S. Department of Labor and available at the Public Disclosure Room of the Employee Benefits Security Administration.
- Obtain, upon written request to the Plan Administrator, copies of documents governing the operation of the Benefit Plan, including insurance contracts and collective bargaining agreements, and copies of the latest annual report (Form 5500 Series) and updated Summary Plan Description. The Plan Administrator may make a reasonable charge for the copies.

- Receive a summary of the Benefit Plan's annual financial report. The Plan Administrator is required by law to furnish each participant with a copy of this Summary Annual Report.
- Continue health care coverage for you, your spouse or dependents if there is a loss of coverage under the Benefit Plan as a result of a qualifying event. You or your dependents may have to pay for such coverage. Review this Summary Plan Description and the documents governing the Benefit Plan on the rules governing your COBRA continuation coverage rights.

Prudent Actions by Plan Fiduciaries

In addition to creating rights for Benefit Plan participants, ERISA imposes duties upon the people who are responsible for the operation of the Benefit Plan. The people who operate the Benefit Plan, called "fiduciaries" of the Benefit Plan, have a duty to do so prudently and in the interest of the employee and other Benefit Plan participants and beneficiaries. No one, including your Employer or any other person, may fire you or otherwise discriminate against you in any way to prevent you from obtaining a welfare benefit or exercising your rights under ERISA.

Enforce Your Rights

If your claim for a welfare benefit is denied or ignored, in whole or in part, you have a right to know why this was done, to obtain copies of documents relating to the decision without charge, and to appeal any denial, all within certain time schedules.

Under ERISA, there are steps you can take to enforce the above rights. For instance, if you request a copy of Benefit Plan documents or the latest annual report from the Benefit Plan and do not receive them within 30 days, you may file suit in a Federal court. In such a case, the court may require the Plan Administrator to provide the materials and pay you up to $110 a day until you receive the materials, unless the materials were not sent because of reasons beyond the control of the Plan Administrator. If your claim for benefits is denied or ignored, in whole or in part, you may file suit in a state or Federal court after exhausting all required administrative appeals. In addition, if you disagree with the Benefit Plan's decision or lack thereof concerning the qualified status of a medical child support order, you may file suit in Federal court. If it should happen that Benefit Plan fiduciaries misuse the Benefit Plan's money, or if you are discriminated against for asserting your rights, you may seek assistance from the U.S. Department of Labor, or you may file suit in a Federal court.

The court will decide who should pay court costs and legal fees. If you are successful, the court may order the person you have sued to pay these costs and fees. If you lose, the court may order you to pay these costs and fees, for example, if it finds your claim is frivolous.

Assistance with Questions

Questions regarding the Benefit Plan should be directed to the Plan Administrator. If there are questions about this statement or about your rights under ERISA, or if as an employee you need assistance in obtaining documents from the Plan Administrator, you should contact the nearest office of the Employee Benefits Security Administration, U.S. Department of Labor, listed in your telephone directory or the Division of Technical Assistance and Inquiries, Employee Benefits Security Administration, U.S. Department of Labor, 200 Constitution Avenue N.W., Washington, DC 20210. You may also obtain certain publications about your rights and responsibilities under ERISA by calling the publications hotline of the Employee Benefits Security Administration.

Consolidated Flex Medical Plan

(Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan)

Covering Eligible Pre-65 Retirees
and/or Eligible Dependents Under Age 65

- PPO
- High Deductible PPO 1
- High Deductible PPO 2
- HMO

Your Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan Options

This is the SPD (the “Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD”) for the NiSource Consolidated Flex Medical Plan, also referred to as the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan. In this Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD, the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan is sometimes referred to as the “Plan.”

NiSource Inc. (the “Company”) provides eligible Pre-65 Retirees and their eligible dependents, as well as eligible dependents of Post-65 Retirees who are covered under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, with the following medical coverage options administered by Anthem BlueCross/BlueShield, each of which uses the Blue Cross/BlueShield Network:

- The Preferred Provider Organization (PPO);
- HDPPO 1 (HDPPO 1)
- HDPPO 2 (HDPPO 2)

The Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan may also offer Health Maintenance Organizations (“HMO”)—provided you live in an area where a NiSource HMO option is available. If this option is available to you and you elect the option, your insurer will provide you with a separate HMO SPD. Please refer to that document for further information regarding HMO coverage.

Keep in mind that the Plan covers expenses based on a determination of the “Maximum Allowed Amount”. Charges above the Maximum Allowed Amount are not paid by the Plan and are your responsibility. The Maximum Allowed Amount is determined based upon guidelines established by the Claims Administrator in its discretion from time to time. For more information about the determination of the Maximum Allowed Amount, please see the subsection below entitled “Maximum Allowed Amount”. If you have a question about the determination of the Maximum Allowed Amount, contact an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card.

The PPO option includes a network of qualified health care providers who offer discounted services for being able to participate in the network. You may also use Out-of-Network Providers and still receive a benefit; however, your costs may be higher if you choose out-of-network services.

The HDPPO 1 and HDPPO 2 are both administered by Anthem. With these options, you may go in-network or out-of-network each time you seek care. The Plan pays more if you stay in the network. Office visits (for non-preventive care) and prescription drugs are subject to the same deductible and co-insurance as other medical expenses. No medical or prescription drug benefits (except preventive and wellness care) are payable until you satisfy the annual deductible. After you meet your deductible, you will generally pay 20% of your expenses (assuming you use In-Network Providers) until you reach your out-of-pocket maximum. There are separate out-of-pocket maximums for in-network and out-of-network services. Once you reach your out-of-pocket maximum, the plan pays 100% of your eligible expenses for the rest of the calendar year.

If you enroll in either HDPPO 1 or HDPPO 2, you may be eligible to contribute to a Health Savings Account (HSA), although as a Pre-65 Retiree you may not contribute to an HSA through the Company. The money you contribute to an HSA can be used to reimburse you for eligible expenses that are not covered under the Plan.

To find a provider who participates in the network, log on to anthem.com or contact an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card.

Utilization Review Program

The Utilization Review (UR) Program is designed to help you determine the course of treatment that will maximize your plan benefits regardless of which coverage option you select.

The UR Program offers the following services:

- Pre-admission authorization;
- Pre-Certification;
- Urgent Hospital Admission;
- Continued Stay Review;
- Other Required Pre-certifications; and
- Penalty for Non-Compliance.

The Utilization Review Program provides pre-authorization services to help verify the need for recommended treatment. This service also can propose treatment alternatives that may be more appropriate and cost-effective. Pre-authorization does not guarantee benefits. Benefit availability is subject to eligibility and other terms, conditions, limitations, and exclusions of the Plan.

You must contact Anthem (who provides the Utilization Review services) to receive pre-authorization any time your doctor recommends treatment that requires pre-authorization as outlined below:

- Pre-Admission/Pre-Certification: Except in the case of an urgent hospitalization, all hospitalizations shall be pre-certified prior to admission for any reason. The Pre-certification Provider’s name and telephone number will be provided to each participant. Hospital admission pre-certification does not guarantee benefits under the Plan. Actual benefits provided under the Plan are determined based on the provisions of the Plan.

- Pre-Certification Procedure: When your physician recommends a non-urgent hospitalization, you or your physician must call the Pre-certification Provider. You must advise your physician of the Plan's pre-admission certification requirement and provide such physician with adequate information to obtain the pre-certification. You or your physician should secure pre-certification as soon as possible and before a covered person actually enters the hospital. It is your responsibility to see that the Pre-certification Provider is notified.
- Urgent Hospital Admission: In the case of an urgent hospitalization, the covered person's physician, the hospital, or a family member must telephone the Pre-certification Provider within 48 hours of admission or the first business day following weekend or holiday admissions. You must provide the Pre-certification Provider with the information required by the Pre-certification Provider.
- Continued Stay Review: The Pre-certification Provider may monitor all hospital stays through contact with the covered person's physician.
- Other Required Pre-certifications: You and your physician must notify the Pre-certification Provider prior to the provision of the following additional services or supplies: (1) inpatient surgery, (2) a newborn child hospital stay beyond that of the mother; (3) plastic reconstructive surgery; and (4) durable medical equipment/prosthetics. With approval of the Plan, the Pre-certification Provider may require pre-certification for other services or supplies in accordance with reasonable procedures.
- Penalty for Non-compliance: If you fail to comply with the requirements as described above, the Plan may assess a $300 penalty.

How Deductibles Work in the PPO Option

For charges that are subject to the calendar year deductible requirement under the PPO Coverage Option, a covered person generally must satisfy the “individual” covered person deductible requirement (currently $500 for in-network and $1,000 for out-of-network) each calendar year before the Plan will pay any benefits for such charges. Charges incurred by a covered person may not be applied toward satisfaction of any other covered person’s “individual” deductible requirement.

However, once the “family” deductible has been satisfied for a category of coverage (e.g., for In-Network Providers, $1,000 for covered member + spouse or for covered member + child(ren), or $1,500 for covered member + family), additional covered persons within the family do not need to satisfy any deductible requirement.

For example, if you choose the covered member + children category of coverage and you and one of your children each satisfy the $500 in-network deductible requirement in a given year, none of your other children will be subject to the in-network deductible requirement for that year. On the other hand, if you choose the covered member + family category of coverage and you and your spouse each incur $1,000 of charges that are subject to the in-network deductible requirement, one of your children who is a covered person must satisfy the $500 in-network deductible requirement before the “family” deductible requirement is met.

Please note that prescription drug expenses are not counted against the calendar year deductible.

For the PPO Coverage Option only, charges that are incurred during the last three months of the calendar plan year and that are applied to the individual and family deductible for such calendar plan year (that is, charges incurred before the deductible is satisfied) apply also toward the deductible requirement for the following calendar plan year.

How Deductibles Work in the HDPPPO 1 and HDPPPO 2 Options

For charges that are subject to the calendar year deductible requirement under the HDPPPO 1 and HDPPPO 2 Coverage Options, each calendar year the covered family as a unit must satisfy the specified deductible requirement for a category of coverage before the Plan will pay any benefits for such charges.

Thus, for example, if you choose the covered member + family category of coverage and you incur $2,000 of charges that are subject to the in-network deductible, but no other covered family member incurs any charges, you (or other covered family members) must still satisfy the remaining $1,000 of the in-network deductible requirement before the Plan will pay any benefits. On the other hand, if you choose the covered member + family category of coverage and your spouse incurs $3,500 of charges in a year that are subject to the in-network deductible, no other family members will be subject to an in-network deductible requirement for that year.

The Individual Out-of-Pocket Maximum Limit in the HDPPPO 2 Option

In the HDPPPO 2 Coverage Option, for categories of coverage other than “covered member only,” there is an individual out-of-pocket maximum limit. This means that regardless of the overall out-of-pocket maximum limit for the category of coverage, no covered person will pay more than the individual out-of-pocket maximum for expenses that are subject to that limit. For services received from In-Network Providers, the individual out-of-pocket maximum as of January 1, 2021 is equal to $8,550. For services received from Out-of-Network Providers, the individual out-of-pocket maximum as of January 1, 2021 is $15,000.

Maximum Allowed Amount

General

This section describes how Anthem, as Claims Administrator for the Plan, determines the amount of reimbursement for services, treatments or supplies covered by the Plan (“Covered Services”). However, this section does not address Covered Services under the Plan for which claims are not administered by Anthem.

Reimbursement for services, treatments or supplies rendered or furnished by In-Network and Out-of-Network Providers is based on the Plan’s Maximum Allowed Amount for the Covered Service that you receive.

The Maximum Allowed Amount is the maximum amount of reimbursement the Claims Administrator will allow for services, treatments and supplies:

- to the extent the cost for such services, treatments and supplies are covered under the Plan and are not excluded;
- that are Medically Necessary; and
- that are provided in accordance with all applicable preauthorization, utilization management or other requirements set forth in the Plan.

You will be required to pay a portion of the Maximum Allowed Amount to the extent you have not met your Deductible or have a Co-payment or Co-insurance. In addition, when you receive Covered Services from an Out-of-Network Provider, you may be responsible for paying any difference between the Maximum Allowed Amount and the Provider’s actual charges. This amount can be significant.

When you receive Covered Services from a Provider, the Claims Administrator will, to the extent applicable, apply claim processing rules to the claim submitted for those Covered Services. These rules evaluate the claim information and, among other things, determine the accuracy and appropriateness of the procedure and diagnosis codes included in the claim. Applying these rules may affect Claims Administrator’s determination of the Maximum Allowed Amount. The Claims Administrator’s application of these rules does not mean that the Covered Services you received were not Medically Necessary. It means the Claims Administrator has determined that the claim was submitted inconsistent with procedure coding rules and/or reimbursement policies. For example, your Provider may have submitted the claim using several procedure codes when there is a single procedure code that includes all of the procedures that were performed. When this occurs, the Maximum Allowed

Amount will be based on the single procedure code rather than a separate Maximum Allowed Amount for each billed code.

Likewise, when multiple procedures are performed on the same day by the same physician or other healthcare professional, the Plan may reduce the Maximum Allowed Amounts for those secondary and subsequent procedures because reimbursement at 100% of the Maximum Allowed Amount for those procedures would represent duplicative payment for components of the primary procedure that may be considered incidental or inclusive.

Provider Network Status

The Maximum Allowed Amount may vary depending upon whether the Provider is an In-Network Provider or an Out-of-Network Provider.

An In-Network Provider is a Provider who is in the managed network for the Plan or in a closely managed specialty network, or who has a participation contract with the Claims Administrator. For Covered Services performed by an In-Network Provider, the Maximum Allowed Amount for the Plan is the rate the Provider has agreed with the Claims Administrator to accept as reimbursement for the Covered Services. Because In-Network Providers have agreed to accept the Maximum Allowed Amount as payment in full for those Covered Services, they should not send you a bill or collect for amounts above the Maximum Allowed Amount. However, you may receive a bill or be asked to pay all or a portion of the Maximum Allowed Amount to the extent you have not met your Deductible or have a Co-payment or Co-insurance. Please call an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card for help in finding an In-Network Provider or visit the Claims Administrator's website at anthem.com.

Providers who have not signed any contract with the Claims Administrator and are not in any of the Claims Administrator's networks are Out-of-Network Providers, subject to Blue Cross Blue Shield Association rules governing claims filed by certain ancillary providers.

For Covered Services you receive from an Out-of-Network Provider, the Maximum Allowed Amount for the Plan will be one of the following as determined by the Claims Administrator:

- An amount based on the Claims Administrator's Out-of-Network Provider fee schedule/rate, which the Claims Administrator has established in its discretion, and which the Claims Administrator reserves the right to modify from time to time, after considering one or more of the following: reimbursement amounts accepted by like/similar providers contracted with the Claims Administrator, reimbursement amounts paid by the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services ("CMS") for the same services or supplies, and other industry cost, reimbursement and utilization data; or
- An amount based on reimbursement or cost information from CMS. When basing the Maximum Allowed amount upon the level or method of reimbursement used by CMS, the Claims Administrator will update such information, which is unadjusted for geographic locality, no less than annually; or
- An amount based on information provided by a third party vendor, which may reflect one or more of the following factors: (1) the complexity or severity of treatment; (2) level of skill and experience required for the treatment; or (3) comparable providers' fees and costs to deliver care; or
- An amount negotiated by the Claims Administrator or a third party vendor which has been agreed to by the Provider. This may include rates for services coordinated through case management; or
- An amount based on or derived from the total charges billed by the Out-of-Network Provider.

Providers who are not contracted for the Plan, but contracted for other benefit plans with the Claims Administrator are also considered Out-of-Network. For the Plan, the Maximum Allowed Amount for services from these Providers will be one of the five methods shown above unless the contract between the Claims Administrator and that Provider specifies a different amount.

For Covered Services rendered outside the Claims Administrator's service area by Out-of-Network Providers, claims may be priced using the local Blue Cross Blue Shield plan's non-participating Provider fee schedule/rate or the pricing arrangements required by applicable state or Federal law. In certain situations, the Maximum Allowed Amount for out of area claims may be based on billed charges, the pricing the Plan would use if the healthcare services had been obtained within the Claims Administrator's service area, or a special negotiated price.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, when determining the Maximum Allowable Amount for Out-of-Network emergency services, the Claims Administrator will provide benefits for such services in an amount at least equal to the greatest of the methods required under the Affordable Care Act and the regulations thereunder (adjusted for in-network cost sharing).

Unlike In-Network Providers, Out-of-Network Providers may send you a bill and collect for the amount of the Provider's charge that exceeds the Plan's Maximum Allowed Amount. You are responsible for paying the difference between the Maximum Allowed Amount and the amount the Provider charges. This amount can be significant. Choosing an In-Network Provider will likely result in lower out-of-pocket costs to you. Please call an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card for help in finding an In-Network Provider or visit the Claims Administrator's website at anthem.com.

An Anthem customer service associate is also available to assist you in determining the Plan's Maximum Allowed Amount for a particular service from an Out-of-Network Provider. In order for the Claims Administrator to assist you, you will need to obtain from your Provider the specific procedure code(s) and diagnosis code(s) for the services the Provider will render. You will also need to know the Provider's charges to calculate your out-of-pocket responsibility. Although an Anthem customer service associate can assist you with this pre-service information, the final Maximum Allowed Amount for your claim will be based on the actual claim submitted by the Provider.

For Prescription Drugs Obtained through the HDPPO

For prescription drugs obtained under an HDPPO Option, the Maximum Allowed Amount is the amount determined by the Claims Administrator using prescription drug cost information provided by the Pharmacy Benefits Manager (PBM) for that Option.

Participant Cost Share

For certain Covered Services and depending on your plan design, you may be required to pay a part of the Maximum Allowed Amount as your cost share amount (for example, Deductible, Co-payment, and/or Co-insurance).

Your cost share amount and out-of-pocket limits may vary depending on whether you received services from an In-Network or Out-of-Network Provider. Specifically, you may be required to pay higher cost sharing amounts or may have limits on your benefits when using Out-of-Network Providers. Please see the Highlights of the PPO Option, Highlights of the HDPPO 1 and HDPPO 2 Options, and Highlights of Your Prescription Drug Coverage in the HDPPO 1 and HDPPO 2 Options sections in this Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD for your cost share responsibilities and limitations in the Plan, or call an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card to learn how the Plan's benefits or cost share amounts may vary by the type of Provider you use.

Special Cost-Sharing Provisions during Public Health Emergency

During any portion of the emergency period defined in paragraph (1)(B) of section 1135(g) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1320b-5(g)), beginning on or after March 18, 2020, the Medical Plan will provide coverage of the following items and services without any cost sharing (including Deductibles, Co-Payments, and Co-Insurance) requirements or prior authorization or other medical management requirements, to the extent (i) required by applicable law, (ii) medically appropriate for you, as determined by your attending healthcare provider in accordance with accepted standards of current medical practice, and (iii) ordered by your attending healthcare provider:

- (a) An in vitro diagnostic test as defined in section 809.3 of title 21, Code of Federal Regulations, (or its successor regulations) for the detection of SARS-CoV-2 or the diagnosis of COVID-19, and the administration of such a test, that—

- (1) is approved, cleared, or authorized under section 510(k), 513, 515, or 564 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21 U.S.C. §§ 360(k), 360c, 360e, 360bbb-3);
 - (2) the developer has requested, or intends to request, emergency use authorization under section 564 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21 U.S.C. 360bbb-3), unless and until the emergency use authorization request under such section 564 has been denied or the developer of such test does not submit a request under such section within a reasonable timeframe;
 - (3) is developed in and authorized by a State that has notified the Secretary of HHS of its intention to review tests intended to diagnose COVID-19; or
 - (4) other tests that the Secretary of HHS determines appropriate in guidance.
- (b) Items and services furnished to an individual during healthcare provider office visits (which includes in-person visits and telehealth visits), urgent care center visits, and emergency room visits that result in an order for or administration of an in vitro diagnostic product described in paragraph (a), but only to the extent the items and services relate to the furnishing or administration of the product or to the evaluation of the individual for purposes of determining the need of the individual for such product.
- Reimbursement of Out-of-Network Providers furnishing any of the foregoing items or services shall not exceed an amount that equals the cash price for such service as listed by the Provider on a public internet website.

The Plan will not provide any reimbursement for non-Covered Services. You may be responsible for the total amount billed by your Provider for non-Covered Services, regardless of whether such services are performed by an In-Network or Non-Network Provider. Non-Covered Services include services specifically excluded from coverage by the terms of the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD and services received after benefits have been exhausted. Benefits may be exhausted by exceeding, for example, benefit caps or day/visit limits.

In some instances you may only be asked to pay the lower In-Network cost sharing amount when you use an Out-of-Network Provider. For example, if you go to an In-Network hospital or Provider facility and receive Covered Services from an Out-of-Network Provider such as a radiologist, anesthesiologist or pathologist who is employed by or contracted with an In-Network hospital or facility, you will pay the In-Network cost share amounts for those Covered Services. However, you also may be liable for the difference between the Maximum Allowed Amount and the Out-of-Network Provider's charge.

The Claims Administrator and/or its designated pharmacy benefits manager may receive discounts, rebates, or other funds from drug manufacturers, wholesalers, distributors, and/or similar vendors, which may be related to certain prescription drug purchases under this Plan and which positively impact the cost effectiveness of Covered Services. These amounts are retained by the Claims Administrator. These amounts will not be applied to your Deductible, if any, or taken into account in determining your Copayment or Coinsurance.

Authorized Services

In some circumstances, such as where there is no In-Network Provider available for the Covered Service, the Plan may authorize the In-Network cost share amounts (Deductible, Co-payment, and/or Co-insurance) to apply to a claim for a Covered Service you receive from an Out-of-Network Provider. In such circumstance, you must contact the Claims Administrator in advance of obtaining the Covered Service. The Plan also may authorize the In-Network cost share amounts to apply to a claim for Covered Services if you receive emergency services from an Out-of-Network Provider and are not able to contact the Claims Administrator until after the Covered Service is rendered. If the Plan authorizes an In-Network cost share amount to apply to a Covered Service received from an Out-of-Network Provider, you also may still be liable for the difference between the Maximum Allowed Amount and the Out-of-Network Provider's charge. Please contact an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card for Authorized Services information or to request authorization.

Medical Expenses Covered

The Plan pays benefits for you (or your covered dependents) for Medically Necessary eligible expenses up to the Maximum Allowed Amount. For services covered under an HMO plan, please refer to the HMO SPD.

For expenses not covered under the PPO and HD PPO options, see the section below entitled “Medical Expenses Not Covered.”

Please Note: No lawsuit or legal action of any kind regarding a claim for benefits under the Plan may be commenced unless the claims procedure process for internal appeals (but not including any voluntary appeal) has been exhausted. In addition, in no event may any lawsuit or other legal action regarding a claim for benefits be commenced later than three years after the date such claim was incurred or the date when the rescission of coverage occurred, as the case may be. For more information, see the “Claims Determination and Appeal Process – Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan” section of the Benefits Program Overview, and in particular the section entitled “Limitation of Actions and Venue,” found on page 27.

The Plan will not discriminate with respect to participation under the Plan against any health care provider who is acting within the scope of that provider’s license or certification under applicable law. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Plan is not required to contract with any health care provider willing to abide by the terms and conditions for participation established by the Plan and the Plan may establish varying reimbursement rates based on quality or performance measures.

The covered expenses under the Plan include, but may not be limited to the following:

Inpatient Services

The Plan pays benefits for the following inpatient hospital/medical services and supplies.

- Hospital facility services – such as inpatient room and board – when you are in:
 - A semi-private room;
 - A private room (the Plan limits benefits to the hospital’s prevailing semi-private room rate); or

- An intensive care unit.

The Plan pays benefits for both day and nighttime care.

- Inpatient ancillary services and supplies, including:
 - Operating room charges;
 - X-rays;
 - Laboratory work;
 - Surgical dressing; and
 - Prescribed medications (Outpatient prescription drug services are covered under the prescription drug program. See the sections of this Handbook relating to Prescription Drugs for details).
- Inpatient surgical services, including:
 - Surgeon’s fees when related to the surgical procedure; and
 - Surgery for morbid obesity.
- Skilled nursing facility care, up to the hospital’s prevailing semi-private room rate, including:
 - Bed, board, and general nursing care; and
 - Ancillary services (such as drugs, surgical dressings, or supplies).
- General nursing care provided by an RN or LPN when you are in:
 - A semi-private room;
 - A private room; or
 - An intensive care unit.
- Pre-admission testing, x-rays, or laboratory services performed before inpatient surgery. These tests are considered part of your inpatient hospital surgical stay and are performed on an outpatient basis. The Plan pays benefits provided you would have otherwise been eligible to receive such tests as a hospital inpatient.

Outpatient Services

The Plan pays benefits for the following services, provided you receive them on an outpatient basis:

- Hospital facility services and ancillary charges for services performed on an outpatient basis;
- Outpatient surgery and related surgical services when performed in an office setting, including:
 - Any related diagnostic services received on the same day as the outpatient surgery;
 - Surgeon's fees when related to the surgical procedure; and
 - Surgery for morbid obesity.
- Dental/oral surgical services, only when required because of an accidental injury to natural teeth (within 12 months of injury), to extract completely bony impacted teeth, including completely impacted wisdom teeth, or (for the PPO option only) in connection with a gingivectomy. The Plan pays benefits for outpatient facility charges only if your medical condition or the dental procedure requires a hospital setting to ensure your safety.
- Temporomandibular joint dysfunction and related medical disorders. The Plan limits benefits to:
 - Surgery, provided the surgical procedure is medically appropriate; and
 - Appliances (the Plan pays benefits for appliances just like any other durable medical equipment).
- A second surgical opinion and additional required testing at your request or when recommended by the Utilization Review (UR) Program. The Plan pays benefits provided your physician (other than the one who offers the second opinion) performs the eventual surgery.

Professional Services (Outpatient)

The Plan pays benefits for care you receive from a physician or other specified professional provider (i.e., a general practitioner, family practitioner, a physician of internal medicine, pediatrician, gynecologist, nurse practitioner, or physician assistant), on an outpatient basis.

- Office visits, visits to a clinic, or a physician's visit to your home as part of home care services. You must meet the co-pay or deductible requirement, as applicable, before the Plan pays benefits.
- Services provided by a professional, including:

- Allergy injections, shots, serums, and immunizations;
- Diagnostic allergy testing;
- Hearing exams and hearing aids. The Plan limits benefits to one hearing exam and one hearing aid per ear during a two calendar-year period; and
- Diabetes management services, including:
 - Educational services;
 - Eye exams; and
 - Blood glucose testing machines (diabetic supplies and other diagnostics are covered under the prescription drug coverage).

Emergency Care Services

The Plan pays benefits for the cost of the following emergency care services:

- Hospital emergency room care when care is associated with:
 - An accident;
 - A medical emergency; or
 - A non-medical emergency.
- Urgent care;
- Ambulance services (local ground or air transportation), when medically necessary to transport you to the nearest appropriately equipped facility that is able to provide necessary treatment. The Plan pays benefits for air-ambulance services only if medically necessary. When ambulance services are used because they are more convenient than other types of transportation, the Plan does not pay benefits.

If your condition is life threatening and you receive emergency care at a hospital outside the network because it is not possible to safely transfer you to a hospital within the network, the Plan still pays benefits at the in-network level.

Rehabilitation Services

The Plan pays benefits for the following inpatient and outpatient rehabilitation services.

- The following rehabilitation services provided on an inpatient or outpatient basis (unless otherwise noted):

- Physical Medicine/Rehabilitation (PMR) (inpatient only, limited to 60 days per person per year; outpatient PMR is considered physical therapy and is subject to the limits outlined below for outpatient physical therapy). The Plan may extend these limits based upon medical necessity;
- Cardiac rehabilitation;
- Chemotherapy;
- Radiation therapy;
- Respiratory therapy (including respiratory therapy devices);
- Infusion; and
- Renal dialysis treatments.

- Outpatient therapy treatments, including:

- Physical therapy (therapy is subject to significant improvement through relatively short-term therapy);
- Occupational therapy;
- Speech therapy, provided therapy is restorative in nature or rehabilitative treatment is needed for speech loss or impairment due to an illness or injury or surgery on account of an illness (other than a functional nervous disorder). If speech loss is due to a congenital anomaly for which corrective surgery has been performed, the corrective surgery must be performed before the therapy and therapy must be designed to provide significant improvement on a relatively short-term basis.

The Plan pays benefits provided a registered professional physical or occupational therapist, or speech therapist certified by the American Speech and Hearing Association renders the appropriate services under the supervision of a physician. Benefits for physical therapy and occupational therapy are limited to a combined 26 visits per person per year. Benefits for speech therapy are limited to 26 visits per person per year. Additional visits for physical therapy, occupational therapy, and speech therapy may be authorized based upon medical necessity.

- Chiropractic and spinal manipulation therapy provided a licensed chiropractor performs the services on an outpatient basis. The Plan limits benefits for chiropractic services regardless of medical necessity to 26 manipulations per person per year;
- Physiotherapy, provided a licensed physiotherapist performs the services and he or she does not normally live with you or is not related to you or your spouse by blood, marriage, or legal adoption.

Diagnostic and Laboratory Services

The Plan pays benefits for the following diagnostic and laboratory services.

- Inpatient radiology and laboratory services
- Outpatient radiology, diagnostic, and laboratory services performed when you are an outpatient and the services are related to surgery or medical care, including:
 - X-rays;
 - Radium treatments;
 - Microscopic tests; and
 - Laboratory tests and exams.

Preventive Health Services

Generally

The Plan pays benefits for certain preventive health services.

Preventive health services include outpatient services and office services. Screenings and other services are covered as preventive health services for adults and children with no current symptoms or prior history of a medical condition associated with that screening or service.

Members who have current symptoms or have been diagnosed with a medical condition are not considered to require preventive health services for that condition, but instead benefits will be considered as diagnostic services.

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, if performed as a preventive care service or screening, the Plan pays benefits for one in-network colonoscopy per covered person per calendar year, and one in-network mammography per covered person per calendar year with no deductible, co-insurance or co-payment requirement, notwithstanding that any treatment incidental or ancillary to such service or screening (such as the removal of polyps during a diagnostic colonoscopy) is also performed during such service or screening.

Preventive health services covered under the Plan may constitute either recommended preventive health services or additional preventive health services. Additional preventive health services are certain preventive health services covered under the Plan that do not constitute recommended health services. Please contact an Anthem customer service associate using the number on the back of your ID card for any questions concerning what constitutes a recommended preventive health service or an additional preventive health service. Additional preventive health services furnished by In-Network Providers are covered by the Plan with no deductible, co-payments or co-insurance. Additional preventive health services furnished by Out-of-Network Providers are subject to deductibles and co-insurance under the PPO option, but are covered by the Plan with no deductible, co-payments or co-insurance under the HDPPO options.

Recommended preventive health services shall meet requirements as determined by Federal law and, if applicable, state law. Recommended preventive health services are covered by this Plan with no deductible, co-payments or co-insurance under the HDPPO options and when furnished by an In-Network Provider under the PPO option. Recommended preventive health services furnished by an Out-of-Network Provider under the PPO option are subject to deductibles and co-insurance.

To the extent required by federal regulation, if there is no In-Network Provider who can provide a recommended preventive health service, the Plan will cover the service, with no deductible, co-payment or co-insurance, when performed by an Out-of-Network Provider.

Categories of Recommended Preventive Health Services

Recommended preventive health services fall under four broad categories, described below, that are specified in federal regulations regarding coverage of preventive health services:

- Evidenced-based items or services that have in effect a rating of "A" or "B" rating in the current recommendations of the United States Preventive Services Task Force (USPSTF) with respect to the individual involved, except for the recommendations of the USPSTF regarding breast cancer screening, mammography, and prevention issued in or around November 2009 (which are not considered to be current). These items or services may include the following, subject to the limitations and conditions with respect to such services that are set forth in the specific USPSTF recommendations, including limitations and conditions relating to the timing and frequency of such services and the designation, by age, gender, medical history or condition, or risk factors of those individuals for which such items or services may be appropriate:

➤ Abdominal aortic aneurysm screening: men;	➤ Cervical cancer screening;
➤ Alcohol misuse: screening and counseling	➤ Colorectal cancer screening;
➤ Blood pressure screening in adults;	➤ Diabetes screening;
➤ BRCA risk assessment and genetic counseling/testing;	➤ Lung cancer screening;
➤ Breast cancer preventive medications;	➤ Obesity screening and counseling: adults and children;
➤ Breast cancer screening;	➤ Osteoporosis screening: women;

See the following website for additional items and services that may be covered and for additional details:

<http://www.uspreventiveservicestaskforce.org/Page/Name/uspstf-a-and-b-recommendations/>.

- Immunizations for routine use in children, adolescents, and adults that have in effect a recommendation from the Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (ACIP) with respect to the individual involved (for this purpose, a recommendation from the ACIP is considered in effect after it has been adopted by the Director of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, and a recommendation is considered to be for routine use if it is listed on the Immunization Schedules of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention).

The immunizations for adults may include the following, subject to the limitations and conditions set forth in the specific recommendations, including limitations and conditions relating to variations in age, gender, medical condition and population for which such immunizations are appropriate:

➤ Diphtheria;	➤ Meningococcal;
➤ Hepatitis A;	➤ Mumps;
➤ Hepatitis B;	➤ Pertussis;
➤ Herpes Zoster;	➤ Pneumococcal;
➤ Human Papillomavirus;	➤ Rubella;
➤ Influenza (flu shot)	➤ Tetanus;
➤ Measles	➤ Varicella (chickenpox).

The immunizations for children may include the following, subject to the limitations and conditions set forth in the specific recommendations, including limitations and conditions relating to variations in age, gender, medical history or condition, risk factors or population for which such immunizations are appropriate:

➤ Diphtheria, Tetanus, Pertussis;	➤ Influenza;
➤ Haemophilus influenza type b;	➤ Measles;

Limitations With Respect To Recommended Preventive Health Services

The services described in the recommendations or guidelines above will not constitute recommended preventive health services earlier than Plan Year that begins on or after the date that is one year after the recommendations or guidelines are issued; provided, however, that recommended preventive health services shall include any “qualifying coronavirus preventive service,” as defined in applicable federal regulations, on the date that is 15 business days after the date on which a recommendation is made relating to the qualifying coronavirus preventive service.

Please note: Regardless of whether such services continue to be listed above, recommended preventive health services will remain covered services under the Plan only until the end of the Plan Year following the date the related recommendation or guideline is no longer described in the federal regulations regarding coverage of preventive health services. Provided, however, that to the extent a service covered on the first day of a Plan Year is, during the Plan Year, downgraded to a “D” rating, or any item or service associated with any recommendation or guideline described in the federal regulations regarding coverage of preventive health services is subject to a safety recall or is otherwise determined by a federal agency authorized to regulate the item or service to pose a significant safety concern, such service will cease to be a covered service as of the date of the rating downgrade or agency determination.

Please also note: The frequency, method, treatment and setting of recommended preventive health services are subject to reasonable medical management techniques determined by the Plan Administrator or Claims Administrator in their discretion. Please contact an Anthem customer service associate using the number on the back of your ID card for information concerning any limitations upon recommended preventive health services arising out of the use of such techniques.

If a recommended preventive health service is billed separately (or is not tracked as individual encounter data separately) from an office visit, then the Plan may impose a co-payment and/or deductible for the office visit. If a recommended preventive health service is not billed separately (or is not tracked as individual encounter data separately) from an office visit and the primary purpose of the office visit is the delivery of the recommended preventive health service, then the Plan will not impose a co-payment, co-insurance and/or deductible for the office visit, unless you have chosen the PPO option and the office visit involves an Out-of-Network Provider. If a recommended preventive health service is not billed separately (or is not tracked as individual encounter data separately) from an office visit and the primary purpose of the office visit is not the delivery of the recommended preventive health service, then the Plan may impose a co-payment, co-insurance and/or deductible for the office visit.

Gender Reassignment Surgery

Generally

Gender reassignment surgery is one treatment option for extreme cases of gender dysphoria. It is not a single procedure, but part of a complex process involving multiple medical, psychiatric, and surgical specialists working in conjunction with each other and the individual.

Plan Benefits for Specific Surgeries

The Plan pays benefits for gender reassignment surgery consisting of any combination of the following, if the Plan Administrator determines in its sole and absolute discretion that each such surgery is Medical Necessary: hysterectomy, salpingo-oophorectomy, ovariectomy, orchiectomy, metoidioplasty, phalloplasty, vaginoplasty, penectomy, clitoroplasty, labiaplasty, vaginectomy, scrotoplasty, urethroplasty, or placement of testicular prostheses.

See the “Definitions” subsection of the Benefits Program Overview for what constitutes a Medically Necessary service or supply. For a surgery to be considered Medically Necessary, all criteria established by the Plan Administrator for such surgery must be satisfied. For information concerning the criteria to be satisfied to establish medical necessity, please contact an Anthem customer service associate using the number on the back of your ID card.

Before the Plan pays benefits, Anthem, as Claims Administrator, must approve all hospital confinements and/or surgical procedures related to any gender reassignment surgery. Be sure to contact Anthem before you proceed with any gender reassignment surgery or related procedure.

Cosmetic Procedures or Services Not Covered

Cosmetic procedures or services in connection with gender reassignment surgery are not covered under the Plan. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the following surgeries are considered cosmetic when used to improve the gender specific appearance of an individual who has undergone or is planning to undergo gender reassignment surgery:

- Abdominoplasty
- Blepharoplasty
- Breast augmentation
- Brow Lift
- Calf Implants
- Face lift
- Facial bone reconstruction

The Plan pays benefits for the following pre-natal and maternity services for you, your spouse, and your female children who are covered under the Plan:

- Pre-natal office visits, including one routine ultrasound;
- Hospital maternity care related to a normal pregnancy and complications of pregnancy, including (one deductible applies to both mother and child’s maternity expenses):
 - Inpatient care;

- Obstetrician services;
- Routine inpatient nursery charges (unlimited newborn visits);
- Inpatient pediatrician visits; and
- Birthing center expenses.

The Plan pays maternity benefits for services provided to the mother (if covered under the Plan) as well as certain services provided to the newborn infant while the mother is hospitalized after childbirth (even if you initially have Retiree-only coverage). However, if the newborn requires treatment for an illness or injury or remains hospitalized after the mother is discharged from the hospital after giving birth, the Plan pays benefits for that care only if you add the newborn to coverage, provided the newborn is eligible for coverage under the Plan. (The newborn child of your female child is not eligible for coverage under the Plan.) To add an eligible newborn child to your coverage, you must call the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320, or log on to the website mysourceforhr.com and add the newborn child within 31 days of the actual birth. Provided the newborn child is eligible for coverage and you timely enroll the child, coverage for the newborn takes effect as of the date of birth. Please see the “Enrollment” and the “Changing and Continuing Your Elections” section of the Benefits Program Overview for further details.

The Plan pays also benefits for services performed to diagnose infertility. However, the Plan does not pay benefits for the treatment of infertility (i.e., artificial insemination, in-vitro fertilization, embryo transfer, etc.)

Other Covered Services

- Biologicals (for example, injectables and chemotherapy);
- Blood and blood components;
- Durable medical equipment and supplies, including:

- Mandibular reconstruction devices (not primarily used to support dental prosthesis);
- Bone screws, bolts, nails, plates, and any other internal and permanent devices that are reasonably approved by the Claims Administrator.

The Plan pays benefits for the rental of durable medical equipment at the Claims Administrator’s determination. The durable medical equipment or supply must be primarily and customarily used to serve a medical purpose and be required for temporary therapeutic use (benefits are limited to the total cost of the equipment).

- Elective vasectomies and tubal ligations for the participant and his or her spouse (Please note that sterilization procedures for women will be covered as Preventive Care benefits);
- Extended care facility (convalescent care), as approved through the Claims Administrator;

 - Nursing services (RN or LPN);
 - Therapist services;
 - Home IV infusion;
 - Home health aid services;
 - Medically necessary services, supplies, and medications.

For the PPO coverage option, care must be provided through an accredited hospice care program and the hospice care program must be approved by the Claims Administrator and be licensed, certified or registered, if the state in which it is located requires the same. For the HDPPO coverage options, the hospice care program must be licensed. Covered services include:

- Coordinated home care;
- Medical supplies and dressings;
- Medications;
- Nursing services (skilled and non-skilled);
- Occupational therapy;
- Pain management services;
- Physical therapy; and
- Physician visits.

To be eligible for hospice care benefits, you must be terminally ill and your attending physician must certify that your life expectancy is six months or less.

There may be instances when short episodes of traditional care are appropriate – even if you remain in the hospice setting. Even if the traditional services are not eligible for hospice care benefits, the Plan may still cover them. Charges incurred during periods of remission are not covered.

- Human organ and tissue transplant services. The Plan pays benefits for any medically necessary human organ and tissue transplant, as determined by the Plan Administrator, including necessary acquisition costs and preparatory myeloblastic therapy, and for all covered services that are (i) Medically Necessary, as determined by the Plan Administrator, and (ii) directly related to the disease that has necessitated the covered transplant procedure or that arise as a result of the procedure, including any diagnostic evaluation for the purpose of determining the appropriateness of the procedure for a covered person.

For cornea and kidney transplants, the benefits or requirements described below do not apply. These services are paid as inpatient services, outpatient services or physician office services, depending where the service is performed.

The Plan pays benefits only for facility and provider expenses that are described as covered expenses elsewhere in this Handbook.

Before the Plan pays benefits, Anthem, as Claims Administrator, must approve all hospital confinements and/or surgical procedures related to an organ or tissue transplant. Be sure to contact Anthem before you proceed with any treatment related to a transplant.

You should contact Anthem's transplant department to discuss benefit coverage when it is determined a transplant may be needed. Contact the Anthem Customer Service telephone number on the back of your Identification Card and ask for the transplant coordinator. Anthem will then assist you in maximizing your benefits by providing coverage information, including details regarding what is covered and whether any Plan provisions, network requirements or exclusions are applicable. Failure to obtain this information prior to receiving services could result in increased financial responsibility for you. If you choose an out-of-network facility or provider, the Plan will pay covered expenses based upon a determination of the Maximum Allowed Amount and you will be responsible for any amount not paid by the Plan.

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Plan pays benefits for the following medically necessary services related to a human organ or tissue transplant:

- Physician's charges related to surgery, including charges for a surgical physician's assistant (if medically necessary), and related anesthesia.
- Inpatient covered hospital services related to the transplant procedure.
- Storage and transportation costs related to the donated organ or tissue (including the donor's medical expenses incurred as the result of a transplant provided the recipient is covered under the Plan, the expense is charged to the covered person, and no other source is available to pay the actual donor's medical expenses).
- Storage of the patient's own blood in advance of an approved transplant surgical procedure.

If a participating (in-network) transplant facility performs transplant-related services, the Plan pays benefits for medically necessary pre-transplant evaluations and 12 months of transplant-related follow-up care (including any rejection events).

The Plan will provide assistance with reasonable and necessary travel expenses as determined by the Plan Administrator when you obtain prior approval and are required to travel more than 100 miles from your residence to reach the facility where your covered transplant procedure will be performed. The Plan's assistance with travel expenses includes transportation to and from the facility and lodging for the patient and one companion. If the covered person receiving treatment is a minor, then reasonable and necessary expenses for transportation and lodging may be allowed for two companions.

Benefits for lodging are limited to $75.00 per day. There is a $20,000 combined maximum for travel and lodging. The covered person must submit itemized receipts for transportation and lodging expenses in a form satisfactory to the Plan Administrator when claims are filed.

Contact the Plan Administrator for detailed information.

How Your Prescription Drug Coverage Works in the PPO

When you participate in the PPO coverage option under the Plan, you are also provided with prescription drug coverage through the Anthem Prescription Drug Program. HMOs will provide separate prescription drug coverage.

Your benefits will vary depending on the type of prescription drug you take (generic, formulary or non-formulary) and how you buy it (at the pharmacy or through the mail).

- Generic - Drugs are no longer covered by the original patent. They include the same active ingredients as the brand-name drug at a fraction of the cost.
- Formulary - A list of approved drugs covered under the prescription drug plan. Drugs are selected for the formulary based on a combination of features, including safety, effectiveness and cost. You will pay less for a formulary drug than for a non-formulary drug.
- Non-formulary – Drugs that are not on the formulary list, but generally have a formulary alternative. You may choose non-formulary drugs, but you will pay more than a generic or formulary drug.

The PPO coverage option utilizes a clinical prior authorization (CPA) program. CPA simply means you must get approval from Anthem before certain prescription drugs will be covered under the Plan. The CPA program reviews the use of certain very costly drugs, certain drugs that could be abused by the patient, and drugs that might not be the best choice for the patient's health problem. To see if the CPA program applies to a particular drug prescribed for you, contact Anthem toll-free at 1-800-228-2891.

Also, for the PPO coverage option, regardless of whether you use a retail pharmacy or the mail order service, if a generic substitute for a brand-name drug is prescribed or if your Provider has not indicated that a brand-name drug is Medically Necessary, and if you request that the brand-name drug be dispensed, you will be responsible for payment of the applicable Co-Payment or Co-Insurance plus the difference in cost between the brand-name drug and the generic substitute.

You can fill your prescription at any participating pharmacy.

Retail

If you fill your prescription at a participating retail pharmacy, you need to meet a co-pay requirement. If your share of the drug's cost is less than the "minimum co-pay," you pay the minimum co-pay amount. If your share of the drug's cost is greater than the "maximum co-pay," you pay up to the maximum co-pay amount. See the "Highlights of Your Prescription Drug Coverage in the PPO Option" section of this Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD for further details on plan benefits.

The Plan provides no coverage for prescriptions filled through a retail pharmacy that is not a member of the network of participating retail pharmacies established by the PBM.

Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program

You and your covered dependents may also have your prescription filled for a 90-day supply at a retail pharmacy through the Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program. The prescription must be filled at a network pharmacy participating in the Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program. With this program you pay 20% of the cost of a three-month supply of the drug with applicable minimum and maximum of three times retail co-pays.

Mail Order Service

If you or your covered dependents use long-term medications, you can receive up to a 90-day supply of certain covered medications through Anthem's mail order service. With the mail order service, you must submit your prescription and applicable co-pay amount through the mail. The amount you pay depends on whether you receive a generic, formulary brand, or non-formulary brand drug.

To use the Mail Order Service:

- Complete the Mail Service Pharmacy Order Form. A new order form and envelope will be sent to you with each delivery. Please note: The registration/profile process may also be completed over the phone or online.
- Attach the prescription and a check in the amount of the applicable co-pay. Make your check payable to Anthem or provide a credit card number (follow the instructions on the form). Please do not submit cash with your order.
- Mail the Mail Service Pharmacy Order Form and your check to the Anthem mailing address included on the Form.
- Have your physician write a new original prescription so that you can submit it directly to the mail order service pharmacy with your Mail Service Pharmacy Order Form. If you need medication immediately, ask your doctor for two prescriptions:
 - One for an immediate supply (you can then take this to your local participating pharmacy)
 - A second one for the extended supply (you can then submit this one to the mail order service)

You will receive your mail order prescription approximately 14 days from the date your mail order is received.

To find out if your pharmacy is in the network, contact Anthem at 1-800-228-2891 to speak with a customer service representative. You may also log on to the Anthem website at anthem.com.

See the "Highlights of your Prescriptions Drug Coverage in the PPO Option" section for further details on plan benefits.

If your percentage of the cost results in an amount that is less than the "minimum Co-Payment," you pay the minimum Co-Payment amount. If your percentage of the cost results in an amount that is greater than the "maximum Co-Payment," you pay up to the maximum Co-Payment amount. For the PPO Coverage Option, if a generic substitute for a brand-name drug is prescribed or if your Provider has not indicated that a brand-name drug is Medically Necessary, and if you request that the brand-name drug be dispensed instead, you may be responsible for paying the difference between the cost of the brand-name drug and the generic substitute, in addition to the applicable Co-Pay or Co-Insurance.

How Your Prescription Drug Coverage Works in the High Deductible Options

Regardless which High Deductible Option you participate in, you are covered under the Anthem Prescription Drug Program for your prescription drug coverage.

Prescription drug expenses are covered the same way as any other medical expense, subject to the deductible and co-insurance. These expenses are not subject to separate co-insurance or out-of-pocket maximum amounts. The drug plan is an open formulary, so there is no designation in terms of generic, brand, etc. Therefore, you will pay the discounted cost of the drug.

The High Deductible Options utilize a Quantity Limit Management program for certain prescription drugs. This program limits the amount of medicine that's covered by your plan for a certain length of time. For example, a drug may have a limit of 30 pills per 30 days. If you refill a prescription too soon or your doctor prescribes an amount that's higher than usual, your pharmacist will tell you. Taking too much medicine or using it too often is dangerous and costly. That's why this program may limit how much of your medicine you can get each month. For a list of the drugs included in this program, please contact Anthem at the number on the back of your ID card. Since the drug list is updated on a regular basis, you can always find the most current details and covered quantity limits when you log in at anthem.com.

The High Deductible Options utilize a step care therapy program for certain classes of prescription drugs. For a list of the drugs included in this program, please contact Anthem at the number on the back of your ID card. This program requires the utilization of an effective first-line medication before a more expensive alternative may be covered under the Plan. Therefore, medications that meet established guidelines and/or have a generic alternative must be used as the first-line medication before more expensive medications are authorized, unless your doctor informs Anthem otherwise.

Also, for the High Deductible Options, regardless of whether you use a retail pharmacy or the mail order service, if a brand-name drug has a generic substitute (that is, a drug with the same active ingredients as the brand-name drug), and if you or your Provider request that the brand-name drug be dispensed, you will be responsible for the applicable Co-Insurance plus the difference in cost between the brand-name drug and the generic substitute.

Retail Service

If you fill your prescription at a retail pharmacy and have not satisfied your deductible, you will pay the discounted cost of the drug. If you have satisfied your deductible, you will pay the applicable co-insurance amount, either 20% or 40%, dependent upon whether the pharmacy offers Anthem discounts.

To find out if your pharmacy is in the network, contact Anthem at 1-800-228-2891 to speak with a customer service representative. You may also log on to the Anthem website at anthem.com.

Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program

You and your covered dependents may also have your prescription filled for a 90-day supply at a retail pharmacy through the Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program. The prescription must be filled at a network pharmacy participating in the Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program. With this program you pay 20% of the cost of a three-month supply of the drug after you satisfy your deductible.

Mail Order Service

If you or your covered dependents use long-term medications, you can receive up to a 90-day supply of certain covered medications through the mail order service.

With the mail order service, you must submit an original prescription from your doctor and:

- Complete the Mail Order Pharmacy Form. A new order form envelope will be sent to you with each delivery.
- Attach the prescription and a check in the amount of the applicable discounted cost of the drug or co-insurance.
- Mail the Mail Order Pharmacy Form and your check to the address on the Form.

If you need medication immediately, ask your doctor for two prescriptions:

- One for an immediate supply (you can then take this to your local participating pharmacy and
- A second one for the extended supply (you can then submit this one to the mail order service)

You will receive your mail order prescription approximately 14 days from the date your mail order is received. To request a form or if you have questions, you may go to the Anthem website anthem.com or contact mail order customer service at 1-800-228-2891 to ask for assistance.

EAP/Work Life/Legal & Financial Services

Beacon Health Options offers you and your family an Employee Assistance Program (EAP), which provides short term counseling, information, resources, and referrals on a variety of life issues that you may be facing. These issues can include:

- Marital and family relationships
- Finding child care
- Depression and anxiety
- Adopting a child
- Workplace Concerns
- Caring for an elderly parent
- Balancing work and your personal life
- Legal and financial issues

The EAP provides clinical, professional assistance 24 hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days a year at 1-800-946-5360. The EAP is a confidential program available at no cost; you and your household members have up to six (6) sessions per year with an EAP counselor, either in-person, telephonically or via video. Counselors will help you define your needs, and provide counseling, support and referrals as needed. If clinical assistance is needed beyond the six EAP sessions for outpatient or inpatient treatment, you are responsible for the care selected.

You can also call the EAP for Work Life issues, e.g., eldercare and childcare. Extensive searches for information and services compatible with your family's preferences and finances will be provided. Work Life Consultants work hard to find resources that fit your budget requirements. Resource and referral information provided to you is at no cost. However, you are responsible for costs associated with services and businesses with whom you may contract.

Additionally, you can call the EAP for guidance on legal and financial issues including, but not limited to, divorce, domestic violence, criminal, civil, landlord tenant issues, debt management, estate planning, family budgeting, etc. The benefit allows for a free 30-minute consultation with a financial consultant, a 60-minute consultation with an attorney for family law issues and a 35% discount if you retain the attorney, and a free 30-minute consultation with an attorney for legal issues other than family law, with a 25% discount if the attorney is retained.

Health Savings Account (HSA)

As a Pre-65 Retiree, you cannot continue to make contributions by means of payroll deduction to the health savings account ("HSA") you established through the Company. However you may continue to contribute to your HSA outside of payroll deduction (or to another health savings account you establish) until you attain age 65, provided you are enrolled in the HDPPPO 1 or HDPPPO 2 options or other eligible high deductible coverage and you are otherwise eligible under Federal law to contribute to such an account.

If you previously contributed to an HSA through the Company by means of payroll deduction, your HSA contributions made through payroll deduction as well as the Company's contributions to your HSA will stop when you retire. Your account balance goes with you, however, and continues to earn interest. You may continue to use your HSA to pay for future medical expenses during retirement. However, you will be responsible for paying any monthly fees related to the administration of your account. Upon your retirement, your HSA will be converted to a new direct account in your name, and you will receive a new debit card you can use to pay for eligible expenses.

Contact the HSA custodian, UMB, directly at 1-866-520-4472 if you have any questions about your HSA or your debit card after you retire.

Coordination of Benefits (COB)

If you or your dependents have coverage under another medical plan or program, your benefits under the Plan coordinate with benefits outside the Plan to help eliminate duplicate payments for the same services. See the "Coordination of Benefits (COB)" information in the Benefits Program Overview section to learn more about the Plan's COB features.

Please Note: If you or your covered dependent are enrolled in Medicare due to end-stage renal disease, and if Medicare is not already paying as primary, the Plan continues to pay as primary during the first 30 months of dialysis or the first 30 months of treatment in connection with a kidney transplant. Thereafter, Medicare generally becomes the primary payor of benefits.

Filing a Claim

Generally, In-Network Providers file claims on your behalf. If so, the Claims Administrator will send payments directly to the provider. You will be sent a statement itemizing what has been paid.

If your provider does not file claims on your behalf, you must file your claims as follows:

- Complete the appropriate claim form. Claim forms can be obtained by calling Anthem at the number listed on the back of your ID card.
- Attach copies of all available medical bills that should be considered for Plan benefits. These bills should include:
 - Name of patient;
 - Name and Social Security number of Retiree;
 - Date of treatment;
 - Type of treatment;
 - Charge for the treatment;
 - Provider of the treatment; and
 - Any other information that clearly indicates the medical expense
- Mail your completed claim form to the address on the back of your Benefit Plan ID card.
- Submit your claim to the Claims Administrator as soon as possible after you receive the covered service.

The Claims Administrator will process your claim. Generally, claim payments are sent directly to providers. However, there may be situations where payments are sent directly to you (i.e. your provider is not a member of the network). Any claims submitted after 18 months from the date of service generally will not be considered for payment. If you have any questions regarding filing claims, contact Anthem at the number listed on the back of your ID card.

Claim Determination and Appeal Process

For information regarding the Plan's claim determination and appeal process, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled "Claim Determination and Appeal Process – Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan."

Continuation of Coverage

General

For information regarding continuation of coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, including COBRA continuation coverage, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled "Continuation of Coverage."

Additional Information

Your Rights Under the Newborn's and Mother's Health Protection Act

Under Federal law, the Plan generally may not restrict benefits for any hospital length of stay in connection with childbirth for the mother or newborn child to less than 48 hours following a vaginal delivery, or less than 96 hours following a delivery by cesarean section. However, Federal law generally does not prohibit a shorter stay if the attending provider, after consultation with the mother, discharges the mother or newborn earlier than 48 hours (or 96 hours as applicable). In any case, the Plan may not require that the provider obtain authorization from the Plan for prescribing a length of stay that is not in excess of the above periods.

Women's Health and Cancer Rights Act of 1998

Federal law requires the Plan to provide coverage for the following services to an individual receiving Plan benefits in connection with a mastectomy:

- All stages of reconstruction of the breast on which the mastectomy has been performed;

- Surgery and reconstruction of the other breast to produce a symmetrical appearance;
- Prostheses; and
- Treatment of physical complications for all stages of a mastectomy, including lymphedemas (swelling associated with the removal of lymph nodes).

These benefits will be provided subject to the same deductibles and co-insurance applicable to other medical and surgical benefits provided under the Plan. If you would like more information on these benefits, contact the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

*Medicare introduced an optional prescription drug benefit (also known as Medicare part D) in January 2006. This benefit offers coverage for part of the cost of many prescription drugs for Medicare-eligible participants. You may want to consider enrolling in Medicare Part D to receive prescription drug benefits through Medicare. If you are eligible for coverage under Medicare Part D and do not enroll during your initial enrollment period, you may incur significant penalties in the form of higher Medicare premiums when you ultimately do enroll in coverage. Note: The MAP Option offers prescription drug coverage. Once you enroll in the MAP-Med Only Option, you may not later enroll in the MAP Option. See "Enrollment in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan" in the Benefits Program Overview for more information. You cannot be enrolled in both Medicare Part D prescription drug coverage and prescription drug coverage under the MAP Option.

Medical Expenses Not Covered

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the medical expenses not covered under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan include, but may not be limited to those medical expenses that would not be covered by Medicare, charges that a covered person is not legally required to pay and charges that would not have been made if the Plan had not existed, and charges incurred prior to the effective date of coverage, or after the termination date of coverage.

Please contact the Claims Administrator with questions regarding those medical expenses not covered.

To confirm if an expense is eligible for reimbursement, contact an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card.

How to File a Claim

Since the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan is designed to supplement your coverage under Medicare, Medicare is your primary carrier. That means that, as a general rule, your expenses must be submitted to Medicare before they are submitted to the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan for payment.

Medical expenses are usually submitted to Medicare directly by the provider. However, it is your responsibility to submit your claim to the Plan's Claim Administrator for benefit payments under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

Some providers, however, may submit your expenses to both Medicare and the Plan for payment. In that event, you would not need to submit any additional claim forms. Please ask your provider whether your claim filing will be submitted to Anthem for your Medicare Supplement benefit payments.

In the event you must submit a claim form to Anthem for your benefit payment, that claim form may be obtained by calling Anthem at the number listed on the back of your ID card. Your Medicare Explanation of Benefits (EOB) must be included when filing a claim with Anthem. If you have any questions relating to your claim filing process, you can call Anthem at the number listed on the back of your ID card. Claim forms should be submitted to:

Anthem Blue Cross and Blue Shield
P.O. Box 105187
Atlanta, GA 30348
anthem.com
1-800-228-2891

Please note that it is essential that you include the Medicare Explanation of Benefits form with your claim form because the Plan's benefits are computed on the basis of what Medicare approved as eligible expense.

Retain copies of all bills and Medicare correspondence for your records.

Below is a list of details that are often erroneously omitted from claim forms. Please refer to it when completing your claim form so you can make sure your claim form is complete.

1. Age and relationship of dependent
2. Physician's statement showing place, date and charge for treatment.
3. Itemized X-ray and laboratory bills showing date, charge and type of examination.
4. Full statement as to how, when and where injury occurred.

No cancelled checks, receipts or summaries of balances due are acceptable as evidence of expense incurred—only itemized statements accompanied by a Medicare Explanation of Benefits form are acceptable. Furthermore, a separate claim form must be completed by you and your physician for each sickness or injury. However, in case of chronic illnesses such as allergies or hypertension, you only must submit one physician's statement each calendar year.

One additional point to keep in mind is that the MAP-Med Only Option and the Medicare Supplement Option do not cover prescription drug expenses.

EAP/Work Life/Legal & Financial Services

Beacon Health Options offers you and your family an Employee Assistance Program (EAP), which provides short term counseling, information, resources, and referrals on a variety of life issues that you may be facing. These issues can include:

- Marital and family relationships
- Finding child care
- Depression and anxiety
- Adopting a child
- Workplace Concerns
- Caring for an elderly parent
- Balancing work and your personal life
- Legal and financial issues

The EAP provides clinical, professional assistance 24 hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days a year at 1-800-946-5360. The EAP is a confidential program available at no cost; you and your household members have up to six (6) sessions per year with an EAP counselor, either in-person, telephonically or via video. Counselors will help you define your needs, and provide counseling, support and referrals as needed. If clinical assistance is needed beyond the six EAP sessions for outpatient or inpatient treatment, you are responsible for the care selected.

You can also call the EAP for Work Life issues, e.g., eldercare and childcare. Extensive searches for information and services compatible with your family's preferences and finances will be provided. Work Life Consultants work hard to find resources that fit your budget requirements. Resource and referral information provided to you is at no cost. However, you are responsible for costs associated with services and businesses with whom you may contract.

Additionally, you can call the EAP for guidance on legal and financial issues including, but not limited to, divorce, domestic violence, criminal, civil, landlord tenant issues, debt management, estate planning, family budgeting, etc. The benefit allows for a free 30-minute consultation with a financial consultant, a 60-minute consultation with an attorney for family law issues and a 35% discount if you retain the attorney, and a free 30-minute consultation with an attorney for legal issues other than family law, with a 25% discount if the attorney is retained.

Claim Determination and Appeal Process

For information regarding the Plan's claim determination and appeal process, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled "Claim Determination and Appeal Process – Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan."

Continuation of Coverage

For information regarding continuation of coverage under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, including COBRA continuation coverage, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled "Continuation of Coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan."

Additional Information

Your Rights Under the Newborn's and Mother's Health Protection Act

Under Federal law, the Plan generally may not restrict benefits for any hospital length of stay in connection with childbirth for the mother or newborn child to less than 48 hours following a vaginal delivery, or less than 96 hours following a delivery by cesarean section. However, Federal law generally does not prohibit a shorter stay if the attending provider, after consultation with the mother, discharges the mother or newborn earlier than 48 hours (or 96 hours as applicable). In any case, the Plan may not require that the provider obtain authorization from the Plan for prescribing a length of stay that is not in excess of the above periods.

Your Retiree Life Insurance and AD&D Options

This is the SPD (the “Retiree Life Insurance SPD”) for the NiSource Life Insurance Plan, also referred to as the Retiree Life Insurance Plan. In this Retiree Life Insurance SPD, the Retiree Life Insurance Plan is sometimes referred to as the “Plan.”

NiSource Inc. (the “Company”) offers the NiSource Life Insurance Plan to eligible Retirees with the following coverage options (each a “Coverage Option”):

- Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage Option;
- Supplemental Retiree AD&D Coverage Option; and
- Dependents AD&D Coverage Option.

Benefits are provided under one or more group insurance contracts (collectively, the “Group Contract”) and one or more group insurance certificates (collectively, the “Group Insurance Certificate”) issued by Minnesota Life Insurance Company (“Securian”), an affiliate of Securian Financial Group, Inc., who is the Insurer and Claims Administrator and is wholly responsible for the payment of benefits.

If there is a conflict between the Group Contract and Group Insurance Certificate, on the one hand, and this Retiree Life Insurance SPD, on the other hand, the terms of the Group Contract and the Group Insurance Certificate shall prevail. You should refer to the Group Insurance Certificate for a detailed explanation of the benefits offered under the Plan and the limitations upon those benefits, and for an explanation of the various terms and concepts used in this Retiree Life Insurance SPD. You may obtain a copy of the Group Insurance Certificate by contacting the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

The Plan provides (i) life insurance and, if elected, AD&D coverage on the persons of eligible Retirees, and (ii) AD&D coverage, if elected on the persons of your “eligible dependents”.

Eligibility

For information regarding eligibility under the Retiree Life Insurance Plan, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled “Eligibility under the Retiree Life Insurance Plan.”

Contributions

Premium contributions are not required for the Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage Option. However, if you elect any of the AD&D Coverage Options, you will contribute to the cost of such coverage. If you have questions regarding the amount of your required contributions, please contact the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

When Coverage Begins and Ends

For information regarding when coverage begins and ends under the Retiree Life Insurance Plan, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled “When Coverage Begins and Ends – Retiree Life Insurance Plan.”

Beneficiaries and Assignments

Refer to the Group Insurance Certificate for details regarding designation of beneficiaries under the Coverage Option. You can obtain a beneficiary form by calling the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

Insurance under a Coverage Option may not be assigned.

Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage

The Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage Option provides a benefit to your beneficiary or beneficiaries in the amount of $25,000. There is no cash value associated with, or attributable to, the Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage Option.

Please Note: No lawsuit or legal action of any kind regarding a claim for benefits under the Plan may be commenced unless the claims procedure process for internal appeals (but not including any voluntary appeal) has been exhausted. In addition, in no event may any lawsuit or other legal action regarding a claim for benefits be commenced later than three years after the end of the period within which proof of claim is required, unless otherwise provided under Federal law. For more information, see the "Claims Determination and Appeal Process – Life Insurance Plan" section of the Benefits Program Overview, and in particular the section entitled "Limitation of Actions and Venue," found on page 36.

Payment of Death Benefits under Life Coverage

If you die while covered under the Plan, the amount of insurance on you is payable when Securian's home office receives written proof satisfactory to it that you died while covered under the Plan and insured under the Group Insurance Certificate. If you die within 31 days after ceasing to be covered under the Plan, but while you are entitled to convert insurance under the Plan to an individual contract, death benefits in the amount of insurance that could have been converted may be payable when Securian receives written proof as described above.

Death Benefits under the Retiree Term Life Coverage Option are payable according to Securian's beneficiary and mode of settlement rules.

Conversion Privilege for Life Coverage

If all or a part of your Retiree Term Life Insurance terminates because you move from one existing eligible class to another, or you are no longer in an eligible class, you may convert up to the full amount of terminated insurance.

Limited conversion is available if, after you have been insured for at least five years, insurance is terminated because (1) the Group Contract is terminated; or (2) the Group Contract is changed to reduce or terminate your insurance. In such case, you may convert up to the full amount of terminated insurance, but not more than the maximum. The maximum is the lesser of: (a) $10,000; and (b) the amount of life insurance which terminated minus any amount of group life insurance for which you become eligible under any group policy issued or reinstated by Securian or any other carrier within 31 days of the date the insurance terminated under the Group Contract.

Under both the conversion right and the limited conversion right, you may convert your insurance to any type of individual policy of life insurance then customarily issued by the life insurance company for purposes of conversion, except term insurance. The individual policy will not include any supplemental benefits, including, but not limited to, any disability benefits, accidental death and dismemberment benefits, or accelerated benefits.

See the "Highlights of Conversion and Portability Features" below for additional details regarding the conversion privilege. Also, refer to the Group Insurance Certificate for additional details, terms and conditions.

AD&D Coverage

Supplemental Retiree AD&D Coverage Option

Subject to eligibility and enrollment requirements described above, you may enroll for supplemental retiree AD&D coverage in any multiple of $10,000 up to a maximum of $50,000.

Please Note: No lawsuit or legal action of any kind regarding a claim for benefits under the Plan may be commenced unless the claims procedure process for internal appeals (but not including any voluntary appeal) has been exhausted. In addition, in no event may any lawsuit or other legal action regarding a claim for benefits be commenced later than three years after the end of the period within which proof of claim is required, unless otherwise provided under Federal law. For more information, see the "Claims Determination and Appeal Process – Life Insurance Plan" section of the Benefits Program Overview, and in particular the section entitled "Limitation of Actions and Venue," found on page 36.

Dependents AD&D Coverage Option

You may enroll for AD&D coverage on each of your "eligible dependents" in an amount equal to a percentage of your Supplemental Retiree AD&D Coverage, as set forth below:

Eligible dependents	Amount of Insurance on each Eligible Dependent (as % of Retiree AD&D Coverage)
Spouse (with	50% on spouse children)

Spouse (no children)	60% on spouse
Each child	10% on each child

Additional AD&D Coverage

The Plan provides additional benefits under Supplemental Retiree and Dependents AD&D Coverage for a person's loss of life as a result of a covered accident in an automobile while using a seat belt or as a result of an accident in an automobile while using an air bag. The additional benefits are both in an amount equal to 10% of the amount payable due to the death or dismemberment. The additional benefits are subject to various conditions and limitations. For a description of these conditions and limitations, refer to the Group Insurance Certificate.

Covered Losses under AD&D Coverage

AD&D Coverage pays benefits for death or dismemberment resulting, directly and independently of all other causes, from an accidental injury which is unintended, unexpected and unforeseen.

The injury must occur while your coverage under the Plan and the Group Insurance Certificate is in force. Your death or dismemberment must occur within 365 days after the date of the injury and while your coverage under the Plan and the Group Insurance Certificate is in force.

The amount of the accidental death and dismemberment benefit is described below:

Loss of or by reason of	Percent of Person's Amount of Insurance
Life; both hands; both feet; sight of both eyes; speech and hearing; one hand and one foot; one foot and sight of one eye; one hand and sight of one eye; quadriplegia	100%
Paraplegia	75%
Sight of one eye; speech; hearing; one hand; one foot; hemiplegia	50%
Thumb and index finger of one hand	25%

Loss of hands or feet means complete severance at or above the wrist or ankle joints. Loss of sight, speech, or hearing means the entire and irrecoverable loss of sight, speech, or hearing which cannot be corrected by medical or surgical treatment or by artificial means. Loss of thumb and index finger means complete severance of both the thumb and the index finger at or above the metacarpophalangeal joints.

Quadriplegia means total and permanent paralysis of both upper limbs and both lower limbs.

Paraplegia means total and permanent paralysis of both lower limbs. Hemiplegia means total and permanent paralysis of both the upper limb and lower limb on one side of the body.

A benefit is not payable for both loss of thumb and index finger of one hand and the loss of one hand for injury to the same hand as a result of any one accident.

Benefits may be paid for more than one accidental injury, but the total amount of insurance payable under the Plan and the Group Insurance Certificate for all of your losses due to any one accident will never exceed the full amount of insurance described above.

Benefits will be paid upon receipt by Securian at its home office of written proof satisfactory to it that you or your eligible dependent died or suffered dismemberment as a result of an accidental injury.

Losses Not Covered

A loss is not covered if it results from or is caused directly or indirectly by any of the following: (1) Suicide or attempted suicide, while sane or insane; (2) Intentionally self-inflicted injuries, or any attempt to inflict such injuries; (3) sickness, whether the loss results directly or indirectly from the sickness; (4) medical or surgical treatment of sickness, whether the loss results directly or indirectly from the treatment; (5) Any infection (but this does not include (a) a pyogenic infection resulting from an accidental cut or wound; or (b) a bacterial infection resulting from accidental ingestion of a contaminated substance); (6) War, or any act of war ("War" means declared or undeclared war and includes resistance to armed aggression); (7) an accident that occurs while the person is serving on full-time active duty for more than 30 days in any armed forces (not including Reserve or National Guard active duty for training); (8) travel in or descent from any aircraft, except: a) as a fare-paying passenger on a regularly scheduled commercial flight on a licensed passenger aircraft carrier; b) while the employee is performing as a pilot or crew member of an employer owned, leased or operated aircraft; or c) while the employee is riding as a passenger in an aircraft which is owned, leased, or operated by the eligible employee's employer or its affiliate or by a customer of the employer or its affiliate; (9) commission of or attempt to commit a felony; (10) being legally intoxicated or under the influence of any narcotic unless administered or consumed on the advice of a doctor; or (11) participation in these hazardous sports: scuba diving; bungee jumping; skydiving; parachuting; hang gliding; or ballooning.

Portability of AD&D Coverage

If AD&D Coverage ceases, you may have the right to apply for coverage for yourself and for your "eligible dependent," as the case may be, under a Portability Plan maintained by the life insurance company. The terms and conditions (including the amount of coverage) under the Portability Plan will not be the same as those under the Plan.

To continue coverage under the Portability Plan, you must make a written request and make the first premium contribution within 31 days after insurance provided by the Plan or Group Contract would otherwise terminate. Evidence of insurability will not be required. Portability coverage then be deemed effective retroactive to the beginning of the 31-day period. This date is considered to be your portability date and you are then considered to have portability status. In order for your eligible dependents to continue Dependents AD&D Coverage, you must port your Retiree Supplemental AD&D Insurance.

See the table below entitled "Highlights of Conversion and Portability Features," for additional details regarding the portability feature. Also, refer to the Group Insurance Certificate for additional details, terms and conditions.

Your Eligibility for Portability Coverage

You and your eligible dependents are eligible to continue your Retiree Supplemental AD&D Coverage and Dependents AD&D Coverage under the terms of the Plan and Group Insurance Certificate if you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for coverage (other than portability coverage) due to any of the following:

- (1) you are no longer in a class eligible for coverage;
or

- (2) a class or group of employees insured under the Plan is no longer considered eligible and there is no successor plan for that class or group.
(Successor plan means an insurance policy or policies provided by the life insurance company or another insurer that replaces insurance provided under the Plan).

You will not be eligible to request portability coverage if you:

- (1) have attained the age of 80; or
- (2) lose eligibility due to termination of the Plan or Group Contract.

Maximum and Minimum Amount of Coverage under the Portability Plan

The maximum amount of insurance that can be continued under the Portability Plan is the amount of insurance that was in force on the insured's portability date. However, for an insured age 65 or older on his or her portability date, the amount will not be more than 65% of the amount in force on the insured's portability date.

When an insured attains age 65, the amount of insurance continued under the Portability Plan will reduce to 65% of the amount of insurance in force on the day prior to attainment of age 65. Insurance terminates at age 80.

The minimum amount of insurance that can be continued under the Portability Plan is $10,000. This minimum does not apply to an eligible dependent.

You may elect to reduce the amount of insurance on your life under the Portability Plan. However, your remaining amount of insurance must be at least $10,000. The amount of insurance continued under the Portability Plan will never increase.

Regaining Eligibility Under Plan

If you are continuing coverage under the terms of Portability Plan, and you again meet the eligibility requirements of the Plan and the Group Insurance Certificate (not including the requirements for portability coverage), you shall no longer be considered to have portability status. Insurance may be continued only under the terms of the Plan and the Group Insurance Certificate, unless and until you no longer meet the eligibility requirements thereunder and again return to portability status as provided for herein.

Continuation of Portability Coverage After Termination of Group Contract

Termination of the Group Contract will not terminate insurance then in force for any person with portability status. The Group Contract will be deemed to remain in force solely for the purpose of continuing such insurance, but without the obligation of the Company.

Termination of Portability Coverage

Insurance being continued under the Portability Plan will terminate on the earliest of the following:

- (1) the insured attaining age 80; or
- (2) the date the insured again meets the eligibility requirements of the Plan and the Group Insurance Certificate; or
- (3) in the case of your dependent child or a spouse who is covered under the Plan, the date your coverage is no longer being continued under the Portability Plan or the date your spouse or child ceases to be eligible under the Plan; or
- (4) 31 days after the due date of any premium contribution which is not made.

See the “Highlights of Conversion and Portability Features” below for additional details regarding the portability privilege. Also, refer to the Group Insurance Certificate for additional details, terms and conditions.

Benefits Program Overview

The Benefit of Choice – An Introduction to the Program

The benefit information contained in this Handbook applies to eligible retired employees (A) who were former regular part-time Columbia Energy Group Bargaining Unit employees of a Columbia Energy Group Subsidiary, an indirect subsidiary of NiSource Inc. (“NiSource” or the “Company”) (the Company and each Columbia Energy Group Subsidiary, an “Employer”), who were hired or rehired before January 1, 2013, and who retired from employment with an Employer after February 1, 2004, and (B) who are covered under one or more of the NiSource Life and Medical Benefits Program and the NiSource Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan (collectively, the “Program”), or various component benefit plans of the foregoing. For definitions of “Columbia Energy Group Subsidiary” and Columbia Energy Group Bargaining Unit,” please see the “Definitions” Section of the Benefits Program Overview.

This Handbook serves as the Summary Plan Descriptions (“SPDs”) for the benefit plans as of January 1, 2021. It completely replaces any SPDs or summaries of material modifications that you have previously received with respect to the benefits described herein. The information enclosed has been prepared to summarize the benefits in an easy to understand format and is not intended to replace or supersede the official plan documents. The official plan documents are the governing documents in the event that questions arise or if there is a conflict between an SPD or any oral communication, on the one hand, and an official plan document, on the other hand. The NiSource Benefits Committee (the “Committee”) reserves the right to terminate, change or modify any plan provision at any time without the consent of, or advance notice to, you or your covered dependents, subject to the provisions of any applicable collective bargaining agreement.

The Program, or a portion thereof, also covers the following classes of employees, although benefits for such classes of employees are described in separate Handbooks and not herein: full-time exempt employees; part-time exempt employees; full-time non-exempt employees; part-time non-exempt employees; full-time employees who are members of certain collective bargaining units; part-time employees who are members of certain collective bargaining units; retirees who formerly were employees described in certain of the foregoing classes; and certain temporary work force and/or part-time status employees.

“ERISA” means the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended.

“Outbreak Period” means the period beginning March 1, 2020, and ending 60 days after (A) the announced end of the national emergency declared in (i) that certain Proclamation on Declaring a National Emergency Concerning the Novel Coronavirus Disease (COVID-19) Outbreak issued on March 13, 2020 by President Trump and (ii) that separate letter dated March 13, 2020, from President Trump to the Secretaries of the Departments of Homeland Security, the Treasury, and Health and Human Services and the Administrator of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, in which the President made a determination, under section 501(b) of the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Act that a national emergency exists nationwide beginning March 1, 2020, as a result of the COVID-19 outbreak, or (B) such other date announced by the Employee Benefits Security Administration, Department of Labor, Internal Revenue Service, and Department of the Treasury in a future notice; provided, however, that such period shall be subject to the statutory duration limitation in ERISA Section 518 and Code Section 7508A and to such other limitations or guidance that may be issued by the Employee Benefits Security Administration, Department of Labor, Internal Revenue Service, or Department of the Treasury.

“Participating Employer” means with respect to any Benefit Plan, the Company, a Columbia Energy Group Subsidiary, or any other affiliate of the Company that participates in the Benefit Plan.

“Plan Administrator” means the NiSource Benefits Committee, and any person or entity to whom the committee has from time to time delegated authority to carry out the administrative functions of a Plan.

“Retiree” means a former regular part-time Columbia Energy Group Bargaining Unit employee of an Employer who was hired or rehired before January 1, 2013, and who retired from employment with an Employer after February 1, 2004, in accordance with a plan or procedure adopted by the Employer, after having attained age 55 and 10 Eligibility Years of Service.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, the term “Retiree” shall not include a person the Plan Administrator determines, in its discretion, belongs to a Retiree Benefit Program other than Retiree Benefit Program 622. (Retiree Benefit Programs are groupings, established by the Plan Administrator for recordkeeping purposes, of similarly situated retirees who are entitled to retiree medical benefits or retiree life and AD&D benefits at retirement.)

Eligibility

General Information Concerning Eligibility

You and your eligible dependents (as defined below or in the applicable individual Benefit Plan sections of this Handbook) will be eligible to participate in the Benefit Plans when and to the extent provided under the applicable Benefit Plan. Generally, you and your eligible dependents will be eligible to elect to participate in the Benefit Plans on the date of your retirement.

A Retiree who is rehired by an Employer (other than a person rehired as a union employee of Northern Indiana Public Service Company LLC) shall lose eligibility for coverage as a Retiree under the Retiree Medical Plans and the Retiree Life Insurance Plan (and shall not be eligible for such coverage upon his or her subsequent retirement), but may be eligible for coverage under the NiSource Consolidated Flex Medical Plan and the NiSource Life Insurance Plan as an employee, subject to the terms and conditions for employee coverage under those Benefit Plans.

Please Note: It is your responsibility to advise the Benefits Source when a person is no longer eligible for coverage as a dependent under a Benefit Plan. Any amounts paid by a Benefit Plan on behalf of a person who is no longer an eligible dependent will be required to be repaid to the plan. Enrollment of, or failure to disenroll, a person who does not satisfy the eligibility requirements for coverage under a Benefit Plan will be deemed to constitute fraud or intentional misrepresentation of a material fact and may result in retroactive termination of benefits and required repayment of any ineligible expenses. Also, enrollment of a dependent under a Benefit Plan may be denied or revoked if you fail to provide information or evidence reasonably requested by the Plan Administrator or its designee concerning the dependent's eligibility for coverage under the plan.

Eligibility under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan

Pre-65 Retirees are eligible to participate in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan. Post-65 Retirees are eligible to participate in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

If you are a Pre-65 Retiree participating in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or a Post-65 Retiree participating in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, (a) you may cover your eligible dependents under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan if they have not attained age 65, and (b) you may cover your eligible dependents under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan if they have attained age 65.

Your eligible dependents include:

- Your Spouse, provided you are not legally separated;
- With respect to insured Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan coverage that is provided under a policy of health insurance or pursuant to a contract with a health maintenance organization, but only to the extent and for as long as required by applicable state law, your former spouse or your spouse from whom you are legally separated;
- Your child who has not attained 26 years of age;
- Your unmarried child who satisfies the dependency test below and who is incapable of self-sustaining employment due to mental or physical disability if: (1) the child's disability arose before the date dependent status would otherwise have terminated; (2) proof of the child's disability, if requested by the Claims Administrator, is received by the Claims Administrator within 31 days of the date dependent status would otherwise have terminated, (3) the child is dependent upon you for financial support and maintenance, (4) you continue to be covered by the Plan, and (5) the child's disability continues;

Please Note: To maintain coverage, you must furnish proof of your child's disability to the Claims Administrator every three years, or more frequently as requested by the Claims Administrator. If the Claims Administrator determines that you have failed to furnish sufficient proof of your child's disability or if it determines that your child is no longer disabled, coverage for your child will cease.

- Your child who is recognized under any court order, including a Qualified Medical Child Support Order recognized as being legally sufficient, as having a right to participate in the Plan as a dependent (and with respect to the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, who is age 65 or older).

A child satisfies the dependency test for a particular Plan Year if you would be allowed a dependent exemption for such child in computing your federal taxable income for such year, even if the Code provides that the value of such exemption for a particular year is zero. Your child also satisfies the dependency test for a particular Plan Year if (1) such child receives over half of his or her support during the year from his or her parents and is in the custody of one or both parents for more than half of the year, (2) at least one parent would be allowed a dependent exemption for such child in computing such parent's federal taxable income for such year, and (3) the child's parents are divorced, legally separated under a decree of divorce or separate maintenance, legally separated under a written separation agreement, or live apart at all times for the last six months of the year. In making these determinations, you may ignore the child's gross income for such year. You should consult a tax advisor if you have any questions about whether your child satisfies this dependency test.

Please refer to the website mysourceforhr.com, or call the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320 if you are unsure of whether you are eligible to participate in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

Eligibility under the Retiree Life Insurance Plan

As a Retiree, you are eligible to participate in the Retiree Life Insurance Plan.

Enrollment

General Information Concerning Enrollment

When you first become eligible to participate in a Benefit Plan, and each year during annual enrollment, you have the opportunity to select for you and your eligible dependents, retiree medical coverage.

You are automatically enrolled for EAP/Work Life/Legal & Financial coverage (even if you elect the No Coverage Option for retiree medical coverage) upon the date you become eligible for such coverage.

You are automatically enrolled for retiree term life insurance coverage upon the date you become eligible for such coverage.

To enroll in retiree medical coverage, you must log on to the website mysourceforhr.com or call the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

Enrollment in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan

Provided you meet the eligibility requirements, as described in the "Eligibility" section above, you and your eligible dependents can participate in the Pre-

65 Retiree Medical Plan and/or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, as applicable, if you properly enroll or are deemed to have enrolled.

For the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, if you are a newly eligible retiree, you must enroll yourself and any eligible dependents in retiree medical coverage no later than 31 days after the date of your retirement.

For the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, you must enroll yourself and any eligible dependents before 31 days after the later of (i) the date of your retirement, and (ii) the date you attain age 65.

In general, once you enroll for (or decline) coverage in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, your elections stay in effect for the entire Plan Year and can only be changed during annual enrollment. However, if you experience a qualified life event, you may enroll or change existing coverage during the year. Please see the "Changing and Continuing Elections" section of this Benefits Program Overview for further details. Also, you may select the "No Coverage" option at any time; however once you select this option, you may select another coverage option only at annual enrollment or in connection with a qualified life event that would permit such change.

With respect to the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, you and your eligible dependents may not enroll in the Medicare Supplement Option if at any time you were enrolled in the MAP Option, the MAP-Med Only Option, or any other Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan coverage option. Similarly, you and your eligible dependents may not enroll in the MAP Option or MAP-Med Only Option if at any time you were enrolled in the Medicare Supplement Option or in any other Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan coverage option besides the MAP Option or MAP-Med Only Option. You may change your enrollment from the MAP Option to the MAP-Med Only Option only at annual enrollment or in connection with a qualified life event that would permit such change. You may not change your enrollment from the MAP Med-Only Option to the MAP Option and you may not enroll in the MAP Option if at any time you or any of your dependents once were enrolled in the MAP-Med Only Option. If you have enrolled your eligible dependent in a Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan option and you subsequently become eligible for coverage under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, you may enroll only in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan coverage option in which your dependent is enrolled or in the “No Coverage” option.

If you enroll in Medicare Part D prescription drug coverage, you may not enroll or remain enrolled in the MAP Option providing prescription drug coverage. If you later lose or drop Medicare Part D coverage, you will not be able to enroll in the MAP Option.

Enrollment materials will automatically be sent to you upon your retirement and you will have 31 days after the date you first become eligible for retiree medical coverage to mail your medical plan election form or otherwise to complete enrollment.

Provided you have timely elected coverage at your first opportunity to enroll in retiree medical coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, your Benefit Plan enrollment will be effective on the first day of the month in which you retire, or in the case of a Pre-65 Retiree who attains age 65, your enrollment in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan will be effective as of the first day of the month in which you attain age 65. (If you are a Pre-65 Retiree who attains age 65 on the first day of a month, your enrollment in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan will be effective as of the first day of the month immediately preceding the month in which you attain age 65.) If you fail to enroll in retiree medical coverage at your first opportunity to enroll, your next opportunity to enroll will be in conjunction with the next annual enrollment or upon the occurrence of a qualified life event.

In the event you fail to enroll in retiree medical coverage at the time of your retirement (including by failing to elect the No Coverage Option), you fail to enroll in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan upon attaining age 65 after your retirement, or you fail to enroll your eligible dependent in the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan when he or she attains age 65, the following will take place:

- If you or an eligible dependent are under age 65 you will be deemed to have elected the coverage option and category of coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan that was in place for you and/or your eligible dependent(s) on the date you retired;
- If you are age 65 or over, you will not be covered by any plan for retiree medical benefits as of the date of your retirement or the date you attain age 65; and

- If your eligible dependent is age 65 or over, he or she will not be covered by any plan for retiree medical benefits as of the date he or she attains age 65.

If you are a current Retiree enrolled in retiree medical coverage and you do not make changes during the annual enrollment process, your current benefits, if available, will be maintained.

Please Note:

If you do not enroll in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan within 31 days of your initial eligibility date, your next opportunity to enroll or change elections will not be until the next annual enrollment period or until you experience a qualified life event that would permit your enrollment.

Enrollment in the Retiree Life Insurance Plan

Provided eligibility requirements are met, as described in the section above entitled “Eligibility under the Retiree Life Insurance Plan,” you will be enrolled in the Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage Option upon the date of your retirement.

Special Enrollment Rights and Opportunities

Please see the “Changing and Continuing Elections” subsection of this Benefits Program Overview for details.

Dual Coverages

If you and your dependent(s) (spouse and/or your child) are eligible for Program benefits as active employees or retirees of NiSource or one of its affiliates, any of you may choose coverage either for yourselves only or for yourselves and your eligible dependents. However, for most Program benefits, it is not possible to be covered by more than one NiSource Benefit Plan of the same type (e.g., more than one medical plan). Also, for most Benefit Plans, a NiSource active employee or retiree cannot be covered under the Benefit Plan both as a participant and as a dependent. Likewise, if you and your spouse are both eligible employees or retirees of NiSource or one of its affiliates, either of you may choose to cover your eligible child(ren); however, it is not possible for both of you to cover your child(ren) under the same plan. Double benefits are not available.

If your covered dependent becomes employed by an Employer and either timely elects medical coverage or makes no medical coverage election and is thereby deemed to have elected medical coverage under the NiSource Consolidated Flex Medical Plan, you will be deemed to have requested that coverage for such dependent under a Retiree Medical Plan be dropped.

Coverage under the Program for active employees or for eligible retirees other than the Retirees for whom this Handbook is prepared is described in separate Handbooks and not herein.

Enrollment Pursuant to a Qualified Medical Child Support Order

The Program also provides group health plan coverage for your eligible child pursuant to the terms of a Qualified Medical Child Support Order ("QMCSO"). This may apply even if you do not have legal custody of the child, the child is not dependent on you for support, and regardless of any enrollment restrictions that might otherwise exist for dependent coverage. If the Company or Participating Employer receives a valid QMCSO and you do not enroll the dependent child, the custodial parent or state agency may enroll the dependent child.

You may obtain, without charge, a copy of the Benefit Plans' QMCSO procedures from the Company.

Annual Enrollment

Each year, at annual enrollment, you will receive information regarding the Benefit Plans. Except as noted below, if you do not enroll within the annual enrollment period, your current coverages remain in effect for the upcoming Plan Year, if available, at the applicable rates. You will be advised of any new benefit plans, plans that require enrollment and the deadline date.

In the event your current plan coverage is not available and you fail to elect coverage under another plan that is offered to you, you will be deemed to have elected the default coverage, if applicable. Please see the section above entitled "Enrollment in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan" for further details.

ID Cards

Once you enroll and become a participant, you will receive identification cards for the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan at your home address.

Your ID card should be presented to your provider at the time of service. If additional cards are needed or an ID card is lost, please contact Anthem, in the case of the PPO or HDPPPO options or the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, or, if applicable, your HMO in the case of an HMO option.

Defined Dollar Subsidy for Retiree Medical Coverage

Pre-65 Retirees, Post-65 Retirees and their eligible Spouses are entitled to receive an annual defined dollar subsidy ("Defined Dollar Subsidy") to be credited toward the cost of their retiree medical coverage under a Retiree Medical Plan. Provided, however, that no Defined Dollar Subsidy is available with respect to a Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan coverage option other than the Medicare Supplement Option, the MAP Option, or the MAP-Med Only Option.

The Defined Dollar Subsidy is determined by multiplying your Defined Dollar Years of Service by a fixed dollar amount.

If you and your Spouse are both enrolled in a Retiree Medical Plan, and if you die prior to your Spouse, your surviving Spouse may receive a Defined Dollar Subsidy, to be credited toward the cost of coverage under a Retiree Medical Plan, in the amount to which you would have been entitled had you survived and were the same age as your Spouse.

When Coverage Begins and Ends - General

Please see below for a complete description of when the coverage begins and ends with respect to each Benefit Plan.

When Coverage Begins and Ends – Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan

Coverage Begins

Generally, coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan may become effective on the later of (1) the date you retire, (2) the first day of the following Plan Year for eligible Retirees who enroll during the annual enrollment period, (3) the date the Plan approves your enrollment based upon a qualified life event, and (4) the date you properly enroll. Coverage for your eligible dependent under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan may become effective, if you properly enroll him or her, (1) on the date your coverage becomes effective, (2) the first day of the following Plan Year if you enroll your eligible dependent during the annual enrollment period, or (3) on the date the Plan approves his or her enrollment based upon a qualified life event.

Coverage for you under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan may become effective on the later of (1) the date you retire, (2) the first day of the month in which you attain age 65 (or on the first day of the immediately preceding month, if you attain age 65 on the first day of the month), and (3) the date you properly enroll. Coverage for your eligible dependent under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan may become effective, if you properly enroll him or her, (1) the date your coverage becomes effective, (2) the first day of the following Plan Year if you enroll your eligible dependent during the annual enrollment period, or (3) the date the Plan approves his or her enrollment based upon a qualified life event.

Coverage Ends

Except in the case of your death (in which case coverage ends on the date of your death) or in the case of a divorce or legal separation (in which case coverage for your Spouse ends on the date of divorce or legal separation), coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan will end on the earliest of (i) the date the Plan is terminated, or (ii) the last day of the month in which you and/or your dependent loses eligibility.

Your eligibility generally ends on the earliest of the following dates:

- The date that the Plan is amended to terminate coverage with respect to a Retiree;
- The date a Retiree is no longer eligible for coverage under the Plan, including without limitation as a result of being rehired by an Employer;
- The last date for which any required contribution was made;
- The date the covered Retiree provides notice to the Company of his or her intent to terminate coverage; or
- With respect to the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, the date a Pre-65 Retiree attains age 65.

A dependent's eligibility generally ends on the earliest of the following dates:

- The date the Retiree's coverage ends;
- The last date for which any required contributions for the dependent's coverage was made;
- The date the covered Retiree provides notice to the Company of his or her intent to terminate coverage for such dependent;
- With respect to a Spouse who becomes divorced or legally separated from a Retiree, the date of divorce or legal separation; or
- The end of the month following the date a dependent no longer qualifies as a dependent.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, if coverage for you or your dependents is terminated during a Plan Year for failure to pay required contributions for coverage, you may apply to the NiSource Benefits Department during the same Plan Year to reinstate coverage retroactive to the date of termination. Your application must be in writing and must describe the extenuating circumstances that resulted in your missed payment. The Benefits Department, in its sole and absolute discretion, will determine whether there are sufficient grounds for reinstating coverage. If the Benefits Department makes a favorable determination, you must repay any missed premiums before the end of the Plan Year and before coverage will be reinstated.

Also, notwithstanding the foregoing, if your dependent experiences a COBRA qualifying event, coverage for EAP/Work Life/Legal & Financial will end the day after the expiration of the maximum COBRA continuation coverage period that would otherwise apply to such dependent, if COBRA were to apply to EAP/Work Life/Legal & Financial coverage. For a description of COBRA qualifying events, please see the “COBRA” subsection of the “Continuation of Coverage” section of this Benefits Program Overview

Please see the “Continuation of Coverage” section of this Benefits Program Overview for circumstances under which your coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan may be continued beyond the periods described above.

When Coverage Begins and Ends – Retiree Life Insurance Plan

Coverage Begins

Provided you have satisfied the eligibility and enrollment requirements described above, coverage under the Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage Option may generally become effective upon your retirement from an Employer.

Coverage Ends

Your coverage under the Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage Option will end when the first of these occurs:

- The date as of which the Plan is terminated;
- The date the Group Contract (as defined in the Retiree Life Insurance SPD) is canceled, or with respect to a particular Life Insurance Coverage Option, the date a Coverage Option is terminated;
- The date that the Plan or Group Contract is amended to terminate coverage for you or to make you no longer eligible; and
- The last day of the month in which you are no longer eligible for coverage under the Plan as a member of an eligible class, including without limitation as a result of being rehired by an Employer.

Changing and Continuing Elections

General

In general, once you enroll for (or decline) coverage, your elections stay in effect in the entire Plan Year.

However, you may make or change certain Retiree Medical Plan elections during the Plan Year under certain limited circumstances, referred to herein as “qualified life events.” For example, you may change certain elections if you experience a “qualified status change” that affects your, your spouse’s, or your dependent’s eligibility for benefits under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan. A “qualified status change” is one type of qualified life event. Examples of qualified status changes and a description of other qualified life events are set forth below.

You must contact a customer service associate at the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320 to request a change in election within 31 days of the date of the qualified life event (or 60 days, in the case of certain HIPAA special enrollment events discussed below).

Please note, however, that the 31-day period will be extended for a limited period of time. More specifically, the portion of the Outbreak Period (defined above) that is before January 1, 2021 will be disregarded in calculating the 31-day period. Also, for qualified life events that are also HIPAA special enrollment events, the Outbreak Period both before and after January 1, 2021 will be disregarded.

In connection with any requested election change, you may be required to provide certifications or other evidence requested by the Company or Plan Administrator.

To the extent permitted by the applicable Benefit Plan, if you experience a qualified status change, you may elect a different category of coverage (e.g., no coverage, employee only, employee + spouse, employee + family) if that new election is on account of, and corresponds with, your qualified status change and if the new election satisfies other Internal Revenue Service consistency rules.

Examples of qualified status changes include any of the following circumstances that may affect eligibility for coverage under one of the Benefit Plans listed above:

- You get a divorce, become legally separated, or your marriage is legally annulled.
- Your spouse or dependent dies.
- Your dependent becomes ineligible for coverage (e.g., he or she reaches the eligibility age limit).

- Your dependent becomes eligible for coverage (e.g., with respect to the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, he or she attains age 65).
- You get married.
- You have a baby, adopt, or have a child placed with you for adoption.
- You, your spouse, or your dependent experiences a change in employment status (e.g., gain or terminate employment, change worksites) that leads to a loss or gain of eligibility for coverage.
- You, your spouse or your dependent experiences a change in employment status that affects eligibility for coverage (e.g., change from part-time to full-time or vice versa, strike or lockout, begin or return from an unpaid leave of absence).
- You, your spouse, or your dependent has a change in home address (outside the network service area).

Other qualified life events that may permit a change in your elections (including a change in category of coverage and, in some instances, a change in coverage option) include the following:

- You, your spouse, or your dependent experiences a significant change in cost or coverage of a Benefit Plan.
- With respect to the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, you qualify for special enrollment during the year under HIPAA. For example, you may qualify for special enrollment if (1) you acquire an eligible dependent after your employment begins, (2) you (or your dependent) were covered under another group health plan or had other health insurance coverage (including coverage purchased through a government exchange or other health insurance coverage purchased in the individual market) when you declined coverage and you (or your dependent) lose coverage because of loss of eligibility (other than for failure to pay premiums or termination for cause), termination of employer contributions or exhaustion of COBRA continuation coverage, or (3) you (or your dependent) lose coverage as a result of loss of eligibility under a Medicaid plan under title XIX of the Social Security Act or under a State child health plan under title XXI of the Social Security Act, or you (or your dependent) become eligible for assistance, with respect to coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, under such a Medicaid plan or State child health plan. Please note: For an event described in item (3), your special enrollment period will be 60 days, not 31 days. Please note, however, that the Outbreak Period (defined above) will be disregarded in calculating the 31-day or 60-day period permitted by HIPAA special enrollment provisions).

- The Benefit Plan receives a Qualified Medical Child Support Order (“QMCSO”) or other court order, judgment, or decree that requires you to enroll a dependent child in an accident or health plan.
- You, your spouse or dependent lose coverage under any group health coverage sponsored by a governmental or educational institution, in which case you may be able to elect coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, as applicable.
- With respect to accident or health plan coverage, you, your spouse, or your dependent qualifies for or loses Medicare or Medicaid coverage.

If a dependent you are covering under a Retiree Medical Plan is hired by an Employer and either timely elects coverage under the NiSource Consolidated Flex Medical Plan or fails to make a timely coverage election and is thereby deemed to have elected a coverage option thereunder other than the “No Coverage” option, you will be deemed to have elected to drop Retiree Medical Plan coverage for such dependent in connection his or her change in employment status.

Notwithstanding the foregoing or any other provision of this Handbook, if you are covered under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, you may drop your coverage or reduce the number of dependents covered under a Retiree Medical Plan at any time. However, once you drop your coverage or drop coverage for one or more of your dependents, you will not be able to enroll again in coverage until the next annual enrollment period or until you experience a qualified life event that would permit enrollment.

Coordination of Benefits (COB)

If you or your dependent have coverage under another medical or prescription drug plan or program, your medical and prescription drug benefits under the Benefit Plans coordinate with those other benefits to help eliminate duplicate payments for the same services.

Coordinating Plans

Types of plans that normally coordinate benefits include, but may not be limited to, the following:

- Group or blanket plans or coverages provided by an employer, union, trust, or other similar sponsor.
- Other group or prepayment health care plans or coverages that cover you or your dependents, including student coverage provided through a school above the high school level.
- Federal government benefit programs, including Medicare or Medicaid. (Medicaid or any other plan, program, policy or arrangement will not be included if, by its terms, it does not allow coordination.)
- Automobile insurance plans in the case of accidents, when inclusion is not prohibited by law.
- Other plans required or provided by law.

These coordination provisions do not apply to individual or private insurance plans. Any other benefits (apart from those under individual or private insurance plans) to which you may be entitled are considered for possible coordination.

How Coordination Works With Other Group Plans

If you are covered by more than one of the types of plans mentioned above, one plan is primary. The primary plan pays benefits first without considering the other plans. Then – based on what the primary plan pays – the other (secondary) plans may pay a benefit (if any).

If your coverage under the applicable benefit plan is primary, the benefit plan pays the amount payable under such plan.

If your coverage under the applicable benefit plan is secondary, the primary plan pays its benefits first. Then, the secondary benefit plan pays the lesser of:

- The amounts payable under the secondary benefit plan; or
- The balance left after the primary plan pays benefits.

When combined, the benefits that the two coverages pay will not exceed 100 percent of the eligible expense.

Determining the Order of Payment

When benefits coordinate, the plans or coverages involved determine which pays benefits first (“primary plan”), and then second (“secondary plan”). Below are the Benefit Plans’ guidelines for determining which is primary:

- If the plan has no coordination of benefits provision, it automatically is primary.
- If medical benefits are available under an automobile insurance plan, the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan will always be considered secondary.
- The plan covering the person as the employee, rather than as a dependent, laid-off employee, terminated employee, COBRA beneficiary, or retired employee is primary and pays benefits first. The other coverage is secondary and only pays any remaining eligible expenses.
- If both parents’ plans cover a dependent, the plans use the “Birthday Rule” to determine which parent’s plan pays first. If the other plan does not follow the Birthday Rule and as a result both coverages would be considered either primary or secondary, the order of benefits will be determined at the option of the applicable Claims Administrator.

In the case of a divorce or separation, the following order will establish responsibility for payment:

- If there is a court order that requires a parent to take financial responsibility for the relevant coverage for the child, that parent’s plan is always primary. If the parent with financial responsibility does not have coverage, but the parent’s spouse does, such spouse’s plan is primary.
- The plan of the parent with custody of the dependent child usually pays benefits before the plan of the other parent or the plan of a stepparent.
- If the parent with custody of the child remarries and the stepparent’s plan also covers the child, the custodial parent’s plan pays first and the stepparent's (custodial parent's spouse's) plan pays second. The plan of the parent without custody pays third, and the noncustodial parent's spouse's plan (if any) pays last.

- The plan of the parent without custody of the child pays before the non-custodial stepparent.

If, after using the guidelines above, a determination cannot be made as to the order of payment, the plan that has covered the person longer is the primary plan.

How Coordination Works With Medicare

Under current law, you and your dependents become eligible for Medicare at age 65. However, if one of you has been entitled to Social Security disability benefits for 25 months as an insured individual, child, widow, or widower who is "under a disability," that person may become Medicare-eligible before age 65.

You should notify a Benefits Source customer service associate if you start Medicare benefits. The way medical coverage under the Benefit Plans coordinates with Medicare depends upon whether you are in "current employment status," as that term is defined in Medicare regulations, and upon a covered person's age and whether he or she is receiving Social Security disability benefits. A retiree generally is not in current employment status. The discussion below assumes that a retiree covered under a Retiree Medical Plan is not in current employment status for purposes of Medicare. However, if you believe you have current employment status for purposes of Medicare regulations, you should contact the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

How Coordination of Benefits Works for Those Not in "Current Employment Status"

If you are covered under a Retiree Medical Plan but are no longer considered by Medicare to be in "current employment status," and if you, your covered spouse or your other covered dependents are Medicare-eligible, then Medicare will generally be treated by the Retiree Medical Plan as the primary payor for the covered person who is Medicare-eligible, regardless of the covered person's age and, except for Medicare Part D prescription drug coverage, regardless of whether he or she has enrolled in Medicare or any part thereof. If your covered spouse or other covered dependent is not Medicare-eligible, the Retiree Medical Plan will be treated as the primary payor with respect to such person's benefits.

If a covered person is eligible for, but not enrolled in, Medicare benefits, the Retiree Medical Plan will deduct from the amount otherwise payable with respect to a claim the amount Medicare would have paid had that person been enrolled in Medicare or in any part thereof. (However, no deduction will be made for failure to enroll in Medicare Part D prescription drug coverage.) For example, if you are eligible for, but not enrolled in, Medicare Part B, and you incur a claim that would be payable in whole or in part by Medicare Part B, the Retiree Medical Plan will deduct from the amount it would otherwise pay for such claim the amount Medicare Part B would have paid.

You are responsible for notifying the Claims Administrator if you, your spouse or your other dependents become Medicare-eligible.

How Coordination of Benefits Work with Medicare Part D

If you have prescription drug coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Medicare Part D at the same time, such coverage will coordinate as provided by law.

How Coordination Works With TRICARE

If you are a TRICARE beneficiary, your coverage under TRICARE will coordinate with group health plan coverage under the Program as provided by law.

Claim Determination and Appeal Process - General

General

The Committee delegates the authority to decide certain claims and appeals to the applicable Claims Administrator (listed in the "General Program Information" found at the end of each Benefit Plan section, or SPD, in this Handbook). The Claims Administrator adheres to specific timeframes for notifying you of its determination regarding your claim. If your claim for benefits is denied (in whole or in part), formal procedures are in place if you want to appeal the denial.

In certain cases, the Plan Administrator or its designee may decide claims requiring a determination of whether you meet the requirements for eligibility under the terms of the applicable plan, which determination may result in a denial, reduction, termination or failure to provide payment for a benefit.

There are different categories of claims, and each is subject to different timeframes for notifying you of the Claims Administrator's or Plan Administrator's determination if your claim has been denied (in whole or in part).

Please Note: The Outbreak Period (defined above) will be disregarded in determining the period within which individuals may file a benefit claim or an appeal of an adverse benefit determination under the claims procedures described below.

You may have someone else represent you in any of the review processes as long as you provide written notice to the Claims Administrator or Plan Administrator, as appropriate, of the name of the person who will represent you.

For details regarding how to file a claim and the claim denial and appeal processes for each of the Benefit Plans, please see below or the individual Benefit Plan sections, or SPDs, in this Handbook. Any claim relating to whether you meet the requirements for eligibility under the terms of an applicable Benefit Plan should be submitted in writing to the Benefits Department of the Company at the address for the Plan Administrator set forth in the General Program Information section of the SPD for such plan.

Discretion and Authority of Plan Administrator and Claims Administrator

See the subsection entitled "Named Fiduciary and Plan Administrator" under the "Additional Information" section below for information concerning the discretionary authority of the Plan Administrator, the Claims Administrator and the NiSource Benefits Department to interpret the various Benefit Plans and to make determinations thereunder.

Legal Action

You cannot bring any legal action against a Benefit Plan unless you first complete all required steps of the applicable appeals process described in this Handbook. Once you complete that process, you can bring legal action against the applicable Benefit Plan. If you decide to take legal action, you must do so before the deadline, if any, specified in the applicable individual Benefit Plan section of the Handbook.

Claim Determination and Appeal Process – Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan

The claim determination and appeal process described below applies to the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan. The term "Plan" as used in this section refers to the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, and the term "Claims Administrator" refers to the applicable claims administrator appointed for the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan. (Note that there may be more than one claims administrator for the Plan.)

The type of claim that you make determines the time frame under which the Claims Administrator makes a determination regarding your claim. There are four different categories of claims, and each is subject to different time frames for notifying you of the Claims Administrator's determination. In addition, you will be notified of any adverse benefit determination that results in a rescission of your coverage.

Please Note: The Outbreak Period (defined above) will be disregarded in determining the period within which individuals may file a benefit claim or an appeal of an adverse benefit determination under the claims procedures described below.

An "adverse benefit determination" is (i) a denial, reduction, or termination of, or a failure to provide or make payment (in whole or in part) for, a benefit, including any such denial, reduction, termination, or failure to provide or make payment that is based on a determination of your eligibility to participate in a plan, and including a denial, reduction, or termination of, or a failure to provide or make payment (in whole or in part) for, a benefit resulting from the application of any utilization review, as well as a failure to cover an item or service for which benefits are otherwise provided because it is determined to be experimental or investigational or not medically necessary or appropriate, and (ii) a rescission of coverage.

A “rescission of coverage” is a cancellation or discontinuance of coverage that has retroactive effect, but does not include any such cancellation or discontinuance to the extent it is attributable to a failure to pay on a timely basis premiums or contributions towards the cost of coverage.

The Plan Administrator or its designee may decide claims (i) that involve a rescission of coverage, (ii) that call for a determination of whether you meet the requirements for eligibility under the Plan, which determination may result in a denial, reduction, termination or failure to provide payment for a benefit, or (iii) for which a Claims Administrator has not been delegated authority, or has not assumed authority, to decide. The Plan Administrator has delegated to the Company’s Benefits Department authority to make these determinations. Solely with respect to claims involving a rescission of coverage, a determination of your eligibility under the Plan, or a matter for which the Claims Administrator has not been delegated, or has not assumed, authority to decide, the term “Claims Administrator” used below shall refer to the Plan Administrator or its designee. Any claim relating to (i) a rescission of coverage, (ii) whether you meet the requirements for eligibility under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, or (iii) a matter for which the Claims Administrator has not been delegated, or has not assumed, authority to decide should be submitted in writing to the Benefits Department of the Company at the address for the Plan Administrator set forth in the General Program Information section of the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD.

Consideration of Initial Claim

Pre-Service Claim (Not Involving Urgent Care)

Generally, a “pre-service claim” is any claim involving a benefit where the Plan requires approval of the benefit in advance of obtaining medical care.

If you submit a pre-service claim properly with all necessary information, the Claims Administrator will decide your claim within a reasonable period of time appropriate to the medical circumstances (but not later than 15 days from the date the claim is received). The Claims Administrator may obtain a one-time extension (not longer than 15 days) for matters beyond its control if, prior to expiration of the initial 15-day period, the Claims Administrator notifies you of the circumstances requiring the extension and the date by which the Claims Administrator expects to render a decision.

If you file a pre-service claim but do not provide sufficient information for the Claims Administrator to make a determination, you will be notified within five days after your pre-service claim is received of the specific information necessary to complete the claim. Once you receive this notice, you then have 45 days to provide any needed information.

Post-Service Claims

Generally, a “post-service claim” is any claim that is not an urgent care claim, a pre-service claim or a concurrent care claim.

If you submit a post-service claim, you will receive a written notice of the Claims Administrator’s determination within 30 days of the day the Claims Administrator receives your claim (as long as you provide all necessary information). The Claims Administrator may obtain a one-time extension (not longer than 15 days) for matters beyond its control if, prior to the expiration of the initial 30-day period, the Claims Administrator notifies you of the circumstances requiring the extension and the date by which the Claims Administrator expects to render a decision.

If additional information is needed to process your post-service claim, you will be notified within the 30-day period and the notice will specify the required information. Once you receive notice, you then have 45 days to provide any needed information.

Urgent Care Claims

Generally, an “urgent care claim” is any claim that must be processed on an expedited basis because a delay in processing could seriously jeopardize the life or health of the patient or jeopardize the ability of the patient to regain maximum function, or in the opinion of the patient’s doctor with knowledge of the patient’s medical condition, a delay would subject the patient to severe pain that cannot be adequately managed without the care or treatment that is subject of this claim.

Unless you have failed to provide sufficient information to permit a determination of whether, or to what extent, benefits are covered or payable under the Plan, you will receive notice of the benefit determination (in writing or electronically) within 72 hours after the Claims Administrator receives your urgent care claim. The Claims Administrator will take into account the seriousness of your condition. The Claims Administrator may provide an oral notice of its determination, and then follow up with a written or electronic confirmation within three days.

If you file an urgent care claim but have not provided sufficient information to permit a determination of whether, or to what extent, benefits are covered or payable under the Plan, you will be notified of the specific information needed to complete the claim within 24 hours after the Claims Administrator receives your urgent care claim. Once you receive this notice, you then have 48 hours to provide the requested information.

If you are asked to provide specific information to complete your urgent care claim, you will receive a notice of the Claims Administrator's determination no later than 48 hours after the earlier of:

- The Claims Administrator's receipt of the specified information; or
- The end of the period that you have to provide the specified additional information.

Concurrent Care Claims

Generally, a "concurrent care claim" is any claim involving (i) a decision to reduce or terminate an ongoing course of treatment to be provided over a period of time or number of treatments, or (ii) your request to extend a course of treatment beyond the period of time or number of treatments that has been approved.

The Claims Administrator may approve (for a specific period of time or number of treatments), reduce, or terminate an ongoing course of treatment. Any reduction or termination of ongoing treatments is an adverse benefit determination. The Claims Administrator must notify you within a reasonable time period prior to the reduction or termination of services.

If you request to extend the treatment and your request is that of an urgent care claim (as defined above), the Claims Administrator will decide your request within 24 hours after it receives your request. You must make your request at least 24 hours before the end of your approved treatment.

If your request to extend ongoing treatment is not an urgent care claim, the Claims Administrator will treat your claim as either a pre-service or post-service claim (as applicable) and consider the claim according to the post-service or pre-service time frames, whichever applies.

Full and Fair Review

In connection with a claim or internal appeal, the Claims Administrator will provide you, free of charge, with any new or additional evidence considered, relied upon, or generated by the Plan (or at the direction of the Plan) in connection with your claim. Such evidence will be provided in advance of the date on which a notice of a final internal adverse benefit determination is required to be provided, in order to give you an opportunity to respond prior to that date. In addition, before you receive a final internal adverse benefit determination on review based upon a new or additional rationale, the Claims Administrator will provide to you, free of charge, the rationale. The rationale will be provided in advance of the date on which a notice of a final internal adverse benefit determination is required to be provided, in order to give you an opportunity to respond prior to that date.

If the Claims Administrator Makes an Adverse Benefit Determination Regarding an Initial Claim or Rescinds Coverage

If you receive a notice of an adverse benefit determination, the notice will:

- Include information sufficient to identify the claim involved and a statement describing the availability, upon request, of the diagnosis code and its corresponding meaning, and the treatment code and its corresponding meaning;
- Explain the reasons for the adverse benefit determination;
- Describe any additional material or information necessary for you to complete your claim and explain why the material or information is necessary;
- Refer you to the part of the Plan upon which the determination is based;
- Describe the Plan's review procedures and the time limits applicable to such procedures, including a description of available internal appeals and external review processes and information regarding how to initiate an appeal, as well as a statement of your right to bring a civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA following an adverse benefit determination on all appeals;

- In the case of an urgent care claim, describe the expedited review process applicable to such claims; and
- To the extent required by applicable regulations, disclose the availability of, and contact information for, an applicable office of health insurance consumer assistance or ombudsman who may assist you.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon an internal rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion in making the adverse determination, either the specific rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such rule, guideline, protocol, or other criterion will be provided free of charge to you upon request. If the Claims Administrator relied upon medical necessity or experimental treatment or similar exclusion or limit in making the adverse determination, either an explanation of the scientific or clinical judgment for the determination (applying the terms of the Plan to your medical circumstances) will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such explanation will be provided free of charge to you upon request.

If the Claims Administrator denies an urgent care claim, the Claims Administrator will provide a description of the expedited review process for urgent care claims (as set forth below). The Claims Administrator may provide an oral notice of its determination, then follow-up with a written or electronic confirmation within three days.

Mandatory First-Level Internal Appeal to Claims Administrator

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination regarding an initial claim or rescission of coverage, you or your duly authorized representative have the right to appeal the adverse benefit determination by sending a written request for review to the Claims Administrator within 180 days of your receipt of notice of the adverse benefit determination.

Your request for review should be sent to the Claims Administrator at the address for the Claims Administrator set forth in the section entitled “General Program Information” found in the individual SPD section for the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

You may submit written comments, documents, records, and other information relating to your claim for benefits. Upon your request, you will be provided, free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim.

Your written request should state why you think your claim should not have been denied or your coverage under the Plan should not have been rescinded. Your request also should include the name of your Employer, any adverse benefit determination letter you received and any additional documents, information or comments you think may have a bearing on your claim.

Upon receipt of your request, the Claims Administrator will conduct a review that takes into account all comments, documents, records, and other information submitted by you or your authorized representative relating to your claim, without regard to whether such information was submitted or considered in the initial benefit determination. The review will not afford any deference to the initial adverse benefit determination and will be conducted by an individual who is neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual.

If the adverse benefit determination was based in whole or in part on a medical judgment, the individual conducting the review shall consult with a health care professional who has appropriate training and experience in the field of medicine involved in the medical judgment. This health care professional will be neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual. The Claims Administrator will provide the identities of any medical or vocational experts whose advice was obtained on behalf of the Plan in connection with the denial, without regard to whether the advice was relied upon in making the benefit determination.

Pre-Service Claims

In the case of a pre-service claim, the Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review within a reasonable period of time appropriate to the medical circumstances, but not later than 30 days after receipt of your request for review.

Post-Service Claims

In the case of a post-service claim, the Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review within a reasonable period of time, but not later than 60 days after receipt of your request for review.

Expedited Review for Urgent Care Claims

In the case of a claim involving urgent care, you or your duly authorized representative may submit a request for an expedited internal appeal either in writing or orally. All necessary information for the review, including the Claims Administrator's determination, may be transmitted between the Claims Administrator and you by telephone, facsimile, or another similarly expeditious method. To proceed with an expedited internal appeal, you or your authorized representative must contact the Claims Administrator and provide at least the following information:

- Your name;
- The date(s) of the medical service;
- The specific medical condition or symptom;
- The provider's name
- The service or supply for which approval of benefits was sought; and
- Any reasons why the appeal should be processed on a more expedited basis.

The Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review as soon as possible, taking into account the medical exigencies, but not later than 72 hours after receipt of your request for review of an adverse benefit determination.

If the Claims Administrator Makes an Adverse Benefit Determination on Your Mandatory First-Level Internal Appeal

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination on a mandatory first-level internal appeal (this determination will constitute a "final adverse benefit determination"), it will notify you of the following, in a manner to be understood by you:

- Information sufficient to identify the claim involved and a statement describing the availability, upon request, of the diagnosis code and its corresponding meaning, and the treatment code and its corresponding meaning;
- The specific reason or reasons for the adverse benefit determination;
- The specific Plan provisions on which the adverse benefit determination is based;
- A statement that you are entitled to receive, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim;
- A statement describing any voluntary appeal procedures offered by the Plan and your right to obtain information about such procedures; and
- A statement indicating your right to file a lawsuit upon completion of the claims procedure process.
- To the extent required by applicable regulations, the availability of, and contact information for, an applicable office of health insurance consumer assistance or ombudsman who may assist you.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon an internal rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion in making the adverse determination, either the specific rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such rule, guideline, protocol, or other criterion will be provided free of charge to you upon request. If the Claims Administrator relied upon medical necessity or experimental treatment or similar exclusion or limit in making the adverse determination, either an explanation of the scientific or clinical judgment for the determination (applying the terms of the Plan to your medical circumstances) will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such explanation will be provided free of charge to you upon request.

If the Claims Administrator denies an urgent care claim on review, the Claims Administrator may provide oral notice of its determination, then follow-up with a written or electronic confirmation within three days.

Second-Level Internal Appeal to the Claims Administrator

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination on a mandatory first-level internal appeal with respect to your pre- or post-service claim or a rescission of coverage, you or your duly authorized representative may request a review of such determination by the Claims Administrator by sending a written request for a second-level internal appeal to the Claims Administrator within 60 days of your receipt of the Claims Administrator's notice of denial of your mandatory first-level internal appeal.

This second-level appeal is a voluntary appeal. That means you are not required to request a second-level internal appeal under the Plan before submitting a request for an independent external review. However, if you request a voluntary second-level internal appeal under the Plan, you must receive a determination on that appeal before requesting an independent external review.

The Plan waives any right to assert that you failed to exhaust administrative remedies because you did not request a voluntary second-level internal appeal. The Plan agrees that any statute of limitations or other defense based upon timeliness is tolled during the time that any properly initiated second-level voluntary internal appeal is pending. The Claims Administrator will, upon request, provide you with information relating to the voluntary second-level internal appeal to enable you to make an informed judgment about whether to request such an appeal. Your decision whether or not to request a voluntary second-level internal appeal under the Plan will have no effect on your right to any other benefits under the Plan.

Your request for review should be sent to the Claims Administrator at the address for the Claims Administrator set forth in the section entitled "General Program Information" found in the individual SPD section for the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

You may submit written comments, documents, records, and other information relating to your claim for benefits. Upon your written request, you will be provided, free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all relevant documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim.

Your written request should state why you think your claim should not have been denied. Your request also should include the name of your Employer, any denial letter you received and any additional documents, information or comments you think may have a bearing on your claim.

Upon receipt of your request, the Claims Administrator will conduct a review that takes into account all comments, documents, records, and other information submitted by you or your authorized representative relating to your claim, without regard to whether such information was submitted or considered in the initial benefit determination. The review will not afford any deference to the Claims Administrator's denial of your claim on appeal and will be conducted by an individual who is neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual.

If the denial of your claim on appeal was based in whole or in part on a medical judgment, the Claims Administrator will consult with a health care professional who has appropriate training and experience in the field of medicine involved in the medical judgment. This health care professional consultant will be neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual. The Claims Administrator will provide the identities of any medical or vocational experts whose advice was obtained on behalf of the Plan in connection with your adverse benefit determination, without regard to whether the advice was relied upon in making the benefit determination.

Pre-Service Claims

In the case of a pre-service claim, the Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review within a reasonable period of time appropriate to the medical circumstances, but not later than 30 days after receipt of your request for review.

Post-Service Claims

In the case of a post-service claim, the Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review within a reasonable period of time, but not later than 60 days after receipt of your request for review.

If the Claims Administrator Makes an Adverse Benefit Determination on Your Second-Level Internal Appeal

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination on your second-level internal appeal, it will notify you of the following, in a manner to be understood by you:

- Information sufficient to identify the claim involved and a statement describing the availability, upon request, of the diagnosis code and its corresponding meaning, and the treatment code and its corresponding meaning;
- The specific reason or reasons for the adverse benefit determination;
- The specific Plan provisions on which the adverse benefit determination is based;
- A statement that you are entitled to receive, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim;
- A statement describing any additional voluntary appeal procedures offered by the Plan and your right to obtain information about such procedures;
- A description of available internal appeals and external review processes, including information about how to initiate an appeal;
- A statement indicating your right to bring a civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA following a final adverse benefit determination; and
- To the extent required by applicable regulations, the availability of, and contact information for, an applicable office of health insurance consumer assistance or ombudsman who may assist you.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon an internal rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion in making the adverse determination, either the specific rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion will be provided to you free of charge, or you will be informed that such rule, guideline, protocol, or other criterion will be provided free of charge to you upon request.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon medical necessity or experimental treatment or similar exclusion or limit in making the adverse determination, either an explanation of the scientific or clinical judgment for the determination (applying the terms of the Plan to your medical circumstances) will be provided to you free of charge, or you will be informed that such explanation will be provided to you free of charge upon request.

Voluntary External Review by Independent Review Organization

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination with respect to your initial claim, a rescission of coverage or your mandatory first-level internal appeal or second-level internal appeal, you may be entitled to obtain an independent external review pursuant to Federal law, as provided below. External review applies only to an adverse benefit determination (including a final internal adverse benefit determination) by the Claims Administrator that involves medical judgment or a rescission of coverage (whether or not the rescission has any effect on any particular benefit at that time). External review is not available in connection with an adverse benefit determination based upon a determination that you fail to meet the requirements for eligibility under the terms of the Plan. You do not need to pursue an external review in order to complete or exhaust the appeal procedure described above. Your decision to seek an independent external review will not affect your rights to any other benefits under the Plan. Any statute of limitations or other defense based upon timeliness is tolled during the time that any properly initiated independent external review is pending. There is no charge for you to initiate an independent external review. The external review decision is final and binding on all parties except for any relief available through ERISA.

Standard External Review

This section sets forth procedures for standard external review. Standard external review is external review that is not considered expedited (as described below).

If the Claims Administrator makes a final adverse benefit determination with respect to your mandatory first-level appeal or second-level appeal, as the case may be, or makes an adverse benefit determination under circumstances in which you are not required to exhaust the Plan's internal appeals process, you or your duly authorized representative may file a request for an external review under Federal law within four months of the date you received notice of an adverse benefit determination or final internal adverse benefit determination. Your request must be in writing, unless the Claims Administrator determines that it is not reasonable to require a written statement. You do not have to resubmit information that you submitted for your initial claim or internal appeal. However, you are encouraged to submit any additional information you believe is important for review.

Within five business days following the date your external review request is received, the Claims Administrator will complete a preliminary review of the request to determine whether:

- You are or were covered under the Plan at the time the health care item or service was requested or, in the case of a retrospective review, were covered under the Plan at the time the health care item or service was provided;
- The adverse benefit determination or the final adverse benefit determination involves medical judgment or a rescission of coverage and does not relate to your failure to meet the requirements for eligibility under the terms of the Plan;
- You have exhausted the Plan's internal appeal process, unless you are not required to exhaust such process under applicable federal regulations;
- You have provided all the information and forms required to process an external review.

Within one business day after completion of its preliminary review, the Claims Administrator will notify you in writing of the results of such review. If the request is complete, the Claims Administrator will assign an accredited independent review organization ("IRO") to conduct the external review.

The assigned IRO is required to notify you in writing of the request's eligibility and acceptance for external review. Within ten business days following the date of your receipt of such notice, you may submit in writing to the assigned IRO additional information that the IRO must consider when conducting the external review. The IRO is not required to, but may, accept and consider additional information submitted after ten business days.

Within five business days after the date of assignment of the IRO, the Plan must provide to the assigned IRO the documents and any information considered in making the adverse benefit determination or final internal adverse benefit determination. If the Plan fails to provide the documents and information on a timely basis, the assigned IRO may terminate the external review and make a decision to reverse the adverse benefit determination or final internal adverse benefit determination. The IRO will notify you and the Plan within one business day after making any such decision.

Upon receipt of any information submitted by you, the assigned IRO must within one business day forward the information to the Plan. Upon receipt of any such information, the Plan may reconsider its adverse benefit determination or final internal adverse benefit determination that is the subject of the external review. The external review may be terminated as a result of the reconsideration only if the Plan decides, upon completion of its reconsideration, to reverse its adverse benefit determination or final internal adverse benefit determination and provide coverage or payment. Within one business day after making such a decision, the Plan must provide written notice of its decision to you and to the assigned IRO. The assigned IRO is required to terminate the external review upon receipt of any such notice from the Plan.

The IRO is required to review all of the information and documents timely received. In reaching a decision, the assigned IRO will review the claim de novo and not be bound by any decisions or conclusions reached during the Plan's internal claims and appeals process. In addition to the documents and information provided, the assigned IRO, to the extent the information or documents are available and the IRO considers them appropriate, will consider the following in reaching a decision:

- Your medical records;
- The attending health care professional's recommendation;
- Reports from appropriate health care professionals and other documents
- The terms of the Plan, to ensure that the IRO's decision is not contrary to the terms of the Plan;
- Appropriate practice guidelines, which must include applicable evidence-based standards and may include any other practice guidelines developed by the Federal government, national or professional medical societies, boards and associations;

- Any applicable clinical review criteria developed and used by the Plan, unless the criteria are inconsistent with the terms of the Plan or with applicable law;
- The opinion of the IRO's clinical reviewer or reviewers after considering the information above and applicable Federal guidance, to the extent the information or documents are available and the clinical reviewer or reviewers consider such information or documents appropriate.

The assigned IRO is required to provide written notice of the final external review decision within 45 days after it receives the request for the external review. The IRO must deliver the notice of final external review decision to you and to the Plan.

The assigned IRO's decision notice on external review will contain:

- A general description of the reason for the request for external review, including information sufficient to identify the claim;
- The date the IRO received the assignment to conduct the external review and the date of the IRO decision;
- References to the evidence or documentation, including the specific coverage provisions and evidence-based standards, considered in reaching its decision;
- A discussion of the principal reason or reasons for its decision, including the rationale for its decision and any evidence-based standards that were relied on in making its decision;
- A statement that the determination is binding except to the extent that other remedies may be available under State or Federal law to either the Plan or to you;
- A statement that judicial review may be available to you; and
- Current contact information, including phone number, for any applicable office of health insurance consumer assistance or ombudsman.

Expedited External Review

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination with respect to your initial claim, and your claim is an urgent care claim or a concurrent care claim, you may proceed with an expedited external review without filing an internal appeal or while simultaneously pursuing an expedited appeal through the Plan's internal appeal process.

You or your duly authorized representative may request an expedited external review orally or in writing. All necessary information for the review, including the Claims Administrator's determination, may be transmitted between the Claims Administrator and you by telephone, facsimile, or another similarly expeditious method. To proceed with an expedited external review, you or your authorized representative must contact the Claims Administrator and provide at least the following information:

- Your name;
- The date(s) of the medical service;
- The specific medical condition or symptom;
- The provider's name
- The service or supply for which approval of benefits was sought; and
- Any reasons why the appeal should be processed on a more expedited basis.

Upon receipt of your request for expedited external review, the Claims Administrator will determine whether the request meets the reviewability requirements set forth above for standard external review. The Claims Administrator will notify you in writing of the results of such review.

If the Claims Administrator determines that your request is eligible for external review, the Claims Administrator will assign an IRO to conduct the review.

The assigned IRO, to the extent the information or documents are available and the IRO considers them appropriate, will consider the information or documents described above under the procedures for standard external review. In reaching a decision, the assigned IRO will review your claim de novo and is not bound by any decisions or conclusions reached during the Plan's internal claims and appeals process.

The IRO is required to notify you of the final external review decision as expeditiously as your medical condition or circumstances require, but in no event more than 72 hours after the IRO receives your request for an expedited external review. If the notice is not in writing, within 48 hours after the date of providing that notice, the assigned IRO is required to provide written confirmation of the decision to you and to the Plan.

Limitation of Actions and Venue

No lawsuit or legal action of any kind regarding a claim for benefits under the Plan may be commenced unless the claims procedure process for internal appeals (but not including any voluntary appeal) has been exhausted. In addition, in no event may any lawsuit or other legal action regarding a claim for benefits be commenced later than three years after the date such claim was incurred or the date when the rescission of coverage occurred, as the case may be. A claim for benefits is incurred when the services giving rise to the claim were rendered.

Any suit, action or proceeding seeking to enforce any provision of, or based on any matter arising out of or in connection with, the Plan shall be brought in any court of the State of Indiana or in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Indiana.

Claim Determination and Appeal Process – Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan

The claim determination and appeal process described below applies to the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan. The term “Plan,” as used in this section, refers to the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, and the term “Claims Administrator” refers to the applicable claims administrator appointed for the Plan. (Note that there may be more than one claims administrator for the Plan.)

The type of claim that you make determines the time frame under which the Claims Administrator will make a determination regarding your claim. There are four different categories of claims, and each is subject to different time frames for notifying you of the Claims Administrator’s determination.

Please Note: The Outbreak Period (defined above) will be disregarded in determining the period within which individuals may file a benefit claim or an appeal of an adverse benefit determination under the claims procedures described below.

An “adverse benefit determination” is a denial, reduction, or termination of, or a failure to provide or make payment (in whole or in part) for, a benefit, including any such denial, reduction, termination, or failure to provide or make payment that is based on a determination of your eligibility to participate in a plan, and including a denial, reduction, or termination of, or a failure to provide or make payment (in whole or in part) for, a benefit resulting from the application of any utilization review, as well as a failure to cover an item or service for which benefits are otherwise provided because it is determined to be experimental or investigational or not medically necessary or appropriate.

The Plan Administrator or its designee may decide claims (i) that call for a determination of whether you meet the requirements for eligibility under the Plan, which determination may result in a denial, reduction, termination or failure to provide payment for a benefit, or (ii) for which a Claims Administrator has not been delegated authority, or has not assumed authority, to decide. The Plan Administrator has delegated to the Company’s Benefits Department authority to make these determinations. Solely with respect to claims involving a determination of your eligibility under the Plan or a matter for which the Claims Administrator has not been delegated, or has not assumed, authority to decide, the term “Claims Administrator” used below shall refer to the Plan Administrator or its designee. Any claim relating to (i) whether you meet the requirements for eligibility under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, or (ii) a matter for which the Claims Administrator has not been delegated, or has not assumed, authority to decide should be submitted in writing to the Benefits Department of the Company at the address for the Plan Administrator set forth in the General Program Information section of the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD.

Consideration of Initial Claim

Pre-Service Claim (Not Involving Urgent Care)

Generally, a “pre-service claim” is any claim involving a benefit where the Plan requires approval of the benefit in advance of obtaining medical care.

If you submit a pre-service claim properly with all necessary information, the Claims Administrator will decide your claim within a reasonable period of time appropriate to the medical circumstances (but not later than 15 days from the date the claim is received). The Claims Administrator may obtain a one-time extension (not longer than 15 days) for matters beyond its control if, prior to expiration of the initial 15-day period, the Claims Administrator notifies you of the circumstances requiring the extension and the date by which the Claims Administrator expects to render a decision.

If you file a pre-service claim but do not provide sufficient information for the Claims Administrator to make a determination, you will be notified within five days after your pre-service claim is received of the specific information necessary to complete the claim. Once you receive this notice, you then have 45 days to provide any needed information.

Post-Service Claims

Generally, a “post-service claim” is any claim that is not an urgent care claim, a pre-service claim or a concurrent care claim.

If you submit a post-service claim, you will receive a written notice of the Claims Administrator’s determination within 30 days of the day the Claims Administrator receives your claim (as long as you provide all necessary information). The Claims Administrator may obtain a one-time extension (not longer than 15 days) for matters beyond its control if, prior to the expiration of the initial 30-day period, the Claims Administrator notifies you of the circumstances requiring the extension and the date by which the Claims Administrator expects to render a decision.

If additional information is needed to process your post-service claim, you will be notified within the 30-day period and the notice will specify the required information. Once you receive notice, you then have 45 days to provide any needed information.

Urgent Care Claims

Generally, an “urgent care claim” is any claim that must be processed on an expedited basis because a delay in processing could seriously jeopardize the life or health of the patient, jeopardize the patient’s ability to regain maximum function, or, in the opinion of the patient’s doctor, with knowledge of the patient’s medical condition, a delay would subject the patient to severe pain that cannot be adequately managed without the care or treatment that is the subject of the claim.

Unless you have failed to provide sufficient information to permit a determination of whether, or to what extent, benefits are covered or payable under the Plan, you will receive notice of the benefit determination (in writing or electronically) within 72 hours after the Claims Administrator receives your urgent care claim. The Claims Administrator will take into account the seriousness of your condition. The Claims Administrator may provide an oral notice of its determination, and then follow up with a written or electronic confirmation within three days.

If you file an urgent care claim but have not provided sufficient information to permit a determination of whether, or to what extent, benefits are covered or payable under the Plan, you will be notified of the specific information needed to complete the claim within 24 hours after the Claims Administrator receives your urgent care claim. Once you receive this notice, you then have 48 hours to provide the requested information.

If you are asked to provide specific information to complete your urgent care claim, you will receive a notice of the Claims Administrator’s determination no later than 48 hours after the earlier of:

- The Claims Administrator’s receipt of the specified information; or
- The end of the period that you have to provide the specified additional information.

Concurrent Care Claims

Generally, a “concurrent care claim” is any claim involving (i) a decision to reduce or terminate an ongoing course of treatment to be provided over a period of time or number of treatments, or (ii) your request to extend a course of treatment beyond the period of time or number of treatments that has been approved.

The Claims Administrator may approve (for a specific period of time or number of treatments), reduce, or terminate an ongoing course of treatment. Any reduction or termination of ongoing treatments is an adverse benefit determination. The Claims Administrator must notify you within a reasonable time period prior to the reduction or termination of services.

If you request to extend the treatment and your request is an urgent care claim (as defined above), the Claims Administrator will decide your request within 24 hours after it receives your request. You must make your request at least 24 hours before the end of your approved treatment.

If your request to extend ongoing treatment is not an urgent care claim, the Claims Administrator will treat your claim as either a pre-service or post-service claim (as applicable) and will consider the claim according to the post-service or pre-service time frames, whichever applies.

If the Claims Administrator Makes an Adverse Benefit Determination Regarding an Initial Claim

If you receive a notice of adverse benefit determination, the notice will:

- Explain the reasons for the adverse benefit determination;
- Describe any additional material or information necessary for you to complete your claim and explain why the material or information is necessary;
- Refer you to the part of the Plan upon which the denial is based;
- Describe the Plan's review procedures and the time limits applicable to such procedures, including a statement of your right to bring a civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA following an adverse benefit determination on all appeals; and
- In the case of an urgent care claim, describe the expedited review process applicable to such claims.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon an internal rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion in making the adverse benefit determination, either the specific rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such rule, guideline, protocol, or other criterion will be provided free of charge to you upon request. If the Claims Administrator relied upon medical necessity or experimental treatment or similar exclusion or limit in making the adverse benefit determination, either an explanation of the scientific or clinical judgment for the determination (applying the terms of the Plan to your medical circumstances) will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such explanation will be provided free of charge to you upon request.

If the Claims Administrator denies an urgent care claim, the Claims Administrator will provide a description of the expedited review process for urgent care claims (as set forth below). The Claims Administrator may provide an oral notice of its determination, then follow-up with a written or electronic confirmation within three days.

First-Level Appeal to Claims Administrator

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination regarding an initial claim, you have the right to appeal the decision by sending a written request for review to the Claims Administrator within 180 days of your receipt of the adverse benefit determination.

Your request for review should be sent to the Claims Administrator for the Plan at the address for the Claims Administrator set forth in the section entitled "General Program Information" found in the individual SPD section for the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

You may submit written comments, documents, records, and other information relating to your claim for benefits. Upon your request, you will be provided, free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim.

Your written request should state why you think your claim should not have been denied. Your request also should include your name, the covered person's name and date of birth, the name of the provider of services, the name of your Employer, any denial letter you received, the claim number and any additional documents, information or comments you think may have a bearing on your claim.

Upon receipt of your request, the Claims Administrator will conduct a review that takes into account all comments, documents, records, and other information submitted by you or your authorized representative relating to your claim, without regard to whether such information was submitted or considered in the initial benefit determination. The review will not afford any deference to the initial adverse benefit determination and will be conducted by an individual who is neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual.

If the denial was based in whole or in part on a medical judgment, the individual conducting the review shall consult with a health care professional who has appropriate training and experience in the field of medicine involved in the medical judgment.

This health care professional will be neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual. Upon request, the Claims Administrator will provide the identities of any medical or vocational experts whose advice was obtained on behalf of the Plan in connection with the denial, without regard to whether the advice was relied upon in making the benefit determination.

Pre-Service Claims

In the case of a pre-service claim, the Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review within a reasonable period of time appropriate to the medical circumstances, but not later than 15 days after receipt of your request for review.

Post-Service Claims

In the case of a post-service claim, the Claims Administrator will notify you of its determination on review within a reasonable period of time, but not later than 30 days after receipt of your request for review.

Expedited Review for Urgent Care Claims

In the case of a claim involving urgent care, you may submit a request for an expedited appeal either in writing or orally. All necessary information for the review, including the determination on review, will be transmitted between the Claims Administrator and you by telephone, facsimile, or another similarly expeditious method. To proceed with an expedited internal appeal, you or your authorized representative must contact the Claims Administrator and provide at least the following information:

- Your name;
- The date(s) of the medical service;
- The specific medical condition or symptom;
- The provider's name
- The service or supply for which approval of benefits was sought; and
- Any reasons why the appeal should be processed on a more expedited basis.

You will be notified of the determination on review as soon as possible, taking into account the medical exigencies, but not later than 72 hours after receipt of your request for review of an adverse benefit determination.

If the Claims Administrator Makes an Adverse Benefit Determination on Your First-Level Appeal

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination on your first-level appeal, it will notify you of the following, in a manner to be understood by you:

- The specific reason or reasons for the adverse benefit determination;
- Reference to the specific Plan provisions on which the adverse benefit determination is based;
- A statement that you are entitled to receive, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim;
- A statement describing any voluntary appeal procedures offered by the Plan and your right to obtain information about such procedures; and
- A statement indicating your right to bring a civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA following an adverse benefit determination on all appeals.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon an internal rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion in making the adverse benefit determination, either the specific rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such rule, guideline, protocol, or other criterion will be provided free of charge to you upon request. If the Claims Administrator relied upon medical necessity or experimental treatment or similar exclusion or limit in making the adverse benefit determination, either an explanation of the scientific or clinical judgment for the determination (applying the terms of the Plan to your medical circumstances) will be provided free of charge to you, or you will be informed that such explanation will be provided free of charge to you upon request.

If the Claims Administrator denies an urgent care claim on review, the Claims Administrator may provide oral notice of its determination, then follow-up with a written or electronic confirmation within three days.

Second-Level Appeal for Pre-and Post-Service Claims

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination with respect to your pre- or post-service claim on appeal, you or your duly authorized representative may request a review of such determination by the Claims Administrator by sending a written request for review within 60 days of your receipt of the Claims Administrator's notice of adverse benefit determination.

Your request for review should be sent to the Claims Administrator for the Plan at the address for the Claims Administrator set forth in the section entitled "General Program Information" found in the individual SPD section for the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

You may submit written comments, documents, records, and other information relating to your claim for benefits. Upon your written request, you will be provided, free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all relevant documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim.

Your written request should state why you think your claim should not have been denied. Your request also should include your name, the covered person's name and date of birth, the name of the provider of services, the name of your Employer, any denial letter you received, the claim number and any additional documents, information or comments you think may have a bearing on your claim.

Upon receipt of your request, the Claims Administrator will conduct a review that takes into account all comments, documents, records, and other information submitted by you or your authorized representative relating to your claim, without regard to whether such information was submitted or considered in the initial benefit determination. The review will not afford any deference to the Claims Administrator's denial of your claim on appeal and will be conducted by an individual who is neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual.

If the denial was based in whole or in part on a medical judgment, the Claims Administrator will consult with a health care professional who has appropriate training and experience in the field of medicine involved in the medical judgment. This health care professional consultant will be neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of your appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual. Upon request, the Claims Administrator will provide the identities of any medical or vocational experts whose advice was obtained on behalf of the Plan in connection with your adverse benefit determination, without regard to whether the advice was relied upon in making the benefit determination.

Pre-Service Claims

In the case of a pre-service claim, you will be notified of the determination on review within a reasonable period of time appropriate to the medical circumstances, but not later than 15 days after receipt of your request for review.

Post-Service Claims

In the case of a post-service claim, you will be notified of the determination on review within a reasonable period of time, but not later than 30 days after receipt of your request for review.

If the Claims Administrator Makes an Adverse Benefit Determination on Your Second-Level Appeal

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination on your second-level appeal, it will notify you of the following, in a manner to be understood by you:

- The specific reason or reasons for the adverse benefit determination;
- Reference to the specific Plan provisions on which the benefit determination is based;
- A statement that you are entitled to receive, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim;
- A statement describing any voluntary appeal procedures offered by the Plan and your right to obtain information about such procedures; and
- A statement indicating your right to bring a civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA following an adverse benefit determination on all appeals.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon an internal rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion in making the adverse benefit determination, either the specific rule, guideline, protocol, or other similar criterion will be provided to you free of charge, or you will be informed that such rule, guideline, protocol, or other criterion will be provided free of charge to you upon request.

If the Claims Administrator relied upon medical necessity or experimental treatment or similar exclusion or limit in making the adverse benefit determination, either an explanation of the scientific or clinical judgment for the determination (applying the terms of the Plan to your medical circumstances) will be provided to you free of charge, or you will be informed that such explanation will be provided to you free of charge upon request.

Limitation of Actions and Venue

No lawsuit or legal action of any kind regarding a claim for benefits under the Plan may be commenced unless the claims procedure process has been exhausted. In addition, in no event may any lawsuit or other legal action regarding a claim for benefits be commenced later than three years after the date such claim was incurred. A claim for benefits is incurred when the services giving rise to the claim were rendered.

Any suit, action or proceeding seeking to enforce any provision of, or based on any matter arising out of or in connection with, the Plan shall be brought in any court of the State of Indiana or in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Indiana.

Claim Determination and Appeal Process – Retiree Life Insurance Plan

The claim determination and appeal process described below applies to the Retiree Life Insurance Plan. As used in this section, (i) the term “Claims Administrator” refers to Minnesota Life Insurance Company (“Securian”), an affiliate of Securian Financial Group, Inc., (ii) a “claim for disability benefits” means a claim for accidental dismemberment benefits or for a waiver of premium, (iii) the term “adverse benefit determination” means a denial, reduction, or termination of, or a failure to provide or make payment (in whole or in part) for, a benefit, including any such denial, reduction, termination, or failure to provide or make payment that is based on a determination of a claimant’s eligibility to participate in a plan and, with respect to a claim for disability benefits, also means a rescission of disability coverage with respect to a claimant (regardless of whether, in connection with the rescission, there is an adverse effect on any particular benefit at that time), and (iv) the term “rescission,” with respect to a claim for disability benefits, means a cancellation or discontinuance of coverage that has retroactive effect, except to the extent it is attributable to a failure to timely pay required premiums or contributions toward the cost of coverage.

Please Note: The Outbreak Period (defined above) will be disregarded in determining the period within which individuals may file a benefit claim or an appeal of an adverse benefit determination under the claims procedures described below.

Consideration of Initial Claim

The Claims Administrator shall notify you of an adverse benefit determination within a reasonable period of time, but not later than 90 days after the receipt of your claim. This period may be extended by 90 days if such an extension is necessary due to matters beyond the control of the Plan. A written notice of the extension, the reason for the extension and the date by which the Plan expects to decide your claim, shall be furnished to you within the initial 90-day period.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, with respect to a claim for disability benefits, the Claims Administrator shall notify you of an adverse benefit determination within a reasonable period of time, but not later than 45 days after the receipt of your claim. This period may be extended for up to 30 days for matters beyond the control of the Plan if, prior to the expiration of the initial 45-day period, the Claims Administrator notifies you of the circumstances requiring the extension and the date by which the Claims Administrator expects to render a decision. If, prior to the end of the first 30-day extension period, the Claims Administrator determines that, due to matters beyond the control of the Plan, a decision cannot be rendered within that extension period, the period for making the determination may be extended for up to an additional 30 days, provided the Claims Administrator notifies you, prior to the expiration of the first 30-day extension period, of the circumstances requiring the extension and the date as of which the Claim Administrator expects to render its decision. In the case of any extension under this paragraph, the notice of extension shall specifically explain the standards on which entitlement to a benefit is based, the unresolved issues that prevent a decision on the claim and the additional information needed to resolve those issues, and you shall be afforded at least 45 days within which to provide the specified information. However, if a period of time is extended due to your failure to submit information necessary to decide the claim, the period for making the benefit determination by the Claims Administrator will be tolled (i.e., suspended) from the date on which the notification of the extension is sent to you until the date on which you respond to the request for additional information.

If the Claims Administrator makes an adverse benefit determination with respect to your claim, you or your authorized representative will receive a written notice from the Claims Administrator of the adverse benefit determination. The notice will be written in a manner calculated to be understood by you and shall include:

- the specific reason(s) for the adverse benefit determination,
- references to the specific Plan provisions on which the adverse benefit determination was based,
- a description of any additional material or information necessary for you to perfect a claim and an explanation of why such information is necessary, and
- a description of the Claims Administrator's appeals procedures and applicable time limits, including a statement of your right to bring a civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA following an adverse benefit determination on appeal.

In addition, in the case of an adverse benefit determination with respect to a claim for disability benefits, the notice shall include:

- a discussion of the decision, including an explanation of the basis for disagreeing with or not following: (A) the views that you presented to the Plan of health care professionals treating you and of vocational professionals who evaluated you; (B) the views of medical or vocational experts whose advice was obtained on behalf of the Plan in connection with your adverse benefit determination, without regard to whether the advice was relied upon in making the benefit determination; and (C) a disability determination regarding you that was made by the Social Security Administration and that you presented to the Plan,

- either the specific internal rules, guidelines, protocols, standards or other similar criteria of the Plan relied upon in making the adverse benefit determination or, alternatively, a statement that such rules, guidelines, protocols, standards or other similar criteria of the Plan do not exist, and
- a statement that you are entitled to receive, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim for benefits.

Appeal to the Claims Administrator

If an adverse benefit determination is made with respect to your claim for benefits or if you do not receive a response to your claim within the appropriate time frame (in which case the claim for benefits is deemed to have been denied), you or your representative may appeal the adverse benefit determination in writing to the Claims Administrator within 60 days (180 days in the case of a claim for disability benefits) of the receipt of the written adverse benefit determination or from the date such claim is deemed denied. You may submit with your appeal any written comments, documents, records and any other information relating to your claim. Upon your request, and free of charge, you will also have access to, and the right to obtain copies of, all documents, records and information relevant to your claim.

A full review of the information in the claim file and any new information submitted to support the appeal will be conducted by the Claims Administrator, utilizing individuals who were not involved in the initial benefit determination and who are not the subordinates of such individuals. This review will not afford any deference to the initial benefit determination.

In connection with a claim for disability benefits, if the adverse benefit determination was based in whole or in part on a medical judgment, the Claims Administrator shall consult with a health care professional who has appropriate training and experience in the field of medicine involved in the medical judgment. This health care professional shall be neither the individual who made the adverse benefit determination that is the subject of the appeal, nor the subordinate of such individual. The Claims Administrator shall provide to you upon request the identities of any medical or vocational experts whose advice was obtained on behalf of the Plan in connection with your adverse benefit determination, without regard to whether the advice was relied upon in making the benefit determination.

In connection with a claim for disability benefits, the Claims Administrator will provide you, free of charge, with any new or additional evidence considered, relied upon, or generated by the Plan (or at the direction of the Plan) in connection with the claim. Such evidence will be provided in advance of the date on which a notice of an adverse benefit determination is required to be provided. In addition, before you receive an adverse benefit determination on review based upon a new or additional rationale, the Claims Administrator will provide to you, free of charge, the rationale. The rationale will be provided in advance of the date on which a notice of the adverse benefit determination on review is required to be provided.

The Claims Administrator shall make a determination on your claim appeal within a reasonable period of time, but not later than 60 days (45 days in the case of a claim for disability benefits) after the receipt of your appeal request. This period may be extended by up to an additional 60 days (45 days in the case of a claim for disability benefits) if the Claims Administrator determines that special circumstances require an extension of time. A written notice of the extension, the reason for the extension and the date that the Claims Administrator expects to render a decision shall be furnished to you within the initial 60-day period (45-day period in the case of a claim for disability benefits). However, in the case of a claim for disability benefits, if the period of time is extended due to your failure to submit information necessary to decide the appeal, the period for making the benefit determination will be tolled (i.e., suspended) from the date on which the notification of the extension is sent to you until the date on which you respond to the request for additional information.

If an adverse benefit determination is made with respect to your claim on appeal you will receive a written notification from the Claims Administrator of the adverse benefit determination. The notice will be written in a manner calculated to be understood by you and shall include:

- the specific reason(s) for the adverse benefit determination,
- references to the specific Plan provisions on which the adverse benefit determination was based,
- a statement that you are entitled to receive, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and to make copies of, all records, documents and other information relevant to your benefit claim,
- a statement describing any voluntary appeals procedures offered by the Plan, and your right to obtain information about such procedures, and
- a statement of your right to bring a civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA following completion of the appeals process.

In addition, in the case of an adverse benefit determination with respect to a claim for disability benefits, the notice shall include:

- a discussion of the decision, including an explanation of the basis for disagreeing with or not following: (A) the views that you presented to the Plan of health care professionals treating you and of vocational professionals who evaluated you; (B) the views of medical or vocational experts whose advice was obtained on behalf of the Plan in connection with your adverse benefit determination, without regard to whether the advice was relied upon in making the benefit determination; and (C) a disability determination regarding you that was made by the Social Security Administration and that you presented to the Plan;
- either the specific internal rules, guidelines, protocols, standards or other similar criteria of the Plan relied upon in making the adverse determination or, alternatively, a statement that such rules, guidelines, protocols, standards or other similar criteria of the Plan do not exist; and
- a statement indicating (A) that any civil action under section 502(a) of ERISA must be brought not later than three years after the date such claim was incurred, and (B) the calendar date upon which such limitations period expires.

If a decision on appeal is not furnished to you within the time frames mentioned above, the claim shall be deemed denied on appeal.

Discretion and Authority of Claims Administrator

The Claims Administrator has the sole discretion to interpret the terms of the benefits provisions of the Plan, to make factual findings, and to determine eligibility for benefits. A benefits-related decision of the Claims Administrator shall not be overturned unless arbitrary and capricious. Benefits under the Plan shall be paid only if the Claims Administrator decides in its discretion that the applicant is entitled to them.

The Claims Administrator has the right to recover any overpayments for whatever reason, including due to (i) fraud and (ii) any error the Claims Administrator makes in processing a claim. You must reimburse the Claims Administrator in full for any overpayments. The Claims Administrator will determine the method by which the repayment is to be made. The Claims Administrator will not recover more money than the amount it paid you.

Limitation of Actions and Venue

No lawsuit or legal action of any kind regarding a claim for benefits under the Plan may be commenced unless the claims procedure process for internal appeals (but not including any voluntary appeal) has been exhausted. In addition, in no event may any lawsuit or other legal action regarding a claim for benefits be commenced later than three years after the end of the period within which proof of claim is required, unless otherwise provided under Federal law.

Any suit, action or proceeding seeking to enforce any provision of, or based on any matter arising out of or in connection with, the Plan shall be brought in any court of the State of Indiana or in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Indiana.

Continuation of Coverage

COBRA

This subsection contains important information about your right to COBRA continuation coverage, which is a temporary extension of coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan (each of the foregoing a “Plan” for purposes of this COBRA section). This section generally explains COBRA continuation coverage, when it may become available to you and your family, and what you need to do to protect the right to receive it. For a discussion of special survivor coverage that may extend coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan beyond the maximum period of COBRA continuation coverage, see the section below entitled “Survivor Coverage.” COBRA continuation coverage does not apply to EAP/Work Life/Legal & Financial.

In the event you are eligible for COBRA continuation coverage, there may be other coverage options for you and your family as well. With the advent of health care reform, you may be able to buy coverage through the Health Insurance Marketplace. In the Marketplace, you could be eligible for a new kind of tax credit that lowers your monthly premiums right away, and you can see what your premium, deductibles, and out-of-pocket costs will be before you make a decision to enroll. Being eligible (but not enrolled) for COBRA continuation coverage does not limit your eligibility for coverage for a tax credit through the Marketplace. Additionally, you may qualify for a special enrollment opportunity for another group health plan for which you are eligible (such as a spouse’s plan), even if the plan generally does not accept late enrollees, if you request enrollment within 30 days.

Please Note: Notwithstanding the timeframes described below, you may disregard the Outbreak Period in determining (i) the 60-day election period for COBRA continuation coverage, and (ii) the date for making COBRA premium payments.

What Is COBRA Continuation Coverage?

COBRA continuation coverage is a continuation of Plan coverage when coverage would otherwise end because of a life event known as a “qualifying event.” Specific qualifying events are listed later in this subsection. After a qualifying event, COBRA continuation coverage must be offered to each person who is a “qualified beneficiary.” You, your spouse (if he or she is treated as a spouse under the Internal Revenue Code), and your dependent children could become qualified beneficiaries on account of coverage under a Plan if coverage under such Plan is lost because of a qualifying event. Under each Plan, qualified beneficiaries who elect COBRA continuation coverage must pay for the cost of such coverage. The cost of coverage is up to 102 percent of the total premium rate (a two percent administrative cost is added to the actual cost of the coverage). If you are entitled to extended coverage by reason of a disability (as described below), you may be required to pay up to 150 percent of the full cost of the coverage. These costs are subject to change.

You must elect COBRA during your COBRA election period. Your COBRA election period begins on the date of your qualifying event and ends on the date that is 60 days after the later of (i) the date coverage would have stopped due to the qualifying event, or (ii) the date the qualified beneficiary is sent notice of the right to continue coverage under COBRA.

You will have 45 days from the date of your coverage election to submit your first premium payment. This premium payment will include all premiums prior to your election for the period of COBRA continuation coverage. After your initial premium payment is remitted, you or your dependents will be billed monthly for the elected coverage. If payment is not received within 45 days of the monthly due date, COBRA coverage will be cancelled.

Your spouse will become a qualified beneficiary on account of coverage under a Plan if he or she loses coverage under such Plan because any of the following qualifying events happens:

- You die;
- You become entitled to Medicare benefits (under Part A, Part B, or both); or
- You become divorced or legally separated from your spouse.

Your dependent children will become qualified beneficiaries on account of coverage under a Plan if they lose coverage under such Plan because any of the following qualifying events happens:

- You die;
- You become entitled to Medicare benefits (Part A, Part B, or both);
- You become divorced or legally separated; or
- Your child stops being eligible for coverage under the Plan as a “dependent child.”

With respect to coverage under a Plan for Retirees, sometimes the filing a proceeding in bankruptcy under Title 11 of the United States Code can be a qualifying event. If a proceeding in bankruptcy is filed with respect to NiSource or one of its affiliates, and that bankruptcy results in your loss of coverage under the Plan, you will become a qualified beneficiary with respect to the bankruptcy. Your spouse, surviving spouse, and dependent children will also become qualified beneficiaries if they were covered under the Plan on the day immediately preceding the commencement of the bankruptcy proceeding and the proceeding resulted in their loss of coverage.

When Is COBRA Continuation Coverage Available?

Each Plan will offer COBRA continuation coverage to qualified beneficiaries only after the Plan Administrator has been notified that a qualifying event has occurred. When the qualifying event is your death, the commencement of a proceeding in bankruptcy with respect to your Employer (in the case of loss of retiree coverage), or your becoming entitled to Medicare benefits (under Part A, Part B, or both), your Employer must notify the Plan Administrator of the qualifying event.

Notice of Some Qualifying Events

For some qualifying events (divorce or legal separation or a dependent child’s losing eligibility for coverage as a dependent child), you must notify the Plan Administrator within 60 days after the latest of (i) the date qualifying event occurs, or (ii) the date on which the dependent loses (or would lose coverage) as a result of the qualifying event. This notice must be provided to the Benefits Source by calling the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320, or in the case of a notice of divorce or legal separation, by visiting the website mysourceforhr.com.

Any such notice must provide the date of divorce or legal separation or the date a dependent child lost eligibility for coverage, as the case may be, and must indicate that the notice is being provided for purposes of obtaining COBRA continuation coverage. If notice is not provided within the 60-day period, you and your dependent will not be eligible for COBRA continuation coverage.

How Is COBRA Continuation Coverage Provided?

Once the Plan Administrator receives notice that a qualifying event has occurred, COBRA continuation coverage will be offered to each of the qualified beneficiaries. Each qualified beneficiary will have an independent right to elect COBRA continuation coverage. You may elect COBRA continuation coverage on behalf of your spouse, and parents may elect COBRA continuation coverage on behalf of their children.

COBRA continuation coverage is a temporary continuation of coverage. When the qualifying event is your death, your becoming entitled to Medicare benefits (under Part A, Part B, or both), your divorce or legal separation, or a dependent child losing eligibility as a dependent child, COBRA continuation coverage lasts for up to a total of 36 months.

When the qualifying event is an employer's bankruptcy, COBRA continuation coverage for you ends upon your death and coverage for a qualified beneficiary who is your spouse or dependent child ends on the earlier of the date of the qualified beneficiary's death or three years after your death.

COBRA Continuation Coverage Ends

In addition to the maximum coverage durations set forth above, COBRA continuation coverage for a qualified beneficiary will end on the earliest to occur of the following:

- The date such qualified beneficiary first becomes entitled to benefits under Medicare.
- The date on which all employers participating in a Plan cease to provide any group health plan or coverage to any employee.
- If you fail to make a required contribution (coverage will end at the end of the period for which the last contribution was made).
- The date such qualified beneficiary first becomes covered under any other group health plan that does not contain any exclusion or limitation with respect to any pre-existing condition, other than a pre-existing condition that does not apply to (or is satisfied by) the qualified beneficiary pursuant to applicable law. Please see the "Coordination with HIPAA and Affordable Care Act" provisions set forth below for additional information.

Coordination with HIPAA and Affordable Care Act

Under COBRA, your rights to continue coverage terminate if you become covered by another employer's group health plan that does not limit or exclude coverage for your pre-existing conditions. If you become covered by another group health plan and that plan contains a pre-existing condition limitation that affects you, your COBRA continuation coverage cannot be terminated before the maximum coverage period. HIPAA and the Affordable Care Act limit the extent to which certain group health plans can impose pre-existing condition exclusions. Thus, if another plan's pre-existing condition exclusion cannot apply to you because of HIPAA or the Affordable Care Act, your entitlement to COBRA continuation coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan will terminate before the maximum coverage period.

Questions

Questions concerning the Plans or your COBRA continuation coverage rights should be addressed to the contact identified below. For more information about rights under ERISA, including COBRA, HIPAA, and other laws affecting group health plans, contact the nearest Regional or District Office of the U.S. Department of Labor's Employee Benefits Security Administration ("EBSA") in your area or visit the EBSA website at dol.gov/ebsa (addresses and phone numbers of Regional and District Offices are available through EBSA's website).

If you have questions about enrolling in COBRA, contact the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

Notification of Address Changes

In order to protect your family's rights, you should keep the Plan Administrator informed of any changes in the addresses of family members. If your home address changes while on COBRA, contact the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

You should also keep a copy, for your records, of any notices you send to the Plan Administrator.

Survivor Coverage

In the event of a covered Retiree's death within 30 days preceding, or at any time on or after, May 1, 2010, if COBRA continuation coverage under a Retiree Medical Plan has been elected and has not terminated prior to the maximum continuation coverage period (36 months) for such Retiree's surviving dependents who are covered under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan on the date of that Retiree's death, then coverage for such dependents may continue beyond such 36-month period until the earlier of (i) the date the Retiree's surviving spouse dies, (ii) the last day of the month in which the Retiree's surviving spouse remarries or enters into a domestic partnership or civil union with another person, (iii) the last date for which any required contribution was made, (iv) with respect to a dependent child, the last day of the month in which the child no longer qualifies as a dependent, (v) with respect to any dependent covered under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, the date such dependent reaches age 65, and (vi) the date the Employer from whom the Retiree retired from employment ceases to be a "related employer," as defined in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

If medical coverage under the NiSource Consolidated Flex Medical Plan ends for an active employee's dependent because of such employee's death within thirty days preceding, or at any time on or after May 1, 2010, and if such employee would have satisfied the conditions for being a Retiree had he or she retired from service with an Employer on the day immediately preceding his or her death, then solely for the purpose of COBRA continuation coverage and survivor coverage for any surviving dependents covered under the NiSource Consolidated Flex Medical Plan at the time of the employee's death, the employee will be deemed to have (i) retired from service with an Employer on the day immediately preceding his or her death (the "Deemed Retirement Date") and be a "Deemed Retiree", (ii) enrolled in retiree medical coverage on the Deemed Retirement Date, and (iii) enrolled each such surviving dependent in coverage under either the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan (in the coverage option in which the dependent was enrolled immediately prior to the Deemed Retirement Date) or the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan (in an available coverage option selected by the dependent), as applicable. An eligible surviving dependent of a Deemed Retiree shall be entitled to survivor coverage in accordance with the terms and conditions described in the immediately preceding paragraph. An eligible surviving dependent of a Deemed Retiree who has not attained age 65 as of the Deemed Retirement Date will be entitled to survivor coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan. An eligible surviving dependent of a Deemed Retiree who has attained age 65 as of the Deemed Retirement Date will be entitled to survivor coverage under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

If survivor coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan will end for a surviving dependent solely on account of his or her attaining age 65, such dependent may continue survivor coverage under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan by enrolling in such Plan and by selecting an available post-65 retiree medical coverage option on or before attaining age 65. Such survivor coverage shall be subject to the terms and conditions set forth in the first paragraph of this section entitled "Survivor Coverage."

If a surviving dependent's COBRA continuation coverage has terminated for any reason prior to the expiration of the maximum COBRA continuation coverage period or if survivor coverage provided beyond the maximum COBRA continuation coverage period is terminated for any reason, such dependent may not reenroll in coverage. Notwithstanding the preceding sentence, if coverage for a surviving dependent is terminated during a Plan Year for failure to pay required contributions for coverage, the dependent may apply to the NiSource Benefits Department during the same Plan Year to reinstate coverage retroactive to the date of termination. The dependent's application must be in writing and must describe the extenuating circumstances that resulted in his or her missed payment. The Benefits Department, in its sole and absolute discretion, will determine whether there are sufficient grounds for reinstating coverage. If the Benefits Department makes a favorable determination, the dependent must repay any missed premiums before the end of the Plan Year and before coverage will be reinstated.

Additional Information

Assignment of Benefits

Except as required by applicable law, none of your rights or interests under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan or the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan (for purposes of this section only, each a "Plan") and no benefit payable under a Plan shall in any manner be alienated, sold, assigned or transferred, or be subject to any lien, pledge or encumbrance, in whole or in part, either directly or by operation of law or otherwise, including without limitation by execution, levy, garnishment, attachment, pledge, or bankruptcy, nor will any benefit payable under a Plan be liable for, or subject to, any obligation or liability you may have. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, except as required by applicable law, you may not assign or transfer to any third party, including without limitation any person or institution providing medical care, treatment, services or supplies, the right to receive benefit payments under a Plan, or the right to pursue a claim, to appeal an adverse benefit determination or to maintain a cause of action under ERISA in respect of any benefit covered, alleged to be covered or denied under a Plan, and any such attempted assignment or transfer is void.

Nothing contained in a Plan or in this Handbook, nor any course of dealing, act or omission on the part of a Plan, its Plan Administrator or any Claim Administrator or other party, shall be construed to make a Plan liable to any third party to whom you may be liable for medical care, treatment, services or supplies. Although a Plan may, at your direction or otherwise, make payments directly to persons or institutions providing covered services under the Plan, such payment or direction does not constitute a transfer or assignment of benefits or of any other right or interest under the Plan, including without limitation any legal or equitable right to institute any court proceeding. Any such payments by a Plan shall constitute a complete discharge of the Plan's obligation to you. Under no circumstances will any person or institution providing medical care, treatment, services or supplies to you be deemed a participant or beneficiary under a Plan.

If you attempt to alienate, sell, transfer, assign, pledge or otherwise impede a benefit under a Plan or any part, or if by reason of your bankruptcy or other event happening at any time, a benefit devolves upon anyone else or would not be enjoyed by you, then upon becoming aware of such attempted alienation, sale, transfer, assignment or pledge, the Plan Administrator in its discretion, which will be exercised uniformly by treating individuals in similar circumstances alike, may terminate your interest in any such benefit and hold or apply it to or for your benefit or the benefit of your dependents, in a manner the Plan Administrator may deem proper.

Subrogation and Right of Recovery

An Other Party may be liable or legally responsible to pay expenses, compensation and/or damages in relation to a Sickness or Injury incurred by you or one of your covered dependents (a "covered person").

An "Other Party" includes, but is not limited to, any of the following:

- The party or parties who caused the Sickness or Injury;
- The insurer or other indemnifier of the party or parties who caused the Sickness or Injury;
- A guarantor of the party or parties who caused the Sickness or Injury;
- The covered person's own insurer (for example, in the case of uninsured or underinsured coverage, no-fault coverage or med-pay);
- A worker's compensation insurer (including the covered person's employer if worker's compensation is self-insured);
- Any other person, entity, policy or plan that is liable or legally responsible in relation to the covered person's Sickness or Injury.

Benefits may also be payable under the applicable Benefit Plan in relation to the Sickness or Injury. When this happens, the applicable Benefit Plan may, at its option:

- Subrogate, that is, take over the covered person's right to receive payments from the Other Party. If so, the covered person or his or her legal representative must transfer to the applicable Benefit Plan any rights he or she may have to take legal action arising from the Sickness or Injury so that the applicable Benefit Plan may recover any sums paid under such Benefit Plan on behalf of the covered person;
- Recover from the covered person or his or her legal representative any benefits paid under the applicable Benefit Plan from any payment the covered person receives or is entitled to receive from the Other Party.

As a condition of participation in the applicable Benefit Plan, the covered person agrees, and will cause his or her legal representative to agree, to cooperate fully with the applicable Benefit Plan in asserting its subrogation and recovery rights. No covered person shall take any action to prejudice the applicable Benefit Plan's subrogation and recovery rights. The covered person or his or her legal representative must, upon request from the applicable Benefit Plan, provide all information and sign and return all documents or agreements deemed necessary or desirable by the Benefit Plan for it to exercise its rights under this provision. Failure or refusal to execute such agreements or furnish information, to comply with the obligations under such agreements or to cooperate fully with the applicable Benefit Plan in asserting its subrogation and recovery rights does not preclude the Benefit Plan from exercising its right to subrogation or obtaining full reimbursement, and in such case, the Benefit Plan may cease paying benefits and reduce future benefits payable until full reimbursement is received.

The covered person shall provide notice to the applicable Benefit Plan within a reasonable time prior to the date that he or she expects to receive a payment from an Other Party. The covered person acknowledges that the applicable Benefit Plan has a right to intervene in any lawsuit involving an Other Party, and the covered person consents to the unfettered exercise of that right. The covered person further agrees that any funds received by him or her (or his or her legal representative) from any source for any purpose up to the amount of benefits paid under the applicable Benefit Plan shall be held separately and in trust with either the person receiving benefits (or his or her legal representative) as trustee and the applicable Benefit Plan as beneficiary, until such time as the obligation under this provision is fully satisfied. Accordingly, such covered person or legal representative shall be deemed a fiduciary of the applicable Benefit Plan to the extent of the Benefit Plan assets that are so held in trust.

A covered person and his or her legal representative shall place any and all funds recovered from an Other Party in a separate reserve account under the control of the covered person and/or his or her legal representative. As a condition of participating in the applicable Benefit Plan, a covered person and his or her legal representative shall agree that any funds received from an Other Party rightfully and in good conscience belong to the applicable Benefit Plan, and that such funds shall be held in a constructive trust until distributed in accordance with this Subrogation and Right of Recovery provision.

The applicable Benefit Plan will have a first lien and priority right upon any recovery, whether by settlement, judgment, mediation, arbitration or otherwise, that the covered person (or his or her legal representative) receives or is entitled to receive from any source whatsoever, including without limitation any of the sources listed above. Such lien and priority right shall extend to the first proceeds of any such recovery in the possession of the covered person, his or her legal representative or any third party, who shall hold the same in trust for the benefit of the plan. This lien and priority right will not exceed the lesser of:

- The amount of benefits paid by the applicable Benefit Plan for the Sickness or Injury, plus the amount of all future benefits that may become payable under the applicable Benefit Plan that result from the Sickness or Injury. The applicable Benefit Plan will have the right to offset or recover such future benefits from the amount received from the Other Party; or
- The amount recovered from the Other Party.

If the covered person or his or her legal representative:

- Makes any recovery from any of the sources described above; and
- Fails to reimburse the applicable Benefit Plan for any benefits that arise from the Sickness or Injury;

then:

- The covered person or his or her legal representative will be personally liable to the applicable Benefit Plan for the amount of the benefits paid under that Benefit Plan; and
- The applicable Benefit Plan may reduce future benefits payable for any illness, sickness or bodily injury by the payment that the covered person or his or her legal representative has received from the Other Party.

The applicable Benefit Plan's first lien and priority rights will not be reduced due to the covered person's own negligence; or due to the covered person not being made whole; or due to attorney's fees and costs. All attorney's fees and court costs, including the applicable Benefit Plan's attorney fees and court costs, are the responsibility of the covered person, not the Benefit Plan. Neither the "common fund" or "make whole" doctrines shall be applicable with regard to the Benefit Plan, and as a condition of participating in the Benefit Plan, the covered person agrees that he or she will not retain counsel, unless such counsel agrees to not assert either of these doctrines during the representation.

For clarification, this provision for subrogation and right of recovery applies to any funds recovered from the Other Party by or on behalf of:

- The Retiree;

- The Retiree's covered dependent;
- The estate of any covered person; or
- Any incapacitated person.

If the covered person is a minor, any amount recovered by the minor, the minor's trustee, guardian, parent, or other representative, shall be subject to this Subrogation and Right of Recovery provision, regardless of state law and whether the minor's representative has access to, or control of, any recovery funds.

If it becomes necessary for the applicable Benefit Plan to enforce this provision by initiating any action against any person, including the covered person's legal representative, then the covered person agrees to pay the Benefit Plan's attorney's fees and costs associated with the action, regardless of the action's outcome.

Overpayment of a Claim

If a Plan pays benefits for the Retiree or a covered dependent, the Retiree or any other person or organization that received the payment must refund the applicable Benefit Plan if all or some of the expense:

- Did not legally have to be paid;
- Exceeded the benefits under the Benefit Plan; or
- Was paid by a source other than the Benefit Plan (i.e. claim for an illness or injury that someone else is legally responsible to pay). See the "Subrogation and Right of Recovery" subsection for further details.

If you or the person or organization that was paid does not refund the full amount, the Benefit Plan may reduce the amount of any future benefits payable.

Provider Networks

Certain of the Benefit Plans make use of provider networks. As a general matter, benefit coverage may be greater and your out-of-pocket expenses may be lower if you use an In-Network Provider rather than an Out-of-Network Provider. For the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, provider lists may be obtained, without charge, at anthem.com, or by contacting an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card.

HIPAA Privacy

In General

The Department of Health and Human Services has issued Standards for Privacy of Individually Identifiable Health Information (the "Privacy Standards"), effective April 14, 2003, that govern the manner in which the group health plans (for purpose of this subsection, the "Plans") must handle Protected Health Information. "Protected Health Information" means individually identifiable health information related to a Covered Employee or Dependent.

Permitted Uses and Disclosures

The Plans may use and disclose Protected Health Information to carry out payment and health care operations without consent or authorization. If the Plans must use and disclose Protected Health Information for purposes other than payment or health care operations, patient authorization for such use or disclosure shall be required, unless such use or disclosure is expressly permitted by the Policies and Procedures Regarding Protected Health Information related to the Plans or the Privacy Standards.

Disclosures to Company

The Plans may disclose Protected Health Information to the Company to the extent that such disclosure is permissible under law, but prior to any such disclosure the Company shall certify that (1) the Plans' documents have been amended as required by the Privacy Standards and (2) the Company has agreed to certain conditions set forth in the Privacy Standards regarding the use and disclosure of that Protected Health Information.

Adequate Separation

There shall be adequate separation between the Plans and the Company to help ensure that only persons involved in Plan administration have access to Protected Health Information. Only the Plan Privacy Official, Security Official, members of the Committee, persons specifically designated in the Plans and any other persons properly designated by one of the foregoing shall have access to Protected Health Information created under the Plans. Access to and use of Protected Health Information by such employees shall be restricted to the Plan administration functions that the Company and its affiliates perform for the Plans. The Plans or the Committee have retained one or more third party administrators and others that receive Protected Health Information in the ordinary course of business performed on behalf of the Plans. Such persons or entities, known in the Privacy Standards as “Business Associates,” shall enter into agreements with the Plans governing their obligations under the Privacy Standards.

Unauthorized Use or Disclosure.

The improper use or disclosure of Protected Health Information by an employee of Company (or an affiliate) shall be governed by the Policies and Procedures Regarding Protected Health Information related to the Plans. The terms of the applicable Business Associate Agreement shall address non-compliance with the Privacy Standards by a Business Associate.

HIPAA Nondiscrimination

Notwithstanding any other provision of this Handbook, to the extent a group health plan subject to HIPAA’s nondiscrimination rules generally provides benefits for a type of injury, benefits otherwise provided for treatment of the injury will not be denied if the injury results from an act of domestic violence or a medical condition (including both physical and mental health conditions).

Employment Rights Not Guaranteed

Your participation in the Program or any Benefit Plan does not ensure you of continued (or renewed) employment with the Company or any Employer. It also does not ensure your rights to benefits, except as specified under the terms of the Program. This Handbook is not a contract of employment.

Amendment and Termination

Subject to the terms of any applicable collective bargaining agreement, the Committee may amend the Benefit Plans at any time. In addition, (i) the Director, Benefits, of the Company, or an employee of the Company or its affiliates succeeding to the duties and responsibilities of such person, may amend the Benefit Plans at any time, if such amendments are required by applicable law or regulations, and (ii) the Senior Vice President and Chief Human Resources Officer of the Company and the Director, Benefits of the Company (or officers or employees of the Company or its affiliates succeeding to the duties and responsibilities of such persons) may amend the Benefit Plans or adopt amendments to, or guidelines with respect to the administration of, the Benefit Plans, and may take such other actions with respect to the Benefit Plans, as such persons deem necessary or desirable in response to the health emergency created by the COVID-19 virus or to any other similar health emergency and in response to the effect of any such emergency upon the Benefit Plans or the participants thereunder. The Committee reserves the right to terminate any Benefit Plan at any time without the consent of, or advance notice to, you or your covered dependents.

Named Fiduciary and Plan Administrator

The Committee is the “Named Fiduciary” and “Plan Administrator” of each Benefit Plan as defined in ERISA, and, as such, has authority to control and manage the operation and administration of the Benefit Plans. See also the “Definitions” section of this Benefits Program Overview for the definition of “Plan Administrator.”

The Plan Administrator or its delegate has complete discretionary authority to make all determinations under the Benefit Plans, including determinations of eligibility for benefits and factual determinations, and to interpret the terms and provisions of the Benefit Plans.

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Plan Administrator or its delegate has full discretionary authority to: interpret the Benefit Plans and construe the Benefit Plans terms; determine eligibility for and the amount of benefits; determine the status and rights of employees, dependents and other persons; make rulings; make regulations and prescribe procedures; gather needed information; prescribe forms; exercise all of the power and authority contemplated by ERISA and the Internal Revenue Code with respect to the Benefit Plans; employ or appoint persons to help or advise in any administrative functions; and generally do anything needed to operate, manage and administer the Benefit Plans. The Plan Administrator or its delegate has the requisite discretionary authority and control over the Benefit Plans to require deferential judicial review of its decisions as set forth by the United States Supreme Court in Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. v. Bruch. The Committee has delegated certain authority to the NiSource Benefits Department, to insurers, and to third party administrators or Claims Administrators. To the extent not retained by the Committee, the Committee has delegated to the Claims Administrators, to the NiSource Benefits Department or to insurers the discretionary authority to:

- Make decisions regarding the interpretation or application of Benefit Plan provisions;
- Make determinations (including factual determinations) as to the rights and benefits of employees and participants under the Benefit Plans;
- Make claims determinations under the Benefit Plans; and
- Decide the appeal of denied claims.

Other authority may be delegated to the extent allowed by ERISA.

Benefits will be paid under the Benefit Plans only if the Plan Administrator or its delegate determines that the claimant is entitled to them. The decision of the Plan Administrator or its delegate is final and binding.

The Role of the Claims Administrator

With respect to the Benefit Plans, or portions thereof, that are self-insured, the Committee has retained one or more Claims Administrator to provide claims payment and other administrative services to such plans. Each Claims Administrator has full discretionary authority to decide claims and appeals for the claims it administers. However, even though a Retiree may receive a benefit check from a Claims Administrator, the Company, a Participating Employer or another plan funding vehicle actually pays benefit claims; the Claims Administrator does not pay claims out of its pocket. Although a Claims Administrator may have insurance coverage as part of its business, a Claims Administrator is not an insurer in relation to Benefit Plans, or portions thereof, that are self-insured. The self-insured portions of Benefit Plans are funded from the general assets of the Company or a Participating Employer or another lawful funding vehicle that is in place, such as a Voluntary Employees' Beneficiary Association Trust.

With respect to the fully insured Benefit Plans, the Claims Administrator is also the Plan's insurer and has full and absolute authority to decide claims and appeals by virtue of authority delegated by the Committee.

Claims Administrators are identified in the General Program Information section for each Benefit Plan and are subject to change from time to time.

Statement of ERISA Rights

As a participant in a Benefit Plan maintained by NiSource Inc., you are entitled to certain rights and protections under ERISA. ERISA provides that all plan participants shall be entitled to:

Receive Information About Plan and Benefits

- Examine, without charge, at the Plan Administrator's office and at other specified locations, such as worksites and union halls, all documents governing the Benefit Plan, including insurance contracts and collective bargaining agreements, and a copy of the latest annual report (Form 5500 Series) filed by the Benefit Plan with the U.S. Department of Labor and available at the Public Disclosure Room of the Employee Benefits Security Administration.
- Obtain, upon written request to the Plan Administrator, copies of documents governing the operation of the Benefit Plan, including insurance contracts and collective bargaining agreements, and copies of the latest annual report (Form 5500 Series) and updated Summary Plan Description. The Plan Administrator may make a reasonable charge for the copies.
- Receive a summary of the Benefit Plan's annual financial report. The Plan Administrator is required by law to furnish each participant with a copy of this Summary Annual Report.
- Continue health care coverage for you, your spouse or dependents if there is a loss of coverage under the Benefit Plan as a result of a qualifying event. You or your dependents may have to pay for such coverage. Review this Summary Plan Description and the documents governing the Benefit Plan on the rules governing your COBRA continuation coverage rights.

Prudent Actions by Plan Fiduciaries

In addition to creating rights for Benefit Plan participants, ERISA imposes duties upon the people who are responsible for the operation of the Benefit Plan. The people who operate the Benefit Plan, called “fiduciaries” of the Benefit Plan, have a duty to do so prudently and in the interest of the employee and other Benefit Plan participants and beneficiaries. No one, including your Employer or any other person, may fire you or otherwise discriminate against you in any way to prevent you from obtaining a welfare benefit or exercising your rights under ERISA.

Enforce Your Rights

If your claim for a welfare benefit is denied or ignored, in whole or in part, you have a right to know why this was done, to obtain copies of documents relating to the decision without charge, and to appeal any denial, all within certain time schedules.

Under ERISA, there are steps you can take to enforce the above rights. For instance, if you request a copy of Benefit Plan documents or the latest annual report from the Benefit Plan and do not receive them within 30 days, you may file suit in a Federal court. In such a case, the court may require the Plan Administrator to provide the materials and pay you up to $110 a day until you receive the materials, unless the materials were not sent because of reasons beyond the control of the Plan Administrator. If your claim for benefits is denied or ignored, in whole or in part, you may file suit in a state or Federal court after exhausting all required administrative appeals. In addition, if you disagree with the Benefit Plan’s decision or lack thereof concerning the qualified status of a medical child support order, you may file suit in Federal court. If it should happen that Benefit Plan fiduciaries misuse the Benefit Plan’s money, or if you are discriminated against for asserting your rights, you may seek assistance from the U.S. Department of Labor, or you may file suit in a Federal court.

The court will decide who should pay court costs and legal fees. If you are successful, the court may order the person you have sued to pay these costs and fees. If you lose, the court may order you to pay these costs and fees, for example, if it finds your claim is frivolous.

Assistance with Questions

Questions regarding the Benefit Plan should be directed to the Plan Administrator. If there are questions about this statement or about your rights under ERISA, or if as an employee you need assistance in obtaining documents from the Plan Administrator, you should contact the nearest office of the Employee Benefits Security Administration, U.S. Department of Labor, listed in your telephone directory or the Division of Technical Assistance and Inquiries, Employee Benefits Security Administration, U.S. Department of Labor, 200 Constitution Avenue N.W., Washington, DC 20210. You may also obtain certain publications about your rights and responsibilities under ERISA by calling the publications hotline of the Employee Benefits Security Administration.

Consolidated Flex Medical Plan

(Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan)

Covering Eligible Pre-65 Retirees
and/or Eligible Dependents Under Age 65

- PPO
- High Deductible PPO 1
- High Deductible PPO 2
- HMO

Your Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan Options

This is the SPD (the “Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD”) for the NiSource Consolidated Flex Medical Plan, also referred to as the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan. In this Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD, the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan is sometimes referred to as the “Plan.”

NiSource Inc. (the “Company”) provides eligible Pre-65 Retirees and their eligible dependents, as well as eligible dependents of Post-65 Retirees who are covered under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, with the following medical coverage options administered by Anthem BlueCross/BlueShield, each of which uses the Blue Cross/BlueShield Network:

- The Preferred Provider Organization (PPO);
- HDPPO 1 (HDPPO 1)
- HDPPO 2 (HDPPO 2)

The Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan may also offer Health Maintenance Organizations (“HMO”)—provided you live in an area where a NiSource HMO option is available. If this option is available to you and you elect the option, your insurer will provide you with a separate HMO SPD. Please refer to that document for further information regarding HMO coverage.

Keep in mind that the Plan covers expenses based on a determination of the “Maximum Allowed Amount”. Charges above the Maximum Allowed Amount are not paid by the Plan and are your responsibility. The Maximum Allowed Amount is determined based upon guidelines established by the Claims Administrator in its discretion from time to time. For more information about the determination of the Maximum Allowed Amount, please see the subsection below entitled “Maximum Allowed Amount”. If you have a question about the determination of the Maximum Allowed Amount, contact an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card.

The PPO option includes a network of qualified health care providers who offer discounted services for being able to participate in the network. You may also use Out-of-Network Providers and still receive a benefit; however, your costs may be higher if you choose out-of-network services.

The HDPPO 1 and HDPPO 2 are both administered by Anthem. With these options, you may go in-network or out-of-network each time you seek care. The Plan pays more if you stay in the network. Office visits (for non-preventive care) and prescription drugs are subject to the same deductible and co-insurance as other medical expenses. No medical or prescription drug benefits (except preventive and wellness care) are payable until you satisfy the annual deductible. After you meet your deductible, you will generally pay 20% of your expenses (assuming you use In-Network Providers) until you reach your out-of-pocket maximum. There are separate out-of-pocket maximums for in-network and out-of-network services. Once you reach your out-of-pocket maximum, the plan pays 100% of your eligible expenses for the rest of the calendar year.

If you enroll in either HDPPO 1 or HDPPO 2, you may be eligible to contribute to a Health Savings Account (HSA), although as a Pre-65 Retiree you may not contribute to an HSA through the Company. The money you contribute to an HSA can be used to reimburse you for eligible expenses that are not covered under the Plan.

To find a provider who participates in the network, log on to anthem.com or contact an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card.

Utilization Review Program

The Utilization Review (UR) Program is designed to help you determine the course of treatment that will maximize your plan benefits regardless of which coverage option you select.

The UR Program offers the following services:

- Pre-admission authorization;
- Pre-Certification;
- Urgent Hospital Admission;
- Continued Stay Review;
- Other Required Pre-certifications; and
- Penalty for Non-Compliance.

The Utilization Review Program provides pre-authorization services to help verify the need for recommended treatment. This service also can propose treatment alternatives that may be more appropriate and cost-effective. Pre-authorization does not guarantee benefits. Benefit availability is subject to eligibility and other terms, conditions, limitations, and exclusions of the Plan.

You must contact Anthem (who provides the Utilization Review services) to receive pre-authorization any time your doctor recommends treatment that requires pre-authorization as outlined below:

- Pre-Admission/Pre-Certification: Except in the case of an urgent hospitalization, all hospitalizations shall be pre-certified prior to admission for any reason. The Pre-certification Provider’s name and telephone number will be provided to each participant. Hospital admission pre-certification does not guarantee benefits under the Plan. Actual benefits provided under the Plan are determined based on the provisions of the Plan.

- Pre-Certification Procedure: When your physician recommends a non-urgent hospitalization, you or your physician must call the Pre-certification Provider. You must advise your physician of the Plan's pre-admission certification requirement and provide such physician with adequate information to obtain the pre-certification. You or your physician should secure pre-certification as soon as possible and before a covered person actually enters the hospital. It is your responsibility to see that the Pre-certification Provider is notified.
- Urgent Hospital Admission: In the case of an urgent hospitalization, the covered person's physician, the hospital, or a family member must telephone the Pre-certification Provider within 48 hours of admission or the first business day following weekend or holiday admissions. You must provide the Pre-certification Provider with the information required by the Pre-certification Provider.
- Continued Stay Review: The Pre-certification Provider may monitor all hospital stays through contact with the covered person's physician.
- Other Required Pre-certifications: You and your physician must notify the Pre-certification Provider prior to the provision of the following additional services or supplies: (1) inpatient surgery, (2) a newborn child hospital stay beyond that of the mother; (3) plastic reconstructive surgery; and (4) durable medical equipment/prosthetics. With approval of the Plan, the Pre-certification Provider may require pre-certification for other services or supplies in accordance with reasonable procedures.
- Penalty for Non-compliance: If you fail to comply with the requirements as described above, the Plan may assess a $300 penalty.

How Deductibles Work in the PPO Option

For charges that are subject to the calendar year deductible requirement under the PPO Coverage Option, a covered person generally must satisfy the “individual” covered person deductible requirement (currently $500 for in-network and $1,000 for out-of-network) each calendar year before the Plan will pay any benefits for such charges. Charges incurred by a covered person may not be applied toward satisfaction of any other covered person’s “individual” deductible requirement.

However, once the “family” deductible has been satisfied for a category of coverage (e.g., for In-Network Providers, $1,000 for covered member + spouse or for covered member + child(ren), or $1,500 for covered member + family), additional covered persons within the family do not need to satisfy any deductible requirement.

For example, if you choose the covered member + children category of coverage and you and one of your children each satisfy the $500 in-network deductible requirement in a given year, none of your other children will be subject to the in-network deductible requirement for that year. On the other hand, if you choose the covered member + family category of coverage and you and your spouse each incur $1,000 of charges that are subject to the in-network deductible requirement, one of your children who is a covered person must satisfy the $500 in-network deductible requirement before the “family” deductible requirement is met.

Please note that prescription drug expenses are not counted against the calendar year deductible.

For the PPO Coverage Option only, charges that are incurred during the last three months of the calendar plan year and that are applied to the individual and family deductible for such calendar plan year (that is, charges incurred before the deductible is satisfied) apply also toward the deductible requirement for the following calendar plan year.

How Deductibles Work in the HDPPPO 1 and HDPPPO 2 Options

For charges that are subject to the calendar year deductible requirement under the HDPPPO 1 and HDPPPO 2 Coverage Options, each calendar year the covered family as a unit must satisfy the specified deductible requirement for a category of coverage before the Plan will pay any benefits for such charges.

Thus, for example, if you choose the covered member + family category of coverage and you incur $2,000 of charges that are subject to the in-network deductible, but no other covered family member incurs any charges, you (or other covered family members) must still satisfy the remaining $1,000 of the in-network deductible requirement before the Plan will pay any benefits. On the other hand, if you choose the covered member + family category of coverage and your spouse incurs $3,500 of charges in a year that are subject to the in-network deductible, no other family members will be subject to an in-network deductible requirement for that year.

The Individual Out-of-Pocket Maximum Limit in the HDPPPO 2 Option

In the HDPPPO 2 Coverage Option, for categories of coverage other than “covered member only,” there is an individual out-of-pocket maximum limit. This means that regardless of the overall out-of-pocket maximum limit for the category of coverage, no covered person will pay more than the individual out-of-pocket maximum for expenses that are subject to that limit. For services received from In-Network Providers, the individual out-of-pocket maximum as of January 1, 2021 is equal to $8,550. For services received from Out-of-Network Providers, the individual out-of-pocket maximum as of January 1, 2021 is $15,000.

Maximum Allowed Amount

General

This section describes how Anthem, as Claims Administrator for the Plan, determines the amount of reimbursement for services, treatments or supplies covered by the Plan (“Covered Services”). However, this section does not address Covered Services under the Plan for which claims are not administered by Anthem.

Reimbursement for services, treatments or supplies rendered or furnished by In-Network and Out-of-Network Providers is based on the Plan’s Maximum Allowed Amount for the Covered Service that you receive.

The Maximum Allowed Amount is the maximum amount of reimbursement the Claims Administrator will allow for services, treatments and supplies:

- to the extent the cost for such services, treatments and supplies are covered under the Plan and are not excluded;
- that are Medically Necessary; and
- that are provided in accordance with all applicable preauthorization, utilization management or other requirements set forth in the Plan.

You will be required to pay a portion of the Maximum Allowed Amount to the extent you have not met your Deductible or have a Co-payment or Co-insurance. In addition, when you receive Covered Services from an Out-of-Network Provider, you may be responsible for paying any difference between the Maximum Allowed Amount and the Provider’s actual charges. This amount can be significant.

When you receive Covered Services from a Provider, the Claims Administrator will, to the extent applicable, apply claim processing rules to the claim submitted for those Covered Services. These rules evaluate the claim information and, among other things, determine the accuracy and appropriateness of the procedure and diagnosis codes included in the claim. Applying these rules may affect Claims Administrator’s determination of the Maximum Allowed Amount. The Claims Administrator’s application of these rules does not mean that the Covered Services you received were not Medically Necessary. It means the Claims Administrator has determined that the claim was submitted inconsistent with procedure coding rules and/or reimbursement policies. For example, your Provider may have submitted the claim using several procedure codes when there is a single procedure code that includes all of the procedures that were performed. When this occurs, the Maximum Allowed

Amount will be based on the single procedure code rather than a separate Maximum Allowed Amount for each billed code.

Likewise, when multiple procedures are performed on the same day by the same physician or other healthcare professional, the Plan may reduce the Maximum Allowed Amounts for those secondary and subsequent procedures because reimbursement at 100% of the Maximum Allowed Amount for those procedures would represent duplicative payment for components of the primary procedure that may be considered incidental or inclusive.

Provider Network Status

The Maximum Allowed Amount may vary depending upon whether the Provider is an In-Network Provider or an Out-of-Network Provider.

An In-Network Provider is a Provider who is in the managed network for the Plan or in a closely managed specialty network, or who has a participation contract with the Claims Administrator. For Covered Services performed by an In-Network Provider, the Maximum Allowed Amount for the Plan is the rate the Provider has agreed with the Claims Administrator to accept as reimbursement for the Covered Services. Because In-Network Providers have agreed to accept the Maximum Allowed Amount as payment in full for those Covered Services, they should not send you a bill or collect for amounts above the Maximum Allowed Amount. However, you may receive a bill or be asked to pay all or a portion of the Maximum Allowed Amount to the extent you have not met your Deductible or have a Co-payment or Co-insurance. Please call an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card for help in finding an In-Network Provider or visit the Claims Administrator's website at anthem.com.

Providers who have not signed any contract with the Claims Administrator and are not in any of the Claims Administrator's networks are Out-of-Network Providers, subject to Blue Cross Blue Shield Association rules governing claims filed by certain ancillary providers.

For Covered Services you receive from an Out-of-Network Provider, the Maximum Allowed Amount for the Plan will be one of the following as determined by the Claims Administrator:

- An amount based on the Claims Administrator's Out-of-Network Provider fee schedule/rate, which the Claims Administrator has established in its discretion, and which the Claims Administrator reserves the right to modify from time to time, after considering one or more of the following: reimbursement amounts accepted by like/similar providers contracted with the Claims Administrator, reimbursement amounts paid by the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services ("CMS") for the same services or supplies, and other industry cost, reimbursement and utilization data; or
- An amount based on reimbursement or cost information from CMS. When basing the Maximum Allowed amount upon the level or method of reimbursement used by CMS, the Claims Administrator will update such information, which is unadjusted for geographic locality, no less than annually; or
- An amount based on information provided by a third party vendor, which may reflect one or more of the following factors: (1) the complexity or severity of treatment; (2) level of skill and experience required for the treatment; or (3) comparable providers' fees and costs to deliver care; or
- An amount negotiated by the Claims Administrator or a third party vendor which has been agreed to by the Provider. This may include rates for services coordinated through case management; or
- An amount based on or derived from the total charges billed by the Out-of-Network Provider.

Providers who are not contracted for the Plan, but contracted for other benefit plans with the Claims Administrator are also considered Out-of-Network. For the Plan, the Maximum Allowed Amount for services from these Providers will be one of the five methods shown above unless the contract between the Claims Administrator and that Provider specifies a different amount.

For Covered Services rendered outside the Claims Administrator's service area by Out-of-Network Providers, claims may be priced using the local Blue Cross Blue Shield plan's non-participating Provider fee schedule/rate or the pricing arrangements required by applicable state or Federal law. In certain situations, the Maximum Allowed Amount for out of area claims may be based on billed charges, the pricing the Plan would use if the healthcare services had been obtained within the Claims Administrator's service area, or a special negotiated price.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, when determining the Maximum Allowable Amount for Out-of-Network emergency services, the Claims Administrator will provide benefits for such services in an amount at least equal to the greatest of the methods required under the Affordable Care Act and the regulations thereunder (adjusted for in-network cost sharing).

Unlike In-Network Providers, Out-of-Network Providers may send you a bill and collect for the amount of the Provider's charge that exceeds the Plan's Maximum Allowed Amount. You are responsible for paying the difference between the Maximum Allowed Amount and the amount the Provider charges. This amount can be significant. Choosing an In-Network Provider will likely result in lower out-of-pocket costs to you. Please call an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card for help in finding an In-Network Provider or visit the Claims Administrator's website at anthem.com.

An Anthem customer service associate is also available to assist you in determining the Plan's Maximum Allowed Amount for a particular service from an Out-of-Network Provider. In order for the Claims Administrator to assist you, you will need to obtain from your Provider the specific procedure code(s) and diagnosis code(s) for the services the Provider will render. You will also need to know the Provider's charges to calculate your out-of-pocket responsibility. Although an Anthem customer service associate can assist you with this pre-service information, the final Maximum Allowed Amount for your claim will be based on the actual claim submitted by the Provider.

For Prescription Drugs Obtained through the HDPPO

For prescription drugs obtained under an HDPPO Option, the Maximum Allowed Amount is the amount determined by the Claims Administrator using prescription drug cost information provided by the Pharmacy Benefits Manager (PBM) for that Option.

Participant Cost Share

For certain Covered Services and depending on your plan design, you may be required to pay a part of the Maximum Allowed Amount as your cost share amount (for example, Deductible, Co-payment, and/or Co-insurance).

Your cost share amount and out-of-pocket limits may vary depending on whether you received services from an In-Network or Out-of-Network Provider. Specifically, you may be required to pay higher cost sharing amounts or may have limits on your benefits when using Out-of-Network Providers. Please see the Highlights of the PPO Option, Highlights of the HDPPO 1 and HDPPO 2 Options, and Highlights of Your Prescription Drug Coverage in the HDPPO 1 and HDPPO 2 Options sections in this Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD for your cost share responsibilities and limitations in the Plan, or call an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card to learn how the Plan's benefits or cost share amounts may vary by the type of Provider you use.

Special Cost-Sharing Provisions during Public Health Emergency

During any portion of the emergency period defined in paragraph (1)(B) of section 1135(g) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1320b-5(g)), beginning on or after March 18, 2020, the Medical Plan will provide coverage of the following items and services without any cost sharing (including Deductibles, Co-Payments, and Co-Insurance) requirements or prior authorization or other medical management requirements, to the extent (i) required by applicable law, (ii) medically appropriate for you, as determined by your attending healthcare provider in accordance with accepted standards of current medical practice, and (iii) ordered by your attending healthcare provider:

- (a) An in vitro diagnostic test as defined in section 809.3 of title 21, Code of Federal Regulations, (or its successor regulations) for the detection of SARS-CoV-2 or the diagnosis of COVID-19, and the administration of such a test, that—
 - (1) is approved, cleared, or authorized under section 510(k), 513, 515, or 564 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21

U.S.C. §§ 360(k), 360c, 360e, 360bbb-3); (2) the developer has requested, or intends to request, emergency use authorization under section 564 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21 U.S.C. 360bbb-3), unless and until the emergency use authorization request under such section 564 has been denied or the developer of such test does not submit a request under such section within a reasonable timeframe; (3) is developed in and authorized by a State that has notified the Secretary of HHS of its intention to review tests intended to diagnose COVID-19; or (4) other tests that the Secretary of HHS determines appropriate in guidance. (b) Items and services furnished to an individual during healthcare provider office visits (which includes in-person visits and telehealth visits), urgent care center visits, and emergency room visits that result in an order for or administration of an in vitro diagnostic product described in paragraph (a), but only to the extent the items and services relate to the furnishing or administration of the product or to the evaluation of the individual for purposes of determining the need of the individual for such product. Reimbursement of Out-of-Network Providers furnishing any of the foregoing items or services shall not exceed an amount that equals the cash price for such service as listed by the Provider on a public internet website.

The Plan will not provide any reimbursement for non-Covered Services. You may be responsible for the total amount billed by your Provider for non-Covered Services, regardless of whether such services are performed by an In-Network or Non-Network Provider. Non-Covered Services include services specifically excluded from coverage by the terms of the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD and services received after benefits have been exhausted. Benefits may be exhausted by exceeding, for example, benefit caps or day/visit limits.

In some instances you may only be asked to pay the lower In-Network cost sharing amount when you use an Out-of-Network Provider. For example, if you go to an In-Network hospital or Provider facility and receive Covered Services from an Out-of-Network Provider such as a radiologist, anesthesiologist or pathologist who is employed by or contracted with an In-Network hospital or facility, you will pay the In-Network cost share amounts for those Covered Services. However, you also may be liable for the difference between the Maximum Allowed Amount and the Out-of-Network Provider's charge.

The Claims Administrator and/or its designated pharmacy benefits manager may receive discounts, rebates, or other funds from drug manufacturers, wholesalers, distributors, and/or similar vendors, which may be related to certain prescription drug purchases under this Plan and which positively impact the cost effectiveness of Covered Services. These amounts are retained by the Claims Administrator. These amounts will not be applied to your Deductible, if any, or taken into account in determining your Copayment or Coinsurance.

Authorized Services

In some circumstances, such as where there is no In-Network Provider available for the Covered Service, the Plan may authorize the In-Network cost share amounts (Deductible, Co-payment, and/or Co-insurance) to apply to a claim for a Covered Service you receive from an Out-of-Network Provider. In such circumstance, you must contact the Claims Administrator in advance of obtaining the Covered Service. The Plan also may authorize the In-Network cost share amounts to apply to a claim for Covered Services if you receive emergency services from an Out-of-Network Provider and are not able to contact the Claims Administrator until after the Covered Service is rendered. If the Plan authorizes an In-Network cost share amount to apply to a Covered Service received from an Out-of-Network Provider, you also may still be liable for the difference between the Maximum Allowed Amount and the Out-of-Network Provider's charge. Please contact an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card for Authorized Services information or to request authorization.

Medical Expenses Covered

The Plan pays benefits for you (or your covered dependents) for Medically Necessary eligible expenses up to the Maximum Allowed Amount. For services covered under an HMO plan, please refer to the HMO SPD.

For expenses not covered under the PPO and HD PPO options, see the section below entitled “Medical Expenses Not Covered.”

Please Note: No lawsuit or legal action of any kind regarding a claim for benefits under the Plan may be commenced unless the claims procedure process for internal appeals (but not including any voluntary appeal) has been exhausted. In addition, in no event may any lawsuit or other legal action regarding a claim for benefits be commenced later than three years after the date such claim was incurred or the date when the rescission of coverage occurred, as the case may be. For more information, see the “Claims Determination and Appeal Process – Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan” section of the Benefits Program Overview, and in particular the section entitled “Limitation of Actions and Venue,” found on page 26.

The Plan will not discriminate with respect to participation under the Plan against any health care provider who is acting within the scope of that provider’s license or certification under applicable law. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Plan is not required to contract with any health care provider willing to abide by the terms and conditions for participation established by the Plan and the Plan may establish varying reimbursement rates based on quality or performance measures.

The covered expenses under the Plan include, but may not be limited to the following:

Inpatient Services

The Plan pays benefits for the following inpatient hospital/medical services and supplies.

- Hospital facility services – such as inpatient room and board – when you are in:
 - A semi-private room;
 - A private room (the Plan limits benefits to the hospital’s prevailing semi-private room rate); or

- An intensive care unit.

The Plan pays benefits for both day and nighttime care.

- Inpatient ancillary services and supplies, including:
 - Operating room charges;
 - X-rays;
 - Laboratory work;
 - Surgical dressing; and
 - Prescribed medications (Outpatient prescription drug services are covered under the prescription drug program. See the sections of this Handbook relating to Prescription Drugs for details).
- Inpatient surgical services, including:
 - Surgeon’s fees when related to the surgical procedure; and
 - Surgery for morbid obesity.
- Skilled nursing facility care, up to the hospital’s prevailing semi-private room rate, including:
 - Bed, board, and general nursing care; and
 - Ancillary services (such as drugs, surgical dressings, or supplies).
- General nursing care provided by an RN or LPN when you are in:
 - A semi-private room;
 - A private room; or
 - An intensive care unit.
- Pre-admission testing, x-rays, or laboratory services performed before inpatient surgery. These tests are considered part of your inpatient hospital surgical stay and are performed on an outpatient basis. The Plan pays benefits provided you would have otherwise been eligible to receive such tests as a hospital inpatient.

Outpatient Services

The Plan pays benefits for the following services, provided you receive them on an outpatient basis:

- Hospital facility services and ancillary charges for services performed on an outpatient basis;
- Outpatient surgery and related surgical services when performed in an office setting, including:
 - Any related diagnostic services received on the same day as the outpatient surgery;
 - Surgeon's fees when related to the surgical procedure; and
 - Surgery for morbid obesity.
- Dental/oral surgical services, only when required because of an accidental injury to natural teeth (within 12 months of injury), to extract completely bony impacted teeth, including completely impacted wisdom teeth, or (for the PPO option only) in connection with a gingivectomy. The Plan pays benefits for outpatient facility charges only if your medical condition or the dental procedure requires a hospital setting to ensure your safety.
- Temporomandibular joint dysfunction and related medical disorders. The Plan limits benefits to:
 - Surgery, provided the surgical procedure is medically appropriate; and
 - Appliances (the Plan pays benefits for appliances just like any other durable medical equipment).
- A second surgical opinion and additional required testing at your request or when recommended by the Utilization Review (UR) Program. The Plan pays benefits provided your physician (other than the one who offers the second opinion) performs the eventual surgery.

Professional Services (Outpatient)

The Plan pays benefits for care you receive from a physician or other specified professional provider (i.e., a general practitioner, family practitioner, a physician of internal medicine, pediatrician, gynecologist, nurse practitioner, or physician assistant), on an outpatient basis.

- Office visits, visits to a clinic, or a physician's visit to your home as part of home care services. You must meet the co-pay or deductible requirement, as applicable, before the Plan pays benefits.
- Services provided by a professional, including:

- Allergy injections, shots, serums, and immunizations;
- Diagnostic allergy testing;
- Hearing exams and hearing aids. The Plan limits benefits to one hearing exam and one hearing aid per ear during a two calendar-year period; and
- Diabetes management services, including:
 - Educational services;
 - Eye exams; and
 - Blood glucose testing machines (diabetic supplies and other diagnostics are covered under the prescription drug coverage).

Emergency Care Services

The Plan pays benefits for the cost of the following emergency care services:

- Hospital emergency room care when care is associated with:
 - An accident;
 - A medical emergency; or
 - A non-medical emergency.
- Urgent care;
- Ambulance services (local ground or air transportation), when medically necessary to transport you to the nearest appropriately equipped facility that is able to provide necessary treatment. The Plan pays benefits for air-ambulance services only if medically necessary. When ambulance services are used because they are more convenient than other types of transportation, the Plan does not pay benefits.

If your condition is life threatening and you receive emergency care at a hospital outside the network because it is not possible to safely transfer you to a hospital within the network, the Plan still pays benefits at the in-network level.

Rehabilitation Services

The Plan pays benefits for the following inpatient and outpatient rehabilitation services.

- The following rehabilitation services provided on an inpatient or outpatient basis (unless otherwise noted):

- Physical Medicine/Rehabilitation (PMR) (inpatient only, limited to 60 days per person per year; outpatient PMR is considered physical therapy and is subject to the limits outlined below for outpatient physical therapy). The Plan may extend these limits based upon medical necessity;
- Cardiac rehabilitation;
- Chemotherapy;
- Radiation therapy;
- Respiratory therapy (including respiratory therapy devices);
- Infusion; and
- Renal dialysis treatments.

- Outpatient therapy treatments, including:

- Physical therapy (therapy is subject to significant improvement through relatively short-term therapy);
- Occupational therapy;
- Speech therapy, provided therapy is restorative in nature or rehabilitative treatment is needed for speech loss or impairment due to an illness or injury or surgery on account of an illness (other than a functional nervous disorder). If speech loss is due to a congenital anomaly for which corrective surgery has been performed, the corrective surgery must be performed before the therapy and therapy must be designed to provide significant improvement on a relatively short-term basis.

The Plan pays benefits provided a registered professional physical or occupational therapist, or speech therapist certified by the American Speech and Hearing Association renders the appropriate services under the supervision of a physician. Benefits for physical therapy and occupational therapy are limited to a combined 26 visits per person per year. Benefits for speech therapy are limited to 26 visits per person per year. Additional visits for physical therapy, occupational therapy, and speech therapy may be authorized based upon medical necessity.

- Chiropractic and spinal manipulation therapy provided a licensed chiropractor performs the services on an outpatient basis. The Plan limits benefits for chiropractic services regardless of medical necessity to 26 manipulations per person per year;
- Physiotherapy, provided a licensed physiotherapist performs the services and he or she does not normally live with you or is not related to you or your spouse by blood, marriage, or legal adoption.

Diagnostic and Laboratory Services

The Plan pays benefits for the following diagnostic and laboratory services.

- Inpatient radiology and laboratory services
- Outpatient radiology, diagnostic, and laboratory services performed when you are an outpatient and the services are related to surgery or medical care, including:
 - X-rays;
 - Radium treatments;
 - Microscopic tests; and
 - Laboratory tests and exams.

Preventive Health Services

Generally

The Plan pays benefits for certain preventive health services.

Preventive health services include outpatient services and office services. Screenings and other services are covered as preventive health services for adults and children with no current symptoms or prior history of a medical condition associated with that screening or service.

Members who have current symptoms or have been diagnosed with a medical condition are not considered to require preventive health services for that condition, but instead benefits will be considered as diagnostic services.

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, if performed as a preventive care service or screening, the Plan pays benefits for one in-network colonoscopy per covered person per calendar year, and one in-network mammography per covered person per calendar year with no deductible, co-insurance or co-payment requirement, notwithstanding that any treatment incidental or ancillary to such service or screening (such as the removal of polyps during a diagnostic colonoscopy) is also performed during such service or screening.

Preventive health services covered under the Plan may constitute either recommended preventive health services or additional preventive health services. Additional preventive health services are certain preventive health services covered under the Plan that do not constitute recommended health services. Please contact an Anthem customer service associate using the number on the back of your ID card for any questions concerning what constitutes a recommended preventive health service or an additional preventive health service. Additional preventive health services furnished by In-Network Providers are covered by the Plan with no deductible, co-payments or co-insurance. Additional preventive health services furnished by Out-of-Network Providers are subject to deductibles and co-insurance under the PPO option, but are covered by the Plan with no deductible, co-payments or co-insurance under the HDPPO options.

Recommended preventive health services shall meet requirements as determined by Federal law and, if applicable, state law. Recommended preventive health services are covered by this Plan with no deductible, co-payments or co-insurance under the HDPPO options and when furnished by an In-Network Provider under the PPO option. Recommended preventive health services furnished by an Out-of-Network Provider under the PPO option are subject to deductibles and co-insurance.

To the extent required by federal regulation, if there is no In-Network Provider who can provide a recommended preventive health service, the Plan will cover the service, with no deductible, co-payment or co-insurance, when performed by an Out-of-Network Provider.

limitations and conditions with respect to such services, including timing and frequency, that are set forth in the specific HRSA guidelines.

In addition to preventive care and screening already noted above, such preventive care and screenings may include the following, subject to the limitations and conditions with respect to such services that are set forth in the specific recommendations, including limitations and conditions relating to the timing and frequency of such services and the designation, by age, gender or medical history or condition, of those individuals for which such items or services may be appropriate:

See the following website for additional information:
<http://www.hrsa.gov/womensguidelines/>.

Limitations With Respect To Recommended Preventive Health Services

The services described in the recommendations or guidelines above will not constitute recommended preventive health services earlier than Plan Year that begins on or after the date that is one year after the recommendations or guidelines are issued; provided, however, that recommended preventive health services shall include any “qualifying coronavirus preventive service,” as defined in applicable federal regulations, on the date that is 15 business days after the date on which a recommendation is made relating to the qualifying coronavirus preventive service.

Please note: Regardless of whether such services continue to be listed above, recommended preventive health services will remain covered services under the Plan only until the end of the Plan Year following the date the related recommendation or guideline is no longer described in the federal regulations regarding coverage of preventive health services. Provided, however, that to the extent a service covered on the first day of a Plan Year is, during the Plan Year, downgraded to a “D” rating, or any item or service associated with any recommendation or guideline described in the federal regulations regarding coverage of preventive health services is subject to a safety recall or is otherwise determined by a federal agency authorized to regulate the item or service to pose a significant safety concern, such service will cease to be a covered service as of the date of the rating downgrade or agency determination.

Please also note: The frequency, method, treatment and setting of recommended preventive health services are subject to reasonable medical management techniques determined by the Plan Administrator or Claims Administrator in their discretion. Please contact an Anthem customer service associate using the number on the back of your ID card for information concerning any limitations upon recommended preventive health services arising out of the use of such techniques.

If a recommended preventive health service is billed separately (or is not tracked as individual encounter data separately) from an office visit, then the Plan may impose a co-payment and/or deductible for the office visit. If a recommended preventive health service is not billed separately (or is not tracked as individual encounter data separately) from an office visit and the primary purpose of the office visit is the delivery of the recommended preventive health service, then the Plan will not impose a co-payment, co-insurance and/or deductible for the office visit, unless you have chosen the PPO option and the office visit involves an Out-of-Network Provider. If a recommended preventive health service is not billed separately (or is not tracked as individual encounter data separately) from an office visit and the primary purpose of the office visit is not the delivery of the recommended preventive health service, then the Plan may impose a co-payment, co-insurance and/or deductible for the office visit.

Additional Information

You may contact an Anthem customer service associate using the number on the back of your ID card for additional information about these recommended preventive health services (or you may view the following federal government websites:

Gender Reassignment Surgery

Generally

Gender reassignment surgery is one treatment option for extreme cases of gender dysphoria. It is not a single procedure, but part of a complex process involving multiple medical, psychiatric, and surgical specialists working in conjunction with each other and the individual.

Plan Benefits for Specific Surgeries

The Plan pays benefits for gender reassignment surgery consisting of any combination of the following, if the Plan Administrator determines in its sole and absolute discretion that each such surgery is Medical Necessary: hysterectomy, salpingo-oophorectomy, ovariectomy, orchiectomy, metoidioplasty, phalloplasty, vaginoplasty, penectomy, clitoroplasty, labiaplasty, vaginectomy, scrotoplasty, urethroplasty, or placement of testicular prostheses.

See the “Definitions” subsection of the Benefits Program Overview for what constitutes a Medically Necessary service or supply. For a surgery to be considered Medically Necessary, all criteria established by the Plan Administrator for such surgery must be satisfied. For information concerning the criteria to be satisfied to establish medical necessity, please contact an Anthem customer service associate using the number on the back of your ID card.

Before the Plan pays benefits, Anthem, as Claims Administrator, must approve all hospital confinements and/or surgical procedures related to any gender reassignment surgery. Be sure to contact Anthem before you proceed with any gender reassignment surgery or related procedure.

Cosmetic Procedures or Services Not Covered

Cosmetic procedures or services in connection with gender reassignment surgery are not covered under the Plan. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the following surgeries are considered cosmetic when used to improve the gender specific

The Plan pays maternity benefits for services provided to the mother (if covered under the Plan) as well as certain services provided to the newborn infant while the mother is hospitalized after childbirth (even if you initially have Retiree-only coverage). However, if the newborn requires treatment for an illness or injury or remains hospitalized after the mother is discharged from the hospital after giving birth, the Plan pays benefits for that care only if you add the newborn to coverage, provided the newborn is eligible for coverage under the Plan. (The newborn child of your female child is not eligible for coverage under the Plan.) To add an eligible newborn child to your coverage, you must call the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320, or log on to the website mysourceforhr.com and add the newborn child within 31 days of the actual birth. Provided the newborn child is eligible for coverage and you timely enroll the child, coverage for the newborn takes effect as of the date of birth. Please see the “Enrollment” and the “Changing and Continuing Your Elections” section of the Benefits Program Overview for further details.

Please Note:

If you do not enroll an eligible newborn child in the Plan within 31 days of the child’s birth, your next opportunity to enroll the child will not be until the next annual enrollment period or until you experience another qualified life event that permits you to enroll the child.

 - Home IV infusion;
 - Home health aid services;
 - Medically necessary services, supplies, and medications.

For the PPO coverage option, care must be provided through an accredited hospice care program and the hospice care program must be approved by the Claims Administrator and be licensed, certified or registered, if the state in which it is located requires the same. There may be instances when short episodes of traditional care are appropriate – even if you remain in the hospice setting. Even if the traditional services are not eligible for hospice care benefits, the Plan may still cover them. Charges incurred during periods of remission are not covered.

- Human organ and tissue transplant services. The Plan pays benefits for any medically necessary human organ and tissue transplant, as determined by the Plan Administrator, including necessary acquisition costs and preparatory myeloblastic therapy, and for all covered services that are (i) Medically Necessary, as determined by the Plan Administrator, and (ii) directly related to the disease that has necessitated the covered transplant procedure or that arise as a result of the procedure, including any diagnostic evaluation for the purpose of determining the appropriateness of the procedure for a covered person.

For cornea and kidney transplants, the benefits or requirements described below do not apply. These services are paid as inpatient services, outpatient services or physician office services, depending where the service is performed.

The Plan pays benefits only for facility and provider expenses that are described as covered expenses elsewhere in this Handbook.

Before the Plan pays benefits, Anthem, as Claims Administrator, must approve all hospital confinements and/or surgical procedures related to an organ or tissue transplant. Be sure to contact Anthem before you proceed with any treatment related to a transplant.

You should contact Anthem's transplant department to discuss benefit coverage when it is determined a transplant may be needed. Contact the Anthem Customer Service telephone number on the back of your Identification Card and ask for the transplant coordinator. Anthem will then assist you in maximizing your benefits by providing coverage information, including details regarding what is covered and whether any Plan provisions, network requirements or exclusions are applicable. Failure to obtain this information prior to receiving services could result in increased financial responsibility for you. If you choose an out-of-network facility or provider, the Plan will pay covered expenses based upon a determination of the Maximum Allowed Amount and you will be responsible for any amount not paid by the Plan.

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Plan pays benefits for the following medically necessary services related to a human organ or tissue transplant:

- Physician's charges related to surgery, including charges for a surgical physician's assistant (if medically necessary), and related anesthesia.
- Inpatient covered hospital services related to the transplant procedure.

If a participating (in-network) transplant facility performs transplant-related services, the Plan pays benefits for medically necessary pre-transplant evaluations and 12 months of transplant-related follow-up care (including any rejection events).

The Plan will provide assistance with reasonable and necessary travel expenses as determined by the Plan Administrator when you obtain prior approval and are required to travel more than 100 miles from your residence to reach the facility where your covered transplant procedure will be performed. The Plan's assistance with travel expenses includes transportation to and from the facility and lodging for the patient and one companion. If the covered person receiving treatment is a minor, then reasonable and necessary expenses for transportation and lodging may be allowed for two companions.

Benefits for lodging are limited to $75.00 per day. There is a $20,000 combined maximum for travel and lodging. The covered person must submit itemized receipts for transportation and lodging expenses in a form satisfactory to the Plan Administrator when claims are filed.

How Your Prescription Drug Coverage Works in the PPO

When you participate in the PPO coverage option under the Plan, you are also provided with prescription drug coverage through the Anthem Prescription Drug Program. HMOs will provide separate prescription drug coverage.

Your benefits will vary depending on the type of prescription drug you take (generic, formulary or non-formulary) and how you buy it (at the pharmacy or through the mail).

- Generic - Drugs are no longer covered by the original patent. They include the same active ingredients as the brand-name drug at a fraction of the cost.
- Formulary - A list of approved drugs covered under the prescription drug plan. Drugs are selected for the formulary based on a combination of features, including safety, effectiveness and cost. You will pay less for a formulary drug than for a non-formulary drug.
- Non-formulary – Drugs that are not on the formulary list, but generally have a formulary alternative. You may choose non-formulary drugs, but you will pay more than a generic or formulary drug.

The Plan and the PBM have an agreement whereby the PBM periodically makes refunds to the Plan based upon the Plan's actual utilization pattern of specific drugs. The Plan retains these amounts.

The PPO coverage option utilizes a clinical prior authorization (CPA) program. CPA simply means you must get approval from Anthem before certain prescription drugs will be covered under the Plan. The CPA program reviews the use of certain very costly drugs, certain drugs that could be abused by the patient, and drugs that might not be the best choice for the patient's health problem. To see if the CPA program applies to a particular drug prescribed for you, contact Anthem toll-free at 1-800-228-2891.

Also, for the PPO coverage option, regardless of whether you use a retail pharmacy or the mail order service, if a generic substitute for a brand-name drug is prescribed or if your Provider has not indicated that a brand-name drug is Medically Necessary, and if you request that the brand-name drug be dispensed, you will be responsible for payment of the applicable Co-Payment or Co-Insurance plus the difference in cost between the brand-name drug and the generic substitute.

You can fill your prescription at any participating pharmacy.

Retail

If you fill your prescription at a participating retail pharmacy, you need to meet a co-pay requirement. If your share of the drug's cost is less than the "minimum co-pay," you pay the minimum co-pay amount. If your share of the drug's cost is greater than the "maximum co-pay," you pay up to the maximum co-pay amount. See the "Highlights of Your Prescription Drug Coverage in the PPO Option" section of this Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan SPD for further details on plan benefits.

The Plan provides no coverage for prescriptions filled through a retail pharmacy that is not a member of the network of participating retail pharmacies established by the PBM.

Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program

You and your covered dependents may also have your prescription filled for a 90-day supply at a retail pharmacy through the Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program. The prescription must be filled at a network pharmacy participating in the Ninety-Day

Supply At Retail Program. With this program you pay 20% of the cost of a three-month supply of the drug with applicable minimum and maximum of three times retail co-pays.

Mail Order Service

If you or your covered dependents use long-term medications, you can receive up to a 90-day supply of certain covered medications through Anthem's mail order service. With the mail order service, you must submit your prescription and applicable co-pay amount through the mail. The amount you pay depends on whether you receive a generic, formulary brand, or non-formulary brand drug.

To use the Mail Order Service:

- Complete the Mail Service Pharmacy Order Form. A new order form and envelope will be sent to you with each delivery. Please note: The registration/profile process may also be completed over the phone or online.
- Attach the prescription and a check in the amount of the applicable co-pay. Make your check payable to Anthem or provide a credit card number (follow the instructions on the form). Please do not submit cash with your order.
- Mail the Mail Service Pharmacy Order Form and your check to the Anthem mailing address included on the Form.
- Have your physician write a new original prescription so that you can submit it directly to the mail order service pharmacy with your Mail Service Pharmacy Order Form. If you need medication immediately, ask your doctor for two prescriptions:
 - One for an immediate supply (you can then take this to your local participating pharmacy)
 - A second one for the extended supply (you can then submit this one to the mail order service)

You will receive your mail order prescription approximately 14 days from the date your mail order is received.

To find out if your pharmacy is in the network, contact Anthem at 1-800-228-2891 to speak with a customer service representative. You may also log on to the Anthem website at anthem.com.

See the “Highlights of your Prescriptions Drug Coverage in the PPO Option” section for further details on plan benefits.

*You either pay a percentage of the drug's cost (Co-Insurance), or a set Co-Payment amount (not both). If your percentage of the cost results in an amount that is less than the "minimum Co-Payment," you pay the minimum Co-Payment amount. If your percentage of the cost results in an amount that is greater than the "maximum Co-Payment," you pay up to the maximum Co-Payment amount. For the PPO Coverage Option, if a generic substitute for a brand-name drug is prescribed or if your Provider has not indicated that a brand-name drug is Medically Necessary, and if you request that the brand-name drug be dispensed instead, you may be responsible for paying the difference between the cost of the brand-name drug and the generic substitute, in addition to the applicable Co-Pay or Co-Insurance.

How Your Prescription Drug Coverage Works in the High Deductible Options

Regardless which High Deductible Option you participate in, you are covered under the Anthem Prescription Drug Program for your prescription drug coverage.

Prescription drug expenses are covered the same way as any other medical expense, subject to the deductible and co-insurance. These expenses are not subject to separate co-insurance or out-of-pocket maximum amounts. The drug plan is an open formulary, so there is no designation in terms of generic, brand, etc. Therefore, you will pay the discounted cost of the drug.

The Plan and the PBM have an agreement whereby the PBM periodically makes refunds to the Plan based upon the Plan's actual utilization pattern of specific drugs. The Plan retains these amounts.

The High Deductible Options utilize a Quantity Limit Management program for certain prescription drugs. This program limits the amount of medicine that's covered by your plan for a certain length of time. For example, a drug may have a limit of 30 pills per 30 days. If you refill a prescription too soon or your doctor prescribes an amount that's higher than usual, your pharmacist will tell you. Taking too much medicine or using it too often is dangerous and costly. That's why this program may limit how much of your medicine you can get each month. For a list of the drugs included in this program, please contact Anthem at the number on the back of your ID card. Since the drug list is updated on a regular basis, you can always find the most current details and covered quantity limits when you log in at anthem.com.

The High Deductible Options utilize a step care therapy program for certain classes of prescription drugs. For a list of the drugs included in this program, please contact Anthem at the number on the back of your ID card. This program requires the utilization of an effective first-line medication before a more expensive alternative may be covered under the Plan. Therefore, medications that meet established guidelines and/or have a generic alternative must be used as the first-line medication before more expensive medications are authorized, unless your doctor informs Anthem otherwise.

Also, for the High Deductible Options, regardless of whether you use a retail pharmacy or the mail order service, if a brand-name drug has a generic substitute (that is, a drug with the same active ingredients as the brand-name drug), and if you or your Provider request that the brand-name drug be dispensed, you will be responsible for the applicable Co-Insurance plus the difference in cost between the brand-name drug and the generic substitute.

Retail Service

If you fill your prescription at a retail pharmacy and have not satisfied your deductible, you will pay the discounted cost of the drug. If you have satisfied your deductible, you will pay the applicable co-insurance amount, either 20% or 40%, dependent upon whether the pharmacy offers Anthem discounts.

To find out if your pharmacy is in the network, contact Anthem at 1-800-228-2891 to speak with a customer service representative. You may also log on to the Anthem website at anthem.com.

Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program

You and your covered dependents may also have your prescription filled for a 90-day supply at a retail pharmacy through the Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program. The prescription must be filled at a network pharmacy participating in the Ninety-Day Supply At Retail Program. With this program you pay 20% of the cost of a three-month supply of the drug after you satisfy your deductible.

Mail Order Service

If you or your covered dependents use long-term medications, you can receive up to a 90-day supply of certain covered medications through the mail order service.

With the mail order service, you must submit an original prescription from your doctor and:

- Complete the Mail Order Pharmacy Form. A new order form envelope will be sent to you with each delivery.
- Attach the prescription and a check in the amount of the applicable discounted cost of the drug or co-insurance.
- Mail the Mail Order Pharmacy Form and your check to the address on the Form.

If you need medication immediately, ask your doctor for two prescriptions:

- One for an immediate supply (you can then take this to your local participating pharmacy and
- A second one for the extended supply (you can then submit this one to the mail order service)

You will receive your mail order prescription approximately 14 days from the date your mail order is received. To request a form or if you have questions, you may go to the Anthem website anthem.com or contact mail order customer service at 1-800-228-2891 to ask for assistance.

EAP/Work Life/Legal & Financial Services

Beacon Health Options offers you and your family an Employee Assistance Program (EAP), which provides short term counseling, information, resources, and referrals on a variety of life issues that you may be facing. These issues can include:

- Marital and family relationships
- Finding child care
- Depression and anxiety
- Adopting a child
- Workplace Concerns
- Caring for an elderly parent
- Balancing work and your personal life
- Legal and financial issues

The EAP provides clinical, professional assistance 24 hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days a year at 1-800-946-5360. The EAP is a confidential program available at no cost; you and your household members have up to six (6) sessions per year with an EAP counselor, either in-person, telephonically or via video. Counselors will help you define your needs, and provide counseling, support and referrals as needed. If clinical assistance is needed beyond the six EAP sessions for outpatient or inpatient treatment, you are responsible for the care selected.

You can also call the EAP for Work Life issues, e.g., eldercare and childcare. Extensive searches for information and services compatible with your family's preferences and finances will be provided. Work Life Consultants work hard to find resources that fit your budget requirements. Resource and referral information provided to you is at no cost. However, you are responsible for costs associated with services and businesses with whom you may contract.

Additionally, you can call the EAP for guidance on legal and financial issues including, but not limited to, divorce, domestic violence, criminal, civil, landlord tenant issues, debt management, estate planning, family budgeting, etc. The benefit allows for a free 30-minute consultation with a financial consultant, a 60-minute consultation with an attorney for family law issues and a 35% discount if you retain the attorney, and a free 30-minute consultation with an attorney for legal issues other than family law, with a 25% discount if the attorney is retained.

Health Savings Account (HSA)

As a Pre-65 Retiree, you cannot continue to make contributions by means of payroll deduction to the health savings account ("HSA") you established through the Company. However you may continue to contribute to your HSA outside of payroll deduction (or to another health savings account you establish) until you attain age 65, provided you are enrolled in the HDPPPO 1 or HDPPPO 2 options or other eligible high deductible coverage and you are otherwise eligible under Federal law to contribute to such an account.

If you previously contributed to an HSA through the Company by means of payroll deduction, your HSA contributions made through payroll deduction as well as the Company's contributions to your HSA will stop when you retire. Your account balance goes with you, however, and continues to earn interest. You may continue to use your HSA to pay for future medical expenses during retirement. However, you will be responsible for paying any monthly fees related to the administration of your account. Upon your retirement, your HSA will be converted to a new direct account in your name, and you will receive a new debit card you can use to pay for eligible expenses.

Contact the HSA custodian, UMB, directly at 1-866-520-4472 if you have any questions about your HSA or your debit card after you retire.

Coordination of Benefits (COB)

If you or your dependents have coverage under another medical plan or program, your benefits under the Plan coordinate with benefits outside the Plan to help eliminate duplicate payments for the same services. See the "Coordination of Benefits (COB)" information in the Benefits Program Overview section to learn more about the Plan's COB features.

Please Note: If you or your covered dependent are enrolled in Medicare due to end-stage renal disease, and if Medicare is not already paying as primary, the Plan continues to pay as primary during the first 30 months of dialysis or the first 30 months of treatment in connection with a kidney transplant. Thereafter, Medicare generally becomes the primary payor of benefits.

Filing a Claim

Generally, In-Network Providers file claims on your behalf. If so, the Claims Administrator will send payments directly to the provider. You will be sent a statement itemizing what has been paid.

If your provider does not file claims on your behalf, you must file your claims as follows:

- Complete the appropriate claim form. Claim forms can be obtained by calling Anthem at the number listed on the back of your ID card.
- Attach copies of all available medical bills that should be considered for Plan benefits. These bills should include:
 - Name of patient;
 - Name and Social Security number of Retiree;
 - Date of treatment;
 - Type of treatment;
 - Charge for the treatment;
 - Provider of the treatment; and
 - Any other information that clearly indicates the medical expense
- Mail your completed claim form to the address on the back of your Benefit Plan ID card.
- Submit your claim to the Claims Administrator as soon as possible after you receive the covered service.

The Claims Administrator will process your claim. Generally, claim payments are sent directly to providers. However, there may be situations where payments are sent directly to you (i.e. your provider is not a member of the network). Any claims submitted after 18 months from the date of service generally will not be considered for payment. If you have any questions regarding filing claims, contact Anthem at the number listed on the back of your ID card.

Claim Determination and Appeal Process

For information regarding the Plan's claim determination and appeal process, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled "Claim Determination and Appeal Process – Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan."

Continuation of Coverage

General

For information regarding continuation of coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan, including COBRA continuation coverage, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled "Continuation of Coverage."

Additional Information

Your Rights Under the Newborn's and Mother's Health Protection Act

Under Federal law, the Plan generally may not restrict benefits for any hospital length of stay in connection with childbirth for the mother or newborn child to less than 48 hours following a vaginal delivery, or less than 96 hours following a delivery by cesarean section. However, Federal law generally does not prohibit a shorter stay if the attending provider, after consultation with the mother, discharges the mother or newborn earlier than 48 hours (or 96 hours as applicable). In any case, the Plan may not require that the provider obtain authorization from the Plan for prescribing a length of stay that is not in excess of the above periods.

Women's Health and Cancer Rights Act of 1998

Federal law requires the Plan to provide coverage for the following services to an individual receiving Plan benefits in connection with a mastectomy:

- All stages of reconstruction of the breast on which the mastectomy has been performed;

- Surgery and reconstruction of the other breast to produce a symmetrical appearance;
- Prostheses; and
- Treatment of physical complications for all stages of a mastectomy, including lymphedemas (swelling associated with the removal of lymph nodes).

These benefits will be provided subject to the same deductibles and co-insurance applicable to other medical and surgical benefits provided under the Plan. If you would like more information on these benefits, contact the Benefits Source at 1-888-640-3320.

*Medicare introduced an optional prescription drug benefit (also known as Medicare part D) in January 2006. This benefit offers coverage for part of the cost of many prescription drugs for Medicare-eligible participants. You may want to consider enrolling in Medicare Part D to receive prescription drug benefits through Medicare. If you are eligible for coverage under Medicare Part D and do not enroll during your initial enrollment period, you may incur significant penalties in the form of higher Medicare premiums when you ultimately do enroll in coverage. Note: The MAP Option offers prescription drug coverage. Once you enroll in the MAP-Med Only Option, you may not later enroll in the MAP Option. See "Enrollment in the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan" in the Benefits Program Overview for more information. You cannot be enrolled in both Medicare Part D prescription drug coverage and prescription drug coverage under the MAP Option.

Medical Expenses Not Covered

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the medical expenses not covered under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan include, but may not be limited to those medical expenses that would not be covered by Medicare, charges that a covered person is not legally required to pay and charges that would not have been made if the Plan had not existed, and charges incurred prior to the effective date of coverage, or after the termination date of coverage.

Please contact the Claims Administrator with questions regarding those medical expenses not covered.

To confirm if an expense is eligible for reimbursement, contact an Anthem customer service associate at the number on the back of your ID card.

How to File a Claim

Since the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan is designed to supplement your coverage under Medicare, Medicare is your primary carrier. That means that, as a general rule, your expenses must be submitted to Medicare before they are submitted to the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan for payment.

Medical expenses are usually submitted to Medicare directly by the provider. However, it is your responsibility to submit your claim to the Plan's Claim Administrator for benefit payments under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan.

Some providers, however, may submit your expenses to both Medicare and the Plan for payment. In that event, you would not need to submit any additional claim forms. Please ask your provider whether your claim filing will be submitted to Anthem for your Medicare Supplement benefit payments.

In the event you must submit a claim form to Anthem for your benefit payment, that claim form may be obtained by calling Anthem at the number listed on the back of your ID card. Your Medicare Explanation of Benefits (EOB) must be included when filing a claim with Anthem. If you have any questions relating to your claim filing process, you can call Anthem at the number listed on the back of your ID card. Claim forms should be submitted to:

Anthem Blue Cross and Blue Shield
P.O. Box 105187
Atlanta, GA 30348
anthem.com
1-800-228-2891

Please note that it is essential that you include the Medicare Explanation of Benefits form with your claim form because the Plan's benefits are computed on the basis of what Medicare approved as eligible expense.

Retain copies of all bills and Medicare correspondence for your records.

Below is a list of details that are often erroneously omitted from claim forms. Please refer to it when completing your claim form so you can make sure your claim form is complete.

1. Age and relationship of dependent
2. Physician's statement showing place, date and charge for treatment.
3. Itemized X-ray and laboratory bills showing date, charge and type of examination.
4. Full statement as to how, when and where injury occurred.

No cancelled checks, receipts or summaries of balances due are acceptable as evidence of expense incurred—only itemized statements accompanied by a Medicare Explanation of Benefits form are acceptable. Furthermore, a separate claim form must be completed by you and your physician for each sickness or injury. However, in case of chronic illnesses such as allergies or hypertension, you only must submit one physician's statement each calendar year.

One additional point to keep in mind is that the MAP-Med Only Option and the Medicare Supplement Option do not cover prescription drug expenses.

EAP/Work Life/Legal & Financial Services

Beacon Health Options offers you and your family an Employee Assistance Program (EAP), which provides short term counseling, information, resources, and referrals on a variety of life issues that you may be facing. These issues can include:

- Marital and family relationships
- Finding child care
- Depression and anxiety
- Adopting a child
- Workplace Concerns
- Caring for an elderly parent
- Balancing work and your personal life
- Legal and financial issues

The EAP provides clinical, professional assistance 24 hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days a year at 1-800-946-5360. The EAP is a confidential program available at no cost; you and your household members have up to six (6) sessions per year with an EAP counselor, either in-person, telephonically or via video. Counselors will help you define your needs, and provide counseling, support and referrals as needed. If clinical assistance is needed beyond the six EAP sessions for outpatient or inpatient treatment, you are responsible for the care selected.

You can also call the EAP for Work Life issues, e.g., eldercare and childcare. Extensive searches for information and services compatible with your family's preferences and finances will be provided. Work Life Consultants work hard to find resources that fit your budget requirements. Resource and referral information provided to you is at no cost. However, you are responsible for costs associated with services and businesses with whom you may contract.

Additionally, you can call the EAP for guidance on legal and financial issues including, but not limited to, divorce, domestic violence, criminal, civil, landlord tenant issues, debt management, estate planning, family budgeting, etc. The benefit allows for a free 30-minute consultation with a financial consultant, a 60-minute consultation with an attorney for family law issues and a 35% discount if you retain the attorney, and a free 30-minute consultation with an attorney for legal issues other than family law, with a 25% discount if the attorney is retained.

Claim Determination and Appeal Process

For information regarding the Plan's claim determination and appeal process, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled "Claim Determination and Appeal Process – Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan."

Continuation of Coverage

For information regarding continuation of coverage under the Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan, including COBRA continuation coverage, please see the subsection of the Benefits Program Overview entitled "Continuation of Coverage under the Pre-65 Retiree Medical Plan and Post-65 Retiree Medical Plan."

Additional Information

Your Rights Under the Newborn's and Mother's Health Protection Act

Under Federal law, the Plan generally may not restrict benefits for any hospital length of stay in connection with childbirth for the mother or newborn child to less than 48 hours following a vaginal delivery, or less than 96 hours following a delivery by cesarean section. However, Federal law generally does not prohibit a shorter stay if the attending provider, after consultation with the mother, discharges the mother or newborn earlier than 48 hours (or 96 hours as applicable). In any case, the Plan may not require that the provider obtain authorization from the Plan for prescribing a length of stay that is not in excess of the above periods.

Your Retiree Life Insurance Option

This is the SPD (the “Retiree Life Insurance SPD”) for the NiSource Life Insurance Plan, also referred to as the Retiree Life Insurance Plan. In this Retiree Life Insurance SPD, the Retiree Life Insurance Plan is sometimes referred to as the “Plan.”

NiSource Inc. (the “Company”) offers the NiSource Life Insurance Plan to eligible Retirees with the following coverage option (the “Coverage Option”):

- Basic Retiree Term Life Coverage Option;

Benefits are provided under one or more group insurance contracts (collectively, the “Group Contract”) and one or more group insurance certificates (collectively, the “Group Insurance Certificate”) issued by Minnesota Life Insurance Company (“Securian”), an affiliate of Securian Financial Group, Inc., who is the Insurer and Claims Administrator and is wholly responsible for the payment of benefits.

If there is a conflict between the Group Contract and Group Insurance Certificate, on the one hand, and this Retiree Life Insurance SPD, on the other hand, the terms of the Group Contract and the Group Insurance Certificate shall prevail. You should refer to the Group Insurance Certificate for a detailed explanation of the benefits offered under the Plan and the limitations upon those benefits, and for an explanation of the various terms and concepts used in this Retiree Life Insurance SPD. Payment of Death Benefits under Life Coverage

If you die while covered under the Plan, the amount of insurance on you is payable when Securian's home office receives written proof satisfactory to it that you died while covered under the Plan and insured under the Group Insurance Certificate. If you die within 31 days after ceasing to be covered under the Plan, but while you are entitled to convert insurance under the Plan to an individual contract, death benefits in the amount of insurance that could have been converted may be payable when Securian receives written proof as described above.

Death Benefits under the Retiree Term Life Coverage Option are payable according to Securian's beneficiary and mode of settlement rules.

See the "Highlights of Conversion and Portability Features" below for additional details regarding the conversion privilege. Also, refer to the Group Insurance Certificate for additional details, terms and conditions.

Conversion Privilege for Life Coverage

If all or a part of your Retiree Term Life Insurance terminates because you move from one existing eligible class to another, or you are no longer in an eligible class, you may convert up to the full amount of terminated insurance.

Limited conversion is available if, after you have been insured for at least five years, insurance is terminated because (1) the Group Contract is terminated; or (2) the Group Contract is changed to reduce or terminate your insurance. In such case, you may convert up to the full amount of terminated insurance, but not more than the maximum. The maximum is the lesser of: (a) $10,000; and (b) the amount of life insurance which terminated minus any amount of group life insurance for which you become eligible under any group policy issued or reinstated by Securian or any other carrier within 31 days of the date the insurance terminated under the Group Contract.

Under both the conversion right and the limited conversion right, you may convert your insurance to any type of individual policy of life insurance then customarily issued by the life insurance company for purposes of conversion, except term insurance. The individual policy will not include any supplemental benefits, including, but not limited to, any disability benefits, accidental death and dismemberment benefits, or accelerated benefits.

NISOURCE INC. RETIREMENT SAVINGS PLAN

Purpose

NiSource Inc., a Delaware corporation (the “Company”), sponsors the NiSource Inc. Retirement Savings Plan (the “Plan”) for the benefit of Eligible Employees of the Company and any other Related Employer that adopts the Plan. The Plan is hereby amended and restated in its entirety, effective as of January 1, 2024, unless otherwise stated herein.

Special effective dates are included with respect to a number of provisions as necessary to conform to various legislation and guidance under the Code and ERISA, including (but not limited to) the following: the Economic Growth and Tax Relief Reconciliation Act of 2001 (EGTRRA) (with technical corrections made by the Job Creation and Worker Assistance Act of 2002 (JCWAA)); revisions required to comply with Code Section 415 (as such provisions were previously adopted by the Company in a separate Plan amendment); the Pension Protection Act of 2006 (PPA ‘06); the Heroes Earnings Assistance and Relief Tax Act of 2008 (HEART); and the Worker, Retiree, and Employer Recovery Act of 2008 (WRERA). The NiSource Benefits Committee (the “Committee”) amended and restated the Plan effective as of January 1, 2009 to reflect various design changes and to update the Plan in accordance with the legislative changes referenced above (the “Plan 2009 Restatement”). The Committee amended and restated the Plan again generally effective January 1, 2009 to make certain clarifications with respect to the administration and operation of the Plan (the “Plan 2010 Restatement”) and amended and restated the Plan effective as of January 1, 2012 to reflect the merger of Kokomo Gas and Fuel Company and Northern Indiana Fuel & Light Company, Inc. with and into Northern Indiana Public Service Company, a wholly owned subsidiary of NiSource Inc., as well as to make certain clarifications with respect to the administration and operation of the Plan (the “Plan 2012 Restatement”). The Committee further amended and restated the Plan on two separate occasions, in both cases generally effective as of January 1, 2013, to make various modifications with respect to the administration and operation of the Plan (the “Plan 2013 Restatements”). The Committee further amended and restated the Plan generally effective as of January 1, 2014, to make various modifications with respect to the administration and operation of the Plan (the “Plan 2014 Restatement”). The further amended and restated the Plan as of January 1, 2018, to update the Plan as necessary to reflect negotiated benefit changes for various union employee groups participating in the Plan, to incorporate Amendments 1 – 6 to the Plan 2014 Restatement, and to reflect various additional clarifications with respect to the administration and operation of the Plan (the “Plan 2018 Restatement”). The Committee now amends and restates the Plan as of the Effective Date to update the Plan as necessary to reflect the allowance of direct rollovers into the Plan of After-tax Contribution amounts from other qualified retirement plans and of in-Plan Roth conversions of participant accounts, to incorporate Amendments 1 – 6 to the Plan 2018 Restatement, to reflect certain provisions of Title T of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2023 (SECURE 2.0) and to reflect various additional clarifications with respect to the administration and operation of the Plan (the “Plan 2024 Restatement”).

The Plan is intended to be qualified under Code Section 401(a), with a cash or deferred arrangement qualified under Code Section 401(k) and its corresponding trust exempt from taxation under Code Section 501(a). In addition, the Plan is intended to be a profit sharing plan pursuant to the requirements of Code Section 401(a)(27). The portion of the Plan related to Accounts invested in the Company Stock Fund, and the dividends thereon, shall constitute an employee stock ownership plan under Code §4975(e)(7).

The provisions of this amended and restated Plan shall apply solely to an Employee whose employment with the Employer terminates on or after the Effective Date, or with respect to the application of a specific Plan provision containing a different effective date, then such provision shall apply to an Employee who terminates on or after such effective date or as otherwise specified herein. An Employee whose employment with the Employer terminates prior to the Effective Date (or other applicable date with respect to a specific Plan provision containing a different effective date) shall be entitled to a benefit, if any, as determined under the provisions of the Plan or the Prior Plan (the plans as described below in the Plan Background section) in effect on the date that his employment terminated.

Plan Background

The Plan was designated the “NiSource Inc. Retirement Savings Plan” effective January 1, 2002 at the time of a merger of four plans into the Columbia Savings Plan (the “Columbia 401(k) Plan”) (a plan that was originally effective September 1, 1958 and previously sponsored by Columbia Energy Group (“Columbia”). The four plans that merged effective January 1, 2002 into the Columbia 401(k) Plan (renamed the NiSource Inc. Retirement Savings Plan) are as follows: (1) the NiSource Inc. Tax Deferred Savings Plan (“NiSource 401(k) Plan”) (originally effective May 1, 1984 and formerly known under certain other plan names as described in the Plan 2006 Restatement); (2) the Bay State Gas Company Employee Savings Plan (the “Bay State 401(k) Plan”) (established effective January 1, 1979 by the Bay State Gas Company (“Bay State”); (3) the Kokomo Gas and Fuel Company Bargaining Unit Tax Deferred Savings Plan (“Kokomo 401(k) Plan”) (established effective April 1, 1995 by Kokomo Gas and Fuel Company (“Kokomo”)); and (4) the Northern Indiana Fuel & Light Company, Inc. Payroll Savings Plan (“NIFL 401(k) Plan”) (established effective January 1, 1986 by Northern Indiana Fuel & Light Company, Inc. (“NIFL”). Columbia, Bay State, Kokomo, NIFL became wholly-owned subsidiaries of NiSource Inc. effective as of the dates described in the Plan 2006 Restatement. Effective as of the CPG Spin-Off (defined herein), Columbia is no longer a recognized operating entity or member of the NiSource Inc. controlled group of companies and thus no longer a wholly-owned subsidiary of NiSource Inc.

Effective December 31, 2008, two other plans were merged into the Plan: (1) the Bay State Gas Company Savings Plan for Operating Employees (the “Bay State Union 401(k) Plan”) (originally established effective January 1, 1988); and (2) the Northern Indiana Public Service Company Bargaining Unit Tax Deferred Savings Plan (the “NIPSCO 401(k) Plan”) (originally established October 1, 1987 by Northern Indiana Public Service Company (“NIPSCO”). Effective July 1, 2011, Kokomo and NIFL are merged with and into NIPSCO, a wholly owned subsidiary of NiSource Inc.

Effective as of the July 1, 2015, NiSource implemented the spin-off of its pipeline and transmission business, comprised of the Columbia Pipeline Group, Inc. (“CPG”) and its related entities (collectively, the “CPG Entities”), to become independent and non-related to NiSource (the “CPG Spin-Off”). Prior to July 1, 2015, Employees of the CPG Entities participated in the Plan. Effective July 1, 2015, in connection with the CPG Spin-Off, the NiSource Benefits Committee, Plan Administrator and Named Fiduciary having amendment authority over the Plan, authorized the transfer of assets and liabilities of certain Participants and Former Participants in the Plan who are, or were prior to termination of employment, employees of the CPG Entities, to the Columbia Pipeline Group 401(k) Savings Plan, a new qualified defined contribution plan to be established by CPG. Pursuant to said transfer and the existing terms of the Plan, effective July 1, 2015, the Plan terms no longer apply to the above-mentioned Participants.

Except to the extent modified for specific Participant groups as set forth below, Compensation means the aggregate basic annual salary or wage and commissions paid to a Participant by his Employer. Compensation shall include the following: (1) one-time payments in lieu of salary increases for any Plan Year (referred to as “lump-sum merit pay”); (2) amounts deferred and excluded from the Participant’s taxable income pursuant to Code Sections 125, 132(f)(4), 402(e)(3), or 402(h)(1)(B); (3) any amounts deferred to a nonqualified plan maintained by an Employer (provided such amounts are only included for purpose of calculating Participant contributions and Matching Contributions described in Sections 3.02 and 3.04 respectively); and (4) solely with respect to Participants subject to the NiSource Vacation Policy (“Vacation Policy”) and subject to any payment timing limitations set forth below, any amounts attributable to “banked” vacation (as that term is described in the Vacation Policy) during the calendar year including such Participant’s date of termination of employment.

For purposes of the foregoing paragraph, “aggregate basic annual salary or wages” shall exclude various forms of compensation, including (but not limited to) the following: overtime, performance-based pay (such as annual incentive payments or bonuses), supplementary compensation payments, retirement benefits, unused and accrued vacation, and other special forms of compensation such as shift differential, call-out, standby, upgrades, temporary reclassifications/promotions, relocation allowances, sign-on bonuses, retention premiums, payments for waiving certain benefits including health care and dental benefits (referred to as “flex credits”), attendance bonuses and awards, and imputed income.

For Participants on active duty in the uniformed services for a period of more than 30 days, Compensation shall include any differential wage payments, as defined by Code Section 3401(h)(2), to the extent such payments are made by the Company. Such differential wage payments shall be treated as compensation for all Plan purposes, including Code Section 415 and any other Code section that references the definition of compensation under Code Section 415. A Participant receiving such differential wage payment shall be treated as an Employee of the Employer making the payment. If all employees of the Employer performing service in the uniformed services described in Code Section 3401(h)(2)(A) are entitled to receive differential wage payments on reasonably equivalent terms and, if eligible to participate in a retirement plan maintained by the Employer, to make contributions based on the payments on reasonably equivalent terms (taking into account Code Sections 410(b)(3), (4), and (5)), then the Plan shall not be treated as failing to meet the requirements of any provision described in Code Section 414(u)(1)(C) by reason of any contribution or benefit which is based on the differential wage payment.

Compensation generally shall exclude amounts paid after Severance from Employment. However, Compensation shall include post-severance amounts set forth in items (i) and (ii) below to the extent such amounts are paid by the later of 2^{1/2} months after Severance from Employment or by the end of the Plan Year (the Limitation Year for purposes of Article VII) that includes the date of such Severance from Employment. Provided the foregoing timing-of-payment condition is met, Compensation shall include:

- (i) Regular pay paid after Severance from Employment if: (a) the payment is regular compensation for services during the Participant’s regular working hours, or compensation for services outside the Employee’s regular working hours (such as overtime or shift differential), commissions, bonuses, or other similar payments; and (b) the payment would have been paid to the Employee prior to a Severance from Employment if the Employee had continued in employment with the Employer; and

(ii) Payments of unused accrued bona fide sick, vacation, or other leave (but only if the Employee would have been able to use the leave if employment had continued).

A. Considerations by Specific Group. Subject to any limitations imposed by Code Section 415 as set forth in this Section, the following additional provisions regarding Compensation shall apply:

(i) In General. The definition of Compensation set forth above shall apply to: (a) Participants eligible for the AB II Benefit (including Bay State Union Employees eligible for the AB II Benefit), (b) Next Gen Employees, and (c) NIPSCO Union Employees who are AB I Participants (subject to the exception in subparagraph (iii) below regarding the determination of Participant Contributions).

(ii) NIPSCO Union Employees who are FAP Participants. For Participants who are NIPSCO Union Employees (including former NIFL Union Employees and former Kokomo Union Employees) who are FAP Participants, the definition of Compensation set forth above shall apply with the following modifications: Compensation shall also include annual incentive payments, overtime, and shift differential.

(iii) NIPSCO Union Employees who are AB I Participants. For Participants who are NIPSCO Union Employees and are eligible for the AB I Benefit, the definition of Compensation set forth above shall not apply for purposes of determining Participant Contributions under Section 3.02: Instead, for the purpose determining such contributions, Compensation shall be the total amount paid to an Employee for personal services that are considered as “wages” on Federal Income Tax Withholding Statement (Form W-2) as adjusted below:

- a. Compensation shall be included the extent that any amounts are included as Compensation on Form W-2. In accordance with this, Compensation shall specifically include items such as the following: (1) lump-sum merit pay (as defined earlier in this Section); (2) amounts deferred and excluded from the Participant’s taxable income pursuant to Code Sections 125, 132(f)(4), 402(e)(3), or 402(h)(1)(B); (3) commissions (to the extent an Employee is compensated in whole or in part on a commission basis); (4) performance-based pay received by an Employee from an Employer; and (5) overtime payments.
- b. Compensation shall be excluded the extent that any amounts are not included as Compensation on Form W-2, except that Compensation shall exclude the following : (1) severance pay; (2) amounts deferred to a nonqualified plan maintained by an Employer; (3) sign-on bonuses, retention premiums, and attendance bonuses and awards; and (4) all other taxable fringe benefits, including stock options and other stock related benefits, relocation expenses and imputed income.

(iv) Bay State Union Employees. For Bay State Union Employees (other than those eligible for the AB II Benefit as noted in subsection A.(i) above), the first sentence of this Section (describing Compensation as “basic annual salary or wage and commissions”) shall not apply. Instead, Compensation is straight time wages. The Compensation inclusions set forth above shall continue to apply with the following modifications: Compensation shall also include shift differential, Saturday/Sunday premiums, compensation paid at an alternative rate (not including compensation paid at an alternative rate to a salesperson), and seventy-five percent of sales commissions paid to an Eligible Employee by an Employer while he is a Participant during the current period.

(v) Bay State Union Employees who are employed in the role of Maintenance Mechanic M&R. For Participants who are Bay State Union Employees who are employed in the role of Maintenance Mechanic M&R and are entitled to receive an annual stipend pursuant to the terms of a collective bargaining agreement, the general definition of Compensation set forth above; the modified definition of Compensation set forth under subparagraph A.(iv), to the extent applicable; and the definition of Compensation applicable to Profit Sharing Contributions under Section 1.20B(i) below, to the extent applicable, shall apply with the following modification: Compensation shall also include any annual stipend that is required to be treated as eligible “Compensation” pursuant to the applicable collective bargaining agreement or subsequent memorandum of understanding. Notwithstanding the provisions of Section 2.04, a Bay State Union Employee who is employed in the role of Maintenance Mechanic M&R and is on an unpaid leave of absence shall be treated as an Eligible Employee during any period such individual is receiving the annual stipend payment under this subparagraph A(v).

(vi) Damage Prevention Coordinators. For Participants who are employed in the position of Damage Prevention Coordinator with an assigned job code of NP3459 (or subsequent job title and/or code that becomes applicable for this specific position, as recognized by the Plan Administrator) during the period from June 1, 2016 to April 30, 2019, as negotiated in the Memorandum of Understanding resulting from collective bargaining with respect to such position between the United Steelworkers of America, Local 12775, AFL-CIO-CLC and the Company generally effective June 1, 2016 (hereinafter, “Damage Prevention Coordinator”), the definition of Compensation for purposes of determining Participant Contributions under Section 3.02 shall be determined under the provisions of subsection A.(iii) above that is applicable for NIPSCO Union Employees who are AB I Participants.

The Compensation exclusions set forth above shall be disregarded and the following Compensation exclusions shall apply: (1) all daily or weekly overtime; (2) bonuses; (3) supplementary compensation payments; (4) retirement benefits; (5) unused and accrued vacation; and (6) other forms of non-recurring compensation or special forms of compensation including, but not limited to, the following (unless specifically included in this subsection (iv)): call-out, standby, upgrades, temporary reclassifications/promotions, relocation allowances, sign-on bonuses, retention premiums, payments for waiving certain benefits including health care and dental benefits (referred to as “flex credits”), attendance bonuses and awards, and imputed income.

B. Compensation - Contributions by the Employer. Subject to any limitations imposed by Code Section 415, and in order to comply with Code Section 401(a)(4), the following additional provisions regarding Compensation shall apply:

(i) Profit Sharing Contributions. For purposes of calculating Profit Sharing Contributions described in Section 3.06A, Compensation for a Plan Year shall be defined as determined under the Annual Incentive Plan of an Employer in effect for such Plan Year, reduced by any amounts deferred to a nonqualified plan maintained by an Employer. In clarification of the foregoing, for purposes of calculating Profit Sharing Contributions, Compensation means base earnings for the calendar year. Compensation shall include (1) all shift premiums (i.e., shift differential, call-out, standby, upgrades, and temporary reclassifications/promotions) and overtime pay for the calendar year; (2) sales commissions to the extent that such commissions are considered part of the Participant’s “base earnings”; (3) one-time payments in lieu of salary increases for any Plan Year (referred to as “lump-sum merit pay”); and (4) amounts deferred and excluded from the Participant’s taxable income pursuant to Code Sections 125, 132(f)(4), 402(e)(3), or 402(h)(1)(B). Compensation shall exclude reimbursements for educational assistance, relocation, meals and mileage, as well as incentive payments, bonuses, stock option gains, long-term disability payments, any amounts deferred to a nonqualified plan maintained by an Employer, supplementary compensation payments, retirement benefits, unused and accrued vacation, sign-on bonuses, retention premiums, payments for waiving certain benefits including health care and dental benefits (referred to as “flex credits”), attendance bonuses and awards, and imputed income.

(ii) Employer Contributions for Next Gen Employees. For purposes of calculating Employer contributions for Next Gen Employees (Next Gen Employer Contributions as described in Section 3.06C), the general definition of Compensation described in this Section shall apply with the following modification: Compensation shall exclude any amounts deferred to a nonqualified plan maintained by an Employer.

C. Compensation Limit. In addition to other applicable limitations set forth in the Plan, and notwithstanding any other provisions of the Plan to the contrary, the annual Compensation of each Employee taken into account under the Plan shall not exceed the “Compensation Limit.” The Compensation Limit for 2024 is $345,000, and is subject to cost of living adjustments in subsequent years in accordance with Code Section 401(a)(17)(B). Any such cost of living adjustment in effect for a calendar year applies to any period, not exceeding 12 months, over which Compensation is determined (the “Determination Period”) beginning in such calendar year. If a Determination Period consists of fewer than 12 months, the Compensation Limit will be multiplied by a fraction, the numerator of which is the number of months in the Determination Period, and the denominator of which is 12. Any reference in this Plan to the limitation under Section 401(a)(17) of the Code shall mean the Compensation Limit set forth in this provision.

D. Compensation - Special Rules. For purposes of Article VI ("Testing of Pre-Tax, After-Tax and Matching Contributions"), Article VII ("Limitations on Contributions and Benefits"), and Article XI ("Top Heavy Rules"), the definition of Compensation shall be determined in accordance with Treasury Regulation Section 1.415(c)-2(d)(4) (commonly known as "W-2 Compensation"). For purposes of Articles VI and XI, the Employer may elect to use an alternate nondiscriminatory definition of Compensation, in accordance with the requirements of Code Section 414(s) and the Treasury Regulations promulgated thereunder. In determining Compensation under Articles VI and XI, the Employer may elect to include as Compensation all Elective Contributions (as defined in Code Section 415(c)(3)(D)(i) and (ii)) made by the Employer on behalf of Employees. The Employer's election to include Elective Contributions must be consistent and uniform with respect to Employees and all plans of the Employer for any particular Plan Year. The Employer may make this election to include Elective Contributions irrespective of whether Elective Contributions are included in the general definition of Compensation applicable to the Plan.

Section 1.21 Disability. A physical or mental condition that results in a determination of disability status that entitles the Employee to disability benefits under any group long-term disability plan sponsored by the Employer, as determined under the terms of such plan.

Section 1.22 Effective Date. January 1, 2018, the date on which the provisions of this amended and restated Plan become effective, except as otherwise provided herein. The original Effective Date of the Plan was September 1, 1958.

Section 1.23 Eligible Employee. Any Employee employed by the Employer other than the following:

- A. an intern;
- B. an Employee covered by a collective bargaining agreement (recognized as such under applicable federal labor law), unless the agreement provides that such Employee is entitled to participate in the Plan or unless the Plan Administrator otherwise directs in a written instrument submitted to the Trustee;
- C. any Leased Employee or any independent contractor (as determined by the Employer pursuant to its established payroll practices), regardless of whether a governmental agency, court or other entity subsequently determines such individual to be an Employee);
- D. an Employee who is eligible (or would be eligible upon satisfaction of service and/or age criteria) for another Code Section 401(k) plan maintained by an Employer.

An Eligible Employee may become a Participant in the Plan pursuant to the requirements of Article II.

Section 1.24 Employee. Any person who, on or after the Effective Date, is directly employed by the Employer (or any other Related Employer required to be aggregated with the Employer under Code Sections 414(b), (c), (m) or (o)) in a position that the Plan Administrator determines to be subject to tax withholding by the Employer under the Federal Insurance Contribution Act (FICA) and for whom such taxes are regularly withheld by the Employer. To the extent required by Code Section 414(n), the term “Employee” shall include any Leased Employee (who shall nevertheless be ineligible to participate in the Plan). An Employee shall not include an individual providing services to an Employer as an “independent contractor” (e.g., a person (who is not considered to be a Leased Employee) who is engaged as an independent contractor pursuant to a contract or agreement between such person and an Employer which designates him as an independent contractor or otherwise contemplates or implies that he shall function as an independent contractor). Only individuals who are paid as employees from an Employer payroll and treated by an Employer at all times as Employees shall be deemed Employees for purposes of the Plan. No independent contractor shall be treated as an Employee under the Plan during the period he renders services to an Employer as an independent contractor.

If the Employer does not characterize a person as an Employee and the Employer is later required to re-characterize such person’s status with the Employer as an Employee, the person will be treated as an Employee under the Plan as of the date of the re-characterization, unless an earlier date is necessary to preserve the tax-qualified status of the Plan. Notwithstanding such general re-characterization, such person shall not be considered an “Eligible Employee” for purposes of Plan participation, except and to the extent necessary to preserve the tax-qualified status of the Plan.

Section 1.25 Employer(s). The Company and any Related Employers that shall ratify and adopt this Plan in a manner satisfactory to, and with the consent of, the Committee; any successor which shall maintain this Plan; and any predecessor which has maintained this Plan. Unless otherwise provided by the Committee, an Employer participating in the Plan shall automatically cease to participate in the Plan on the date that such entity is no longer considered a Related Employer of the Company and any employee of such Employer shall cease to be eligible to make or receive contributions under the Plan as of such date. The Company and any applicable Related Employer may limit or extend the adoption of the Plan and the Trust Agreement to one or more groups of Employees and/or divisions, locations or operations.

Section 1.26 Employment Commencement Date. The date upon which an Employee first performs an Hour of Service for the Employer or a Prior Employer.

Section 1.27 ERISA. The Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as it may be amended from time to time.

Section 1.28 FAP Benefit. The term used to describe the “Final Average Pay Option” benefit (renamed the “FAP Benefit”) in any of the applicable NiSource Pension Plans that offers such a pension benefit as described therein.

Section 1.29 Former Participant. A Participant who has transferred to a classification of Employees ineligible to participate in the Plan, or a Participant whose employment with the Employer has terminated but who has a vested Account balance under the Plan that has not been paid in full and, therefore, is continuing to participate in the allocation of Trust Fund Income.

Section 1.30 Highly Compensated Employee. For a particular Plan Year, any Employee who:

- A. at any time during the current or preceding Plan Year was a 5-percent owner (as defined in Code Section 416(i)(1)); or
- B. for the preceding Plan Year:
 - (i) received annual Compensation from the Employer in excess of the amount provided under Code Section 414(q)(1)(B) ($155,000 for 2024 and as adjusted by the Secretary of the Treasury thereafter); and
 - (ii) was in the top 20% of Employees when ranked on the basis of Compensation for the prior Plan Year.

The term Highly Compensated Employee includes a former Employee whose Termination of Employment occurred prior to the Plan Year, and who was a Highly Compensated Employee for the Plan Year in which his Termination of Employment occurred (or was deemed to have occurred) or for any Plan Year ending on or after his 55th birthday.

The determination of who is a Highly Compensated Employee shall be made in accordance with Code Section 414(q) and applicable Treasury Regulations and Internal Revenue Service guidance promulgated thereunder.

Section 1.31 Income. The net gain or loss of the Trust Fund from investments, as reflected by interest payments, dividends, realized and unrealized gains and losses on securities, other investment transactions and expenses paid from the Trust Fund. In determining the Income of the Trust Fund as of any date, assets shall be valued on the basis of their then fair market value.

Section 1.32 Investment Manager. A person or organization who is appointed under Section 10.05 to direct the investment of all or part of the Trust Fund, and who is either (a) registered in good standing as an Investment Adviser under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, (b) a bank, as defined in that Act, or (c) an insurance company qualified to perform investment management services under the laws of more than one state of the United States, and who has acknowledged in writing that he is a fiduciary with respect to the Plan.

Section 1.33 Kokomo. Kokomo Gas and Fuel Company, or any successor(s). Effective July 1, 2011, Kokomo merged with and into NIPSCO (see “NIPSCO” and “NIPSCO Union Employee” for further details).

Section 1.34 Kokomo Union Pension Plan. The Kokomo Union Pension Plan (f/k/a the Kokomo Gas and Fuel Company Bargaining Unit Employees’ Retirement Plan), or any successor plan (as defined therein). Effective December 31, 2012, the Kokomo Union Pension Plan merged with and into the NIPSCO Union Pension Plan.

Section 1.35 Kokomo Union Employee. An Employee who was employed by Kokomo immediately prior to the merger of Kokomo into NIPSCO effective July 1, 2011, whose compensation, conditions of employment or position are covered by a collective bargaining agreement which called for the Employee’s participation in the Plan. After the July 1, 2011 merger, the separate Kokomo bargaining unit no longer existed and Kokomo Union Employees became NIPSCO Union Employees. However, see the definition of NIPSCO Union Employee for limitation of this characterization for purposes of the Plan.

Section 1.36 Leased Employee. An Employee who was employed by NIFL immediately prior to the merger of NIFL into NIPSCO effective July 1, 2011, whose compensation, conditions of employment or position are covered by a collective bargaining agreement which called for the Employee’s participation in the Plan. After the July 1, 2011 merger, the separate NIFL bargaining unit no longer existed and NIFL Union Employees became NIPSCO Union Employees. ARTICLE II

ELIGIBILITY AND PARTICIPATION

Section 2.01 Eligibility. Each Eligible Employee shall be eligible to become a Participant in the Plan. Each Eligible Employee who was a Participant in the Plan on the day before the Effective Date of this restated Plan shall continue as a Participant in this Plan as restated. An Eligible Employee shall become a Participant effective upon such Eligible Employee's Employment Commencement Date.

- A. Enrollment Generally. As soon as administratively practicable, the Plan Administrator shall notify each Eligible Employee that he is eligible to make contributions to the Plan and shall explain the rights, privileges and duties of a Participant in the Plan. Each Eligible Employee may enroll as a Participant in the Pre-tax Contributions, Roth Contributions or the After-tax Contributions portions of the Plan at any time and as soon as administratively practicable on or after his date of hire, by properly completing the enrollment procedures established at the time by the Plan Administrator, or by following such other reasonable procedures as the Plan Administrator may implement. The Plan Administrator may establish rules and procedures governing the time and manner in which enrollments shall be processed.

- B. Automatic Enrollment; Notice of Participation. Except as provided herein, all Eligible Employees hired or rehired on or after the Effective Date shall be subject to the automatic enrollment and notice provisions of this subsection B. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the provisions of this subsection B shall not apply to Kokomo Union Employees hired before March 1, 2009, and NIPSCO Union Employees hired before June 1, 2009, who shall instead be subject to the general enrollment provisions set forth in Section 2.01A. In addition, the provisions of this subsection B shall be modified as set forth in Schedule II for Bay State Union Employees (i.e., this subsection applies with varied effective dates for different Bay State Union Employee groups and applies uniformly to all Bay State Union Employees hired on or after January 1, 2014). Pursuant to the provisions of this subsection B, an Eligible Employee shall be automatically enrolled in the Plan as of the first pay period following 30 days after his Employment Commencement

Date (or Reemployment Commencement Date). Such Eligible Employee shall be deemed to have elected to contribute the percentage of his Compensation identified below in this subsection as a Pre-tax Contribution (the “Automatic Percentage Amount”) in accordance with Section 3.02A of the Plan, unless the Eligible Employee elects to contribute a different percentage of his Compensation or affirmatively elects not to contribute any portion of his Compensation.

- (i) For any Eligible Employee hired or rehired on or after January 1, 2008, but before January 1, 2014, the Automatic Percentage Amount shall be 3% of Compensation, subject to the provisions of any applicable collective bargaining agreements.
- (ii) For any non-union Eligible Employee hired or rehired on or after January 1, 2014, but before January 1, 2015, the Automatic Percentage Amount shall be 4% of Compensation.
- (iii) For any non-union Eligible Employee hired or rehired on or after January 1, 2015, or any NIPSCO Union Employee hired or rehired on or after January 1, 2015, the Automatic Percentage Amount shall be 6% of Compensation, subject to the provisions of any applicable collective bargaining agreements.
- (iv) For any Columbia Union Employee hired or rehired on or after July 1, 2018, the Automatic Percentage Amount shall be 6% of Compensation.

By his participation, the Participant shall be deemed to have agreed to abide by the provisions of the Plan. Unless otherwise provided above, the Automatic Percentage Amounts for Bay State Union Employees and NIPSCO Union Employees, and the effective dates thereof, are provided in Schedule II and Schedule III, respectively.

- C. Notice. Within a reasonable time (generally 30 to 90 days before each Plan Year, or, in the case of a newly eligible Participant, within the 90 days prior to and including the date of eligibility), the Plan Administrator shall give each Participant that will be or is enrolled in the Plan pursuant to this Section 3.01B a written notice of the Participant’s rights and obligations under the Plan’s automatic enrollment provisions in accordance with the provisions of Treasury Regulation Section 1.414(w)-1 and subsequent guidance. Such notice generally shall include a description of the following: (i) the circumstances of automatic deferrals; (ii) the Participant’s Automatic Percentage Amount; (iii) the Participant’s right to make a contrary deferral election as provided in Section 3.02 of the Plan; (iv) how contributions will be invested in the absence of any investment election by the Participant; (v) any Company contributions made on behalf of the Participant; and (vi) the Plan’s withdrawal and vesting provisions.

Any contributions pursuant to this automatic enrollment provision shall be reduced or stopped to meet the limitations under Code Sections 401(a)(17), 402(g) and 415 and to satisfy any suspension period required after a hardship distribution as described in Section 5.05.

Section 2.02 Participation Upon Re-Employment. Except as provided in Schedule II, an Eligible Employee who was a Participant shall again become a Participant on his Reemployment Commencement Date.

Section 2.03 Transfers Between Employers. For eligibility purposes, a Participant who transfers employment from one Employer to another Employer shall continue to be eligible to participate in the Plan if such Participant previously met the requirements of Section 2.01. In accordance with the Plan and Code, an Eligible Employee shall continue to be an Eligible Employee following a transfer between Employers as if such Eligible Employee had performed all Service during the Plan Year for the Employer to which the Eligible Employee last transferred.

Section 2.04 Changes in Participant's Job Classification. A Participant who transfers to a classification of Employee that causes him to cease to meet the definition of Eligible Employee, or who is granted a leave of absence or placed on inactive status by an Employer, shall not be deemed to have terminated employment and shall not be entitled to a distribution based upon a Severance from Employment. While such Participant is employed by an Employer but not as an Eligible Employee, or is on an unpaid leave of absence or in inactive status, neither the Participant nor an Employer on his behalf shall make contributions to the Plan other than Rollover Contributions pursuant to Section 3.09, except as provided in Section 1.20A.(v) with respect to Participants who are Bay State Union Employees who are employed in the role of Maintenance Mechanic M&R and are entitled to receive an annual stipend pursuant to the terms of a collective bargaining agreement. If the Participant is later employed by an Employer, transfers to a classification of Employee which is eligible to participate in the Plan, returns to employment immediately upon expiration of a leave of absence, or is restored to active status, contributions to the Participant's account may resume under all applicable Plan provisions.

Section 2.05 Termination Of Participation. Subject to the provisions of Sections 2.02 and 2.04, an Employee who becomes a Participant shall remain a Participant until he or his Beneficiary is paid his entire Account Balance following his Severance Date.

ARTICLE III CONTRIBUTIONS

Section 3.01 Individual Accounts. The Plan Administrator, or, if the Plan Administrator so determines, the Trustee, shall maintain an Account for each Participant and Former Participant having an amount to his credit in the Trust Fund. Each Account may be divided into separate subaccounts to the extent necessary to reflect different kinds of contributions, including "Pre-tax Contributions," "Roth Contributions," "Catch-up Contributions," "After-tax Contributions," "Matching Contributions," "Profit Sharing Contributions," "Next Gen Employer Contributions," "Prior Profit Sharing Contributions," and "Roth In-Plan Conversions" as defined below. If a Participant has made a "Rollover Contribution" or "Transfer Contribution," as defined below, separate subaccounts shall be established for such contributions as well. The Plan Administrator will make its allocations, or request the Trustee to make its allocations, to the Accounts of the Participants in accordance with the provisions of Section 8.02. The Plan Administrator may direct the Trustee to maintain a temporary segregated investment Account in the name of a Participant to prevent a distortion of income, gain, or loss allocations under Section 8.02. The Plan Administrator shall ensure that records are maintained for all Account allocations and related recordkeeping activities.

Section 3.02 Participant Contributions.

- A. Pre-tax Contributions. A Participant may elect to have his Employer make “Pre-tax Contributions” to the Trust on his behalf by following any deferral election procedures established pursuant to Section 3.03. Alternatively, in accordance with the automatic enrollment provisions of Section 2.01B, an Employer may make Pre-tax Contributions to the Trust on an automatic basis without the affirmative election of the Participant. The amount of Pre-tax Contributions that may be made on behalf of a Participant for any designated period shall be deducted from his Compensation and shall equal: (i) such whole percentage of his Compensation, in a range of 1% to 50%, as designated by the Participant in the salary reduction agreement; or (ii) if automatically enrolled pursuant to Section 2.01B, the Automatic Percentage Amount specified therein. For each calendar year or other taxable year of any Participant, each such Participant’s Pre-tax contribution shall not exceed $23,000 in 2024 (or such other dollar amount as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue may subsequently prescribe in accordance with Code Section 402(g)(5)). The Employer shall not make a Pre-tax Contribution to the Trust to the extent that the Contribution would exceed the Participant’s “Maximum Permissible Amount” as defined under Section 7.02.
- B. Catch-up Contributions. An Employee who is eligible to make Pre-tax Contributions or Roth Contributions under the Plan and who has attained age 50 before the close of the Employee’s taxable year shall be eligible to make “Catch-up Contributions” of not less than 1% but not more than 50% of Compensation in accordance with and subject to the limitations of Code Section 414(v). Such Catch-up Contributions shall not be taken into account for purposes of the provisions of the Plan implementing the required limitations of Code Sections 402(g) and 415. The Plan shall not be treated as failing to satisfy the provisions of the Plan implementing the requirements of Code Section 401(k)(3), 401(k)(11), 401(k)(12), 410(b), or 416, as applicable, by reason of the making of such Catch-up Contributions. For each Plan Year, each Participant’s Catch-up Contributions shall not exceed $7,500 in 2024 (or such other dollar amount as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue may prescribe in accordance with Code Section 414(v)(2)(B)). Catch-up Contributions may consist of Pre-tax Contributions and/or Roth Contributions at the Participant’s election. No Matching Contributions shall be contributed with respect to any Catch-up Contributions elected or deemed to have been made by a Participant.
- C. After-tax Contributions. For any Plan Year, each Participant shall be permitted to make contributions on an after-tax basis (“After-tax Contributions”) to the Trust in whole percentages between 1% and 25% of the Participant’s Compensation per pay period. All Participant After-tax Contribution elections shall be made at the time, in the manner, and subject to the conditions specified by the Plan Administrator, which shall prescribe uniform and nondiscriminatory rules for such elections. The Trustee will maintain a separate account for a Participant's After-tax Contributions to which all income, expenses, gains and losses attributable to such contributions will be allocated. The Plan Administrator may establish whatever further procedures it deems necessary to facilitate After-tax Contributions.

- D. Roth Contributions. A Participant may elect to have his Employer make "Roth Contributions" to the Trust on his behalf by following the deferral election procedures established pursuant to Section 3.03. Roth Contributions shall be irrevocably designated as Roth Contributions by the Participant in lieu of all or a portion of the Pre-tax Contributions the Participant is eligible to make under Section 3.02A(i) (or, if applicable, the Catch-up Contributions a participant may be eligible to make under Section 3.02B) and shall be subject to the Compensation percentage and dollar limitations of Section 3.02A(i). Roth Contributions shall be treated by the Employer as includible in the Participant's income at the time the Participant would have received the amount if not for the cash or deferred election to make the Roth Contributions. A Participant's Roth Contributions shall be allocated to the Roth Contribution Account, a separate account to which all income, expenses, gains and losses attributable to such contributions will be allocated. No contributions other than Roth Contributions and properly attributable earnings will be credited to a Participant's Roth Contribution Account.
- E. Roth In-Plan Conversions. Effective as of January 1, 2024, a Participant may elect a conversion of amounts held in a Participant's Account (other than a Roth Contribution Account or any portion of a Rollover Account or Transfer Account attributable to designated Roth contributions) into the Participant's Roth In-Plan Conversion Account under the Plan in accordance with Code Section 402A(c)(4) ("Roth In-Plan Conversion"). An election to make a Roth In-Plan Conversion during a taxable year may not be changed or rescinded in whole or in part after the Roth In-Plan Conversion is completed.

A Roth In-Plan Conversion may be elected by a Participant with respect to the Participant's Account, a spousal Beneficiary with respect to the Beneficiary's Account, or an alternate payee who is a Spouse or a former Spouse with respect to any separate interest Account such alternate payee may maintain under the Plan. For the purposes of determining eligibility to make a Roth In-Plan Conversion, to the extent the term "Participant" is used, such term will also include a spousal Beneficiary and an alternate payee who is a Spouse or former Spouse.

- (i) Amounts Eligible for Roth In-Plan Conversion. Subject to the following, a Participant may convert any portion of their vested Account Balance to a Roth In-Plan Conversion Account.
- a. Contribution Sources. A Roth In-Plan Conversion may be made from any currently active contribution source under the Plan (other than a Roth Contribution Account or any portion of a Rollover Account or Transfer Account attributable to designated Roth contributions). For the avoidance of doubt, in connection with the implementation of Roth In-Plan Conversions in the Plan beginning in 2024, it is noted that the following historical or other sources maintained with the recordkeeper are not to be considered as eligible for Roth In-Plan Conversion: Source 15 (certain employer QNEC); Source 07 (historical employer restricted source); Source 06 (certain restricted prior plan lump sum deposits).

- b. Vesting and Amount Requirement. Roth In-Plan Conversions are limited to contribution sources that are 100% vested. A Participant may elect a Roth In-Plan Conversion of some or all of the vested portion of his or her Account balance, including earnings.
 - c. Participant Loans. Roth In-Plan Conversions may include a Participant loan. A Participant loan directly transferred into a Roth In-Plan Conversion without changing the repayment schedule is not treated as a new loan.
- (ii) Roth In-Plan Conversions are Not Distributions. A Roth In-Plan Conversion is not considered a withdrawal or distribution from the Plan. Accordingly, a Participant does not have to be eligible to receive a withdrawal or distribution from the Plan at the time of the Roth In-Plan Conversion in order to elect a Roth In-Plan Conversion. Additionally, a Roth In-Plan Conversion is specifically not treated as a distribution for the following Code purposes:
- a. Spousal Consent. A Roth In-Plan Conversion is not treated as a distribution for purposes of applying the spousal consent requirements under Code Section 401(a)(11). Accordingly, a married Participant is not required to obtain spousal consent in connection with an election to make a Roth In-Plan Conversion even if the Plan is otherwise subject to the spousal consent requirements of Code Section 401(a)(11).
 - b. Participant Consent. A Roth In-Plan Conversion is not treated as a distribution for the purposes of applying the participant consent requirements under Code Section 401(a)(11). Accordingly, amounts that are converted as part of a Roth In-Plan Conversion continue to be taken into account in determining whether the Participant's vested Account balance exceeds $5,000 for purposes of applying the Cash-out Distribution provisions of Section 4.03 of the Plan and will not trigger the requirement for a notice of the Participant's right to defer receipt of the distribution.

- c. Protected Benefits. A Roth In-Plan Conversion is not treated as a distribution under Code Section 411(d)(6)(B)(ii). Accordingly, a Participant who had a distribution right (such as a right to an immediate distribution) prior to the Roth In-Plan Conversion cannot have that distribution right eliminated solely as a result of the election to make a Roth In-Plan Conversion. The Plan Administrator and Trustee may have to maintain separate accounts with respect to different contribution sources within the Roth In-Plan Conversion Account in order to protect distribution options related to such different contribution sources.
 - d. Mandatory Withholding. A Roth In-Plan Conversion is not subject to income tax withholding under Code Section 3405(c).
- (iii) Effect of Roth In-Plan Conversion and Restrictions on Conversion. A Participant must include the taxable amount of a Roth In-Plan Conversion in gross income in the tax year of the Roth In-Plan Conversion. For this purpose, the taxable amount of a Roth In-Plan Conversion is the fair market value of the amount converted reduced by any basis in the converted amounts. The amount of any outstanding participant loan is not eligible for Roth In-Plan Conversion. Accordingly, if a Participant requesting a Roth In-Plan Conversion has an outstanding loan balance under the Plan, such outstanding loan balance shall be excluded from the Roth In-Plan Conversion amount. Generally, the taxable amount of a Roth In-Plan Conversion is includible in gross income in the taxable year in which the conversion occurs.
- (iv) Distribution Restrictions. Generally, a distribution will be permitted from the Roth In-Plan Conversion Account to the extent permitted for regular Roth Contributions. As described in subsection (ii)(c) (regarding protected benefits) above, however, additional distribution options may need to be protected with respect to specific contribution sources. Additionally, distribution restrictions that otherwise apply with respect to a specific contribution source will continue to apply if such contribution source is converted to Roth In-Plan Conversions.

- (v) Application of Early Distribution Penalty. A Roth In-Plan Conversion is not subject to the early distribution penalty under Code Section 72(t) at the time of the conversion. If an amount allocable to the taxable amount of a Roth In-Plan Conversion is subsequently distributed from the Plan within the 5-taxable-year period beginning with the first day of the Participant's taxable year in which the conversion was made, however, the amount distributed is treated as includible in gross income for purposes of applying the Code Section 72(t) early distribution penalty. To the extent the distribution from the Plan is rolled over into a Roth elective deferral account in another qualified plan or is rolled over to a Roth IRA, this subsection will not apply. However, the rule under this subsection will apply to any subsequent distribution made from such other Roth elective deferral account or Roth IRA within the 5-taxable-year period.

Notwithstanding anything in the Plan to the contrary, the sum of a Participant's Pre-tax Contributions, Catch-up Contributions, Roth Contributions and After-tax Contributions shall not exceed 75% of such Participant's Compensation.

Section 3.03 Elections, Changes and Suspensions of Participant Contributions. A Participant's Compensation for a Plan Year shall be reduced by the amount of the allocation he elects for such Plan Year. All elections shall be made at the time, in the manner, and subject to the conditions specified by the Plan Administrator, which shall prescribe uniform and nondiscriminatory rules for such elections, and shall become effective as of the first pay period as is administratively practicable after the election is properly made.

A Participant may change the rate of Pre-tax Contributions (including Catch-up Contributions, if any), Roth Contributions or After-tax Contributions to his Account at any time during each Plan Year, effective for the first payroll period for which it is administratively feasible to change the rate of such Participant's Pre-tax Contributions (including Catch-up Contributions, if any), Roth Contributions or After-tax Contributions, by communicating such rate change in accordance with uniform rules and procedures established by the Plan Administrator regarding the timing and manner of making such elections. In addition, a Participant may at any time elect to suspend all contributions to his Account by giving advance notice in any manner specified by the Plan Administrator in accordance with its uniform rules and procedures. An election to recommence contributions shall be effective for the first payroll period in which it is administratively feasible to begin deferral withholdings. All suspensions and recommencements of Pre-tax Contributions (including Catch-up Contributions, if any), Roth Contributions or After-tax Contributions shall be made in the manner and at the times specified in uniform rules and procedures established by the Plan Administrator, which rules and procedures may be changed from time to time.

Section 3.04 Matching Contributions.

- A. Payroll Period Matching Contribution. For each payroll period, each Employer shall deposit a "Matching Contribution" to the Trust in an amount provided in Schedule I on behalf of any Participant who has made Pre-tax Contributions, Roth Contributions or certain After-tax Contributions (if indicated in Schedule I) during the payroll period. No Matching Contributions shall be made, however, with respect to Catch-up Contributions. The Matching Contributions shall be allocated and invested in accordance with the provisions of Section 3.05.

- B. Annual True-Up Matching Contribution. Following the end of each Plan Year, each Employer shall make an additional Matching Contribution with respect to each Participant to the extent necessary to cause the Matching Contribution for the Participant for the Plan Year to be equal to the amount determined under Schedule I calculated on the basis of the Participant's Pre-tax Contributions, Roth Contributions (other than Catch-up Contributions), certain After-tax Contributions (if indicated in Schedule I), and Compensation for the entire Plan Year. If a Participant experiences a change in employment during a Plan Year that causes a corresponding change in the Matching Contribution formula applicable to such Participant, the additional Matching Contribution required by this paragraph shall be determined considering the Matching Contribution formula in effect with respect to such Participant as of the last day of the Plan Year. If the aggregate payroll period Matching Contributions for the Plan Year are greater than the Matching Contributions that would be due if Matching Contributions were determined on an annual basis for the Plan Year based on the Matching Contribution formula applicable at the end of such Plan Year, no additional Matching Contribution shall be due under this paragraph and no adjustment to the aggregate payroll period Matching Contributions for the Plan Year shall be made.

Contributions that are initially characterized as Catch-up Contributions but are subsequently re-characterized as Pre-Tax or Roth Contributions shall be eligible for the additional Matching Contribution otherwise applicable under this paragraph.

- C. Limitation. The Employer shall not make a Matching Contribution to the Trust for any Participant to the extent that such Contribution would exceed the Participant's "Maximum Permissible Amount" under Section 7.02.

Section 3.05 Special Rule. Effective for contributions made on or after July 1, 2017, all Matching Contributions shall be invested in accordance with Section 8.07 of the Plan. For contributions made prior to July 1, 2017, all Matching Contributions were initially allocated to the Company Stock Fund, except as otherwise provided in Schedule II. All Matching Contributions shall be 100% vested and nonforfeitable at all times.

Section 3.06 Profit Sharing Contributions and Next Gen Employer Contributions. Except as provided in subparagraph C below, for each Plan Year, the Employer may contribute to the Trust amounts determined in its discretion. Such contributions will be in the form of "Profit Sharing Contributions" (previously designated "Profit Participation Contributions" in the Plan 2006 Restatement) as described in subparagraph A and B below. In addition, as provided in subparagraph C below, the Employer shall make the “Next Gen Employer Contribution” described therein.

- A. Amount of Profit Sharing Contribution. The Profit Sharing Contribution made for a Plan Year shall be a stated percentage of the Compensation of the Participants entitled to receive allocations of such Profit Sharing Contribution for such Plan Year in accordance with the eligibility and allocation provisions set forth in Plan Section 3.07. The applicable percentage for each Plan Year shall be designated by the Committee, in its discretion exercised on a non-discriminatory basis, no later than the last day of the first quarter of the Plan Year following the Plan Year for which such percentage is applicable. For purposes of this Section 3.06A, Compensation for a Plan Year shall be defined as determined under the Annual Incentive Plan of an Employer in effect for such Plan Year, reduced by any amounts deferred to a nonqualified plan maintained by an Employer, as described in the definition of Compensation in Article I of the Plan. In allocating a Profit Sharing Contribution to a Participant’s Account, the Plan Administrator, subject to Section 11.01, shall take into account only Compensation paid to the Employee during the portion of the Plan Year during which the Employee was a Participant. In no event shall a Profit Sharing Contribution be made with respect to any Participant for any Plan Year to the extent such Profit Sharing Contribution would cause the limitations of Code Section 415 to be exceeded for such Participant for such Plan Year.
- B. Prior Profit Sharing Contributions. Prior to January 1, 2002, the Employer contributed other amounts as Profit Sharing Contributions to Participants as described in the Plan 2006 Restatement. The provisions relating to these “Prior Profit Sharing Contributions” including rules and conditions for eligibility, allocation, vesting, forfeitures, and investments, apply as set forth in the Plan 2006 Restatement. The Plan Administrator and/or Trustee shall maintain a “Prior Profit Sharing Contributions Account” to the extent that such contributions require a subaccount that is separate from the Profit Sharing Account.
- C. Next Gen Employer Contributions. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Employer shall contribute each pay period to the Account of each Participant who is both an Eligible Employee and a Next Gen Employee at such time an amount equal to 4.5% of such Participant’s total Compensation for that pay period (as defined in Article I) (effective as of January 1, 2023; prior to such date, any Next Gen Employer Contributions were in an amount to 3% of such Participant’s total Compensation for the pay period). Such contribution shall be a “Next Gen Employer Contribution.” This amount shall be payable to applicable Participants regardless of whether such Participants have elected to make Pre-Tax Contributions, Roth Contributions or any other elective deferrals to the Plan and regardless of the Participants’ status as of the end of the Plan Year. As provided in Section 3.07B, this Next Gen Employer Contribution shall be invested in accordance with Section 8.07 of the Plan and shall be 100% vested and nonforfeitable at all times. Eligibility for a Next Gen Employer Contribution under this subparagraph C shall not preclude eligibility for any other Profit Sharing Contribution under the terms contained herein.

Any Employee employed in the position of Damage Prevention Coordinator who was a Next Gen Employee immediately prior to becoming employed in the position of Damage Prevention Coordinator shall remain a Next Gen Employee for purposes of Next Gen Contributions described in this subparagraph for the duration of his employment in such position during the period from June 1, 2016 to April 30, 2019. For any new hire during this period into the position of Damage Prevention Coordinator, Next Gen Contributions shall apply. Any Next Gen Employer Contributions made to such Damage Prevention Coordinators during this period shall be invested as contributions for union Participants are invested in accordance with Section 8.07 of the Plan, as amended. Effective as of May 1, 2019, the date on which Employees employed in the position of Damage Prevention Coordinator shall become NIPSCO Union Employees for all Plan purposes, Plan provisions regarding Next Gen Contributions shall not apply to Employees in the position of Damage Prevention Coordinator, unless otherwise negotiated in an agreement between the bargaining unit and the Company.

Section 3.07 Profit Sharing and Next Gen Employer Contribution Allocation / Investment.

A. Eligibility and Accrual.

- (i) In General. Each Eligible Employee meeting the allocation requirements of this Section is entitled to participate in Profit Sharing Contributions; provided, however, that if an Eligible Employee is subject to a collective bargaining agreement, such agreement must provide that the Employee is eligible for Profit Sharing Contributions. For Profit Sharing Contributions other than those Next Gen Employer Contributions described in Section 3.06C, the Plan Administrator shall determine the accrual of a Profit Sharing Participant's benefit on the basis of the Plan Year. Although contributions may be made at other times (and therefore credited to Accounts at such other times), the Participant's status as of the end of the Plan Year for which the contribution is made shall determine his entitlement to share in an allocation of such contribution, regardless of when credited to his Account. For Profit Sharing Contributions other than Next Gen Employer Contributions described in Section 3.06C, the Plan Administrator shall not allocate any portion of a Profit Sharing Contribution for a Plan Year to the Account of any Participant, if such Participant is not employed by the Employer on the last day of that Plan Year (for a reason other than retirement, Disability, or death). For this purpose, "retirement" shall mean a Participant's Severance from Employment at or after attainment of age 55 and completion of at least 10 years of continuous Service, measured from the most recent date of hire with the Company or a Related Employer.
- (ii) Special Rule. Notwithstanding paragraph (i) of this Section 3.07A, the following special rule applies if an Employer contributes a Profit Sharing Contribution (other than Next Gen Employer Contributions) to the Trust for the Plan Year ending December 31, 2020. With respect to Participants who terminate employment with an Employer during the Plan Year ending December 31, 2020 and are hired by Eversource Energy (or one of its affiliates), pursuant to Section 8.3(a) of the Asset Purchase Agreement by and Among NiSource Inc., Bay State Gas Company and Eversource Energy, dated February 26, 2020, the Plan Administrator shall include in the allocation of such Profit Sharing Contribution the Account of any such Participant who would otherwise have received an allocation of such Profit Sharing Contribution notwithstanding the fact that such Participant is not employed by an Employer on the last day of such Plan Year.

(iii) Suspension of Accrual Requirements. The Plan shall suspend the accrual requirement described herein in accordance with the procedures described under subparagraphs (a) through (f) of this Section 3.07A(iii) if the Plan fails to satisfy the requirements of Code Section 410(b). Notwithstanding any other provision to the contrary, a Profit Sharing Contribution or Next Gen Employer Contribution shall not be allocated to a Participant's Account to the extent the contribution would exceed the Participant's "Maximum Permissible Amount" under Section 7.02. The procedure for suspending the accrual requirement for purposes of satisfying the requirements of Code Section 410(b) are as follows:

- (a) The Committee will identify the termination date for each Participant who terminated employment with the Employer during the Plan Year. The Committee shall then designate as "Includable Employees" all such Participants.
- (b) The Committee will suspend the accrual requirements for Includable Employees who are Participants, beginning first with the Includable Employee(s) employed with the Employer on the next to last day of the Plan Year.
- (c) If the Plan does not satisfy the ratio percentage test under Code Section 410(b)(1) once the accrual requirements for the individuals identified in Subsection (b) above are suspended, the Committee shall suspend the accrual requirements for the Includable Employee(s) who have the next latest termination of employment date during the Plan Year, and continuing to suspend in descending order the accrual requirements for each Includable Employee who terminated employment, from the latest to the earliest termination date, until the Plan satisfies the ratio percentage test under Code Section 410(b)(1) for the Plan Year.
- (d) If two or more Includable Employees terminated employment on the same day, the Committee will suspend the accrual requirements for all such Includable Employees, irrespective of whether the Plan can satisfy the ratio percentage test under Code Section 410(b)(1) by accruing benefits for fewer than all such Includable Employees.

- (e) If the Plan suspends the accrual requirements for an Includable Employee, that Employee will share in the allocation of Employer contributions and Forfeitures, if any, without regard to whether he is employed by the Employer on the last day of the Plan Year.
- (f) For purposes of the ratio percentage test under Code Section 410(b)(1), an Employee is benefiting under the Plan on a particular date if he or she is entitled to an allocation for the Plan Year under this Section or as otherwise provided under applicable Treasury Regulations.

- B. Allocation, Investment and Vesting. Subject to Article XI and except as provided for contributions described under Section 3.06C, the Plan Administrator shall allocate and credit to the Account of each Participant who satisfies the conditions of Section 3.07A a percentage of the annual Profit Sharing Contribution in the ratio that the sum of the Participant's total Compensation for the Plan Year bears to the sum of all such Participants' total Compensation for the Plan Year. Effective for contributions made on or after July 1, 2017, all Profit Sharing Contributions, including Next Gen Employer Contributions under Section 3.06C, shall be invested in accordance with Section 8.07 of the Plan. For contributions made prior to July 1, 2017, all Profit Sharing Contributions, including Next Gen Employer Contributions were initially allocated to the Company Stock Fund. All Profit Sharing Contributions, including Next Gen Employer Contributions under Section 3.06C, shall be 100% vested and nonforfeitable at all times.

Section 3.08 Time and Form of Payment of Contribution. The Employer may pay its contribution for each Plan Year in one or more installment payments without interest. In the discretion of the Committee, such payments may be made to the Plan in the form of cash or Company Stock. The Employer must make its contribution which Participants have elected to defer under Section 3.02 as soon as such amounts may reasonably be segregated from the Employer's general assets, but in no event later than 15 business days after the end of the calendar month in which such amounts were withheld from the Participant's Compensation, or such later time as may be permitted by regulations under ERISA and Code Section 401(k). The Employer must make the balance, if any, of its contribution to the Trustee within the time prescribed (including extensions) for filing its tax return for the taxable year for which it claims a deduction for its contribution, in accordance with Code Section 404(a)(6).

Section 3.09 Rollover and Transfer Contributions. The Trustee is authorized to accept and hold as part of the Trust Fund, assets transferred on behalf of an Employee, provided that such transfer satisfied any procedures or other requirements established by the Plan Administrator. The Trustee shall also accept and hold as part of the Trust Fund assets transferred in connection with a merger or consolidation of another plan with or into the Plan pursuant to Section 14.05 hereof and as may be approved by the Committee. In addition, the Trustee shall also accept “rollover” amounts contributed directly by or on behalf of (i) an Employee or (ii) or a Former Participant who has retired from employment with the Company after completing at least ten years of service and attaining age 55 (a “Retired Former Participant”) in accordance with procedures and rules established by the Plan Administrator in respect of a distribution made to or on behalf of such Employee or Retired Former Participant from another plan pursuant to Section 14.05 hereof. All amounts so transferred to the Trust Fund shall be held in segregated subaccounts and shall be referred to as “Transfer Contributions” if such amounts are subject to the special distribution rules described in Section 14.05 and as “Rollover Contributions” if not subject to such rules. Rollover Contributions must conform to rules and procedures established by the Plan Administrator, including rules designed to assure the Plan Administrator that the funds so transferred qualify as a Rollover Contribution under the Code, including the rules specified in Section 5.07D herein.

Section 3.10 Return of Contributions. All contributions to the Plan are conditioned upon their deductibility under the Code. The Trustee, upon written request from the Plan Administrator, shall return to the Employer the amount of the Employer’s contribution made by the Employer by mistake of fact or the amount of the Employer’s contribution disallowed as a deduction under Code Section 404. The Trustee shall not return any portion of the Employer’s contribution under this provision more than one year after:

- A. The Employer made the contribution by mistake of fact; or
- B. The disallowance of the contribution as a deduction, and then, only to the extent of the disallowance.

The Trustee shall not increase the amount of the Employer contribution returnable under this Section for any earnings attributable to the contribution, but the Trustee shall decrease the Employer contribution returnable for any losses attributable to it. The Trustee may require the Employer to furnish it whatever evidence the Trustee deems necessary to enable the Trustee to confirm the amount the Employer has requested be returned is properly returnable under ERISA.

ARTICLE IV

VESTING; TIME AND METHOD OF PAYMENT OF BENEFITS

Section 4.01 Vested Benefit. A Participant’s interest in his Account shall at all times be fully vested and nonforfeitable.

Section 4.02 Distribution Upon Severance From Employment, Disability or Death. Upon a Participant’s Severance from Employment, Disability or death, the Participant (or in the event of death, the Beneficiary) shall be entitled to receive the Participant’s entire Account Balance (reduced by any amount attributable to an outstanding loan made by the Participant pursuant to Section 5.08) in accordance with the provisions of this Article IV.

Section 4.03 Payment Timing. Upon Severance from Employment before age 65, the Trustee shall, subject to the consent requirements described in this Section, distribute the Participant’s Account Balance as set forth below. For purposes of the distribution timing rules, a “Cash-out Distribution” is a lump sum distribution of the Participant’s Account Balance.

A. Timing Based on Account Balance Amount.

- (i) If the Participant's Account Balance on the date the distribution commences is $1,000 or less, the Trustee shall pay such Account Balance to the Participant in the form of a single, lump sum Cash-out Distribution as soon as administratively practicable after the Participant's Severance from Employment.
- (ii) If the Participant's Account Balance on the date the distribution commences is more than $1,000 but less than $5,000, any distribution shall be automatically rolled over to an individual retirement account in the name of the Participant in accordance with Code Section 401(a)(31)(B)(i) and related regulations, unless the Participant otherwise consents to the distributions. For purposes of applying the rollover provisions of this subparagraph (ii) to an Account Balance consisting at least in part of a Roth Contribution Account, the amount of the Roth Contribution Account may be considered separately from the non-Roth portions of the Participant's Account Balance for the sole purpose of determining whether such Roth Contribution Account shall be automatically rolled over to an individual retirement account under this subparagraph (ii) or paid to the Participant in the form of a single lump-sum distribution under subparagraph (i) above.
- (iii) If the Participant's Account Balance on the date the distribution commences is greater than $5,000, such distribution shall be deferred until the Participant consents to the distribution (but no later than the Participant's Required Beginning Date).

B. Deferral of Distribution. If the Participant does not file his written consent (if required) with the Trustee within the reasonable period of time stated in the consent form, the Trustee shall continue to hold the Participant's Account in trust until the Participant files an application for distribution with the Plan Administrator. At that time, the Trustee shall commence payment of the Participant's Account in accordance with the provisions of this Article IV; provided, however, if the Participant dies after terminating employment but prior to attaining age 65, the Plan Administrator, upon notice of the death and application for benefits filed by the Beneficiary, shall direct the Trustee to commence payment of the Participant's Account to his Beneficiary in accordance with the provisions of Section 4.05.

C. Consent Requirements. The Participant must consent in writing to the Plan Administrator's direction to the Trustee to make a distribution to the Participant and to the form of the distribution if: (i) the Participant's Account Balance on the date the distribution commences exceeds $1,000, and (ii) the Plan Administrator directs the Trustee to make a distribution to the Participant prior to his attaining age 65.

The Plan Administrator shall notify the Participant of the right to defer any distribution until the Participant's Account Balance is no longer immediately distributable. The description of a Participant's right to defer receipt of a distribution will describe the consequences of failing to defer receipt, as required by regulations under Code Section 411(a)(11). Such notice shall be provided no less than 30 days and no more than 180 days prior to the date of distribution. However, if the Participant, after having received this notice, affirmatively elects a distribution, such distribution may commence less than 30 days after the notice was provided.

The consent of the Participant shall not be required to the extent that a distribution is required to satisfy Code Section 401(a)(9) or Code Section 415. An Account balance is immediately distributable if any part of the Account balance could be distributed to the Participant (or the surviving Spouse) before the Participant attains, or would have attained if not deceased, age 65.

- D. Minimum Legal Distribution Requirements. Unless the Participant elects otherwise in writing, the Participant's Account Balance shall be distributed not later than 60 days after the close of the Plan Year in which the later of the following events occurs:
- (i) The date the Participant attains age 65; or
 - (ii) The date the Participant dies, becomes disabled, or otherwise terminates Service (employment) with the Employer.

In no event shall the distribution commence, nor shall the Participant elect to have distribution commence, later than the Required Beginning Date.

Furthermore, once distributions have begun to a Five-percent Owner (as defined in Code Section 416(i)), they must continue to be distributed, even if the Participant ceases to be a Five-percent Owner in a subsequent year.

In no event shall the payment commence later than the time prescribed by this Article IV or in a form not permitted under Article IV. The Plan Administrator shall make its determinations under this Article IV in a nondiscriminatory, consistent and uniform manner. The Participant shall be provided with the appropriate form to consent to the distribution direction, if required.

Section 4.04 Form of Benefit Payment. A Participant shall receive payment of his Account Balance in one of the following forms:

- A. In a single lump sum payment in cash, or if elected by the Participant or Beneficiary, in shares of stock held in the Company Stock Fund or any other stock fund maintained under the Plan based on the number of whole shares allocated to the Company Stock Fund or other stock fund for the Participant; or
- B. In a partial lump sum payment in cash or, if elected by the Participant or Beneficiary, in shares of Company Stock or any other stock fund maintained under the Plan, with the remainder of the Account paid later as elected by the Participant pursuant to this Section.

- C. In annual, semi-annual, quarterly, or monthly installments, on an equal or decrementing counter basis.

Notwithstanding the preceding provisions of this Section, unless the Participant otherwise elects, the distribution of the balance in his Account invested in the Company Stock Fund shall be in substantially equal annual or more frequent payments over a period not longer than the greater of five years, or in the case of the Participant whose balance in the portion of his Account invested in the Company Stock Fund exceeds $1,380,000, five years plus one additional year (but not more than five additional years) for each $275,000 or fraction thereof by which such balance exceeds $1,380,000, as adjusted pursuant to Code Section 409(o)(2).

Section 4.05 Distributions Upon Death. Upon the death of the Participant, the Participant's Account Balance shall be paid in accordance with Code Section 401(a)(9) and Plan Sections 4.03 and 4.04.

If a Participant dies while performing qualified military service (as defined in Code Section 414(u)), the survivors of the Participant are entitled to any additional benefits (other than benefit accruals relating to the period of qualified military service) provided under the Plan as if the Participant had resumed and then terminated employment on account of death.

Section 4.06 Required Minimum Distributions. The Participant's Account Balance shall be distributed, as of the Required Beginning Date, in accordance with the minimum distribution requirements established by Code Section 401(a)(9) and the applicable Treasury Regulations thereunder.

- A. Definitions. For purposes of this Section 4.06, the following definitions shall apply:

“Designated Beneficiary” is the individual who is designated as the beneficiary under the Plan and is the Designated Beneficiary under Code Section 401(a)(9) and Section 1.401(a)(9)-1, Q&A-4 of the Treasury Regulations.

“Distribution Calendar Year” is a calendar year for which a minimum distribution is required. For distributions beginning before the Participant's death, the first Distribution Calendar Year is the calendar year immediately preceding the calendar year which contains the Participant's Required Beginning Date. For distributions beginning after the Participant's death, the first Distribution Calendar Year is the calendar year in which the distributions are required to begin. The required minimum distribution for the Participant's first Distribution Calendar Year will be made on or before the Participant's Required Beginning Date. The required minimum distribution for other Distribution Calendar Years, including the required minimum distribution for the Distribution Calendar Year in which the Participant's Required Beginning Date occurs, will be made on or before December 31 of that Distribution Calendar Year.

“Life Expectancy” is a beneficiary’s life expectancy as computed by use of the Single Life Table in Section 1.401(a)(9)-9 of the Treasury Regulations.

“Participant’s Account Balance” is the Account Balance as of the last valuation date in the calendar year immediately preceding the Distribution Calendar Year (the “Valuation Calendar Year”) increased by the amount of any contributions made and allocated or forfeitures allocated to the Account Balance as of dates in the Valuation Calendar Year after the valuation date and decreased by distributions made in the Valuation Calendar Year after the valuation date. The Account Balance for the Valuation Calendar Year includes any amounts rolled over or transferred to the Plan either in the Valuation Calendar Year or in the Distribution Calendar Year if distributed or transferred in the Valuation Calendar Year.

B. Time And Manner of Distribution.

- (i) Required Beginning Date. The Participant’s entire interest will be distributed, or begin to be distributed, to the Participant no later than the Participant’s Required Beginning Date.
- (ii) Death of Participant Before Distributions Begin. Subject to the provisions of Section 4.06E, if the Participant dies before distributions begin, the Participant’s entire interest will be distributed, or begin to be distributed, no later than as follows:
 - a. If the Participant’s surviving Spouse is the Participant’s sole Designated Beneficiary, then, except as provided herein, distributions to the surviving Spouse will begin by December 31 of the calendar year immediately following the calendar year in which the Participant died, or by December 31 of the calendar year in which the Participant would have attained age 72 (age 70½ for Participants who attained age 70½ prior to January 1, 2020, or age 73 if the Participant attains age 73 on or after January 1, 2023), if later.
 - b. If the Participant’s surviving Spouse is not the Participant’s sole Designated Beneficiary, then, except as provided herein, distributions to the Designated Beneficiary will begin by December 31 of the calendar year immediately following the calendar year in which the Participant died.
 - c. If there is no Designated Beneficiary as of September 30 of the year following the year of the Participant’s death, the Participant’s entire interest will be distributed by December 31 of the calendar year containing the fifth anniversary of the Participant’s death.
 - d. If the Participant’s surviving Spouse is the Participant’s sole Designated Beneficiary and the surviving Spouse dies after the Participant but before distributions to the surviving Spouse begin, this Section 4.06B(ii), other than subsection a, above, will apply as if the surviving Spouse were the Participant.

- e. Distributions to Non-Eligible Designated Beneficiaries. Notwithstanding the foregoing, effective with respect to a Participant's death occurring after December 31, 2019, the following rule applies. With respect to a Beneficiary who is not an Eligible Designated Beneficiary, the interest of the Participant payable to such Beneficiary will be distributed no later than December 31 of the calendar year containing the tenth anniversary of the Participant's death, regardless of whether the Participant's death occurs before, on, or after his or her Required Beginning Date. The following individuals are Eligible Designated Beneficiaries: the surviving spouse of the Participant; a child of the Participant who has not reached the age of majority; a chronically ill individual as defined in Code Section 401(a)(9)(E)(ii)(IV); and any other individual who is not more than ten years younger than the Participant.

For purposes of this Section 4.06B(ii) and Section 4.06D, unless subsection d, above applies, distributions are considered to begin on the Participant's Required Beginning Date. If subsection d applies, distributions are considered to begin on the date distributions are required to begin to the surviving Spouse under subsection a, above. If distributions under an annuity purchased from an insurance company irrevocably commence to the Participant before the Participant's Required Beginning Date (or to the Participant's surviving Spouse before the date distributions are required to begin to the surviving Spouse under subsection a, above), the date distributions are considered to begin is the date distributions actually commence.

- (iii) Forms of Distribution. Unless the Participant's interest is distributed in the form of an annuity purchased from an insurance company or in a single sum on or before the Required beginning Date, as of the first Distribution Calendar Year distributions will be made in accordance with Sections 4.06C and 4.06D. If the Participant's interest is distributed in the form of an annuity purchased from an insurance company, distributions thereunder will be made in accordance with Code Section 401(a)(9) and the Treasury Regulations.

C. Required Minimum Distributions During Participant's Lifetime.

- (i) Amount of Required Minimum Distributions for Each Distribution Calendar Year. During the Participant's lifetime, the minimum amount that will be distributed for each Distribution Calendar Year is the lesser of:
 - a. the quotient obtained by dividing the Participant's Account Balance by the distribution period in the Uniform Lifetime Table set forth in

Treasury Regulations Section 1.401(a)(9)-9, using the Participant's age as of the Participant's birthday in the Distribution Calendar Year; or

- b. if the Participant's sole Designated Beneficiary for the Distribution Calendar Year is the Participant's Spouse, the quotient obtained by dividing the Participant's Account Balance by the number in the Joint and Last Survivor Table set forth in Treasury Regulations Section 1.401(a)(9)-9, using the Participant's and the Spouse's attained ages as of the Participant's and Spouse's birthdays in the Distribution Calendar Year.

- (ii) Lifetime Required Minimum Distributions Continue Through Year of Participant's Death. Required minimum distributions will be determined under this Section 4.06C beginning with the first Distribution Calendar Year and up to and including the Distribution Calendar Year that includes the Participant's date of death.

D. Required Minimum Distributions After Participant's Death.

- (i) Death On or After Date Distributions Begin.

- a. Participant Survived by Designated Beneficiary. If the Participant dies on or after the date distributions begin and there is a Designated Beneficiary, the minimum amount that will be distributed for each Distribution Calendar Year after the year of the Participant's death is the quotient obtained by dividing the Participant's Account Balance by the longer of the remaining Life Expectancy of the Participant or the remaining Life Expectancy of the Participant's Designated Beneficiary, determined as follows:
 - 1. The Participant's remaining Life Expectancy is calculated using the age of the Participant in the year of death, reduced by one for each subsequent year.
 - 2. If the Participant's surviving Spouse is the Participant's sole Designated Beneficiary, the remaining Life Expectancy of the surviving Spouse is calculated for each Distribution Calendar Year after the year of the Participant's death using the surviving Spouse's age as of the Spouse's birthday in that year. For Distribution Calendar Years after the year of the surviving Spouse's death, the remaining Life Expectancy of the surviving Spouse is calculated using the age of the surviving Spouse as of the Spouse's birthday in the calendar year of the Spouse's death, reduced by one for each subsequent calendar year.

3. If the Participant's surviving Spouse is not the Participant's sole Designated Beneficiary, the Designated Beneficiary's remaining Life Expectancy is calculated using the age of the Beneficiary in the year following the year of the Participant's death, reduced by one for each subsequent year.
 - b. No Designated Beneficiary. If the Participant dies on or after the date distributions begin and there is no Designated Beneficiary as of September 30 of the year after the year of the Participant's death, the minimum amount that will be distributed for each Distribution Calendar Year after the year of the Participant's death is the quotient obtained by dividing the Participant's Account Balance by the Participant's remaining Life Expectancy calculated using the age of the Participant in the year of death, reduced by one for each subsequent year.
- (ii) Death Before Date Distributions Begin.
- a. Participant Survived by Designated Beneficiary. Except as provided herein, if the Participant dies before the date distributions begin and there is a Designated Beneficiary, the minimum amount that will be distributed for each Distribution Calendar Year after the year of the Participant's death is the quotient obtained by dividing the Participant's Account Balance by the remaining Life Expectancy of the Participant's Designated Beneficiary, determined as provided in Section 4.06D(i).
 - b. No Designated Beneficiary. If the Participant dies before the date distributions begin and there is no Designated Beneficiary as of September 30 of the year following the year of the Participant's death, distribution of the Participant's entire interest will be completed by December 31 of the calendar year containing the fifth anniversary of the Participant's death.
 - c. Death of Surviving Spouse Before Distributions to Surviving Spouse are Required to Begin. If the Participant dies before the date distributions begin, the Participant's surviving Spouse is the Participant's sole Designated Beneficiary, and the surviving Spouse dies before distributions are required to begin to the surviving Spouse under Section 4.06B(ii)(a), this Section 4.06D(ii) will apply as if the surviving Spouse were the Participant.
- E. Election to Apply 5-Year Rule to Distributions to Designated Beneficiaries. If the Participant dies before distributions begin and there is a Designated Beneficiary, distribution to the Designated Beneficiary is not required to begin by the date specified in Section 4.06B(ii) of the Plan, but the Participant's entire interest will be distributed to the Designated Beneficiary by December 31 of the calendar year containing the fifth anniversary of the Participant's death. If the Participant's surviving Spouse is the Participant's sole Designated Beneficiary and the surviving Spouse dies after the Participant but before distributions to either the Participant or the surviving Spouse begin, this election will apply as if the surviving Spouse were the Participant. This election will apply to all distributions.

F. Optional Waiver of 2020 Required Minimum Distributions.

- (i) In General. A Participant or Beneficiary who would be required to receive a required minimum distribution under Code Section 401(a)(9) and this Section 4.06 in the 2020 calendar year shall not be required to receive such a distribution, in accordance with this paragraph F. and such administrative procedures as may be established by the Plan Administrator.
- (ii) Required Minimum Distributions That May Be Waived. A required minimum distribution may be waived by a Participant or Beneficiary pursuant to this Section 4.06.F. if it would otherwise be distributed to the Participant or Beneficiary in calendar year 2020. Such a distribution includes required minimum distributions related to Required Beginning Dates that occur in 2020 and required minimum distributions related to Required Beginning Dates that occurred in 2019 for which the corresponding distribution had not been made before January 1, 2020.
- (iii) Eligible Rollover Distribution. An amount distributed to a Participant or Beneficiary in 2020 that is not treated as a required minimum distribution under this Section 4.06.F. shall be treated as an Eligible Rollover Distribution but shall not be treated as an Eligible Rollover Distribution for purposes of Code Section 3405(c).

Section 4.07 Designation of Beneficiary. A Participant may, from time to time, designate in writing a Beneficiary or Beneficiaries, contingently or successively, to whom the Trustee shall pay his Account in the event of his death. A Participant's Beneficiary designation shall not be valid unless the Participant's Spouse consents (in accordance with the requirements of Code Section 417) to the Beneficiary designation. A Participant's Beneficiary designation does not require spousal consent if the Participant's Spouse is the Participant's designated Beneficiary. The Plan Administrator shall prescribe the form for the written designation of Beneficiary and, upon the Participant's filing the form with the Plan Administrator, the Participant shall effectively revoke all designations filed prior to that date by the same Participant.

The Plan Administrator may determine the identity of the distributees of any benefit payable under the Plan and in so doing may act and rely upon any information it may deem reliable upon reasonable inquiry, and upon any affidavit, certificate or other paper believed by it to be genuine, and upon any evidence believed by it sufficient. Any payment made in accordance with this Section shall be a complete discharge of obligations of the Plan Administrator and the Employers to the extent of such payment without regard to the application of any payment so made.

Section 4.08 Failure of Beneficiary Designation. If a Participant fails to name a Beneficiary in accordance with Section 4.07, or if the Beneficiary named by a Participant predeceases him, then the Participant's benefits otherwise payable pursuant to this Section shall be paid:

- A. to his surviving Spouse, or if none,
- B. to his descendants, per stirpes, or if none,
- C. to his father and mother, in equal parts, or if none,
- D. to his brothers and sisters, in equal parts, or if none,
- E. to his estate.

Section 4.09 Special Rules for Transfer Accounts. By operation of relevant law and regulation (including, but not limited to, ERISA and the Code), any Participant who has one or more Transfer Accounts consisting in whole or in part of Transfer Contributions which, must be distributed or made available under the same terms and conditions under which amounts held thereunder were previously held (prior to their becoming Transfer Contributions), Accordingly, notwithstanding any provision of this Article IV to the contrary, but only to the extent required to comply with Code Section 411(d)(6), the Plan Administrator shall, upon the written request of the Participant (in the case of optional forms of benefit), cause the Trustee to distribute or make available such Transfer Contributions at such times and in such manner as may be so required.

Section 4.10 Distributions Under Domestic Relations Orders. Nothing contained in this Plan shall prevent the Trustee from complying with the provisions of a qualified domestic relations order (as defined in Code Section 414(p)). This Plan specifically permits distribution to an alternate payee under a qualified domestic relations order at any time, irrespective of whether the Participant has attained his earliest retirement age (as defined under Code Section 414(p)) under the Plan. A distribution to an alternate payee prior to the Participant's attainment of the earliest retirement age is available only if the order specifies distribution at that time or permits an agreement between the Plan and the alternate payee to authorize such an earlier distribution. Nothing in this Section gives a Participant the right to receive a distribution at a time not permitted under the Plan, nor does this Section give the alternate payee the right to receive a form of payment not permitted under the Plan.

The Plan Administrator shall establish reasonable procedures to determine the qualified status of a domestic relations order. Upon receiving a domestic relations order, the Plan Administrator promptly shall notify the Participant and any alternate payee named in the order, in writing, of the receipt of the order and the Plan's procedures for determining the qualified status of the order. Within a reasonable period of time after receiving the domestic relations order, the Plan Administrator shall determine the qualified status of the order and shall notify the Participant and each alternate payee, in writing, of its determination. The Plan Administrator shall provide notice under this paragraph by mailing to the individual's address specified in the domestic relations order, or in a manner consistent with Labor Regulations.

If any portion of the Participant's Account Balance is payable during the period the Plan Administrator is making its determination of the qualified status of the domestic relations order, the Trustee shall segregate the amounts payable in a separate account and to invest the segregated account solely in fixed income investments or to maintain a separate bookkeeping account of said amounts. If the Plan Administrator determines the order is a qualified domestic relations order within 18 months of the first date on which payments were due under the terms of the order, the Plan Administrator shall direct the Trustee to distribute the separate account in accordance with the order. If the Plan Administrator does not make its determination of the qualified status of the order within the above-described 18-month period, the Plan Administrator shall direct the Trustee to distribute the segregated account in the manner the Plan would distribute it if the order did not exist, and shall apply the order prospectively if the Plan Administrator later determines the order is a qualified domestic relations order.

To the extent it is not inconsistent with the provisions of the qualified domestic relations order, the Plan Administrator may direct the Trustee to invest any partitioned amount in a segregated subaccount or separate account and to invest the account in the money market investment option or in other fixed income investments. A segregated subaccount shall remain a part of the Trust, but it alone shall share in any income it earns, and it alone shall bear any expense or loss it incurs.

The Trustee shall make any payment or distributions required under this Section by separate benefit checks or other separate distribution to the alternate payee(s).

A domestic relations order that otherwise satisfies the requirements of a qualified domestic relations order as defined in Section 414(p) of the Code and Section 206(d)(3)(B) of ERISA will not fail to be a qualified domestic relations order: (i) solely because the order is issued after, or revises, another domestic relations order or qualified domestic relations order; or (ii) solely because of the time at which the order is issued, including issuance after the Participant begins receipt of benefits or after the Participant's death. Such a domestic relations order is subject to the same requirements and protections that apply to qualified domestic relations orders.

Section 4.11 Lost Participant or Beneficiary. The Account of a Participant shall be forfeited if the Plan Administrator, after reasonable effort, is unable to locate the Participant or his Beneficiary to whom payment is due. The Plan Administrator may allocate the forfeited Account in accordance with Section 10.21. However, any such forfeited Account will be reinstated and become payable if a claim is made by the Participant or Beneficiary for such Account. The Plan Administrator shall prescribe uniform and non-discriminatory rules for carrying out this provision.

Section 4.12 Facility of Payment. If any person entitled to receive any amount under the provisions of this Plan is determined to be incapable of receiving or disbursing the same by reason of minority, illness or infirmity, mental incompetence, or incapacity of any kind, the Plan Administrator may, in its discretion, direct the Trustee to take any one or more of the following actions:

- A. To apply such amount directly for the comfort, support and maintenance of such person;

- B. To reimburse any person for any such support theretofore supplied to the person entitled to receive any such payment;
- C. To pay such amount to any person selected by the Plan Administrator to disburse it for such comfort, support and maintenance, including without limitation, any relative who has undertaken, wholly or partially, the expense of such person's comfort, care and maintenance, or any institution in whose care or custody the person entitled to the amount may be. The Plan Administrator may, in its discretion, deposit any amount due to a minor to his credit in any savings or commercial bank of the Plan Administrator's choice, direct that such distribution be paid to the legal guardian, or if none, to a parent of such person or a responsible adult with whom the minor maintains his residence, or to the custodian for such Beneficiary under the Uniform Gift to Minors Act or gift to Minors Act, if such is permitted by the laws of the state in which such minor Beneficiary resides.

Payment pursuant to this Section shall fully discharge the Company, Committee, Trustee, Employer and the Plan from further liability on account thereof.

Section 4.13 No Distribution Prior to Severance From Employment, Death or Disability. Except as provided below, Pre-tax Contributions, Roth Contributions and Catch-up Contributions, and income allocable to each, are not distributable to a Participant or his Beneficiary or Beneficiaries, in accordance with such Participant's or Beneficiary's election, earlier than upon Severance from Employment, death or Disability.

Such amounts may also be distributed upon:

- A. Termination of the Plan without the establishment of another defined contribution plan, as defined in the Code and applicable Treasury Regulations.
- B. The hardship of the Participant, as described in Section 5.05 herein.
- C. The attainment by the Participant of age 59^{1/2}, as described in Section 5.04 herein.

All distributions that may be made pursuant to one or more of the foregoing distributable events are subject to the spousal and Participant consent requirements (if applicable) contained in Sections 401(a)(11) and 417 of the Code.

Section 4.14 Written Instruction Not Required. Any elections made or distributions processed under this Article IV may be accomplished through telephonic or similar instructions in accordance with the rules and procedures established by the Plan Administrator, to the extent they are consistent with the requirements of the Code and ERISA. Notwithstanding the foregoing, however, spousal consents and waivers, to the extent required, may only be granted in writing.

ARTICLE V

WITHDRAWALS; DIRECT ROLLOVERS AND WITHHOLDING; LOANS

Section 5.01 General Rules. This Article provides the rules that apply to a Participant's request for a withdrawal from the Plan while the Participant is employed by an Employer.

- A. A Participant's Account Balance, for purposes of in-service withdrawals shall be determined as of the Valuation Date coinciding with or immediately succeeding the date the request for withdrawal specified in such Sections is delivered to the Plan Administrator.
- B. Any withdrawal under Section 5.02, 5.03, 5.04 or 5.05 shall be paid to the Participant as soon as is reasonably practicable.
- C. All rules governing withdrawal privileges under this Article shall be administered by the Plan Administrator or its delegate in a uniform manner, and are subject to the claims procedure described in Section 9.07.
- D. Any election to begin, change or cease withdrawals shall be made in accordance with procedures established by the Plan Administrator or in such other manner as permitted by the Plan Administrator. Payment of amounts so requested shall be made within an administratively reasonable period of time after the withdrawal has been requested. The Plan Administrator may establish other rules of uniform applicability regarding the timing of and procedures for such withdrawals.
- E. Any withdrawals under this Article V may be made in cash or, with respect to the portion of a Participant's Account invested in the Company Stock Fund or any other stock fund maintained under the Plan, in kind at the Participant's election.

Section 5.02 Withdrawals of After-tax and Rollover Contributions. A Participant may elect to withdraw from either his After-tax Contribution Account or his Rollover Contribution Account at any time.

Section 5.03 Withdrawals of Matching Contributions and Profit Sharing Contributions. Upon application, a Participant who has completed 60 months as a Participant may elect to receive a distribution of all or any portion of his Matching Contribution Account and/or Profit Sharing Account, including if applicable the Next Gen Employer Contribution Account.

Section 5.04 Withdrawals at Age 59½. Upon application, a Participant may, upon written request to the Plan Administrator, make withdrawals of any amount up to his entire Account Balance on or after he has attained age 59½.

Section 5.05 Hardship Withdrawals. Subject to any additional legal restrictions on in-service withdrawal rights (such as those outlined in Section 4.13), upon the application, a Participant may withdraw all or a portion of his Pre-tax Contributions Account, Roth Contributions Account, and Catch-up Contributions Account if the withdrawal is necessary due to the immediate and heavy financial need of the Participant.

- A. Only distributions made pursuant to conditions arising under the following circumstances shall be conclusively considered to be made on account of immediate and heavy financial need:
 - (i) Alleviating extraordinary financial hardship arising from deductible medical expenses (within the meaning of Code Section 213(d)) previously incurred by the Participant or his Spouse, children, other dependents, or Beneficiary, or necessary for such persons to obtain such care;

- (ii) Purchasing real property (excluding mortgage payments) that is to serve as the principal residence of the Participant;
- (iii) Expenditures necessary to prevent eviction from the Participant's principal residence or foreclosure of a mortgage on the same;
- (iv) Financing the tuition and related educational fees for the next 12 months of post-secondary education for the Participant, his Spouse, his children, other dependents or Beneficiary.
- (v) Payments for funeral or burial expenses for the employee's deceased parent, Spouse, child, dependent or Beneficiary;
- (vi) Expenses to repair damage to the employee's principal residence that would qualify for a casualty loss deduction under Code Section 165 (determined without regard to whether the loss exceeds 10% of adjusted gross income); or
- (vii) For periods commencing on or after January 1, 2022, expenses and losses (including loss of income) incurred by the Participant on account of a disaster declared by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) under the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act, provided that the employee's principal residence or principal place of employment at the time of the disaster is located in an area designated by FEMA for individual assistance with respect to the disaster.

B. A distribution will be considered to be necessary to satisfy an immediate and heavy financial need of the Participant only if:

- (i) The Participant has obtained all distributions other than hardship distributions currently available to the Participant under all plans maintained by the Employer;
- (ii) The Participant has elected to receive any and all dividends attributable to the Participant's Account invested in the Company Stock Fund under Section 8.08.
- (iii) All plans maintained by the Employer provide that the Participant's Pre-tax Contributions, Roth Contributions, Catch-up Contributions, or other Participant contributions will be suspended for 6 months after the receipt of the hardship distribution (which this Plan hereby so provides); and
- (iv) The distribution is not in excess of the amount necessary to satisfy the immediate and heavy financial need, including any amounts necessary to pay any federal, state, or local income taxes or penalties reasonably anticipated to result from the distribution.

- C. A Participant making an application under this Section 5.05 shall represent that he or she has insufficient cash or liquid assets reasonably available to satisfy the financial need, and the Plan Administrator shall not permit withdrawal under this Section without first receiving such a representation. If a Participant's application for a hardship withdrawal is approved, the Plan Administrator shall then instruct the Trustee to make payment of the approved amount of the hardship withdrawal to the Participant.
- D. Notwithstanding the foregoing, in the event a Section 16(b) Officer requests a hardship distribution pursuant to this Section, any such distribution amount shall not be available in whole or in part from the portion of the Participant's Account that is invested in the Company Stock Fund if restricted from transacting in Company stock by law or by the provisions of the Company's Securities Trading Policy. For purposes of this Section, "Section 16(b)" Officer shall mean an officer of the Company who is subject to the short-swing profit recapture rules of section 16(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended.
- E. Qualifying Coronavirus-Related Distributions.
 - (i) In General. A Qualifying Participant may request and receive a Qualifying Coronavirus-Related Distribution from the Plan pursuant to this Section 5.05.E.
 - a. A Qualifying Coronavirus-Related Distribution is a distribution made on or after January 1, 2020, and before December 31, 2020, to a Qualifying Participant. A Qualifying Coronavirus-Related Distribution may be withdrawn from any vested Account held on behalf of such Participant. The aggregate of all Qualifying Coronavirus-Related Distributions made to a Participant, considering all qualified retirement plans maintained by the Employer and its controlled group affiliates, shall not exceed the lesser of $100,000 or the Participant's vested Account Balance.
 - b. A Qualifying Participant is any one of the following: (i) a Participant who is diagnosed with the virus SARS-CoV-2 or with coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) (collectively, "Coronavirus") by a test approved by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention; (ii) a Participant whose spouse or dependent (as defined in Code Section 152) is diagnosed with Coronavirus; or (iii) a Participant who experiences adverse financial consequences as a result of any of the following: being quarantined, furloughed, laid off or having work hours reduced due to the Coronavirus; being unable to work due to lack of child care due to the Coronavirus; the closing or reduction in hours of a business owned or operated by the Participant due to the Coronavirus; or other factors as may be determined by the Secretary of the Treasury.

- (ii) Repayment Permitted. A Participant who receives a Qualifying Coronavirus-Related Distribution may, at any time during the three-year period beginning on the date immediately following the date on which the Qualifying Coronavirus-Related Distribution is received, make one or more contributions to the Plan in an aggregate amount that does not exceed the amount of such Distribution. Such contributions shall not be treated as Annual Additions under the Plan.
- (iii) Certification. In determining whether a Participant is entitled to a Qualifying Coronavirus-Related Distribution, the Administrator may rely on the Participant's certification that he or she satisfies the conditions described in paragraph (i)(b) of this Section 5.05.E.

Section 5.06 Withdrawals During Military Service.

- A. Effective January 1, 2009, certain individuals performing military service shall have an additional in-service withdrawal right. Specifically, notwithstanding the definition of Compensation in Article I (stating in part that any Participant receiving differential wage payments shall be treated as an Employee) or any other provision herein to the contrary, for purposes of Code §401(k)(2)(B)(i)(I), and in accordance with Code §414(u)(12)(B), an individual shall be treated as having been severed from employment during any period the individual is performing service in the uniformed services (as defined in Chapter 43 of Title 38 of the United States Code) while on active duty for a period of more than 30 days. Accordingly, in accordance with Section 4.13, such Participant shall be eligible to take a distribution due to this considered Severance from Employment. However, the Plan will not distribute the benefit of such an individual without that individual's consent, so long as the individual is receiving differential wage payments.
- B. Suspension of deferrals. If an individual elects to receive a distribution pursuant to this Section, the individual may not make an elective deferral or employee contribution during the 6-month period beginning on the date of the distribution.

Section 5.07 Direct Rollover and Withholding Rules.

- A. Notwithstanding any provision of the Plan to the contrary that would otherwise limit a Distributee's election under this Section, a Distributee may elect, at the time and in the manner prescribed by the Plan Administrator, to have any portion of an Eligible Rollover Distribution paid directly to an Eligible Retirement Plan specified by the Distributee in a Direct Rollover. The Plan Administrator may establish rules and procedures governing the processing of Direct Rollovers and limiting the amount or number of such Direct Rollovers in accordance with applicable Treasury Regulations. Distributions not transferred to an Eligible Retirement Plan in a Direct Rollover shall be subject to income tax withholding as provided under the Code and applicable state and local laws, if any.

B. Definitions.

- (i) “Eligible Rollover Distribution.” An Eligible Rollover Distribution is any distribution of all or any portion of the balance to the credit of the Distributee, except that an Eligible Rollover Distribution does not include: (a) any distribution that is one of a series of substantially equal periodic payments (not less frequently than annually) made for life (or life expectancy) of the Distributee or the joint lives (or joint life expectancies) of the Distributee and the Distributee’s designated beneficiary, or for a specified period of ten years or more; (b) any distribution to the extent such distribution is required under Code Section 401(a)(9); and (c) any hardship distribution. An Eligible Rollover Distribution shall also include any After-tax Contributions or Roth Contributions if such rollover distribution is made by means of a direct rollover to a qualified plan or to a 403(b) plan that agrees to account separately for amounts so transferred, including accounting separately for the portion of such distribution which is includible in gross income and the portion of such distribution which is not includible in gross income.
- (ii) “Eligible Retirement Plan.” An Eligible Retirement Plan is an individual retirement account described in Code Section 408(a) or Code Section 408A(b), an individual retirement annuity described in Code Section 408(b), an annuity plan described in Code Section 403(a), a qualified trust described in Code Section 401(a), a tax sheltered annuity plan described in Code Section 403(b) or an eligible deferred compensation plan described in Code Section 457(b) that is maintained by an eligible employer described in Code Section 457(e)(1)(A) which agrees to separately account for amounts transferred into such plan, that accepts the distributor’s Eligible Rollover Distribution. The definition of “Eligible Retirement Plan” shall also apply in the case of a distribution to the employee’s or former employee’s surviving Spouse or the employee’s or former employee’s Spouse or former Spouse who is the alternate payee under a qualified domestic relations order, as defined in Code Section 414(p). The definition of “Eligible Retirement Plan” also shall apply in the case of a distribution to an individual retirement account described in Code Section 408(a) or individual retirement annuity described in Code Section 408(b) established for the purpose of receiving such distribution on behalf of a non-spouse beneficiary of the Employee.
- (iii) “Distributee.” A Distributee includes an Employee or former Employee. In addition, the Employee’s or former Employee’s surviving Spouse and the Employee’s or former Employee’s Spouse or former Spouse who is the alternate payee under a qualified domestic relations order, as defined in Code Section 414(p), are Distributees with regard to the interest of the Spouse or former Spouse. The Employee's non-spouse beneficiary also is a Distributee, but only for distributions to individual retirement accounts described in Code Section 408(a) or individual retirement annuities described in Code Section 408(b), as described in paragraph (ii) above.

- (iv) “Direct Rollover.” A Direct Rollover is a payment by the Plan to the Eligible Retirement Plan specified by the Distributee.

C. Special Rules Pertaining to Non-spouse Beneficiary Rollover Right. A non-spouse beneficiary who is a “designated beneficiary” under Code Section 401(a)(9)(E) and the regulations thereunder, by a direct trustee-to-trustee transfer (“direct rollover”), may roll over all or any portion of his/her distribution to an individual retirement account the beneficiary establishes for purposes of receiving the distribution. In order to be able to roll over the distribution, the distribution otherwise must satisfy the definition of an Eligible Rollover Distribution.

- (i) Indirect Rollover Not Permitted. If a non-spouse beneficiary receives a distribution from the Plan, the distribution is not eligible for a “60-day” rollover.
- (ii) Trust Beneficiary. If the Participant's named beneficiary is a trust, the Plan may make a direct rollover to an individual retirement account on behalf of the trust, provided the trust satisfies the requirements to be a designated beneficiary within the meaning of Code Section 401(a)(9)(E).
- (iii) Required Minimum Distributions Not Eligible for Rollover. A non-spouse beneficiary may not roll over an amount which is a required minimum distribution, as determined under applicable Treasury regulations and other Revenue Service guidance. If the Participant dies before his/her required beginning date and the non-spouse beneficiary rolls over to an IRA the maximum amount eligible for rollover, the beneficiary may elect to use either the 5-year rule or the life expectancy rule, pursuant to Treas. Reg. Section 1.401(a)(9)-3, A-4(c), in determining the required minimum distributions from the IRA that receives the non-spouse beneficiary's distribution

D. Special Rules Pertaining to Rollovers of Roth Contributions. Notwithstanding Section 5.07A above, a Direct Rollover of an Eligible Rollover Distribution from a Participant's Roth Contribution Account shall only be made to another Eligible Retirement Plan if such plan maintains a Roth elective deferral account thereunder and such plan is an “applicable retirement plan” as described in Code Section 402(A)(e)(1) or a Roth IRA described in Code Section 408A.

The Plan will accept a Rollover Contribution to the Roth Contribution Account on behalf of a Participant only if such Rollover Contribution is a Direct Rollover from another Roth elective deferral account under an applicable retirement plan described in Section Code 402A(e)(1). Where such Direct Rollover of Roth elective deferrals from an applicable retirement plan is made, the period for determining whether distributions of such amounts are qualified distributions (as defined in Code Section 402A(d)(2)) shall be determined according to the rules under Code Section 402A(d)(2)(B).

Section 5.08 Loans to Participants. Loans may be granted to any Participant under the Plan in accordance with applicable rules under the Code and ERISA and the provisions of this Section.

- A. General Rules. The Plan Administrator shall establish the procedures a Participant must follow to request a loan from his Account Balance under the Plan. Loans shall be made available to all Participants on a reasonably equivalent basis; provided, however, that loans will not be made available to a Former Participant, other than a Former Participant who is a Party-In-Interest as defined in Section 3(14) of ERISA whose Account has not been distributed.

In no event will the total of any outstanding loan balances made to any Participant, including any interest accrued thereon, when aggregated with corresponding loan balances of the Participant under any other plans of the Employer or any Related Employer, exceed the lesser of (i) or (ii), below:

- (i) $50,000, reduced by the excess (if any) of the highest outstanding balance of such loans during the one-year period ending on the day before the date any such loan is made over the outstanding balance of such loans on the date any such loan is made; or
- (ii) One-half of the value of the Participant's Account. For purposes of this Section, the value of a Participant's Account shall be determined as of the Valuation Date coinciding with or next preceding the date on which a properly completed loan request is received by the Plan Administrator (or its delegate) or the Trustee, as applicable.

The minimum amount of any loan shall be $1,000.

- B. Term of Loan. The term of any loan shall be determined by mutual agreement between the Plan Administrator and the Participant. Every Participant who is granted a loan shall receive a statement of the charges and interest rates involved in each loan transaction and periodic statements reflecting the current loan balance and all transactions with respect to that loan to date. Except for loans used to acquire any dwelling unit that within a reasonable time (determined at the time the loan is made) is to be used as the principal residence of the Participant, the term of any loan shall not exceed five years. The term of any loan that within a reasonable time (determined at the time the loan is made) is to be used as the principal residence of the Participant shall not exceed 15 years. All loans shall be amortized in level payments made not less frequently than quarterly over the term of the loan, or in accordance with other procedures established by the Plan Administrator.

- C. Security. Each loan shall be secured by no more than one-half of the vested portion the Participant's nonforfeitable Account Balance (determined as of the Valuation Date coinciding with or next preceding the date on which the loan is made).
- D. Interest. Each Participant loan shall be considered an investment of the Trust, and interest shall be charged thereon at a reasonable rate established by, or in accordance with procedures approved by, the Plan Administrator commensurate with the interest rates then being charged by persons in the business of lending money under similar circumstances. Notwithstanding the foregoing sentence, the Plan Administrator will reduce the interest rate of an outstanding Participant loan to 6% during a period of qualified military leave, as defined in Code Section 414(u)(5), to the extent required by the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940. Participant loans under this Section will be considered the directed investment of the Participant requesting such loan, and interest paid on such loan will be allocated to the Account of the Participant-borrower.
- E. Party-In-Interest. The provisions of this Section shall apply to any Participant who is a Party-In-Interest (as defined in Section 3(14) of ERISA) and who retains an Account Balance in the Plan following termination of employment. Payments of principal and interest on a loan to any such Participant shall be made through direct debit from his bank account in accordance with the electronic loan payment procedures established by the Plan Administrator.

Such Participant's Account Balance, except for the portion secured by the loan (or loans), may at any time be distributed pursuant to the applicable terms of the Plan. Notwithstanding the preceding sentence, a loan to a Participant to whom this subsection E applies shall become payable in full on the date such Participant receives a final distribution of his Account Balance.

- F. Repayment Terms.
 - (i) Generally. The terms and conditions of each loan shall be determined by mutual agreement between the Plan Administrator and the Participant. The Plan Administrator shall take all necessary actions to ensure that each loan is repaid on schedule by its maturity date, including requiring repayment of the loan by payroll deduction. In the event a Participant (or his Beneficiary or Spouse) elects to receive a distribution from the Trust Fund at a time when there is an unpaid balance of a loan against such Participant's Account, the Trustee shall deduct the unpaid balance of the principal of such loan or any portion thereof, and any interest accrued to the date of such deduction, from any payment or distribution from the Trust Fund to which such Participant or his Beneficiary or Spouse may be entitled. If the amount of such payment or distribution is not sufficient to repay the outstanding balance of such loan and any interest accrued thereon, the Participant (or his estate, if applicable) shall be liable for and continue to make payments on any balance still due from him.

- (ii) Bank Debit. The provisions of this subsection F(ii) shall apply to any Participant who (a) terminates employment with all Employers on or after July 1, 2005, and (b) has an outstanding loan (or loans) as of his termination date. Payments of principal and interest on any such Participant's loan (or loans) may be made through direct debit from his bank account, in accordance with the electronic loan payment procedures established by the Plan Administrator. If any such Participant does not authorize payments through direct debit from his bank account, his outstanding loan shall be considered in default.

Except as set forth in subsection E, no Participant described in this subsection F(ii) shall be entitled to receive any new loan pursuant to this Section 5.08 from and after the date of his termination of employment. The balance of his Account, except for the portion secured by the loan (or loans), may be distributed pursuant to the applicable terms of the Plan. A loan to a Participant to whom this subsection F(ii) applies shall become payable in full on the date such Participant receives a final distribution of his Account Balance.

- (iii) Suspension of Loan Payments during Disability. Loan payments shall be suspended during a period of Disability of up to one year if the period of leave is unpaid or paid at a rate that does not accommodate a Participant's scheduled loan repayments. Following the Participant's return to employment after Disability or, if earlier, the expiration of the one-year period noted in the previous sentence, loan payments shall resume at an amount not less than that required by the terms of the original loan, and at a frequency such that the loan will be repaid in full during a period that is no longer than the "latest permissible term of the loan" (defined as the latest date permitted under Code Section 72(p)(2)(B)). The latest permissible term of the loan determined under Code Section 72(p)(2)(B) shall not be extended due to the period of the Disability.
- (iv) Suspension of Loan Payments during Qualified Military Leave. Loan payments shall be suspended during a period of "qualified military service," as defined in Code Section 414(u)(5). The duration of such period of service shall not be taken into account in determining the maximum permissible term of the loan under Code Section 72(p) and the regulations promulgated thereunder. Following the Participant's timely reemployment after a period of qualified military service, loan payments shall resume at an amount no less than required by the terms of the original loan, and at a frequency such that the loan will be repaid in full during a period that is no longer than the "latest permissible term of the loan" (defined as latest date permitted under Code Section 72(p)(2)(B) plus the period of suspension due to such military service).

- G. Restrictions on Loans. No Participant shall have more than two loans under this Section 5.08 outstanding at the same time. All loans will be paid by payroll deduction and a loan will be approved only if the Participant has sufficient income to support the required payroll withholdings.

- H. Nondiscrimination. Loans will not be made available to Highly Compensated Employees in an amount greater than the amount made available to other Employees.
- I. Default. Failure to make a payment within 90 days of the date payment is due will generally constitute a default, unless loan procedures and applicable law do not so require. Upon default (or, to the extent prohibited by law or by the terms of the Plan until a distributable event occurs, upon such event) the Plan Administrator will deduct the total unpaid amount of the loan and any unpaid interest due on the loan from the Participant's Account. The Plan Administrator may establish additional rules and procedures for handling loan defaults, including, but not limited to, restrictions on future borrowing.
- J. Procedure. The Plan Administrator will establish nondiscriminatory policies and procedures to administer Participant loans
- K. Special Rules Related to Coronavirus. Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of this Section 5.08 and the Plan's Loan Policy, the following special rules apply to loans made to Qualifying Participants in accordance with the following.
 - (i) Time When Made. Loans under this Section 5.08.K. may be made at any time during the period beginning on March 27, 2020, and ending on September 22, 2020.
 - (ii) Qualifying Participants. Loans under this Section 5.08.K. are available to Qualifying Participants. A Qualifying Participant is any one of the following: (i) a Participant who is diagnosed with the virus SARS-CoV-2 or with coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) (collectively, "Coronavirus") by a test approved by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention; (ii) a Participant whose Spouse or dependent (as defined in Code Section 152) is diagnosed with Coronavirus; (iii) a Participant who experiences adverse financial consequences as a result of any of the following: being quarantined, furloughed, laid off or having work hours reduced due to the Coronavirus; being unable to work due to lack of child care due to the Coronavirus; the closing or reduction in hours of a business owned or operated by the Participant due to the Coronavirus; or (iv) other factors as may be determined by the Secretary of the Treasury.
 - (iii) Maximum Loan Amount. The maximum loan amount permitted under this Section 5.08.K. for a loan made within the time period indicated in paragraph (i) hereof shall be equal to the lesser of $100,000 or 100% of the Participant's vested Account Balance, reduced by the highest outstanding loan balance of the Participant at any time during the one-year period ending on the day before the new loan is made. For this purpose, the Participant's outstanding loan balance shall include any deemed distribution, along with accrued interest, that has not been repaid or offset against the Participant's Account Balance.

- (iv) Delay of Certain Repayments. In the case of a Qualifying Participant who has an outstanding loan as to which one or more repayment dates occur during the period beginning on March 27, 2020 and ending on December 31, 2020, such repayment dates may be delayed through December 31, 2020. Any subsequent repayment dates shall be adjusted accordingly to reflect the delay in the repayment date under the immediately preceding sentence. Any period of delay in repayments made pursuant to this paragraph shall be disregarded in determining whether the loan satisfies the loan term requirement and level amortization requirement of Code Section 72(p)(2)(B) and (C).
 - (v) Loans Outstanding. Notwithstanding the provision of Section 5.08.G. hereof, limiting the number of outstanding loans to two, a Qualifying Participant may request a loan pursuant to this Section 5.08.K. even if such loan would result in the Participant having three outstanding loans at the same time.
- L. Notwithstanding the foregoing, in the event a Section 16(b) Officer requests a loan pursuant to this Section, any such loan amount shall not be available in whole or in part from the portion of the Participant's Account that is invested in the Company Stock Fund if such Participant is restricted from transacting in Company stock by law or by the provisions of the Company's Securities Trading Policy. For purposes of this Section, "Section 16(b)" Officer shall mean an officer of the Company who is subject to the short-swing profit recapture rules of section 16(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended.
- M. Special Rules Related to Coronavirus. Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of this Section 5.08 and the Plan's Loan Policy, the following special rules apply to loans made to Qualifying Participants in accordance with the following.
- (i) Time When Made. Loans under this Section 5.08.K. may be made at any time during the period beginning on March 27, 2020, and ending on September 22, 2020.
 - (ii) Qualifying Participants. Loans under this Section 5.08.K. are available to Qualifying Participants. A Qualifying Participant is any one of the following: (i) a Participant who is diagnosed with the virus SARS-CoV-2 or with coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) (collectively, "Coronavirus") by a test approved by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention; (ii) a Participant whose Spouse or dependent (as defined in Code Section 152) is diagnosed with Coronavirus; (iii) a Participant who experiences adverse financial consequences as a result of any of the following: being quarantined, furloughed, laid off or having work hours reduced due to the Coronavirus; being unable to work due to lack of child care due to the Coronavirus; the closing or reduction in hours of a business owned or operated by the Participant due to the Coronavirus; or (iv) other factors as may be determined by the Secretary of the Treasury.

Section 5.09 Special Withdrawal Rules Applicable to Transfer Accounts. Notwithstanding any other Plan provision to the contrary, if the Internal Revenue Service requires distribution to be made (or offered) with respect to any or all amounts held on behalf of a Participant with respect to a predecessor or transferor plan, as a condition of preserving the tax-qualified status of this Plan or of said predecessor or transferor plan, or if a court of competent jurisdiction issues an order or decree in respect of the Plan or its fiduciaries which is determined under relevant federal law to be enforceable, and which compels the distribution of a Participant's Plan interest, the Plan Administrator will be entitled to direct the prompt distribution (or offer of distribution) of such amounts.

ARTICLE VI

TESTING OF PRE-TAX, ROTH, AFTER-TAX AND MATCHING CONTRIBUTIONS

Section 6.01 Definitions. For purposes of this Article, the following definitions shall apply:

- A. “Actual Deferral Percentage” means the average of the actual deferral ratios (calculated separately for each Eligible Employee) of the amount of Pre-tax Contributions and Roth Contributions actually made by the Eligible Employee for such Plan Year to the Eligible Employee's Compensation for the period of time during such Plan Year that he participated in the Plan, rounded to the nearest one-hundredth of one percent.
- B. “Actual Contribution Percentage” means the average of the actual contribution ratios (calculated separately for each Eligible Employee) of the amount of Matching Contributions actually made by an Employer for the Eligible Employee for such Plan Year, plus the amount of After-tax Contributions made by the Eligible Employee during such Plan Year, to such Employee's Compensation for the period of time during such Plan Year in which he participated in the Plan, rounded to the nearest one-hundredth of one percent.
- C. “Eligible Employee” means any Participant in the Plan and any Employee who would be eligible to make Pre-tax Contributions, Roth Contributions or After-tax Contributions to the Plan for a Plan Year but for a suspension due to a distribution or a failure to elect to participate in the Plan.
- D. “Excess Contributions” means, with respect to any Plan Year, the excess of the aggregate amount of the Pre-tax Contributions and Roth Contributions actually made on behalf of Highly Compensated Employees for such Plan Year over the maximum amount of such contributions permitted under the limitations of Code Section 401(k)(3)(A)(ii).

- E. “Excess Aggregate Contributions” means, with respect to any Plan Year, the excess of the aggregate amount of the After-tax Contributions and Matching Contributions actually made on behalf of Highly Compensated Employees for such Plan Year over the maximum amount of such contributions permitted under the limitations of Code Section 401(m)(2)(A).
- F. “Highly Compensated Eligible Employee” means an Eligible Employee who is a Highly Compensated Employee.

Section 6.02 Pre-tax and Roth Contributions: 401(k) Tests.

- A. Actual Deferral Percentage Test. The total amount of Pre-tax Contributions and Roth Contributions shall comply with either (i) or (ii) below for each Plan Year:
 - (i) The Actual Deferral Percentage for the Highly Compensated Eligible Employees shall not exceed the Actual Deferral Percentage for all other Eligible Employees multiplied by 1.25; or
 - (ii) The Actual Deferral Percentage for Highly Compensated Eligible Employees shall not exceed the Actual Deferral Percentage of all other Eligible Employees multiplied by 2.0, provided that the Actual Deferral Percentage for the Highly Compensated Eligible Employees does not exceed that of all other Eligible Employees by more than two percentage points.
- B. The Actual Deferral Percentage for the Plan Year for any Highly Compensated Eligible Employee who is eligible to make Pre-tax Contributions or Roth Contributions under two or more plans that are qualified under Code Section 401(a) or 401(k) and that are maintained by an Employer or a Related Employer must be determined as if all such deferrals were made under a single plan. Plans may be aggregated only if they have the same Plan Year.
- C. In determining whether the requirements of Section 6.02A of the Plan are met, the Plan Administrator may aggregate plans on any basis as permitted under Code Section 401(a)(4) and Treasury Regulations thereunder.
- D. Pre-tax Contributions and Roth Contributions shall be taken into account for purposes of determining the Actual Deferral Percentage of any Eligible Employee for a Plan Year only if such Pre-tax Contributions and Roth Contributions relate to Compensation that either (1) would have been received by the Eligible Employee in such Plan Year (but for the election to make such Pre-tax Contributions or Roth Contributions), or (2) is attributable to services performed by the Eligible Employee in such Plan Year and would have been received by the Eligible Employee within 2^{1/2} months after the end of such Plan Year (but for the election to make such Pre-tax Contributions or Roth Contributions).
- E. Pre-tax Contributions and Roth Contributions shall be taken into account for purposes of determining the Actual Deferral Percentage of an Eligible Employee for a Plan Year only if such Pre-tax Contributions and Roth Contributions are allocated to the Pre-tax Contributions Account and Roth Contribution Account, as applicable, of the Eligible Employee as of a date that occurs within such Plan Year. For this purpose, Pre-tax Contributions and Roth Contributions are considered allocated as of a date within a Plan Year if the allocation is not contingent upon participation or performance of services after such date and the Pre-tax Contributions and Roth Contributions are actually paid to the Trustee no later than 12 months after the end of the Plan Year to which the Pre-tax Contributions and Roth Contributions relate.

- F. The determination and treatment of the Actual Deferral Percentage of any Participant shall satisfy such other requirements as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury. In performing the required testing hereunder, any variations in procedures or methods permitted under the Code and applicable Treasury Regulations may be employed Section 6.03 Correction of Excess Contributions.

- A. If the amount of Pre-tax Contributions and Roth Contributions made for Highly Compensated Eligible Employees in a Plan Year would not comply with either clause (i) or (ii) in Section 6.02A above, then the Plan Administrator in its discretion may choose either (i), (ii) or (iii) below, or any combination, in order to comply with such tests:
- (i) In determining the Actual Deferral Percentage of Eligible Employees, the Plan Administrator may treat Matching Contributions, other than Matching Contributions used to meet the test in Section 6.04A, as Pre-tax Contributions; or
 - (ii) The Excess Contributions can, with the consent of the applicable Highly Compensated Eligible Employees, be recharacterized as After-tax Contributions solely for the purposes of Sections 6.02 and 6.04 of the Plan, within 2^{1/2} months after the related Plan Year, but only to the extent that it shall not cause the limitations in Section 6.04A to be exceeded, or
 - (iii) The Excess Contributions for such Plan Year (including the income, gains and losses attributable to such contributions as provided in B below) shall be distributed by the last day of the following twelve-month period to Highly Compensated Eligible Employees. Excess Contributions attributable to each Highly Compensated Eligible Employee shall be determined according to the following leveling method:
 - a. The Actual Deferral Percentage of the Highly Compensated Eligible Employee with the highest Actual Deferral Percentage for the Plan Year shall be reduced to the extent necessary to cause such Highly Compensated Eligible Employee's Actual Deferral Percentage to equal the Actual Deferral Percentage of the Highly Compensated Eligible Employee with the next highest Actual Deferral Percentage. This process shall be repeated until the Plan satisfies one of the tests set forth in Section 6.02 for such Plan Year.

- b. The dollar amount of each prospective reduction made pursuant to (1) next above shall be determined for each Highly Compensated Eligible Employee and all such dollar amounts for such Plan Year shall be aggregated.
- c. The total Pre-tax Contributions and, to the extent necessary, Roth Contributions of the Highly Compensated Eligible Employee with the highest dollar amount of total Pre-tax Contributions and Roth Contributions for the Plan Year shall be reduced by the amount necessary to cause the amount of such Highly Compensated Eligible Employee's total Pre-tax Contributions and Roth Contributions to equal the total amount of Pre-tax Contributions and Roth Contributions of the Highly Compensated Eligible Employee with the next highest total dollar amount of Pre-tax Contributions and Roth Contributions for such Plan Year. This process shall be repeated until the total amount of Pre-tax Contributions and, to the extent necessary, Roth Contributions so reduced equals the aggregate dollar amount determined in (2) next above. For purposes of this leveling method, any necessary reductions for Highly Compensated Employees shall be first taken from Pre-tax Contributions to the extent necessary to complete the reductions under this subparagraph (3). Should such Pre-tax Contributions for a Plan Year for any affected Highly Compensated Employee be exhausted by this method, any remaining reduction required under this subparagraph (3) shall then be taken from Roth Contributions, if available, for the affected Highly Compensated Employees.

Following completion of this process, the amount of Excess Contributions for each Highly Compensated Eligible Employee shall be equal to the total of his Pre-tax Contributions and Roth Contributions reduced pursuant to the aforementioned leveling method.

In the event of the complete termination of the Plan during the Plan Year in which Excess Contributions arose, such distributions are to be made after termination of the Plan and before the close of the 12-month period that immediately follows such termination. Any distribution of Excess Contributions may be made without regard to any notice or consent requirements of the Plan.

- B. The income, gains and losses allocable to Excess Contributions shall be the income, gains and losses attributable to such Excess Contributions for the Plan Year in which they occurred, determined pursuant to Code Section 401(k)(8).

- C. For purposes of this Section, a distribution occurring on or before the fifteenth day of the month shall be treated as having been made as of the last day of the preceding month and a distribution occurring after such fifteenth day shall be treated as having been made on the first day of the following month.
- D. The amount of Excess Contributions to be distributed to, or recharacterized with respect to, a Highly Compensated Eligible Employee for a Plan Year shall be reduced by any Excess Contributions previously distributed to the Highly Compensated Eligible Employee for the taxable year of the Highly Compensated Eligible Employee ending with or within the same Plan Year, and Excess Contributions to be distributed to a Highly Compensated Eligible Employee for a taxable year of the Highly Compensated Eligible Employee shall be reduced by Excess Contributions previously distributed, or recharacterized with respect to, such Highly Compensated Eligible Employee for the Plan Year beginning in such taxable year.
- E. An amount of Matching Contributions attributable to the Pre-tax Contributions and, to the extent necessary, Roth Contributions distributed to a Highly Compensated Eligible Employee as an Excess Contribution pursuant to clause (iii) of Section 6.03A shall also be distributed to the applicable Highly Compensated Eligible Employee by the last day of the 12-month period following the end of the Plan Year in which such Excess Contributions occurred.
- F. Excess Contributions that are recharacterized pursuant to clause (ii) Section 6.03A shall be nonforfeitable and fully vested and shall be subject to the distribution limitations set forth in Section 4.13 that are applicable to Pre-tax Contributions and Roth Contributions.
- G. For purposes of this Section, the Actual Deferral Percentage for Highly Compensated Eligible Employees and for Eligible Employees who are not Highly Compensated Eligible Employees shall be determined for the current Plan Year.

Section 6.04 After-tax and Matching Contributions: 401(m) Tests.

- A. Actual Contribution Percentage Test. The total amount of Matching Contributions as described in Section 3.04, except for any Matching Contributions used to satisfy the test in Section 6.02A, plus the total amount of After-tax Contributions as described under Section 3.02C, including any amount recharacterized as an After-tax Contribution under Section 6.03A(ii) above shall comply with either (i) or (ii) below for each Plan Year:
 - (i) The Actual Contribution Percentage for the Highly Compensated Eligible Employees shall not exceed the Actual Contribution Percentage for all other Eligible Employees multiplied by 1.25; or
 - (ii) The Actual Contribution Percentage for Highly Compensated Eligible Employees shall not exceed the Actual Contribution Percentage of all other Eligible Employees multiplied by 2.0, provided that the Actual Contribution Percentage for the Highly Compensated Eligible Employees does not exceed that of all other Eligible Employees by more than two percentage points.

- B. The Actual Contribution Percentage for the Plan Year for any Highly Compensated Eligible Employee who is eligible to receive Matching Contributions or to make After-tax Contributions under two or more plans that are qualified under Code Section 401(a) or 401(k) and that are maintained by an Employer or a Related Employer, must be determined as if all such contributions were made under a single plan. Plans may be aggregated only if they have the same Plan Year.
- C. In determining whether the requirements in Section 6.04A are met, the Plan Administrator may aggregate plans as permitted under Code Section 401(a)(4) and Treasury Regulations thereunder.
- D. The determination and treatment of the Actual Contribution Percentage of any Participant shall satisfy such other requirements as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury. In performing the required testing hereunder, any variations in procedures or methods permitted under the Code and applicable Treasury Regulations may be employed.

Section 6.05 Correction of Excess Aggregate Contributions.

- A. If the amount of Matching Contributions plus After-tax Contributions made for Highly Compensated Eligible Employees in a Plan Year would not comply with either clause (i) or (ii) in Section 6.04A above, then the Plan Administrator in its discretion shall choose either (i) or (ii) below in order to comply with such tests:
 - (i) The Pre-tax Contributions and, to the extent necessary, Roth Contributions of nonhighly compensated Eligible Employees shall be recharacterized as Matching Contributions to the extent necessary to comply with either clause (i) or (ii) in Section 6.04A, provided that the Code Section 401(k) test for Pre-tax Contributions and Roth Contributions (as described in 6.02A(i) or (ii)) shall still be met both before and after such recharacterization; or
 - (ii) The Excess Aggregate Contributions for such Plan Year (including any income, gains or losses attributable to such contributions as provided in paragraph (b) below) shall be distributed by the last day of the following 12-month period to Highly Compensated Eligible Employees. Excess Aggregate Contributions attributable to each Highly Compensated Eligible Employee shall be determined according to the following leveling method:
 - a. The Actual Contribution Percentage of the Highly Compensated Eligible Employee with the highest Actual Contribution Percentage for the Plan Year shall be reduced to the extent necessary to cause such Highly Compensated Eligible Employee's Actual Contribution Percentage to equal the Actual Contribution Percentage of the Highly Compensated Eligible Employee with the next highest Actual Contribution Percentage for such Plan Year. This process shall be repeated until the Plan satisfies one of the tests set forth in Section 6.04 for such Plan Year.

- b. The dollar amount of each reduction made pursuant to (1) next above shall be determined for each Highly Compensated Eligible Employee and all such dollar amounts for such Plan Year shall be aggregated.
- c. The Matching Contributions and After-tax Contributions of the Highly Compensated Eligible Employee with the highest dollar amount of Matching Contributions and After-tax Contributions for the Plan Year shall be reduced to the extent necessary to cause the amount of such Highly Compensated Eligible Employee's Matching Contributions and After-tax Contributions to equal the amount of Matching Contributions and After-tax Contributions of the Highly Compensated Eligible Employee with the next highest dollar amount of Matching Contributions and After-tax Contributions. This process shall be repeated until the total amount of Matching Contributions and After-tax Contributions so reduced equals the aggregate dollar amount in (2) next above.

The amount of Excess Aggregate Contributions for a Plan Year shall be determined only after first determining the Excess Contributions that are recharacterized as After-tax Contributions pursuant to clause (ii) of Section 6.03A. The amount of Excess Aggregate Contributions to be distributed to each Highly Compensated Eligible Employee pursuant to this clause (ii) for a Plan Year shall be distributed on a pro rata basis from the After-tax Contributions made by such Highly Compensated Eligible Employee for such Plan Year and the Matching Contributions allocable to the Matching Contribution Account of the Highly Compensated Eligible Employee for such Plan Year.

In the event of the complete termination of the Plan during the Plan Year in which an Excess Aggregate Contribution arose, such distributions are to be made after termination of the Plan and before the close of the 12-month period that immediately follows such termination. Any distribution of Excess Aggregate Contributions may be made without regard to any notice or consent requirements of the Plan.

- B. The income, gains and losses allocable to Excess Aggregate Contributions shall be such income, gains and losses attributable to such Excess Aggregate Contributions for the Plan Year in which they occurred, determined pursuant to Code Section 401(m)(6).
- C. For purposes of this Section 6.05, a distribution occurring on or before the fifteenth day of the month shall be treated as having been made as of the last day of the preceding month and a distribution occurring after such fifteenth day shall be treated as having been made on the first day of the following month.

- D. For purposes of this Section 6.05, the Actual Contribution Percentage for Highly Compensated Eligible Employees and for Eligible Employees who are not Highly Compensated Eligible Employees shall be determined for the current Plan Year.

Section 6.06 Alternative to Distribution of Excess Amounts. In lieu of distributing Excess Contributions as provided in Section 6.03, or Excess Aggregate Contributions as provided in Section 6.05, and to the extent elected by the Plan Administrator, with respect either to all or some Employers or groups, the Employer may make “Qualified Non-elective Contributions” on behalf of Non-highly Compensated Employees (or all Employees) that are sufficient to satisfy either the Actual Deferral Percentage test or the Actual Contribution Percentage test, or both, pursuant to regulations under the Code, and in accordance with this Section.

For purposes of this Article, “Qualified Non-elective Contributions” shall mean contributions made by the Employer and allocated to Participants’ Accounts that the Participants may not elect to receive in cash until distributed from the Plan; that are vested when made; and that are distributable only in accordance with the distribution provisions that are applicable to Pre-Tax Contributions. Qualified Non-elective Contributions shall be allocated to Participants’ Accounts either (i) in the same proportion that each Participant’s Compensation for the Plan Year for which the Employer makes the contribution bears to the total Compensation of all Participants for the Plan Year (or of all Non-highly Compensated Participants, as applicable) or (ii) in a flat dollar amount, as determined by the Plan Administrator. Qualified Non-elective Contributions may be made only with respect to eligible Participants within one or more Employers or divisions or with respect to all eligible Participants, as determined by the Plan Administrator.

ARTICLE VII

LIMITATIONS ON CONTRIBUTIONS AND BENEFITS

Section 7.01 Dollar Limitations on Pre-tax Contributions.

- A. Code Section 402(g) Limitation. In no event shall the sum of (i) a Participant’s Pre-tax Contributions for any calendar year (ii) a Participant’s Roth Contributions and (iii) any other “elective deferrals” (as defined in Code Section 402(g)(3)) for any calendar year, exceed the dollar limitation set forth in Code Section 402(g) ($23,000 for 2024, and as adjusted thereafter), except to the extent Catch-up Contributions are permitted under Plan Section 3.02B and Code Section 414(v).
- B. Distribution of Excess Deferrals. In the event that the aggregate amount of Pre-tax Contributions and Roth Contributions by a Participant exceeds the maximum dollar limitation as determined under subsection A above, the amount of such excess Pre-tax Contributions and Roth Contributions (the “Excess Elective Deferrals”), increased by any income and decreased by any losses attributable thereto, shall be returned to the Participant no later than April 15th of the calendar year following the calendar year for which the Pre-tax Contributions and Roth Contributions were made.

- C. Determination of Income or Loss. Excess Elective Deferrals shall be adjusted for any income or loss for the calendar year in which such contributions occurred. Adjustment for income or loss during the period between the end of the Plan Year to the date of distribution (the “Gap Period”) shall not be required. The income or loss allocable to Excess Elective Deferrals is equal to the sum of the allocable gain or loss for the Plan Year and, to the extent that such Excess Elective Deferrals would otherwise be credited with gain or loss for the Gap Period if the total Account were to be distributed, the allocable gain or loss during that period.

The Plan Administrator may use any reasonable method for computing the income allocable to Excess Elective Deferrals, provided that the method does not violate Code Section 401(a)(4), is used consistently for all Participants and for all corrective distributions under the Plan for the Plan Year, and is used by the Plan for allocating income to Participants’ Accounts. The Plan will not fail to use a reasonable method for computing the income allocable to Excess Elective Deferrals merely because the income allocable to such contributions is determined on a date that is no more than seven days before the actual distribution. In addition, the Plan Administrator may allocate income in any manner permitted under applicable Treasury Regulations.

Section 7.02 Annual Additions - Definitions. For purposes of Section 7.03, the following definitions and rules of interpretation shall apply:

- A. “Annual Additions.” The sum of the following amounts credited to a Participant’s Account for any Limitation Year:
- (i) Employer contributions;
 - (ii) Employee contributions (not including Catch-up Contributions); and
 - (iii) Forfeitures, if any.

Except to the extent provided in Treasury Regulations, Annual Additions also include any excess contributions described in Code Section 401(k), excess aggregate contributions described in Code Section 401(m), and excess deferrals described in Code Section 402(g), irrespective of whether the Plan distributes or forfeits such excess amounts. Annual Additions also include amounts allocated to an individual medical account (as defined in Code Section 415(1)(2)) included as part of a pension or annuity plan maintained by the Employer. Furthermore, Annual Additions include contributions attributable to post-retirement medical benefits allocated to the separate account of a Key Employee (as defined in Code Section 419(A)(d)(3)) under a welfare benefit fund (Code Section 419(e)) maintained by the Employer.

Annual Additions shall not include the following: (i) Transfer Contributions; (ii) Rollover Contributions; (iii) reinvestment of dividends pursuant to Section 8.08; and (iv) restorative payments allocated to a Participant’s Account, which include payments made to restore losses to the Plan resulting from actions (or a failure to act) by a fiduciary for which there is a reasonable risk of liability under Title I of ERISA or under other applicable federal or state law, where similarly situated Participants are similarly treated.

- B. “Excess Amount.” For a Participant for each Limitation Year, the excess, if any of (i) the Annual Additions that would be credited to his Account under the terms of the Plan without regard to Code Section 415 over (ii) the maximum Annual Additions allowed under Code Section 415(c)(1)(A).
- C. “Limitation Year.” The Plan Year.
- D. “Maximum Permissible Amount.” The Maximum Permissible Amount with respect to any Participant shall be the lesser of:
 - (i) $69,000 for 2024 (and thereafter as adjusted for increases in cost-of-living under Code Section 415(d)), or
 - (ii) 100% of the Participant’s Compensation for the Limitation Year.

The Compensation limit set forth in (ii) above, shall not apply to any contribution for medical benefits after separation from Service (within the meaning of Code Section 401(h) or Code Section 419(f)(2)), which is otherwise treated as an Annual Addition.

Section 7.03 Limitations Under Code Section 415. The amount of the Annual Addition that may be credited under the Plan to any Participant’s Account, or that may be credited to such Participant under any other qualified plan, welfare benefit fund (as defined in Code Section 419(e)) or an individual medical account (as defined in Code Section 415(1)(2)), maintained by an Employer, for any Limitation Year shall not exceed the Maximum Permissible Amount.

The following provisions shall apply:

- A. Notwithstanding anything contained in the Plan to the contrary, the provisions of the Plan shall at all times comply with the limitations, adjustments and other requirements prescribed in Code Section 415 and the Treasury Regulations thereunder, the terms of which are specifically incorporated herein by reference.
- B. Subject to the provisions of subsection E, if the foregoing limitation on allocations would be exceeded in any Limitation Year for any Participant as a result of (i) reasonable error in estimating such Participant’s Compensation, (ii) reasonable error in determining the amount of elective deferrals within the meaning of Code Section 402(g)(3) (that may be made with respect to such Participant) or (iii) under such other limited facts and circumstances that the Commissioner of Internal Revenue (pursuant to Treasury Regulation Section 415-6(b)(6)) finds justify the availability of this Section), the After-tax Contributions, Pre-tax Contributions and Roth Contributions made by or with respect to such Participant shall be distributed to him, to the extent that any such distribution would reduce the amount in excess of the limits of this Section. Any amount in excess of the limits of this Section remaining after such distribution shall be placed, unallocated to any Participant, in a designated Plan account (“Suspense Account.”) If a Suspense Account is in existence at any time during a particular Limitation Year, other than the Limitation Year described in the preceding sentence, all amounts in the Suspense Account must be allocated to the Participants’ Accounts (subject to the limits of this Section) before any contributions which would constitute Annual Additions may be made to the Plan for that Limitation Year. The excess amount allocated pursuant to this Section shall be used to reduce Matching Contributions for the next Limitation Year (and succeeding Limitation Years), as necessary, for that Participant. However, if that Participant is not covered by the Plan as of the end of the applicable Limitation Year, then the excess amounts must be held unallocated in the Suspense Account for the Limitation Year and allocated and reallocated in the next Limitation Year to all of the remaining Participants in the Plan. The Suspense Account shall not share in the valuation of Participants’ Accounts, and the allocation of earnings set forth in Section 8.02 of the Plan and the change in fair market value and allocation of earnings attributable to the Suspense Account shall be allocated to the remaining Accounts hereunder as set forth in Section 8.02.

- C. Prior to determining a Participant’s actual Compensation for the Limitation Year, the Plan Administrator may determine the Maximum Permissible Amount for a Participant on the basis of a reasonable estimate of the Participant’s Compensation for the Limitation Year uniformly determined for all Participants similarly situated.
- D. As soon as is administratively feasible after the end of the Limitation Year, the Maximum Permissible Amount for the Limitation Year shall be determined on the basis of the Participant’s actual Compensation for the Limitation Year.
- E. If pursuant to subsections B and D, there is an Excess Amount to be distributed to a Participant covered by the Plan at the end of the Limitation Year, the Employer may only correct such excess in accordance with the Employee Plans Compliance Resolution System (EPCRS), or any successor thereto.

ARTICLE VIII

TRUST CREATION, ALLOCATION AND INVESTMENTS

Section 8.01 Establishment of Trust. On behalf of the Plan, an agreement has been executed (the “Trust Agreement”) to establish a trust to hold the assets of the Plan (the “Trust”) and to appoint one or more persons or parties who shall serve as the Trustee. The Trustee so selected shall serve as the Trustee until otherwise replaced by the Committee or said Trust Agreement is terminated. The Committee may, from time to time, enter into such further agreements with the Trustee or other parties and make such amendments to said Trust Agreement as it may deem necessary or desirable to carry out this Plan. Any and all rights or benefits which may accrue to a person under this Plan shall be subject to all the terms and provisions of the Trust Agreement.

Section 8.02 Accounting and Adjustments. With respect to each Participant, the Plan Administrator and Trustee may maintain separate subaccounts (for accounting purposes only) to reflect the different kinds of contributions made to the Plan, as follows: Pre-tax Contributions Account, Roth Contributions Account, Catch-up Contributions Account, After-tax Contribution Account, Matching Contribution Account, Profit Sharing Account, Next Gen Employer Contribution Account, Prior Profit Sharing Account, Roth In-Plan Conversion Account, Rollover Account and Transfer Account(s), if any, and any additional subaccounts as needed.

Amounts credited to such subaccounts shall be allocated among the Participant's designated investments on a reasonable pro rata basis, in accordance with the valuation procedures of the Trustee and the Investment Funds. The Trustee and the Plan Administrator shall also establish uniform procedures which they may change from time to time, for the purpose of adjusting the subaccounts of a Participant's Account for withdrawals, loans, distributions and contributions. Gains, losses, withdrawals, distributions, forfeitures and other credits or charges may be separately allocated among such subaccounts on a reasonable and consistent basis in accordance with such procedures.

Section 8.03 Value of Participant's Account. The value of each Participant's Account shall be based on its fair market value on the appropriate Valuation Date. A valuation shall occur at least once every Plan Year, and otherwise in accordance with the terms of the Trust and administratively practicable procedures approved by the Plan Administrator. Periodically, on a frequency determined by the Plan Administrator and the Trustee, the Participant will receive a statement showing the transaction activity and value of his Account as of a date set forth in the statement.

Section 8.04 Investment Funds. The Committee and the Trustee shall establish certain investment funds (the "Investment Funds"), rules governing the administration of the Investment Funds, and procedures for directing the investment of Participant Accounts among the Investment Funds. Among these investment funds shall be the Company Stock Fund as defined in Article I and as further described in Section 8.08 of this Article, which remains at all times invested primarily in Company Stock. The Trustee shall invest and reinvest the principal and income of each Account in the Trust Fund as required by ERISA and as directed by Participants. The Committee reserves the right to change the investment options available under the Plan and the rules governing investment designations at any time and from time to time; provided, however, that the Committee shall at all times maintain the Company Stock Fund as an investment fund option.

Notwithstanding any other provisions of the Plan, assets of the Trust may be invested in any collective investment fund or funds, including common and group trust funds presently in existence or hereafter established. The assets so invested shall be subject to all the provisions of the instruments establishing such funds as they may be amended from time to time, and which are hereby incorporated by reference.

Section 8.05 Participant Direction of Investment. The Plan Administrator and the Trustee shall establish rules governing the administration of Investment Funds and procedures for Participant direction of investment, including rules governing the timing, frequency and manner of making investment elections. Nothing in this or any other provision of the Plan shall require the Trustee or the Plan Administrator to implement Participant investment directions or changes in such directions, or to establish any procedures, other than on an administratively practicable basis, as determined by the Committee in its discretion.

Each Participant shall, in accordance with procedures established by the Plan Administrator and the Trustee, direct that his Account and contributions thereto be invested and reinvested in any one or more of the Investment Funds. The investment of any such monies shall be subject to such restrictions as the Plan Administrator may determine, in its sole discretion, to be advisable or necessary under the circumstances. Moreover, in accordance with procedures established by the Trustee and agreed to by the Plan Administrator, Participants may, when administratively practicable, be permitted to change their current and prospective investment designations through telephone, "on-line" or similar instructions to the Trustee or its authorized agent on a frequency established under such procedures, as in effect from time to time.

The exercise of investment direction by a Participant will not cause the Participant to be a fiduciary solely by reason of such exercise, and neither the Trustee nor any other fiduciary of this Plan will be liable for any loss or any breach that results from the exercise of investment direction by the Participant. The investment designation procedures established under the Plan shall be and are intended to be in compliance with the requirements of ERISA Section 404(c) and the regulations thereunder.

Notwithstanding any provision to the contrary, the Committee may, in its sole discretion and where the terms of any relevant investment contracts, regulated investment companies or pooled or group trusts so require, impose special terms, conditions and restrictions upon a Participant's right to direct the investment in, or transfer into or out of, such contracts, companies or trusts.

Section 8.06 Administration of Investment Designations.

- A. Affirmative Direction. The Trustees shall invest and reinvest the Account as the Participant shall instruct the Plan Administrator, according to the provisions of Section 8.05 by such means of instruction as provided by the Plan Administrator. The instructions of a Participant shall remain in force until altered by him. With the exception of automatic Pre-tax Contributions, no contributions may be authorized by or made for a Participant unless an investment instruction with respect to such contributions is provided by him prior to the date such contributions are authorized or delivered. A Participant shall not be allowed to withdraw all prior investment instructions unless simultaneous therewith he delivers new investment instructions.
- B. Default Investments. To the extent that a Participant fails to give the investment directions contemplated in subsection A above with respect to automatic Pre-tax Contributions, the Participant's Account related to such contributions shall be invested in such default investment fund(s) established by the Committee in its discretion. In addition, with respect to any Rollover Contributions for a Participant who fails to give the investment directions contemplated in subsection A above, the Participant's Account related to such contributions shall be invested in such default investment fund(s) established by the Committee in its discretions, which such fund(s) may or may not be the same fund(s) established for automatic Pre-Tax Contributions. In establishing such default investment fund(s), the Committee may elect to comply with the rules and regulations applicable to “qualified default investment alternatives” as established by the Department of Labor pursuant to Section 404(c)(5) of ERISA.

- C. Changing Designations. Any investment election given by a Participant for investment of his Account shall continue in effect until changed by the Participant or Beneficiary. A Participant or Beneficiary may change his current investment election as to his future Account in accordance with procedures established by the Plan Administrator.

Section 8.07 Special Rules Pertaining to Investment of Matching Contributions, Profit Sharing Contributions and Next Gen Employer Contributions. Matching Contributions, Profit Sharing Contributions and Next Gen Employer Contributions (whether each is made in the form of cash or Company Stock, pursuant to Section 3.08) shall be allocated as follows:

- A. Non-Union Employees. Effective for contributions made prior to July 1, 2017, all Matching Contributions, Profit Sharing Contributions and Next Gen Employer Contributions made to the Accounts of non-union Participants were initially invested in the Company Stock Fund. Following such initial investment, in accordance with the provisions of Section 8.05 and 8.06, a Participant may elect to change such investment designation to a different Investment Fund.

Effective for contributions made on or after July 1, 2017, all Matching Contributions, Profit Sharing Contributions and Next Gen Employer Contributions made to the Accounts of non-union Participants shall be invested in accordance with the Participant’s direction (or in the absence of Participant direction, according the applicable default) under the provisions of Sections 8.05 and 8.06.

- B. Union Employees. Except as provided in Section II.04C and Section II.05C of Schedule II, all Matching Contributions, Profit Sharing Contributions (if applicable) and Next Gen Employer Contributions (if applicable) made to the Accounts of union Participants on and after July 1, 2017 shall continue to be initially invested in the Company Stock Fund. In accordance with the provisions of Sections 8.05 and 8.06, a Participant may elect to change such investment designation to a different Investment Fund at any time after such initial contribution.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, effective for contributions made on or after July 1, 2018, all Matching Contributions, Profit Sharing Contributions (if applicable) and Next Gen Employer Contributions (if applicable) made to the Accounts of Columbia Union Employees shall be invested in accordance with the Participant’s direction (or in the absence of Participant direction, according to the applicable default) under the provisions of Sections 8.05 and 8.06.

With respect to the Participant’s ability change such investment designation, the following provisions shall apply: (1) the Plan shall offer not less than three different

Investment Funds, other than the Company Stock Fund, to which the Participant may direct the investment of his Account, each of which options is diversified and has materially different risk and return characteristics; (2) the Plan shall provide reasonable divestment and reinvestment opportunities no less than quarterly; and (3) except as provided in regulations, the Plan shall not impose restrictions or conditions on the investment of Company Stock which the Plan does not impose on the investment of other Plan assets, other than restrictions or conditions imposed by reason of the application of securities laws or a condition permitted under IRS Notice 2006-107 or other applicable guidance or any Company policy restricting Participant divestiture rights during specified periods.

Section 8.08 Special Rules Pertaining to the Company Stock Fund.

- A. Dividends. Dividends attributable to a Participant's Account invested in the Company Stock Fund shall, at the election of the Participant, be payable to him in cash or reinvested in the Company Stock Fund. Such election shall be made no later than 15 days before the date on which such dividend is paid by the Company. Any Participant who fails to make a timely election shall have dividends attributable to the investment of his Account in the Company Stock Fund reinvested in the Company Stock Fund. Notwithstanding the previous sentences, any dividend payment less than $10 shall be so reinvested.
- B. Procedures for Voting.
- (i) When the issuer of Company Stock files preliminary proxy solicitation materials with the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Company shall cause a summary of the items being voted upon to be simultaneously sent to the Trustee. Based on this summary the Trustee shall prepare a voting instruction form. At the time of mailing of the notice of each annual or special stockholders' meeting of the Company, the Company shall cause a copy of the notice and all proxy solicitation materials to be sent to each Participant, together with the foregoing voting instruction form to be returned to the Trustee or its designee. The form shall show the number of full and fractional shares of Company Stock credited to the Participant's Account. For purposes of this Section, the number of shares of Company Stock deemed "credited" to the Participant's Account, attributable to the Company Stock Fund, shall be determined as of the last preceding valuation date for which an allocation has been completed and Company Stock has actually been credited to Participants' Accounts. The Company shall provide the Trustee with a copy of any materials provided to the Participants and shall certify to the Trustee that the materials have been mailed or otherwise sent to Participants.
 - (ii) Each Participant shall have the right to direct the Trustee as to the manner in which the Trustee is to vote that number of shares of Company Stock credited to the Participant's Account. Directions from a Participant to the Trustee concerning the voting of Company Stock shall be communicated in writing, or by such other means as agreed upon by the Trustee and the Committee; these directions shall be held in confidence by the Trustee and shall not be divulged to the Company, or any officer or employee thereof, or any other person. Upon its receipt of the directions, the Trustee shall vote the shares of Company Stock as directed by the Participant. The Trustee shall not vote shares of Company Stock credited to a Participant's Account for which it has received no directions from the Participant. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Trustee shall vote shares of Company Stock that are credited to a Participant's Account and for which it has received no directions from the Participant, in the same proportion as it votes those shares for which it has received voting direction from Participants.

- (iii) The Trustee shall vote that number of shares of Company Stock not credited to Participants' Accounts, which is determined by multiplying the total number of shares not credited to Participants' Accounts by a fraction, the numerator of which is the number of shares of Company Stock credited to Participants' Accounts for which the Trustee received voting directions from Participants and the denominator of which is the total number of shares of Company Stock credited to Participants' Accounts. The Trustee shall vote those shares of Company Stock not credited to Participants' Accounts which are to be voted by the Trustee pursuant to the foregoing formula in the same proportion on each issue as it votes those shares credited to Participants' Accounts for which it received voting directions from Participants. The Trustee shall not vote the remaining shares of Company Stock not credited to Participants' Accounts.

C. Procedures for Tendering.

- (i) Upon commencement of a tender offer for any securities held in the Trust that are Company Stock, attributable to the Company Stock Fund, the Company shall notify each Participant of the tender offer and utilize its best efforts to timely distribute or cause to be distributed to the Participant the same information that is distributed to shareholders of the issuer of Company Stock in connection with the tender offer, and, after consulting with the Trustee, shall provide and pay for a means by which the Participant may direct the Trustee whether or not to tender the Company Stock credited to the Participant's Account. The Company shall provide the Trustee with a copy of any material provided to the Participants and shall certify to the Trustee that the materials have been mailed or otherwise sent to Participants.
- (ii) Each Participant shall have the right to direct the Trustee to tender or not to tender some or all of the shares of Company Stock credited to the Participant's Account. Directions from a Participant to the Trustee concerning the tender of Company Stock shall be communicated in writing. The Trustee shall tender or not tender shares of Company Stock as directed by the Participant. The Trustee shall not tender shares of Company Stock credited to Participants' Accounts for which it has received no directions from the Participants. Directions received from Participants shall be held in confidence by the Trustee and shall not be divulged to the Company or any officer or employee thereof or any other person.

- (iii) The Trustee shall tender that number of shares of Company Stock not credited to Participants' Accounts which is determined by multiplying the total number of shares of Company Stock not credited to Participants' Accounts by a fraction, the numerator of which is the number of shares of Company Stock credited to Participants' Accounts for which the Trustee has received directions from Participants to tender (which directions have not been withdrawn as of the date of this determination) and the denominator of which is the total number of shares of Company Stock credited to Participants' Accounts.
- (iv) A Participant who has directed the Trustee to tender some or all of the shares of Company Stock credited to the Participant's Account may, at any time prior to the tender offer withdrawal date, direct the Trustee to withdraw some or all of the tendered shares, and the Trustee shall withdraw the directed number of shares from the tender offer prior to the tender offer withdrawal deadline. Prior to the withdrawal deadline, if any shares of Company Stock not credited to Participants' Accounts have been tendered, the Trustee shall redetermine the number of shares of Company Stock that would be tendered if the date of the tender offer withdrawal were the date of determination, and withdraw from the tender offer the number of shares of Company Stock not credited to Participants' Accounts necessary to reduce the amount of tendered Company Stock not credited to Participants' Accounts to the amount so redetermined. A Participant shall not be limited as to the number of directions to tender or withdraw that the Participant may give to the Trustee.
- (v) A direction by a Participant to the Trustee to tender shares of Company Stock credited to the Participant's Account shall not be considered a written election under the Plan by the Participant to withdraw, or have distributed, any or all of his withdrawable shares. The Trustee shall credit to each Participant's Account from which the tendered shares were taken the proceeds received by the Trustee in exchange for the shares of Company Stock tendered from that Account.

- D. Independent Fiduciary. Effective November 25, 2019, the Committee shall appoint an independent fiduciary (the "Independent Fiduciary") to manage the Company Stock Fund. The Independent Fiduciary shall at all times have the exclusive fiduciary authority and responsibility under the Plan and ERISA with respect to the Company Stock Fund as an investment option under the Plan. In exercising its authority and responsibility, the Independent Fiduciary shall have authority to exercise any or all of the following powers, and to instruct the Trustee of the Plan accordingly:

- (i) to suspend or prohibit new investment in the Company Stock Fund;
- (ii) to suspend or prohibit the transfer of Participant Accounts into the Company Stock Fund;
- (iii) in connection with a determination that holding Company Stock is no longer prudent under ERISA, to liquidate the Company Stock in the Company Stock Fund;
- (iv) to direct that the proceeds from any liquidation of Company Stock be invested on a temporary basis in the default investment option otherwise provided under the Plan (or in the absence of such a default option, in such investment option then available under the Plan as directed by the Committee), pending participant directions to the Trustee with respect to the investment of such proceeds;
- (v) to suspend or prohibit the transfer of Participant Accounts out of the Company Stock Fund during any period in which the Independent Fiduciary is directing the liquidation of the Company Stock in the Company Stock Fund;
- (vi) to determine the level of cash and cash equivalents in the Company Stock Fund necessary to facilitate participant transactions into and out of the Company Stock Fund and, in the event the Committee elects to cause the Plan to pay administrative fees and expenses, the payment of fees and expenses incurred to administer the Plan;
- (vii) to instruct the Trustee or its designee as necessary to carry out its duties and responsibilities hereunder; and
- (viii) to the extent provided in a written agreement with the Plan Sponsor and the Committee, to serve as the fiduciary responsible for voting shares of Company Stock or responding to tender offers for Company Stock.

An Independent Fiduciary may be removed by the Committee at any time and within its sole discretion in accordance with the applicable governing documents. In the event that the Independent Fiduciary resigns or is terminated, the duties and responsibilities provided to the Independent Fiduciary under this Section 8.08(D) shall become the duties and responsibilities of the Committee until a successor Independent Fiduciary is appointed by the Committee.

ARTICLE IX

PARTICIPANT ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

Section 9.01 Personal Data to Committee. Each Participant and each Beneficiary of a deceased Participant must furnish to the Plan Administrator such evidence, data or information as the Plan Administrator considers necessary or desirable for the purpose of administering the Plan. The provisions of this Plan are effective for the benefit of each Participant upon the condition precedent that each Participant will furnish promptly full, true and complete evidence, data and information when requested by the Plan Administrator, provided the Plan Administrator shall advise each Participant of the effect of his failure to comply with its request.

Section 9.02 Address For Notification. Each Participant and each Beneficiary of a deceased Participant shall file with the Plan Administrator, from time to time, in writing, or otherwise notify the Plan Administrator (in accordance with its rules and procedures) of, his post office address and any change of post office address. Any communication, statement or notice addressed to a Participant, or Beneficiary, at his last post office address filed with the Plan Administrator, or as shown on the records of the Employer, shall bind the Participant, or Beneficiary, for all purposes of this Plan.

Section 9.03 Assignment or Alienation. Subject to Code Section 414(p) relating to qualified domestic relations orders, neither a Participant nor a Beneficiary shall anticipate, assign or alienate (either at law or in equity) any benefit provided under the Plan, and the Trustee shall not recognize any such anticipation, assignment or alienation. Furthermore, a benefit under the Plan is not subject to attachment, garnishment, levy, execution or other legal or equitable process.

Section 9.04 Notice of Change in Terms. Within the time prescribed by ERISA and the applicable regulations, the Plan Administrator, on behalf of the Employer, shall furnish all Participants and Beneficiaries a summary description of any material amendment to the Plan or notice of discontinuance of the Plan and all other information required by ERISA to be furnished without charge.

Section 9.05 Litigation Against the Trust. If any legal action filed against the Trustee, the Plan Administrator, the Committee, or against any member or members of the Committee, by or on behalf of any Participant or Beneficiary, results adversely to the Participant or to the Beneficiary, the Trustee shall reimburse itself, the Plan Administrator, the Committee, or any member or members of the Committee, all costs and fees expended by it or them by surcharging all costs and fees against the sums payable under the Plan to the Participant or to the Beneficiary, but only to the extent a court of competent jurisdiction specifically authorizes and directs any such surcharges and only to the extent Code Section 401(a)(13) does not prohibit any such surcharges.

Section 9.06 Information Available. Any Participant in the Plan or any Beneficiary may examine copies of the Plan, the Trust, the Plan description, the latest annual report, any bargaining agreement, contract or any other instrument under which the Plan was established or is operated. The Plan Administrator will maintain all of the items listed in this Section in the Company's offices, or in such other place or places as it may designate from time to time in order to comply with the regulations issued under ERISA, for examination during reasonable business hours. Upon the written request of a Participant or Beneficiary, the Employer shall furnish him with a copy of any item listed in this Section. The Employer may make a reasonable charge to the requesting person for the copy so furnished.

Section 9.07 Special Rules Relating to Veterans Reemployment Rights Under USERRA. The following special provisions of this Section shall apply to an Employee or Participant who is reemployed in accordance with the reemployment provisions of the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (“USERRA”) following a period of qualifying military service (as determined under USERRA):

- A. Each period of qualifying military service served by an Employee or Participant shall, upon such reemployment, be deemed to constitute service with an Employer for all purposes of the Plan.
- B. The Participant shall be permitted to make up Pre-tax Contributions and Roth Contributions missed during the period of qualifying military service. The Participant shall have a period of time beginning on the date of the Participant’s reemployment with an Employer following his period of qualifying military service and extending over the lesser of (1) the product of three and the Participant’s period of qualifying military service, and (2) five years, to make up such missed Pre-tax Contributions and Roth Contributions.
- C. If an Employer made any Matching Contributions, Profit Sharing Contributions or Next Gen Employer Contributions to the Plan during the period of qualifying military service, it shall make a Matching Contribution, Profit Sharing Contribution or Next Gen Employer Contribution, as applicable, on behalf of the Participant upon the Participant’s reemployment following his period of qualifying military service, in the amount that would have been made on behalf of such Participant had the Participant been employed during the period of qualifying military service.
- D. An Employer shall not (1) credit earnings to a Participant’s Accounts with respect to any Pre-tax Contribution, Roth Contribution, Matching Contribution, Profit Sharing Contribution or Next Gen Employer Contribution before such contribution is actually made, or (2) make up any allocation of forfeitures, with respect to the period of qualifying military service.
- E. For all purposes under the Plan, including an Employer’s liability for making contributions on behalf of a reemployed Participant as described above, the Participant shall be treated as having received Compensation from an Employer based on the rate of Compensation the Participant would have received during the period of qualifying military service, or if that rate is not reasonably certain, on the basis of the Participant’s average rate of Compensation during the 12-month period immediately preceding such period.
- F. If the Participant makes a Pre-tax Contribution or Roth Contribution, or an Employer makes a Matching Contribution, Profit Sharing Contribution or Next Gen Employer Contribution in accordance with the foregoing provisions of this Section 9.07, such contributions shall not be subject to any otherwise applicable limitation under Code Sections 402(g), 404(a) or 415, and shall not be taken into account in applying such limitations to other Pre-tax, Roth, Matching, Profit Sharing or Next Gen Employer Contributions under the Plan, or any other plan, with respect to the year in which such contributions are made, and such contributions shall be subject to these limitations only with respect to the year to which such contributions relate and only in accordance with Treasury Regulations prescribed by the Internal Revenue Service; and

- G. The Plan shall not be treated as failing to meet the requirements of Code Sections 401(a)(4), 401(a)(26), 401(m), 410(b), or 416 by reason of such contributions.

Section 9.08 Claims Procedure. Claims for benefits under the Plan shall be made in writing to the Committee (or its delegate). Benefits under the Plan shall be paid only if the Committee, in its discretion, decides that the Claimant is entitled to them. If the Committee wholly or partially denies a claim for benefits, the Committee (or its delegate) shall, within a reasonable period of time, but no later than 90 days after receiving the claim, notify the Participant or Beneficiary (the “Claimant”) in writing of the denial of the claim. If the Committee (or its delegate) fails to notify the Claimant in writing of the denial of the claim within 90 days after the Committee receives it, the claim shall be deemed denied. A notice of denial shall be written in a manner calculated to be understood by the Claimant, and shall contain:

- A. The specific reason or reasons for denial of the claim;
- B. Specific references to the pertinent Plan provisions upon which the denial is based;
- C. A description of any additional material or information necessary for the Claimant to perfect the claim, together with an explanation of why such material or information is necessary; and
- D. An explanation of the Plan’s review procedure.

Within 60 days of the receipt by the Claimant of the written notice of denial of the claim, or within 60 days after the claim is deemed denied as set forth above, if applicable, the Claimant may file a written request with the Committee that it conduct a full and fair review of the denial of the Claimant’s claim for benefits, including the conducting of a hearing, if the Committee deems one necessary. In connection with the Claimant’s appeal of the denial of his benefit, the Claimant may review pertinent documents and may submit issues and comments in writing. The Committee shall render a decision on the claim appeal promptly, but not later than 60 days after receiving the Claimant’s request for review, unless, in the discretion of the Committee, special circumstances (such as the need to hold a hearing) require an extension of time for processing, in which case the 60-day period may be extended to 120 days. The Committee shall notify the Claimant in writing of any such extension. Notwithstanding the foregoing, if the Committee’s meeting schedule is such that it holds regularly scheduled meetings at least quarterly, the Committee’s final determination with respect to the applicant’s application for review may be made within the period outlined in Department of Labor Regulations Section 2560.503-1(i)(1)(ii) in lieu of the 60-day period (120-day period if extended due to special circumstances) described above.

The decision upon review shall (1) include specific reasons for the decision, (2) be written in a manner calculated to be understood by the Claimant and (3) contain specific references to the pertinent Plan provisions upon which the decision is based. If the decision on review is not furnished within the time period set forth above, the claim shall be deemed denied on review.

If such final determination is favorable to the Claimant, it shall be binding and conclusive. If such final determination is adverse to such Claimant, it shall be binding and conclusive unless the applicant notifies the Committee within 90 days after the mailing or delivery to him by the Committee of its determination that he intends to institute legal proceedings challenging the determination of the Committee, and actually institutes such legal proceeding within 180 days after such mailing or delivery.

ARTICLE X

ADMINISTRATION OF THE PLAN

Section 10.01 Allocation of Responsibility Among Fiduciaries For Plan and Trust Administration. The fiduciaries shall have only those powers, duties, responsibilities and obligations as are specifically given to them under this Plan and the Trust. The Employers shall have the sole responsibility for making the contributions provided for under Article III. The Committee shall have the sole authority to appoint and remove the Trustee and to amend or terminate, in whole or in part, the Plan or the Trust. The Committee shall have the final responsibility for the administration of the Plan, which responsibility is specifically described in this Plan and the Trust. The Committee shall be the “plan administrator” and the “named fiduciary” within the meaning of Title I of ERISA. In addition, the Committee shall have the specific delegated powers and duties described in the further provisions of this Article X and such further powers and duties as specified in the Committee charter. The Trustee shall have the sole responsibility for the administration of the Trust and the management of the assets held under the Trust, all as specifically provided in the Trust.

Each fiduciary warrants that any directions given, information furnished, or action taken by it shall be in accordance with the provisions of this Plan and the Trust, authorizing or providing for such direction, information or action. Furthermore, each fiduciary may rely upon any such direction, information or action of another fiduciary as being proper under this Plan and the Trust, and is not required under this Plan or the Trust to inquire into the propriety of any such direction, information or action. It is intended under this Plan and the Trust that each fiduciary shall be responsible for the proper exercise of its own powers, duties, responsibilities and obligations under this Plan and the Trust and shall not be responsible for any act or failure to act of another fiduciary. No fiduciary guarantees the Trust Fund in any manner against investment loss or depreciation in asset value.

Section 10.02 Appointment of Committee. The NiSource Benefits Committee (the “Committee”) has administrative and investment responsibilities with respect to the Plan. In accordance with the Committee charter, the Chief Executive officer of the Company (the “CEO”) has the authority to appoint and remove members of the Committee. All usual and reasonable expenses of the Committee may be paid in whole or in part by the Company, and any expenses not paid by the Company shall be paid by the Trustee out of the principal or income of the Trust Fund.

Any members of the Committee who are Employees shall not receive compensation with respect to their services for the Committee.

Section 10.03 Committee Procedures. The Committee may act at a meeting or in writing without a meeting, pursuant to the applicable Committee charter. The Committee may adopt such bylaws and regulations as it deems desirable for the conduct of its affairs. All decisions of the Committee shall be made by the vote of the majority of members or of a quorum of members, including actions in writing taken without a meeting. By appropriate action, the Committee may authorize one or more of its members to execute documents on its behalf, and the Trustee, upon written notification of such authorization, shall accept and rely upon such documents until notified in writing that such authorization has been revoked by the Committee.

Section 10.04 Other Committee Powers and Duties. The Committee shall have such powers as may be necessary to discharge its duties hereunder, including, but not by way of limitation, the discretionary authority to perform the following powers and duties:

- A. To construe and enforce the terms of the Plan and the rules and regulations it adopts, including the discretionary authority to interpret the Plan documents and documents related to the Plan's operation (including, but not limited to, issues of fact and questions of eligibility, benefits, status and rights of participants);
- B. To adopt rules of procedure, uniform policies and regulations necessary for the proper and efficient administration of the Plan, provided the rules are not inconsistent with the terms of this Plan and the Trust;
- C. To authorize and approve amendments to and restatements of the Plan;
- D. To direct the Trustee with respect to the crediting and distribution of the Trust;
- E. To review and render decisions respecting a claim for (or denial of a claim for) a benefit under the Plan, including judgment of the standard of proof required in any claim, subject to the requirements of applicable law and the Plan;
- F. To furnish the Employer with information that the Employer may require for tax or other purposes;
- G. To cause to be made all reports or other filing necessary to meet the reporting, disclosure and other filing requirements of the Code, ERISA and other applicable statutes, regulations and other authorities issued thereunder that are the responsibility of the Plan Administrator;
- H. Act as the employer representatives or members on each committee having administrative and/or investment responsibilities with respect to any plan maintained by NiSource or its affiliates pursuant to a collective bargaining agreement;
- I. To engage the service of agents whom it may deem advisable to assist it with the performance of its duties;

- J. To engage the services of an Investment Manager or Investment Managers (as defined in ERISA Section 3(38)), each of whom shall have full power and authority to manage, acquire or dispose (or direct the Trustee with respect to acquisition or disposition) of any Plan asset under its control; and
- K. As permitted by the Employee Plans Compliance Resolution System (“EPCRS”) issued by the Internal Revenue Service (“IRS”), as in effect from time to time, (i) to voluntarily correct any Plan qualification failure, including, but not limited to failures involving Plan operation, impermissible discrimination in favor of highly compensated employees, the specific terms of the Plan document, or demographic failures; (ii) implement any correction methodology permitted under EPCRS; and (iii) negotiate the terms of a compliance statement or a closing agreement proposed by the IRS with respect to correction of a plan qualification failure.

Section 10.05 Rules and Decisions. The Committee may adopt such rules as it deems necessary, desirable or appropriate. All rules and decisions of the Committee shall be uniformly and consistently applied to all Participants in similar circumstances. When making a determination or calculation, the Committee shall be entitled to rely upon information furnished by an Employee, Participant or Beneficiary, an Employer, the legal counsel of an Employer, or the Trustee. Any determination by the Committee shall presumptively be conclusive and binding on all persons. The regularly kept records of the Company shall be conclusive and binding upon all persons with respect to an Employee’s date and length of employment, time and amount of Compensation and the manner of payment thereof, type and length of any absence from work, and all other matters contained therein relating to Employees.

Section 10.06 Application and Forms For Benefits. The Committee may require a Participant or Beneficiary to complete and file with the Committee an application for a benefit and all other forms approved by the Committee, and to furnish all pertinent information requested by the Committee. The Committee may rely upon all such information so furnished to it, including the Participant’s or Beneficiary’s current mailing address.

Section 10.07 Authorization of Benefit Payments. The Committee shall issue directions to the Trustee concerning all benefits that are to be paid from the Trust Fund pursuant to the provisions of the Plan, or establish other procedures on which the Trustee may act, and warrants that all such directions are in accordance with this Plan.

Section 10.08 Funding Policy. The Committee shall, from time to time, review all pertinent Employee information and Plan data in order to establish the funding policy of the Plan and to determine the appropriate methods of carrying out the Plan’s objectives. The Committee shall communicate periodically, as it deems appropriate, to the Trustee and to any Plan Investment Manager, the Plan’s short-term and long-term financial needs so that investment policy can be coordinated with Plan financial requirements.

Section 10.09 Fiduciary Duties. In performing their duties, all fiduciaries with respect to the Plan shall act solely in the interest of the Participants and their Beneficiaries, and:

- A. For the exclusive purpose of providing benefits to the Participants and their Beneficiaries;
- B. With the care, skill, prudence and diligence under the circumstances then prevailing that a prudent man acting in like capacity and familiar with such matters would use in the conduct of an enterprise of like character and with like aims;
- C. To the extent a fiduciary possesses and exercises investment responsibilities, by diversifying the investments of the Trust Fund so as to minimize the risk of large losses, unless under the circumstances it is clearly prudent not to do so; and
- D. In accordance with the documents and instruments governing the Plan insofar as such documents and instruments are consistent with the provisions of Title I of ERISA.

Section 10.10 Allocation or Delegation of Duties and Responsibilities. In furtherance of their duties and responsibilities under the Plan, the Committee may, subject always to the requirements of Section 10.09:

- A. Employ agents to carry out nonfiduciary responsibilities;
- B. Employ agents to carry out fiduciary responsibilities (other than trustee responsibilities as defined in Section 405(c)(3) of ERISA);
- C. Consult with counsel, who may be of counsel to the Company; and
- D. Provide for the allocation of fiduciary responsibilities (other than trustee responsibilities as defined in Section 405(c)(3) of ERISA) between and among the members of the Committee.

Section 10.11 Procedure For the Allocation or Delegation of Fiduciary Duties. Any action described in subsections B or D of Section 10.10 may be taken by the Committee only in accordance with the following procedure:

- A. Such action shall be taken by a majority of the Committee in a resolution approved by a majority of such Committee.
- B. The vote cast by each member of the Committee for or against the adoption of such resolution shall be recorded and made a part of the written record of the Committee's proceedings.
- C. Any delegation of fiduciary responsibilities or any allocation of fiduciary responsibilities among members of the Committee may be modified or rescinded by the Committee according to the procedure set forth in subsections A and B of this Section 10.11.

Section 10.12 Records and Reports. The Employer (or the Committee if so designated by the Employer) shall exercise such authority and responsibility as it deems appropriate in order to comply with ERISA and governmental regulations issued thereunder relating to records of Participant's Service and Account balances; notifications to Participants; annual registration with the Internal Revenue Service; and annual reports to the Department of Labor.

Section 10.13 Individual Statement. As determined by the Committee in its discretion, the Plan Administrator shall furnish to the Participant (or to the Beneficiary of a deceased Participant) an individual statement reflecting the condition of his Account. In addition, subject to the requirements of ERISA, the Plan Administrator shall provide to any Participant or Beneficiary of a deceased Participant who so requests in writing, a statement indicating the total value of his Account and the nonforfeitable portion of such Account, if any. The Plan Administrator shall also furnish a written statement to any Participant who terminates employment during the Plan Year and is entitled to a deferred vested benefit under the Plan as of the end of the Plan Year, if no retirement benefits have been paid with respect to such Participant during the Plan year. No Participant, except a member of the Committee and its designees, shall have the right to inspect the records reflecting the Account of any other Participant.

Section 10.14 Fees and Expenses From Fund. The Trustee, other than the Company when serving as such, shall receive reasonable annual compensation as may be agreed upon from time to time between the Committee and the Trustee. The Trustee shall pay all expenses reasonably incurred by it or by the Employer(s), the Committee, or other professional advisers or administrators in the administration of the Plan from the Trust Fund unless the Employer(s) pay the expenses. The Committee shall not treat any fee or expense paid, directly or indirectly, by an Employer as an Employer contribution. No person who is receiving full pay from the Employer shall receive compensation for services from the Trust Fund. Brokerage commissions, transfer taxes, and other charges and expenses in connection with the purchase and sale of securities shall be charged to each Investment Fund and/or Participant's Account, as applicable. Fees related to investments subject to Participant direction, and other fees resulting from or attributable to expenses incurred in relation to a Participant or Beneficiary or his Account may be charged to his Account to the extent permitted under the Code and ERISA.

The Trustee or other service provider may provide refunds of expenses, rebates or other similar revenue sharing credits on behalf of the Plan that relate to the assets of the Plan. At the Plan Administrator's sole discretion, such amounts paid by the Trustee or other service provider on behalf of the Plan may be used to pay reasonable administrative expenses of the Plan, or may be allocated to Participants in reasonable and nondiscriminatory manner, or in any combination of these solely to the extent permitted by applicable law.

Section 10.15 Use of Alternative Media. The Plan Administrator may include in any process or procedure for administering the Plan, the use of alternative media, including, but not limited to, telephonic, facsimile, computer or other such electronic means as available. Use of such alternative media shall be deemed to satisfy any Plan provision requiring a "written" document or an instrument to be signed "in writing" to the extent permissible under the Code, ERISA and applicable regulations.

Section 10.16 Information to Plan Administrator. Each Employer shall supply current information to the Plan Administrator as to the name, date of birth, date of employment, annual compensation, leaves of absence, Service, and date of termination of employment of each Employee who is, or who will be eligible to become, a Participant under the Plan, together with any other information that the Committee considers necessary. The Employer's records as to the current information that the Employer furnishes to the Committee shall be conclusive as to all persons.

Section 10.17 Limitation of Liability. Notwithstanding any other provision of the Plan or the Trust, no Employer nor member of the Committee, nor an individual acting as an employee or agent of any of them, shall be liable to any Participant or former Participant, or any Beneficiary or Spouse of any Participant or former Participant, for any claim, loss, liability, or expense incurred in connection with the Plan or the Trust, except when the same shall have been judicially determined to be due to the willful misconduct of such person.

Section 10.18 Indemnity. The Company shall indemnify and hold harmless each member of the Committee, or any employee of an Employer or any individual acting as an employee or agent of any of them or of an Employer (to the extent not indemnified or saved harmless under any liability insurance or any other indemnification arrangement with respect to the Plan or the Trust) from any and all claims, losses, liabilities, costs, and expenses (including attorneys' fees) arising out of any actual or alleged act or failure to act with respect to the administration of the Plan or the Trust, except that no indemnification or defense shall be provided to any person with respect to any conduct that has been judicially determined, or agreed by the parties, to have constituted willful misconduct on the part of such person, or to have resulted in his receipt of personal profit or advantage to which he is not entitled. In connection with the indemnification provided by the preceding sentence, expenses incurred in defending a civil or criminal action, suit or proceeding, or incurred in connection with a civil or criminal investigation may be paid by the Company in advance of the final disposition of such action, suit, proceeding, or investigation, as authorized by the Committee in the specific case, upon receipt of an undertaking by or on behalf of the party to be indemnified to repay such amount unless it shall ultimately be determined that he is entitled to be indemnified by the Company pursuant to this paragraph.

Section 10.19 Severability. Each of the Sections contained in the Plan, and each provision in each Section, shall be enforceable independently of every other Section or provision in the Plan, and the invalidity or unenforceability of any Section or provision shall not invalidate or render unenforceable any other Section or provision contained herein. If any Section or provision in a Section is found invalid or unenforceable, it is the intent of the parties that a court of competent jurisdiction shall reform the Section or provision to produce its nearest enforceable economic equivalent.

Section 10.20 Recovery of Overpaid Benefits. If a payment of benefits to a Participant, Beneficiary or other individual entitled to payment under the Plan (such as an alternate payee pursuant to Section 4.10) (collectively, the "Recipient") exceeds the amount provided for under the terms of the Plan, either by mistake or for any other reason, the Plan Administrator shall have the authority to seek reimbursement of such overpaid benefits from the Recipient (plus interest calculated in accordance with guidance set forth by the Internal Revenue Service). If a Recipient is receiving benefit payments at the time an overpayment of prior benefits is discovered, the Plan Administrator shall have the authority to reduce such Recipient's benefit payments going forward in an amount as necessary in the Plan Administrator's discretion to recover the overpaid benefits.

Section 10.21 Forfeitures. To the extent permitted by applicable law, forfeitures may be used at the Plan Administrator's sole discretion to pay reasonable administrative expenses and/or to reduce Employer contributions.

ARTICLE XI

TOP HEAVY RULES

Section 11.01 Minimum Employer Contribution. If this Plan is "Top Heavy," as defined below, in any Plan Year, the Plan guarantees a minimum contribution (subject to the provisions of this Article XI) of three percent of Compensation for each "Non-Key Employee," as defined below, who is a Participant employed by the Employer on the Accounting Date of the Plan Year without regard to hours of Service completed during the Plan Year or to whether he has elected to make Pre-tax Contributions or Roth Contributions under Section 3.02, and who is not a Participant in a Top Heavy defined benefit plan maintained by the Employer. Participants who also participate in a Top Heavy defined benefit plan of the Employer shall receive the required minimum benefit in the defined benefit plan rather than in this Plan. The Plan satisfies the guaranteed minimum contribution for the Non-Key Employee if the Non-Key Employee's contribution rate is at least equal to the minimum contribution. For purposes of this paragraph, a Non-Key Employee Participant includes any Employee otherwise eligible to participate in the Plan but who is not a Participant because his Compensation does not exceed a specified level.

If the contribution rate for the "Key Employee," as defined below, with the highest contribution rate is less than three percent, the guaranteed minimum contribution for Non-Key Employees shall equal the highest contribution rate received by a Key Employee. The contribution rate is the sum of Employer contributions (not including Employer contributions to Social Security) and forfeitures allocated to the Participant's Account for the Plan Year divided by his "Compensation," as defined below, not in excess of the compensation limitation under Code Section 401(a)(17) for the Plan Year. For purposes of determining the minimum contribution for a Plan Year, the Plan Administrator shall consider contributions made to any plan pursuant to a compensation reduction agreement or similar arrangement as Employer contributions. To determine the contribution rate, the Plan Administrator shall consider all qualified Top Heavy defined contribution plans maintained by the Employer as a single plan.

Notwithstanding the preceding provisions of this Section 11.01, if a defined benefit plan maintained by the Employer that benefits a Key Employee depends on this Plan to satisfy the anti-discrimination rules of Code Section 401(a)(4) or the coverage rules of Code Section 410 (or another plan benefiting the Key Employee so depends on such defined benefit plan), the guaranteed minimum contribution for a Non-Key Employee is three percent of his Compensation regardless of the contribution rate for the Key Employees.

The minimum employer contribution required (to the extent required to be nonforfeitable under Code Section 416(b)) may not be forfeited under Code Section 411(a)(3)(B) or 411(a)(3)(D).

Section 11.02 Additional Contribution. If the contribution rate (excluding Pre-tax Contributions and Roth Contributions) for the Plan Year with respect to a Non-Key Employee described in Section 11.01 is less than the minimum contribution, the Employer will increase its contribution for such Employee to the extent necessary so his contribution rate for the Plan Year will equal the guaranteed minimum contribution. Matching Contributions will be taken into account to satisfy the minimum contribution requirement under the Plan, or if the Plan provides that the minimum contribution requirement shall be met in another plan, such other plan. Matching Contributions that are used to satisfy the minimum contribution requirements shall be treated as matching contributions for purposes of the actual contribution percentage test and other requirements of Code Section 401(m). The additional contribution shall be allocated to the Account of a Non-Key Employee for whom the Employer makes the contribution.

Section 11.03 Determination of Top Heavy Status. The Plan is “Top Heavy” for a Plan Year if the Top Heavy ratio as of the Determination Date exceeds sixty percent (60%). The Top Heavy ratio is a fraction, the numerator of which is the sum of the present value of the Accounts of all Key Employees as of the Determination Date, and the denominator of which is a similar sum determined for all Employees. For purposes of determining the present value of the Accounts for the foregoing fraction, the Plan Administrator shall include contributions due as of the Determination Date and distributions made for any purpose within the one-year period ending on the Determination Date. In addition, the Plan Administrator shall also include distributions made within the five-year period ending on the Determination Date if such distributions were made for reasons other than upon severance from employment, death or disability (e.g., in-service withdrawals); provided, however, that no distribution shall be counted more than once. In addition, the Plan Administrator shall calculate the Top Heavy ratio by disregarding the Account (including distributions, if any, of the Account balance) of an individual who has not received credit for at least one Hour of Service with the Employer during the one-year period ending on the Determination Date in such calculation. The Top Heavy ratio, including the extent to which it must take into account distributions, rollovers and transfers, shall be calculated in accordance with Code Section 416 and the Treasury Regulations thereunder.

If the Employer maintains other qualified plans (including a simplified employee pension plan), this Plan is Top Heavy only if it is part of the Required Aggregation Group, and the Top Heavy ratio for both the Required Aggregation Group and the Permissive Aggregation Group exceeds 60%. The Top Heavy ratio shall be calculated in the same manner as required by the first paragraph of this Section 11.03, taking into account all plans within the Aggregation Group. To the extent distributions to a Participant must be taken into account, the Plan Administrator shall include distributions from a terminated plan that would have been part of the Required Aggregation Group if it were in existence on the Determination Date. The present value of accrued benefits and the other amounts the Plan Administrator must take into account, under defined benefit plans or simplified employee pension plans included within the group, shall be calculated in accordance with the terms of those plans, Code Section 416 and the Treasury Regulations thereunder. If an aggregated plan does not have a valuation date coinciding with the Determination Date, the Plan Administrator shall value the accrued benefits or Accounts in the aggregated plan as of the most recent valuation date falling within the 12-month period ending on the Determination Date. The Plan Administrator shall calculate the Top Heavy ratio with reference to the Determination Dates that fall within the same calendar year.

The accrued benefit of a Participant other than a Key Employee shall be determined under (a) the method, if any, that uniformly applies for accrual purposes under all defined benefit plans maintained by the Employer, or (b) if there is no such method, as if such benefit accrued not more rapidly than the slowest accrual rate permitted under the fractional rule of Code Section 411(b)(1)(C).

Code Section 416(g)(4)(H) as clarified by Revenue Ruling 2004-13 excludes from the definition of Top Heavy plan those plans that make only contributions described in Code Sections 401(k)(12) or 401(m)(11) for any Plan Year. If any other contributions are made (e.g., profit sharing contributions or forfeitures) for a Plan Year, the requirements of Code Section 416(g)(4)(H) are not met and the Plan is subject to the Top Heavy rules in Code Section 416 for that Plan Year.

Section 11.04 Top Heavy Vesting Schedule. For any Plan Year for which the Plan is Top Heavy, as determined in accordance with this Article XI, any Participant who severs from the employment of all Employers and all Affiliates shall have, as of the date thereof, a vested right to his entire Account Balance.

Section 11.05 Definitions. For purposes of applying the provisions of this Article XI:

- A. “Key Employee” means any Employee or former Employee (including any deceased Employee) who at any time during the Plan Year that includes the Determination Date was (i) an officer of the Employer having annual Compensation greater than $220,000 (as adjusted under Code Section 416(i)(1)), (ii) a more than five-percent owner of the Employer, or (iii) a more than one-percent owner of the Employer having annual Compensation of more than $220,000. The Plan Administrator shall make the determination of who is a Key Employee in accordance with Code Section 416(i) and the Treasury Regulations promulgated thereunder.
- B. “Non-Key Employee” is an Employee who does not meet the definition of Key Employee.
- C. “Compensation” shall mean the first $345,000 for 2024 (or such larger amount as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue may thereafter prescribe in accordance with Code Section 401(a)(17)) of Compensation as defined in Code Section 415(c)(3), but including amounts contributed by the Employer pursuant to a salary reduction agreement that are excludible from the Employee’s gross income under Section 125, “deemed compensation” under Code Section 125, Section 132(f)(4), Section 402(a)(8), Section 402(h) or Section 403(b) of the Code.
- D. “Required Aggregation Group” means:
 - (i) Each qualified plan of the Employer in which at least one Key Employee participates at any time during the five Plan Year period ending on the Determination Date; and
 - (ii) Any other qualified plan of the Employer that enables a plan described in (i) to meet the requirements of Code Section 401(a)(4) or Code Section 410.

The Required Aggregation Group includes any plan of the Employer which was maintained within the last five years ending on the Determination Date on which a top heaviness determination is being made if such plan would otherwise be part of the Required Aggregation Group for the Plan Year but for the fact it has been terminated.

- E. “Permissive Aggregation Group” is the Required Aggregation Group plus any other qualified plans maintained by the Employer, but only if such group would satisfy in the aggregate the requirements of Code Section 401(a)(4) and Code Section 410. The Plan Administrator shall determine which plans to take into account in determining the Permissive Aggregation Group.
- F. “Employer” shall mean all the members of a controlled group of corporations (as defined in Code Section 414(b)), of a commonly controlled group of trades or businesses (whether or not incorporated) (as defined in Code Section 414(c)), or an affiliated service group (as defined in Code Section 414(m)), of which the Employer is a part. However, the Plan Administrator shall not aggregate ownership interests in more than one member of a related group to determine whether an individual is a Key Employee because of his ownership interest in the Employer.
- G. “Determination Date” for any Plan Year is the Accounting Date of the preceding Plan Year or, in the case of the first Plan Year of the Plan, the Accounting Date of that Plan Year.

ARTICLE XII MISCELLANEOUS

Section 12.01 Evidence. Anyone required to give evidence under the terms of the Plan may do so by certificate, affidavit, document or other information that the person to act in reliance may consider pertinent, reliable and genuine, and to have been signed, made or presented by the proper party or parties. Both the Committee and the Trustee shall be fully protected in acting and relying upon any evidence described under the immediately preceding sentence.

Section 12.02 No Responsibility For Employer Action. Neither the Trustee nor the Committee shall have any obligation or responsibility with respect to any action required by the Plan to be taken by the Employer, any Participant or Eligible Employee, nor for the failure of any of the above persons to act or make any payment or contribution, or otherwise to provide any benefit contemplated under this Plan, nor shall the Trustee or the Committee be required to collect any contribution required under the Plan, or determine the correctness of the amount of any Employer contribution. Neither the Trustee nor the Committee need inquire into or be responsible for any action or failure to act on the part of the others. Any action required of a corporate Employer shall be by its Board or its designee.

Section 12.03 Fiduciaries Not Insurers. The Trustee, the Committee, the Plan Administrator and the Employer in no way guarantee the Trust Fund from loss or depreciation. The Employer does not guarantee the payment of any money that may be or becomes due to any person from the Trust Fund. The liability of the Committee, the Plan Administrator and the Trustee to make any payment from the Trust Fund at any time and all times is limited to the then available assets of the Trust.

Section 12.04 Waiver of Notice. Any person entitled to notice under the Plan may waive the notice, unless the Code or Treasury Regulations require the notice, or ERISA specifically or impliedly prohibits such a waiver.

Section 12.05 Successors. The Plan shall be binding upon all persons entitled to benefits under the Plan, their respective heirs and legal representatives, upon the Employer, its successors and assigns, and upon the Trustee, the Committee, the Plan Administrator and their successors.

Section 12.06 Word Usage. Words used in the masculine shall apply to the feminine where applicable, and wherever the context of the Plan dictates, the plural shall be read as singular and the singular as the plural.

Section 12.07 Headings. The headings are for reference only. In the event of a conflict between a heading and the content of a section, the content of the section shall control.

Section 12.08 Governing Law and Venue. In order to benefit Plan Participants by establishing a uniform application of law with respect to the administration of the Plan, the provisions of this Section shall apply. Indiana law shall determine all questions arising with respect to the provisions of the Plan, except to the extent superseded by federal law. Any suit, action or proceeding seeking to enforce any provision of, or based on any matter arising out of or in connection with, this Plan shall be brought in any court of the State of Indiana and of the United States for the Northern District of Indiana. The Company, each Related Employer that adopts the Plan, each Participant, and any related parties irrevocably and unconditionally consent to the exclusive jurisdiction of such courts in any such litigation related to this Plan and any transactions contemplated hereby. Such parties irrevocably and unconditionally waive any objection that venue is improper or that such litigation has been brought in an inconvenient forum.

Section 12.09 Employment Not Guaranteed. Nothing contained in this Plan, and nothing with respect to the establishment of the Trust, any modification or amendment to the Plan or the Trust, the creation of any Account, or the payment of any benefit, shall give any Employee, Employee-Participant or Beneficiary any right to continue employment, or any legal or equitable right against the Employer, or an Employee of the Employer, the Committee, the Trustee or its agents or employees, or the Plan Administrator. Nothing in the Plan shall be deemed or construed to impair or affect in any manner the right of the Employer, in its discretion, to hire Employees and, with or without cause, to discharge or terminate the service of Employees.

ARTICLE XIII PLAN ADOPTION

Section 13.01 Adoption Procedure. With the written consent of the Committee, any Related Employer may adopt the Plan and the Trust for its eligible employees by appropriate resolution, that shall specify the effective date of such adoption and that may contain such changes and variations in Plan terms as the Committee approves. Any such adoption shall be contingent upon a determination by the Internal Revenue Service that such resolution, in conjunction with the Plan and with the Trust, constitutes a qualified plan and trust under applicable provisions. An Employer adopting the Plan shall compile and submit all information required by the Trustee with reference to its Eligible Employees.

Section 13.02 Joint Employers. If an Employee receives Compensation simultaneously from more than one participating Employer, the total amount of such Compensation shall be considered for the purposes of the Plan as having been paid by one participating Employer and the respective participating Employers shall share pro-ratably in contributions to the Plan on account of said Employee.

Section 13.03 Expenses. Each participating Employer shall pay such part of actuarial and other necessary expenses incurred in the administration of the Plan as the Trustee shall determine Withdrawal. A participating Employer may withdraw from the Plan at any time by giving written notice of its intention to the Committee and the Trustee prior to the effective date of withdrawal; provided, however that such withdrawal may be subject to the provisions of Article XIV.

Section 13.04 Superseded Plans. If an Employer adopting the Plan already maintains a pension plan covering employees who shall be covered by the Plan, it may, with the consent of the Committee, provide in its resolution adopting the Plan for the merger, restatement and continuation, without discontinuance or termination, of its plan by the Plan.

ARTICLE XIV EXCLUSIVE BENEFIT, AMENDMENT, TERMINATION

Section 14.01 Exclusive Benefit. Except as provided under Article III, the Employer shall have no beneficial interest in any asset of the Trust and no part of any asset in the Trust shall ever revert to or be repaid to the Employer, either directly or indirectly; nor prior to the satisfaction of all liabilities with respect to the Participants and their Beneficiaries under the Plan, shall any part of the corpus or income of the Trust Fund, or any asset of the Trust, be (at any time) used for, or diverted to, purposes other than the exclusive benefit of the Participants or their Beneficiaries.

Section 14.02 Amendment By the Committee. The Committee shall have the right at any time and from time to time:

- A. To amend this agreement in any manner it deems necessary or advisable in order to qualify (or maintain qualification of) this Plan and the Trust created under it under the appropriate provisions of the Code; and
- B. To amend this agreement in any other manner.

However, no amendment shall authorize or permit any part of the Trust Fund (other than the part required to pay taxes and administration expenses) to be used for or diverted to purposes other than for the exclusive benefit of the Participants or their Beneficiaries or estates. No amendment shall cause or permit any portion of the Trust Fund to revert to or become a property of the Employer; and the Committee shall not make any amendment that affects the rights, duties or responsibilities of the Plan Administrator or the Committee without the written consent of the affected Plan Administrator or the affected member of the Committee. Furthermore, no amendment shall decrease a Participant's Account balance or accrued benefit or reduce or eliminate any benefit protected under Code Section 411(d)(6), with respect to a Participant with an Account balance or accrued benefit at the date of the amendment, except to the extent permitted under Code Section 412(c)(8).

The Committee shall make all amendments in writing. Each amendment shall state the date to which it is either retroactively or prospectively effective, and may be executed by any authorized member or other delegate of the Committee. Notwithstanding the foregoing, no oral representation shall act to amend the Plan in an manner or at any time.

Section 14.03 Discontinuance. The Committee shall have the right, at any time, to suspend or discontinue any Employer contributions under the Plan, or revoke the Employer's participation in the Plan. At the time of any such discontinuance or revocation, satisfactory evidence thereof and of any applicable conditions imposed shall be delivered to the Trustee. The Trustee shall thereafter transfer, deliver and assign Trust Fund assets allocable to the Participants employed by such Employer to such new trustee as shall have been designated by such Employer, in the event that it has established a separate pension plan for its Employees; provided however, that no such transfer shall be made if the result is the elimination or reduction of any benefit protected under Code Section 411(d)(6). If no successor is designated, the Trustee shall retain such assets for the Employees of such Employer pursuant to the provisions of the Plan and Trust. In no such event shall any part of the corpus or income of the Trust as it relates to such Employer be used for or diverted to purposes other than for the exclusive benefit of the Employees of such Employer.

The Committee shall have the right to terminate, at any time, this Plan and the Trust created under this agreement. The Plan shall terminate upon the first to occur of the following:

- A. The date terminated by action of the Committee.
- B. The dissolution, merger, consolidation or reorganization of the Company or the sale by the Company of all or substantially all of its assets, unless the successor or purchaser makes provision to continue the Plan, in which event the successor or purchaser shall substitute itself as the Plan Sponsor under this Plan.

Section 14.04 Full Vesting on Termination. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Plan to the contrary, upon either full or partial termination of the Plan, or, if applicable, upon the date of complete discontinuance of contributions to the Plan, an affected Participant's right to his Account shall be 100% nonforfeitable.

Section 14.05 Merger, Direct Transfer and Elective Transfer. The Trustee shall not consent to, or be a party to, any merger or consolidation with another plan, or to a transfer of assets or liabilities to another plan, unless immediately after the merger, consolidation or transfer, the surviving plan provides each Participant a benefit equal to or greater than the benefit each Participant would have received had the Plan terminated immediately before the merger or consolidation or transfer. The Trustee possesses the specific authority to enter into merger agreements or direct transfer of assets agreements with the trustees of other retirement plans described in Code Section 401(a) and to accept the direct transfer of plan assets, or to transfer plan assets, as a party to any such agreement, only upon the consent or direction of the Committee.

If permitted by the Committee in its discretion, the Trustee may accept a direct transfer of plan assets on behalf of an Employee prior to the date the Employee satisfies the Plan's eligibility condition(s). If the Trustee accepts such a direct transfer of plan assets, the Committee and the Trustee shall treat the Employee as a Participant for all purposes of the Plan except that the Employee shall not share in Employer contributions or Participant forfeitures under the Plan until he actually becomes a Participant in the Plan. The Trustee shall hold, administer and distribute the transferred assets as a part of the Trust Fund, and the Trustee shall maintain a separate Transfer Account for the benefit of the Employee on whose behalf the Trustee accepted the transfer in order to reflect the value of the transferred assets.

The Trustee may not consent to, or be a party to, a merger, consolidation or transfer of assets with a defined benefit plan, except with respect to an elective transfer, unless the Committee consents and so directs, and the transfer is consistent with the Code and with ERISA. The Trustee will hold, administer and distribute the transferred assets as a part of the Trust Fund, and the Trustee shall maintain a separate Transfer Account for the benefit of the Employee on whose behalf the Trustee accepted the transfer in order to reflect the value of the transferred assets. Unless a transfer of assets to this Plan is an elective transfer, the Plan will preserve all Code Section 411(d)(6) protected benefits with respect to those transferred assets, in the manner described in Section 14.02.

A transfer is an elective transfer if: (a) the transfer satisfies the first paragraph of this Section 14.05; (b) the transfer is voluntary, under a fully informed election by the Participant; (c) the Participant has an alternative that retains his Code Section 411(d)(6) protected benefits (including an option to leave his benefit in the transferor plan, if that plan is not terminating); (d) the transfer satisfies the applicable spousal consent requirements of the Code; (e) the transferor plan satisfies the joint and survivor notice requirements of the Code, if the Participant's transferred benefit is subject to those requirements; (f) the Participant has a right to immediate distribution from the transferor plan, in lieu of the elective transfer; (g) the transferred benefit is at least the greater of the single sum distribution provided by the transferor plan for which the Participant is eligible or the present value of the Participant's accrued benefit under the transferor plan payable at that plan's normal retirement age; (h) the Participant has a 100% nonforfeitable interest in the transferred benefit; and (i) the transfer otherwise satisfies applicable Treasury Regulations. An elective transfer may occur between qualified plans of any type.

If the Plan receives a direct transfer (by merger or otherwise) of elective contributions (or amounts treated as elective contributions) under a plan with a Code Section 401(k) arrangement, the distribution restrictions of Code Sections 401(k)(2) and (10) continue to apply to those transferred elective contributions.

- F. Next Gen Employees. Notwithstanding the foregoing, for any Eligible Employees who are or become Next Gen Employees, the Matching Contribution shall be an amount equal to 50% of the Pre-tax Contribution, Roth Contribution and After-tax Contribution made by or for each Participant, not to exceed 6% of the total Compensation of such Participant.
- G. Special Provision for Damage Prevention Coordinators from June 1, 2016 to April 30, 2019. For any new hire during this period into the position of Damage Prevention Coordinator, Matching Contributions shall be determined under subsection F above. SCHEDULE III

SPECIAL PROVISIONS FOR NIPSCO UNION EMPLOYEES

Section III.01 BACKGROUND AND APPLICABILITY. Effective December 31, 2008 (the “Merger Date”), the Northern Indiana Public Service Company Bargaining Unit Tax Deferred Savings Plan (“NIPSCO 401(k) Plan”) merged into the Plan and the assets of the NIPSCO 401(k) Plan transferred to the Plan. After the Merger Date, NIPSCO Union Employees participate in and are subject to the terms of the Plan and this Schedule III.

Prior to the Merger Date, NIPSCO Union Employees participated in and were governed by the terms of the NIPSCO 401(k) Plan. While operated as a separate plan with a separate trust up until the Merger Date, the NIPSCO 401(k) Plan is amended and restated pursuant to the terms of this restated Plan document (including this Schedule III) as of the Effective Date shall be operated in accordance with the terms set forth in the Plan as modified by this Schedule III.

The NIPSCO 401(k) Plan has been operated in accordance with all applicable recent legislation, including without limitation, the Economic Growth and Tax Relief Reconciliation Act of 2001 (“EGTRRA”) (as such provisions were previously adopted and reflected in a restated plan document effective January 1, 2003); revisions required to comply with Internal Revenue Code Section 415; the Pension Protection Act of 2006 (PPA); and the Heroes Earnings Assistance and Relief Tax Act of 2008 (“HEART”). Upon amendment of the Plan to comply with all recent legislation (whether by this restated Plan or subsequent amendment), such amendment shall also apply to the assets transferred from the NIPSCO 401(k) Plan, and such plan shall be deemed to have been amended effective as of the specified date(s) required by applicable legislation.

Section III.02 PLAN VS. SPECIAL PROVISIONS. Except as set forth in this Schedule III or as specifically otherwise provided elsewhere in the Plan, the provisions of the Plan shall apply to NIPSCO Union Employees. This Schedule III sets forth special provisions that shall apply solely to NIPSCO Union Employees.

Section III.03 ELIGIBILITY, PARTICIPATION AND ENROLLMENT. The provisions of Article II (regarding Plan eligibility and enrollment) shall apply to the Account balance of any NIPSCO Union Employee in the same manner as other Account balances as described therein. Accordingly, NIPSCO Union Employees are eligible to participate in the Plan on their Employment Commencement Date or Reemployment Commencement Date and shall be subject to the general enrollment provisions. However, the automatic enrollment provisions of Section 2.01B shall not apply to any NIPSCO Union Employee hired prior to June 1, 2009. The Automatic Percentage Amount for NIPSCO Union Employees hired or rehired on or after June 1, 2009 shall be 3% of Compensation. The Automatic Percentage Amount for any NIPSCO Union Employees hired or rehired on or after January 1, 2015 shall be 6% of Compensation.

Section III.04 MATCHING CONTRIBUTIONS. The Matching Contributions of NIPSCO Union Employees shall be determined in accordance with Section 3.04 and 3.05, and Schedule I.

Pursuant to Section 1.44 of the Plan, as amended, for any Employee employed in the position of Damage Prevention Coordinator, Matching Contributions shall be determined as provided in Schedule I, as amended during the period from June 1, 2016 to April 30, 2019. Any Matching Contributions made to such Damage Prevention Coordinators during this period shall be invested as contributions for union Participants are invested in accordance with Section 8.07 of the Plan, as amended.

Notwithstanding the matching allocation provisions of Section 3.05 and Section 8.07, Matching Contributions contributed on behalf of NIPSCO Union Employees on or after April 15, 2020, shall be invested in accordance with the investment allocation selected by each NIPSCO Union Employee, in accordance with Section 8.05 and 8.06, rather than invested automatically in the Company Stock Fund.

Section III.05 PROFIT SHARING CONTRIBUTIONS. As provided in Section 3.07A regarding eligibility for Profit Sharing Contributions for Employees subject to collective bargaining agreements, no NIPSCO collective bargaining agreement currently provides for a Profit Sharing Contribution to be allocated to any NIPSCO Union Employee. For purposes of this Section 111.05, former employees of NIFL and Kokomo who became employees of NIPSCO pursuant to the merger of those entities effective July 1, 2011 shall be considered NIPSCO Union Employees. The prior Kokomo or NIFL collective bargaining agreements did not provide for a Profit Sharing Contribution to be allocated to any such former employees of NIFL and Kokomo and, pursuant to the foregoing sentence, the current NIPSCO collective bargaining agreement to which such former NIFL and Kokomo employee became subject also does not provide for a Profit Sharing Contribution to Employees subject to the agreement.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, and pursuant to Section 1.44 of the Plan, as amended, any Employee employed in the position of Damage Prevention Coordinator during the period from June 1, 2016 to April 30, 2019 and eligible for Profit Sharing Contributions immediately prior to June 1, 2016, or if later, immediately prior to becoming employed in or transferring to the position of Damage Prevention Coordinator, shall be eligible for Profit Sharing Contributions under the Plan while employed in such position to the extent and on the same terms applicable to such Employees immediately prior to employment in the position of Damage Prevention Coordinator. In addition, any Employee who is a new hire during the period from June 1, 2016 to April 30, 2019 into the position of Damage Prevention Coordinator shall be eligible for Profit Sharing Contributions under the provisions set forth in Sections 3.06 and 3.07 of the Plan. In clarification of the foregoing, no Employee employed in the position of Damage Prevention Coordinator during the period from June 1, 2016 to April 30, 2019 shall be subject to the first paragraph above that provides no Profit Sharing Contributions for NIPSCO Union Employees. Any such Profit Sharing Contributions that may be made to Damage Prevention Coordinators during this period shall be invested as contributions for union Participants are invested in accordance with Section 8.07 of the Plan, as amended.

POLICY SUBJECT: Vacation

EFFECTIVE DATE: January 1, 2004

REVISED: January 31, 2024

This policy covers regular full time and part time employees of NiSource companies whose terms and conditions of employment are not covered by a collective bargaining agreement. Note that an employee's individual vacation hours cannot be donated to another employee.

Vacation Year

The vacation year runs from January 1 through December 31 of each year.

Vacation Calculation

Vacation is granted on January 1 and is calculated based upon full years of service on the preceding December 31 (note the exception under New Hire and Rehired Employees). If service has been broken, the service date established upon return to employment will be used to calculate the vacation grant utilizing the vacation schedule in effect at time of rehire. Prior service as an intern, summer, or temporary employee will not count towards vacation eligibility.

In order to receive the annual grant, employees on short term or long-term disability or any other type of leave of absence or non-work status must return to work at least one day in a new year.

New Hire and Rehired Employees

A new or rehired employee in the initial year of employment is granted vacation based on a proration of 3 weeks (120 hours) of vacation unless a rehired employee's eligible previous service makes the granted vacation 4 weeks (160 hours).

The proration is calculated based on the remaining full months in a calendar year beginning with the month after hire date month. For example:

- Employee hired April 1, 2023; first year 2024 vacation entitlement would be 8/12 (May-Dec) x 120 hours = 80 hours taken with supervisor approval or remaining can be carried over subject to carryover limits. Beginning January 1, 2024, employee would be entitled to 3 weeks (120 hours) vacation (if applicable could be 160 hours for rehired employees depending on previous service and break-in-service).

NOTE: Any exceptions to these new hire and rehire provisions must be approved by an Officer.

General Provisions

1. Vacation will be scheduled according to requirements established at the Company or Department level.
2. Vacation will be paid at the employee's regular base rate of pay, exclusive of any premium or temporary upgraded rate at the time the vacation is taken.
3. Employees are required to use 80 hours of their vacation grant per year or forfeit the difference between the number of hours used and 80 hours (exception would be in the first year of hire or rehire if vacation grant is less than 80 hours). However, if extenuating circumstances exist that are beyond the employee's control, an employee, with approvals from the employee's supervisor and the next level of management, may elect to carry over or to bank such unused vacation hours that would otherwise be subject to forfeiture.
4. After using 80 hours of their vacation grant, employees may elect to carry over up to 80 hours of unused vacation into the following year without supervisor approval. If extenuating circumstances exist that are beyond the employee's control, an employee, with approvals from the employee's supervisor and the next level of management, may elect to carry over more than 80 hours of unused vacation into the following year.
5. If no timely election has been made to carry over or to bank unused vacation hours, an employee will be deemed to have elected to carry over up to 80 unused vacation hours (assuming the employee has first used 80 hours of vacation) to the following year.
6. Any employee election referred to in this policy (other than the deemed election described immediately above) must be made in writing or electronically within the timeframes and in the manner prescribed by NiSource.

Vacation Banking

Employees age 45 and older ("qualified employees") are qualified to participate in the vacation banking program. After using 80 hours of their vacation grant, such employees may elect to bank up to 160 hours of unused vacation per year, up to a lifetime banking limit of 640 hours, during the annual vacation banking event.

If a qualified employee has not made an election to bank unused vacation hours or to carry over all such hours to the following year, such employee will be deemed to have elected first to carry over up to 80 unused vacation hours to the following year (assuming the employee has first used 80 hours of vacation), and then to have elected to bank up to 160 of any remaining unused vacation hours, subject to the lifetime banking limit.

At retirement or separation, qualified employees can bank unused vacation and floating holidays, subject to the annual limit of 160 hours and lifetime banking limit of 640 hours. Accrued vacation is not eligible for banking.

At retirement or separation, qualified employees will receive a lump-sum cash payment for their banked hours, calculated at their pay rate at the time they leave. They will have the option to defer part of the payment into their 401(k) plan based on their current deferral election on file with the 401K administrator, within IRS limits, and receive the eligible company match. In addition, the payment will count as additional eligible earnings toward retirees' final average pay or account balance pension calculations, if applicable.

Under the provisions of the federal Family and Medical Leave Act, qualified employees can "un-bank" and use banked vacation hours after they have depleted their available unused vacation and floating holiday hours for the year.

Vacation and Other Types of Leave

1. An employee will not be permitted to take vacation while receiving Worker's Compensation payments, if such payment would result in the employee receiving greater than 100% of pay.
2. Vacation taken as a result of a serious health condition covered under the Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) will count toward the twelve-week FMLA maximum leave allowance.
3. Employees on reduced-pay or no-pay sick leave/short-term disability may request vacation paid in lieu to supplement sick pay.
4. Employees will not receive credit for vacation accrued while on long-term disability, - or a Leave of Absence unless they return to work full time within one year.
5. Vacation for employees entering Military Service is covered in the Military Leave of Absence Policy.

Vacation Paid at Long Term Disability

Accrued, Unused and Banked vacation will be paid to employees at the beginning of long-term disability or at the end of the year in which the employee began long-term disability. Payment will be calculated on the basis of 1/12 of the vacation eligibility for each completed month of service. The accrual rate will be based on full years of service at the time of Long-Term Disability.

Vacation Paid at Separation

Unused and banked vacation will be paid to employees at separation.

Accrued vacation will be paid to employees at separation due to involuntary severance, retirement, or death. Payment will be calculated on the basis of 1/12 of the vacation eligibility for each completed month of service in the final year of employment. The accrual rate will be based on full years of service at the end of the year of separation.

An employee will be disqualified from the right to receive unused and banked vacation pay under the Policy for the following reasons:

- An employee does not return all company property.
- An employee owes an outstanding debt to the Company at time of separation.

Vacation Schedules – Exempt and Non-Exempt employees prior to January 1, 2004

All Exempt employees hired or rehired on or after 01/01/10 and Non-Exempt employees hired or rehired on or after January 1, 2013 will be covered by the following vacation schedule:

Full Years of Service at 12/31/XX	Vacation Hours Granted the Following Vacation Year
January 1 after initial year of hire*	120
4	160

*If applicable could be 160 hours for rehired employees depending on previous service and break-in-service.

Exempt employees hired or rehired on or after January 1, 2010, and Non-Exempt employees hired or rehired on or after January 1, 2013 will receive an additional five “bonus” days of vacation only during the succeeding year after every five-year service anniversary.

For example, after completing five full years of service, an employee will receive five extra vacation days during the following calendar year (which means a total of 25 vacation days).

The following year, the employee's vacation level reverts back to the normal 20 days.

Non-Exempt to Exempt Transfers

Non-Exempt employees hired or rehired on or after January 1, 2010, and before January 1, 2013, who transfer to an Exempt position will be granted additional vacation hours (if applicable) January 1 of the following year.

Exempt or Non-exempt to Union Transfers

These transferred employees will be under the applicable union vacation schedule upon the date of transfer.

Vacation Schedule – Part-Time and Phased Retirement Employees

Part-time employees will be covered by one of the above schedules based on employment status and vacation plan participation as of hire date. Their annual vacation grant will be pro-rated based on the number of normal hours worked in a week.

Hours granted based on weekly schedule of normal hours worked:

30 - 39 hours per week-	85% of annual grant
20 - 29 hours per week-	65% of annual grant
15 - 19 hours per week-	45% of annual grant
14 or less hours per week-	25% of annual grant

New Hire and Rehired Part-Time Employees

A new or rehired part-time employee in the initial year of employment is granted vacation based on a proration of 3 weeks (120 hours) of vacation unless a rehired employee's eligible previous service makes the granted vacation 4 weeks (160 hours).

The proration is calculated based on the remaining full months in a calendar year beginning with the month after hire date month and the percent of annual grant above. For example:

-Part-time employee hired April 1, 2023; first year vacation entitlement would be 8/12 (May-Dec) x 120 hours x 65% = 52 hours taken with supervisor approval or remaining can be carried over subject to carryover limits. Beginning January 1, 2024, employee would be entitled to 3 weeks (120 hours) pro-rated vacation based on their weekly schedule above.

NOTE: Any exceptions to these new hire and rehire provisions must be approved by an Officer.

Mid-Year Full-Time to Part-Time Employee Change

Employees entitled to remaining full time grant in year of change. Beginning January 1 of the year following the change part-time vacation determined by annual grant percentage above.

Mid-Year Part-Time to Full-Time Employee Change

Part-time and Full-time months prorated based on month of change. Examples:

-Change effective March 1 and no vacation taken for that year as of change date.

$9/12 \text{ (Apr-Dec)} \times 120 \text{ hours} = 90 \text{ hours}$ plus part-time annual grant 102 hours (85% of 120 hours) $\times 3/12 \text{ (Jan-Mar)} = 26 \text{ hours}$ so employee entitled to 116 hours (90 + 26) after change for that calendar year.

-Change effective March 1 and vacation used for that year as of change date.

$9/12 \text{ (Apr-Dec)} \times 120 \text{ hours} = 90 \text{ hours}$ plus part-time annual grant 102 hours (85% of 120 hours) $\times 3/12 \text{ (Jan-Mar)} = 20 \text{ hours}$ minus 15 hours taken as of change date so employee entitled to 95 hours (90 + 20 - 15) after change for that calendar year.

Program: Business Development Program
Tuition Reimbursement

EFFECTIVE DATE: Separation Date (defined herein)

APPROVED: Robert Campbell

1. Purpose

The ability and the effectiveness of an employee and the value added to NiSource Inc. (the "Company") may be enhanced if the employee acquires additional, formal education in work-related disciplines where the Company has a need for improving its knowledge base, talent and/or resources. NiSource subsidiaries will reimburse eligible employees a part of the expenses incurred in obtaining such additional education, subject to its prior approval. The Company reserves the right to reject any course and/or program application. The Company also reserves the right to modify or terminate the program at any time.

2. Eligibility

Any active, full-time exempt or non-exempt employee, who has been with the Company for six months, may apply for course/program approval. If an employee terminates for any reason, or if the Company subsidiary by whom he is employed ceases to be a member of the same controlled group of corporations as the Company, within the meaning of Section 414(b) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, eligibility ends at time of termination or at the time the subsidiary ceases to be a member of the controlled group.

This Policy is intended to be limited in scope and, unless specifically provided by the terms of a collective bargaining agreement, bargaining unit personnel are not eligible to participate in this program. To the extent that bargaining unit personnel are eligible under a Collective Bargaining Agreement, such eligibility is limited to those courses of study identified by the Policy and approved by the employee's Vice President or General Manager. For bargaining unit personnel not specifically covered by the terms of a Collective Bargaining Agreement, participation in the education assistance program shall be at the Company's sole discretion and eligibility shall be limited to those courses of study identified by the Policy and approved by the employee's Vice President or General Manager.

3. Approved Coursework

In this Program, "course" is defined as a single subject; "program" or "curriculum" is defined as a group of courses designated by the institution as a requirement for completion.

For Exempt employees, any course, program or curriculum that is pertinent to and, in the opinion of the Company, of a type that will be of mutual benefit to Company operations, may be approved under the program for reimbursement. Approving Managers should take into consideration the employee's performance and expectations of ascending to higher levels of accountability which are clearly documented and supported by the employee's DFWs and/or the Talent Review Process.

For Non-Exempt employees, only courses/curriculum that are related to and/or may lead to a degree in engineering or a geology/sciences related field will be considered for approval at the function leader's discretion. In rare situations, if a Manager has a documented development plan that will improve an employee's ability to ascend to an exempt/supervisory position in the near future, those requests will be considered.

Pursuit of study of any subject, course or curriculum should not interfere with the employee's regular work schedule, compromise or interfere with the employee's job performance, or require the scheduling of time away from the regular work schedule for classroom attendance or class preparation. Courses with requirements that conflict with these guidelines must have Vice President approval and include alternative arrangements that ensure no interference with Company operations. To qualify under this Program, coursework must be taken at a college or university accredited by a Regional Accrediting Organization recognized by the Council for Higher Education accreditation.

Degrees/Curriculum/Courses qualifying under the Program include:

- Undergraduate Degrees
- Master Degrees
- Correspondence/Distance Learning/Online Courses
- Degree-completion courses
- Certification preparation courses (i.e., Professional Engineer, etc.)
- Non-degree work-related courses
- Pre-requisite courses
- Life Experience Assessment Programs (LEAP)
- Credit for Life Experience Programs (CLEP)

A maximum of nine credit hours or three courses per semester will be allowed, except in the case of bona fide degree-completion programs that have a modified semester plan. The Company reserves the right to reject any elective that is clearly unrelated to the employee's major area of study or that covers inappropriate subject matter.

4. Expenses Qualifying for Reimbursement / Budget Responsibility

For all employees, tuition, books, lab fees and graduation fees will be reimbursed at 70% so long as the employee completes the course with a passing grade or pass for a pass/fail course.

Reimbursement will not be made for student activity fees, parking fees, non-resident fees, tools, supplies, shipping charges, tuition financing charges, meals, mileage, or coursework for which the employee receives financial assistance from another source.

No reimbursement shall be made for expenses related to a course completed by a Spin-Off Employee if the Employee Request for Reimbursement and all required supporting documentation are submitted to the Tuition Reimbursement Coordinator on or after the Separation Date.

"Separation Date" means July 1, 2015, or if later, the date of the consummation of all transactions necessary to effectuate the CPG Spin-Off.

"CPG Spin-Off" means the transaction pursuant to which there was distributed to holders of shares of common stock of the Company, on a pro rata basis, all of the outstanding shares of common stock of Columbia Pipeline Group, Inc.

A "Spin-Off Employee" is an employee of Columbia Pipeline Group, Inc. or its affiliates who was covered under this Program immediately prior to the Separation Date and who became ineligible for such coverage in connection with the CPG Spin-Off.

Reimbursements for eligible expenses will be capped at $5,250 per calendar year for all employees. For programs that have a majority of classes in one calendar year, but the reimbursement is requested in the next calendar year, those courses and related reimbursement will be considered (for cap related purposes only) to have occurred in the previous year when a majority of classes were scheduled.

If an employee voluntarily terminates or is terminated for cause before or after completion of the program within specified time limits, the employee will be required to reimburse the Company based on the Tuition Repayment Agreement.

Reimbursements made in relation to this program will be the responsibility of the department/function of the requesting employee and will be funded from that specific budget. In situations where two functions are involved (i.e., a non-exempt finance employee makes application to take engineering courses), the two function leaders may discuss to determine if cost sharing is appropriate.

5. Procedure for Program/Course Approval

- a. Employee fills out Tuition Reimbursement Program Application form. A complete course curriculum outlining all degree requirements must be included with the application.
- b. Employee must also fill out and sign Tuition Repayment Agreement.
- c. Employee's manager approves application and repayment agreement (Business Unit VP/Leader also approves application only), and forwards to the designated Tuition Reimbursement Coordinator. Tuition Reimbursement Coordinator must receive applications at least fifteen (15) days prior to program start date to allow time for review.

- e. Employees must re-apply for Program approval if:
 - i. They elect to pursue a different area of study or courses not on the outline;
 - ii. They elect to pursue previously approved Program at another institution; or
 - iii. They do not pursue coursework for a period of twelve (12) months.
- f. As courses are taken within a previously approved Program, employee e-mails notice of course, course number and start date to Tuition Reimbursement Coordinator at least 15 days prior to course start date.
- g. Tuition Reimbursement Coordinator e-mails confirmation of course to employee.

6. Procedure for Reimbursement

- a. Employee pays for course and other qualifying expenses, fills out Employee Request for Reimbursement form and submits original copy of itemized receipt to Tuition Reimbursement Coordinator. This step can be taken prior to completion of course, but reimbursement will not be made until satisfactory course completion.
- b. Tuition Reimbursement Coordinator notifies Payroll Department of reimbursement amount. Reimbursement is processed corresponding with employee's next regular pay cycle as a separate line item on the pay advice. Per IRS guidelines, reimbursements are non-taxable up to $5,250 per employee year. Amounts above $5,250 will be included in taxable income.
- c. Upon completion of course, employee forwards original copy of grade report or certificate of completion to Tuition Reimbursement Coordinator. Original grade reports and receipts will not be returned; therefore, employees should ensure they maintain duplicate records.

- d. Subsequent reimbursements will not be made under this Program until passing grades are received to document completion of courses that were previously taken and reimbursed.
- e. In order to qualify, requests for reimbursement, original grade reports and receipts must be sent to Tuition Reimbursement Coordinator within 60 days after course is completed.
- f. Employees will not be paid for expenses prior to the expenses being incurred (i.e., no advances).

7. Program Administration

The HR Delivery Team coordinates the Tuition Reimbursement program is. The HR Delivery Team will answer questions about the Program, make available all forms necessary for participation, and process routine applications and request for reimbursement.

NISOURCE INC.

ADOPTION ASSISTANCE PLAN

As Amended and Restated Effective as of January 1, 2016

NISOURCE INC. ADOPTION ASSISTANCE PLAN

1. How the Plan Works.

Effective January 1, 1999, Columbia Energy Group ("Columbia") established the Adoption Assistance Plan for employees of Columbia. Effective January 1, 2004, the Adoption Assistance Plan was amended and restated to broaden its coverage, and was renamed the NiSource Inc. Adoption Assistance Plan (the "Plan"). Effective January 1, 2011, the Plan was amended and restated for the purpose, among other things, of increasing the maximum amount of qualified adoption expenses that may be reimbursed by the Plan. Effective July 1, 2015, the Plan was amended and restated in connection with the CPG Spin-Off (defined below) and to reflect certain statutory, regulatory and plan design changes. This is an amended and restated version of the Plan, effective as of January 1, 2016, that reflects certain statutory, regulatory and plan design changes.

The purpose of the Plan is to offset a portion of qualified adoption expenses by providing financial assistance in the adoption of an eligible child. Subject to the terms and conditions below, NiSource Inc. (the "Company") and its Related Employers (each an "Employer") will reimburse up to $3,500 of qualified adoption expenses for each successful adoption of an eligible child. A "Related Employer" is (1) any corporation that is a member of a controlled group of corporations (as defined in Section 414(b) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code")) that includes the Company; (2) any trade or business (whether or not incorporated) that is under common control (as defined in Section 414(c) of the Code) with the Company; and (3) any member of an affiliated service group (as defined in Section 414(m) of the Code) that includes the Company.

2. Eligibility.

Subject to the other terms and conditions of this Plan, an Employer will reimburse qualified adoption expenses that were paid or incurred while an individual is an Employee who is actively at work, provided the expenses are incurred in connection with an adoption of an eligible child that becomes final while the individual is an Employee. Notwithstanding the foregoing or any other provision of this Plan, with respect to a CPG Spin-Off Employee, no reimbursement of qualified adoption expenses will be made if the Adoption Reimbursement Claim Form (referred to in paragraph 5), together with all required documentation, is not submitted to the Plan on or before the Separation Date.

An "Employee" is (1) a full-time, salaried employee of an Employer, (2) a full-time, non-union, hourly employee of an Employer or (3) a full-time or part-time union employee of an Employer, if the employee's union has collectively bargained for participation in the Plan. No independent contractor shall be treated as an Employee during the period he or she renders service as an independent contractor. Any person retroactively or in any other way found to be a common law employee will not be eligible under the Plan for any period during which he or she was not treated as an Employee by the Committee (defined below). The following restrictions apply:

- Employees who are on a long-term disability or salary continuation status at the time the adoption is finalized are not eligible for reimbursement.
- Employees who are on a Family and Medical Leave Act and/or approved leave of absence are eligible for reimbursement of qualified adoption expenses from the Plan when they have returned to work, if the expenses meet the Plan requirements.

Except for a part-time union employee whose union has collectively bargained for participation in the Plan, part-time and temporary employees are not eligible for the Plan. Adoption benefits will be made available to new eligible Employees immediately upon hire. If an Employee and spouse are both Employees, only one Employee can utilize the benefit. Eligible children must be under age 18, except where the state in which the Employee resides has determined that the adopted child has a special need.

Participation under the Plan will end on the earliest to occur of the following: (i) the date an individual is no longer an Employee eligible to participate in the Plan, (ii) the date the Employee terminates employment with an Employer, or (iii) the date the Plan is terminated.

“CPG” means Columbia Pipeline Group, Inc., a Delaware corporation.

“CPG Spin-Off” means the transaction pursuant to which there was distributed to holders of shares of common stock of the Company, on a pro rata basis, all of the outstanding shares of common stock of CPG

A “CPG Spin-Off Employee” is an employee of CPG or its affiliates who was covered under this Plan immediately prior to the Separation Date and who became ineligible for such coverage in connection with the CPG Spin-Off.

“Separation Date” means July 1, 2015.

3. Financial Reimbursement.

Qualified adoption expenses are reimbursable up to a maximum of $3,500 per child; provided, however, that qualified adoption expenses paid or incurred prior to January 1, 2011 shall be reimbursed up to a maximum of only $2,500 per child. Qualified adoption expenses include the following, provided that the expenses are paid or incurred by the Employee and are directly related to and have as their principal purpose, the legal adoption by the Employee of an eligible child, are not incurred in violation of state or federal law or in carrying out any surrogate parenting arrangement, are not for the adoption of the child of the Employee’s spouse and are not reimbursed by another source:

- Agency and placement fees
- Medical expenses of birthmother (directly related to the adoption)
- Medical expenses of the eligible child (directly related to the adoption)
- Legal fees and court costs

- Required travel/lodging expenses
- Required temporary foster care
- Immigration, immunization and translation fees

An eligible child is an individual who has not attained age 18 or who is physically or mentally incapable of caring for himself.

Qualified adoption expenses shall determined in accordance with Code Section 137 and any rules, regulations or other guidance issued by the Internal Revenue Service thereunder or under Code Section 23, including without limitation the instructions to Internal Revenue Service Form 8839, Qualified Adoption Expenses.

4. Adoption Expense Reimbursement for a Spouse's Child.

Notwithstanding the preceding paragraph, the Employer will reimburse the actual expenses, up to a maximum of $3,500, for the uncontested adoption by an Employee of a spouse's child or children. Amounts so reimbursed are not qualified adoption expenses for purposes of the Code exclusion from income provisions or the adoption tax credit. Consequently, amounts reimbursed under this paragraph are includable in the gross income of the Employee and are subject to federal and state income tax withholding, FUTA, FICA, and unemployment taxes. An Employee who plans to request reimbursement from the Plan for such expenses should consult with a tax advisor before submitting expenses to the Employer for reimbursement.

5. Procedure for Reimbursement.

Reimbursement of adoption expenses can begin as soon as the adoption is finalized. Employees must submit a legal adoption agreement along with the Adoption Reimbursement Claim Form to the address indicated on the Claim Form to begin the reimbursement process. All expenses for an adoption should be submitted together, and itemized receipts substantiating the amount and nature of the expenses incurred need to be attached for documentation. Employees shall furnish the plan administrator with any other evidence, data or information the plan administrator considers necessary or desirable to administer the Plan. The Adoption Reimbursement Claim Form is available through MySource for Human Resources at 1-888-640-3320. To be considered for reimbursement, all expenses must be submitted no later than twelve months after the adoption becomes final.

6. Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA).

The Employer recognizes that the adoption process may require time off from work. Employees who adopt may apply for leave under the Family and Medical Leave Act for up to 12 weeks. Employees are requested to provide their manager with as much preliminary information on need for time off as possible. This will prevent unplanned interruptions in the work unit while allowing the Employee to take necessary leave time.

7. Coordination with Other Benefits.

The Employer will not reimburse an Employee for adoption expenses that have been paid through another plan (e.g., Employee and spouse's medical plan, health care spending accounts, or a spouse's employer adoption assistance plan).

8. Taxation of Reimbursements.

The $3,500 maximum reimbursement for adoption assistance to an Employee under paragraph 3 is excludable from the Employee's gross income if his or her family's modified adjusted gross income ("MAGI") does not exceed $201,920 (effective January 1, 2016 and as adjusted thereafter for inflation). If the Employee family's MAGI is between $201,921 and $241,919 (effective January 1, 2016 and as adjusted thereafter for inflation), part of the reimbursement will be treated as taxable income to the Employee. If the Employee family's MAGI is $241,920 or more (effective January 1, 2016 and as adjusted thereafter for inflation), all of the reimbursement will be treated as taxable income to the Employee. State taxes may also apply to reimbursements made under the Plan.

The Employer will not withhold income taxes on payments for qualified adoption expenses under the Plan. The Employer will withhold FICA and FUTA taxes from these amounts. If all or part of the reimbursement is taxable to the Employee, it must be included in his or her gross income with applicable withholding for income, FICA and FUTA tax purposes. An Employee's withholding may not be enough to cover the tax on those payments; therefore, it is the Employee's responsibility to give the Employer a new form W-4 to adjust withholding, or to make estimated tax payments, to avoid a penalty for underpayment of estimated tax.

9. Additional Considerations.

In addition to the tax exclusion of reimbursements under the Plan described in paragraph 8, the Code allows families with MAGI of $201,920 or less (effective January 1, 2016 and as adjusted thereafter for inflation) to take a tax credit for qualified adoption expenses of up to $13,460 (effective January 1, 2016 and as adjusted thereafter for inflation). If the Employee family's MAGI is between $201,921 and $241,919 (effective January 1, 2016 and as adjusted thereafter for inflation), the Employee may take a partial credit. If the Employee family's MAGI is $241,920 or more (effective January 1, 2016 and as adjusted thereafter for inflation), the Employee may not take the credit.

An Employee could receive both the tax exclusion of reimbursements under the Plan and the tax credit under the Code, as long as the reimbursement and the tax credit cover different expenses.

If a child with special needs is adopted, the Code allows families, subject to the income limits, to take the maximum tax credit even if they have no qualified adoption expenses. A "child with special needs" means any child if (i) a State has determined that the child cannot or should not be returned to the home of his or her parents, (ii) such State has determined that there exists with respect to the child a specific factor or condition (such as his or her ethnic background, age, or membership in a minority or sibling group, or the presence of factors such as medical conditions or physical, mental, or emotional handicaps) because of which it is reasonable to conclude that such child cannot be placed with adoptive parents without providing adoption assistance, and (iii) such child is a citizen or resident of the United States (as defined in Code Section 217(h)(3)).

For many Employees, it may be most advantageous to take as large a tax credit as allowed by the Code before receiving a Plan reimbursement from the Employer. If an Employee expects to use both the tax credit and the Plan reimbursement, he or she will want to carefully plan the amount of reimbursement requested under the Plan because (except for expenses related to the adoption of a special needs child) an Employee cannot take the tax credit for any expenses for which he or she received a reimbursement under the Plan. An Employee is responsible for understanding the tax treatment of reimbursements under this Plan and of the tax credit provided under the Code, and for claiming the applicable income exclusion by filing Form 8839 with his or her federal income taxes. Accordingly, an Employee should consult his or her own tax advisor in connection with these tax issues. Neither the Company, nor any Employer, nor the Committee is responsible for, or makes any guarantee concerning, the tax consequences of reimbursements made under the Plan or of an Employee's decision to obtain reimbursement under the Plan or to seek a tax credit under the Code.

10. Nondiscrimination.

The Plan is intended not to discriminate in favor of certain highly compensated employees as defined in Code Section 414(q). If, in the judgment of the plan administrator, the operation of the Plan in any plan year would result in such prohibited discrimination, then the plan administrator shall, in its full discretion, select and exclude from eligibility and/or coverage under the Plan such Employees as shall be necessary to assure that, in the judgment of the plan administrator, the Plan does not discriminate.

11. Administration of the Plan.

The NiSource Benefits Committee (the "Committee") administers the Plan and has sole discretionary authority to interpret the Plan, to make eligibility and benefit determinations, and to make factual determinations in connection with the Plan. Any determinations of the Committee are final and binding.

12. Governing Law and Venue.

The Plan shall be governed by and construed according to the Code, and the laws of the State of Indiana (without regard to the conflicts of law principles thereof), to the extent Indiana law does not conflict with the Code, and to the extent Indiana law is not preempted by the Code. In order to benefit participants under this Plan by establishing a uniform application of law with respect to the administration of the Plan, the provisions of this Section 12 shall apply. Any suit, action or proceeding seeking to enforce any provision of, or based on any matter arising out of or in connection with, this Plan shall be brought in any court of the State of Indiana or in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Indiana. The Company, each Employer, each participant, and any related parties irrevocably and unconditionally consent to the exclusive jurisdiction of such courts in any such litigation related to this Plan and any transactions contemplated hereby. Such parties irrevocably and unconditionally waive any objection that venue is improper or that such litigation has been brought in an inconvenient forum.

13. Amendment or Termination.

The Committee reserves the right to amend the Plan at any time for any purpose. The Committee further reserves the right to terminate the Plan at any time, in whole or in part, for any reason.

[Signature page follows]

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, this amendment and restatement of the Plan is hereby executed on this 17th day of December, 2015, by the duly authorized officer of the Company, to be effective as of January 1, 2016.

FIRST AMENDMENT TO THE
NISOURCE INC. ADOPTION ASSISTANCE PLAN

1. Section 2, “Eligibility” of the Plan is hereby amended to recite in its entirety as follows:

2. Eligibility.

Subject to the other terms and conditions of this Plan, an Employer will reimburse qualified adoption expenses that were paid or incurred while an individual is an Employee who is actively at work, provided the expenses are incurred in connection with an adoption of an eligible child that becomes final while the individual is an Employee. Notwithstanding the foregoing or any other provision of this Plan, with respect to a CPG Spin-Off Employee, no reimbursement of qualified adoption expenses will be made if the Adoption Reimbursement Claim Form (referred to in paragraph 5), together with all required documentation, is not submitted to the Plan on or before the Separation Date.

An “Employee” is (1) a full-time, salaried employee of an Employer, (2) a full-time, non-union, hourly employee of an Employer or (3) a full-time or part-time union employee of an Employer, if the employee’s union has collectively bargained for participation in the Plan. No independent contractor shall be treated as an Employee during the period he or she renders service as an independent contractor. Any person retroactively or in any other way found to be a common law employee will not be eligible under the Plan for any period during which he or she was not treated as an Employee by the Committee (defined below). The following restrictions apply:

- Employees who are on a long-term disability or salary continuation status at the time the adoption is finalized are not eligible for reimbursement.
- Employees who are on a Family and Medical Leave Act and/or approved leave of absence are eligible for reimbursement of qualified adoption expenses from the Plan when they have returned to work, if the expenses meet the Plan requirements.

Except for a part-time union employee whose union has collectively bargained for participation in the Plan, part-time and temporary employees are not eligible for the Plan. Adoption benefits will be made available to new eligible Employees immediately upon hire. If an Employee and spouse are both Employees, only one Employee can utilize the benefit. Eligible children must be under age 18, except where the state in which the Employee resides has determined that the adopted child has a special need.

For purposes of the Plan, the term “full-time, non-union, hourly employee of an Employer” shall include an employee employed by the Northern Indiana Public Service Company (“NIPSCO”) in the role of Damage Prevention Coordinator with an assigned job code of NP3459 (or subsequent job title and/or code that becomes applicable for this specific position, as recognized by the Plan Administrator) (hereinafter, “Damage Prevention Coordinator”) during the period from June 1, 2016 to April 30, 2019, as negotiated in the Memorandum of Understanding (“MOU”), generally effective June 1, 2016, resulting from collective bargaining between the United Steelworkers of America, Local 12775, AFL-CIO-CLC, and NIPSCO with respect to such position for the period specified in the MOU from June 1, 2016 to April 30, 2019, unless such employee was considered an employee covered by a collective bargaining agreement between NIPSCO and a union immediately prior to June 1, 2016, or if later, immediately prior to becoming employed in the position of Damage Prevention Coordinator. Effective as of May 1, 2019, Employees employed by NIPSCO in the position of Damage Prevention Coordinator shall no longer be considered full-time, non-union, hourly employees of an Employer for purposes of the Plan.

Participation under the Plan will end on the earliest to occur of the following: (i) the date an individual is no longer an Employee eligible to participate in the Plan, (ii) the date the Employee terminates employment with an Employer, or (iii) the date the Plan is terminated.

“CPG” means Columbia Pipeline Group, Inc., a Delaware corporation.

“CPG Spin-Off” means the transaction pursuant to which there was distributed to holders of shares of common stock of the Company, on a pro rata basis, all of the outstanding shares of common stock of CPG

2. All other provisions of the Plan shall remain unchanged.

CORPORATE Policy: Paid Parental Leave

EFFECTIVE DATE: January 01, 2023

REVISED: XX/XX/XXXX

Policy

To assist and support new parents with balancing work and family matters, NiSource provides paid parental leave. This policy provides eligible employees with a period of paid time off for activities related to the care and well-being of their newborn, newly adopted child, or newly placed foster child.

Eligibility

All non-bargaining unit full-time and part-time NiSource employees are eligible to use paid parental leave during the first 12 months following the birth, adoption or foster placement of a child.

Interns, independent contractors, contingent workers, and any employees covered under a collective bargaining agreement (CBA) are not eligible for the benefits outlined in this policy.

Definitions

Parent - An eligible parent is defined as an employee who is a parent welcoming a child or children into their family, including through childbirth, surrogacy, adoption, foster care, or other placement. Note: If both parents work for NiSource and are eligible for the benefits defined in this policy, then each parent can use the full benefits outlined in this policy. The parents can take their paid parental leave at the same time if approved by management or as permitted under applicable state or local law.

Adopted Child – If an employee is using the benefit for an adopted child, the child must be under the age of 18 at the time of the completion of the adoption.

Foster Child – If an employee is using the benefit for foster child placement, the child must be under the age of 18 at the time of the placement.

Part-time – An employee is considered part-time if they are regularly scheduled to work less than 40 hours per week.

Benefit

Eligible employees will receive a maximum of two weeks of paid parental leave at their base pay per qualifying event. The fact that a multiple birth or adoption event occurs (e.g., the birth of twins or adoption of siblings, or placement of multiple children for foster care) does not increase two-week total amount of paid parental leave granted for that event.

Note, part-time employees' hours will be based on their regularly scheduled weekly hours. Example: If a part-time employee is regularly scheduled to work 32 hours per week, then the total number of hours they would get is 64 hours per covered event.

Paid parental leave is compensated at 100 percent of the employee's base salary or base hourly wages based on the employee's regular work schedule and does not include incentive compensation (including commissions or bonuses), overtime pay, shift differentials, or any other extra compensation.

Paid parental leave will be paid on regularly scheduled pay dates (either bi-weekly or monthly).

Approved paid parental leave may be taken at any time during the 12-month period immediately following the birth, adoption or placement of a foster child. Paid parental leave may not be used or extended beyond this 12-month time frame.

Employees must take paid parental leave in one continuous period and must use all paid parental leave during the 12-month time frame indicated above. Any unused paid parental leave will be forfeited at the end of the 12-month time frame.

Upon termination of the individual's employment at the company, he or she will not be paid for any unused paid parental leave for which he or she was eligible.

Paid parental leave is available to eligible employees in addition to their paid benefits like vacation, floating holidays, and Short-Term Disability/Sick Pay (STD).

Coordination with Other Benefits

Paid parental leave taken under this policy will run concurrently with leave under the Family Medical Leave Act (FMLA) if eligible and as applicable; thus, any leave taken under this policy that falls under the definition of circumstances qualifying for leave due to the birth, placement of a child due to adoption or fostering, the leave will be counted toward the 12 weeks of available FMLA leave per 12-month period as applicable. All other requirements and provisions under the FMLA will apply. In no case will the total amount of leave—whether paid or unpaid—granted to the employee under the FMLA exceed 12 weeks during the 12-month FMLA period. In cases where both parents using this benefit are NiSource employees, the total amount of amount of FMLA leave is a combined 12 weeks. Please refer to the Family and Medical Leave Corporate Wide Standard for further guidance on the FMLA.

After the paid parental leave (and any short-term disability leave for employees giving birth) is exhausted, the balance of FMLA leave (if applicable) can be compensated through employees' vacation and/or floating holidays if they choose . Upon exhaustion of vacation and/or floating holiday pay, any remaining approved leave will be unpaid leave. Please refer to the Family and Medical Leave Corporate Wide Standard for further guidance on the FMLA.

In order to be eligible for paid parental leave under this policy, employees who work in a location with state or local paid family leave (SPFL) benefits are required to apply for those benefits. Parental leave pay is intended to supplement the amount of SPFL benefits received so that that the employee does not receive more than 100% of pay, as defined above, during the leave period. The Company will assume an employee is eligible for the maximum SPFL benefit. If an employee is receiving less than the maximum benefit, they must submit documentation to the Company so the difference may be calculated, and the employee can be compensated for the difference. If an employee's weekly SPFL benefit payment is equal to or greater than the employee's weekly parental leave pay, they will not receive additional payment from the Company.

The company will maintain all benefits for employees during the paid parental leave period just as if they were taking any other company paid leave such as paid vacation.

If a company holiday occurs during an employee's normal work week while on Paid Parental Leave that holiday will extend the total paid parental leave entitlement.

In certain adoption cases, eligible NiSource employees may qualify for additional adoption assistance. Please refer to the Adoption Assistance policy for additional information about other employee benefits related to adoption.

Requests for Paid Parental Leave

The employee will provide notice to their direct supervisor no later than the 30 days prior to the proposed start of the leave (or if the leave was not foreseeable, as soon as reasonably possible). If for any reason they wish to change the start date of the leave period, they should give 30 days' notice of the change, unless this is not reasonably practicable. Employees must use the leave within 12 months of the birth or completion of the adoption/foster placement.

The employee must complete any necessary forms and provide all documentation as required by NiSource to substantiate the request. Failure to provide the required information and/or otherwise meet the requirements of this policy will render the employee ineligible to receive paid parental leave from the Company under this policy.

Overpayments

Should any employee be deemed to have been overpaid due to Paid Parental Leave, NiSource may take additional action to recoup this overpayment through future pay owed to the employee or other means satisfactory to the company.

As is the case with all company policies, NiSource has the exclusive right to interpret this policy.
