Dear Mr. Homsher:

I am withdrawing my case against PPL Electric Utilities Commission. The Docket Number is: C-2025-3053833.

The reason for my withdrawal is due to the fact that I have had a couple of conversations with Mr. Devin Ryan, an attorney with Post & Schell. He has provided me with statistical data concerning our power interruptions in Waymart. Although this information is inconclusive as to why we have interruption in services, I feel there is nothing to be gained by pursuing this hearing.

I feel every seven years in heavily wooded, rural, northeast Pennsylvania is illogical, considering my road alone has over 30 trees that are laying on wires and this could possibly affect future electrical outages in the very immediate future. In addition, there is no monetary gain from filing through the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission. Therefore, I will close this case to pursue future personal claims of lost items and purchases that were necessary to obtain during our three day power outage. Although the recent outages, have only been lasting less than a minute (yesterday was more than a minute before a storm even hit), it is totally inconvenient to have wireless services go down, clocks reset, microwaves reset, and television interrupted. This could also lead to power surges damaging our items in our home. Pursuing this matters is senseless. I'm hoping that with the planned relocation of a section of line, distribution work, and a new line reconductor being installed (for new solar client), that Waymart will have consistent, reliable services in the very near future.

Should you have any questions, please feel free to reach out to me. My email is: Littlerose1@aol.com. My phone number is: (845) 807-3700. Thank you for your time. And in particularly, I thank Mr. Ryan for his information and findings that he shared with me.
