Subject: Plan to Balance Data Center Growth and Consumer Protection

Docket no. M-2025-3054271

To whom it may concern:

I am Holly Clark, a science teacher living and working in Upper Darby, PA. Though your measures to identify large load customers, protecting consumers and supporting low-income customers is very well founded and I generally support, I want to suggest perhaps we should halt data center construction for a period of time. I think we need to go farther to protect the air and water from the pollution created to produce the electricity that feeds our data consumption. Additionally, slowing down may allow for innovation to make the process more sustainable such as finding ways to invest in micro-hydroelectrical systems. Every decision point from here on out we must try to envision a new system that does not continue to consume the planet's resources as at cost to human and planet health.

Thank you for your consideration,

Holly Clark
