Dear Matthew,

I am in receipt of your letter of cancellation of my Certificate of Public Convenience. I wish to appeal the cancellation based on facts out of my control. The Covid19 Pandemic, and anti-energy policies of our government made it extremely difficult to be competitive in the fuel business.

Big business concerns have moved on to smaller carriers such as myself; to the point of not being able to profit effectively by hauling for other companies. I presently operate hauling for my own company; however, the hopes of new business remain in my sight. My company is presently for sale, and it would be helpful to sell it with my current PUC rights.

I am asking you to please reconsider this cancellation, as it will effectively harm my company even further than it has already been harmed. Hopefully, our present energy climate will change, and business will improve, which will add new customers to an already rapidly dissolving market share.

Sincerely Yours,

Russell Postupack
